"I don't think he is truly representing the South Shore area of the Fourth District," Flynn says. "I would represent the South Shore as it should be represented as well as the rest of the district."

Flynn, apparently thinking of the Louise Woodward case where the jury found her guilty of murder and Judge Hiller Zobel reduced it to manslaughter and let her step to freedom, adds:

"I really think the governor's council should be responsible for taking a closer look at judicial appointments and also carefully reviewing them."

Flynn is the immediate past president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, a member of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, and a former Quincy Planning Board member.

He began his business career as a real estate salesman for Key Realty following his graduation from Boston College in 1985. And then in 1991 went on his own with his company which has locations in Quincy Center and North Quincy.

A familiar figure as auctioneer at charitable causes he says he will open his bid for the governor's council seat with a formal announcement shortly. Probably next week.

"The nurses are taking good care of him," says his daughter, Madalyn MacDonald. "I think they are even spoiling him a little."

Benedetti, who was a supervisor in the drafting department at the Fore River shipyard, keeps up on Quincy doings and has voted in 20 consecutive presidential elections. He was the grand marshal in last year's Quincy Christmas Parade.

He's a favorite figure at the Quincy Senior Olympics sponsored by the Beechwood Community Center and the Quincy Recreation Department. Benedetti competes and instructs in bocce, bowling and horseshoes.

His fellow athletes are rooting for him to make the Pre-Olympics event April 15 and the Senior Olympics May 11.

And with his spirit there's a good chance he will be there for both.

"He's coming along fine," says his daughter.

On St. Patrick's Day he was up to one of his favorite meals: a real Irish corned beef dinner.

Benedetti is in Room 517-2 in the Transitional Unit at Quincy Hospital. Maybe you'd like to send him a card.

And, he adds with a smile:

"Of course, I don't know how it would be if we both decided to run for city council at-large at the same time."

For the record: McDermott is one of three backslors on the present city council. The other two are Paul Harold and Mike D'Amico.

THERE'S ANOTHER COMMANDER in the Noble family.

Gloria Noble was recently elected commander of the Southeastern Massachusetts Chapter of the Ex-Prisoners of War.

No, she wasn't a POW herself. But her husband, Bob, who does photography for The Sun, was a World II POW and was the Massachusetts State Commander of the Ex-Prisoners of War.

The Ex-POW's don't have a women's auxiliary. But wives of Ex-POW's are eligible to hold office in that veterans group.

Gloria will be installed April 19 at a dinner at the Marshfield Elks.

Bob, does that mean you will now have to salute her?

MILESTONE: George Smith, Jr., former Planning Board member and long-time political activist will celebrate his 75th birthday Saturday.

His children are hosting the event for family and friends from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club.

George, who is active in the Quincy Lions Club, harks back to the days when a young Jim McIntyre was starting his political career.

"The good old days," George says.

Happy birthday, kid.

Wyoming is called the Equality State because Wyoming women were the first in the nation to vote, hold public office, and serve on juries. The first woman justice of the peace was Wyoming's Esther H. Morris in 1870; the first woman governor was Wyoming's Nellie Taylor Ross in 1924.

Scenes From Yesterday

Cottages on Great Hill,
Houghs Neck, Quincy, Mass.

THIS IS A 1913 postcard showing the summer cottages on the west side of Great Hill at the end of Houghs Neck. The view was taken from near the end of Fensmore Street. Embankment Road in the foreground is on top of the Metropolitan sewer pipe that was built through here just after the turn of the century. The pipe follows the shore line under Nut Island Avenue to the treatment plant out of view to the left. A salt water lagoon that was formed on the right of this road was used for recreational activities by guests at the nearby hotel. Today most of these cottages have been converted to year round use.

Urges College To Find New Site For Winfield House

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
[The following letter to Eastern Nazarene College President Dr. Kent Hill dated March 13 was submitted for publication by the author.]

Dear Dr. Hill:

This letter will supplement the communication delivered to the college yesterday in person.

Ms. Melissa Henrich, daughter of Mr. Ed Margetts, realtor at Duhallo Real Estate at 273 Newport Ave., Quincy, owns an empty lot at 155 Ward St. in Hingham, which would comfortably accommodate the Winfield House, which Eastern Nazarene College is on the point of demolishing.

Eastern Nazarene College has indicated in the past that it was anxious to dispose of the Winfield property, but regrets that no appropriate site has been found to accommodate it. Surprisingly, however, the above mentioned site has been found, and this as a result of making only a few harmless and disinterested inquiries around town. It raised the question if a converted effort has been made to relocate the house. In any case, the college therefore will surely want to pursue, even at this eleventh hour, the feasibility of moving the house to the above mentioned Hingham site, rather than demolish it.

With regard to financing the move, the college has always stated that it would help finance such a move. In addition to this, Mr. Margetts is even proposing to rent the house out, once installed in its new location, for a period of time, to help defray the costs of the move.

It is not possible, Mr. Hill, at this eleventh hour, to present a thorough proposal with all the details spelled out. It is only relying on the good neighborly relations that the college has always had with the city, that the above proposal is presented to you.

I am confident that you will give it every careful and responsible consideration.

He Feels Like Rodney Dangerfield

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

It isn't easy being an Irish-American with an Italian name. We get little respect and feel like Rodney Dangerfield while attending St. Patrick's Day celebrations.

This year I marched over in Southie with Ray Flynn. When we started down by Broadway Station, Ray told me I was in charge of rounding up the Irish vote and he would take care of the Italians.

When I'm marching with the Flynn family I look like Michael Corleone but when I'm over in Eastie, they tell me I look Irish. That's what happens when you mix Gaelic with garlic.

Seriously, though, I conversed with Michael Bellotti who brought his sheriff's campaign to Southie. Recently, Michael was the victim of Sen. Mike Morrissey's Irish wit and ended up like the '86 Sox after the Buckner boot.

Mike Bellotti still can't figure out what happened. He walks up to the South Shore Irish pols grouping for a photo-op inside the State House organized by Morrissey and suddenly when he asked to join in, Morrissey runs out of film and couldn't find the camera. I still can't figure it out: an Irish pol from Quincy whose campaign colors are orange leads the Irish delegation? Didn't anyone ever tell him it's called the Wearing O' the Green, not Orange?

Hey, Morrissey is okay in my book. He once told me I had the only Italian name he could spell from memory. I tell him my mother's family were Harringtons and Sullivan from West Cork and he says he has a bridge in Brooklyn he wants to sell me.

Listen, Mike Morrissey, I hear the dean of the Massachusetts Congressional Delegation, an Italian-American with an Irish name will soon be sending you an official document declaring Michael Bellotti as Irish as Giovanni Guiseppe Moakley. When you mix corned beef with meatballs, who knows what you can get, eh? One day a Congressman and the next, a sheriff.

Sal J. Giarratani
184 Atlantic St.

P.S. I almost forgot. I failed to finish my first parade over in Southie. Lots of people tell me I look young for 49 years old but by the time I turned right off of P Street my right knee felt older than Joe Moakley and I didn't do any better at the alphabet than Mo Vaughn. By the time I arrived home, there wasn't an Advil big enough for me.

Hollywood Comes To Wollaston

By PAUL HAROLD

Hollywood actress Ruth Gordon visited her Wollaston birthplace this week, accompanied by her husband playwright Garson Kanin and movie director George Cukor, to gather background materials for the production of "Year Ago," based on Gordon's early life in Wollaston.

Besides visiting and photographing her birthplace at 41 Winthrop Ave., at the corner of Elmwood Ave., they stopped by her alma mater, Central Junior High School and City Hall to visit Gordon's cousin, Assistant City Clerk Donald Crane.

Production of the MGM movie was expected to begin shortly with the possibility of some shooting in Quincy. Gordon said Spencer Tracy would play the role of her father and expected that the young Debbie Reynolds would play her part.

CIVIL DEFENSE SEEKS LITTER BEARERS

Thomas Macdonald, acting civil defense director, sought to recruit hundreds of strong high school boys to serve as litter bearers in the event of enemy attack.

The civil defense plan called for the establishment of 19 first aid stations, located in the city's elementary schools. He noted that the ideal staffing for each site included 20 physicians, three dentists, two pharmacists, 15 first aid workers, six clerical personnel, eight ambulance drivers and 150 litter bearers.

350 ATTEND WOLLASTON SCHOOL OPEN HOUSE

PTA President Charles O'Connell reported that 350 parents attended the open house at the newly-renovated Wollaston School. Five new classrooms were construction from the space of the old auditorium, with the installation of new fluorescent lighting, shaded blackboards and tile floor covering.

Principal Robert Hamilton said the new addition, which would include a new auditorium and visual aid center, was expected to open in May.

'Abigail Adams' Play At Adams Shore Library

Boston actress Linda Myer will present "Abigail Adams: Remember The Ladies" Tuesday, March 24 at 7:30 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library's Adams Shore branch, 519 Sea St.

The one-woman play about the life of the only woman to be both a wife of one U.S. President and mother of another was written by Myer, who also has performed at the library as Amelia Earhart.

Based on Mrs. Adams' letters, the play also gives insight into the characters of John Adams, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton, Benjamin Franklin, King George III and others.

The show is being produced by History-Making Productions, a non-profit touring theater company funded in part by the Massachusetts Cultural Council. Other support for the performance is being given by the Friends of the Library.

"ABIGAIL ADAMS: Remember the Ladies" will be presented by Boston actress Linda Myer Tuesday, March 24 at 7:30 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library's Adams Shore branch, 519 Sea St. Myer, pictured above, also wrote the one-woman play.

QCAP Celebrity Dinner, Silent Auction April 7

Quincy Community Action Programs (QCAP) will host its third annual Celebrity Host/Hostess Dinner and Silent Auction Tuesday, April 7 at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy, 27 Glendale Rd.

The evening begins with a cocktail hour at 6 p.m. followed by dinner at 7 p.m. All proceeds will benefit the QCAP Emergency Food Center. The auction will take place throughout the evening and music will be provided by Music in Motion.

The QCAP Board of Directors has asked the following local "celebrities" to host the event: Mayor James Sheets; City Councillors Paul Harold, Peter Kolson and Patrick McDermott; City Clerk Joseph and Josephine Shea, Quincy Family Commission Executive Director Linda Stice, QCBFA Executive Director Maralin Manning, QCBFA President Daniel Flynn, Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph

QCAP must raise $30,000 annually in donations from the community to help support the cost of operating the Food Center. The largest such center in the area, it provides food and non-food supplies to over 2,800 people a year and assists in food stamp applications.

In addition, the center provides nutrition information and education and training referral to help families move beyond their crisis and become self-sufficient.

Tickets are $25. QCAP is seeking merchants who want to donate auction items. For tickets or to make a donation, call Susan Fitzpatrick at 479-8181, ext. 156.

Polenta, Vegetable Combo

It was no ordinary Sunday at our house a couple of weeks ago, when I didn't have to cook dinner because of a brunch at our daughter's house.

However, even if you think you're not going to be hungry again after such a meal, it happens.

And so it was when my brother John and sister-in-law Anita invited us over to their house for Sunday night. With the roast stuffed chicken, potatoes, salad, a great combination of vegetables was served. Today's recipe can be made the night before.

Polenta, Vegetable Combo
1 head savoy cabbage (curly kind)
2 bunches broccoli rape
3 tablespoons olive oil
3 garlic cloves
2 cups cooked polenta salt and pepper to taste water as needed

In hot oil and the garlic, saute the cabbage and rape together, adding the salt and some water if needed. Cook until tender and well blended.

Prepare polenta according to package (instant polenta is easy).

Slightly grease the bottom of a casserole dish and spread the polenta on the bottom and sides.

Add the vegetables and bake covered in a 350 degree oven for about 25 minutes. It was the absolute highlight of the dinner! (P.S. John roasted extra garlic which is optional)

(Marie D'Olimpio has written a cookbook containing recipes printed in The Quincy Sun.)

It is available at the Fruit Basket (near Star Market), Previte's Market on Summer Street, Quincy, Nanci's Barbershop, 21 Elm St., Braintree, Harvest Moon Restaurant, Scituate Harbor, the Cherry Gift Shop at Quincy Hospital, and Samoset Pharmacy, Sea Street.)

Six Quincy Groups In Walk For Hunger

Six Quincy groups will be among more than 4,000 school, religious and corporate organizations across the state participating in Project

Thomas Morton Topic For Historical Society March 26

Thomas Morton, the legendary and controversial figure and his early settlement in Merrymount, will be the topic at the Quincy Historical Society meeting Thursday, March 26 at the Adams Academy, 8 Adams St.

The story of the Merry-mountain colony, its May pole and festivities, its relations with Native Americans, and its eradication by Puritans Myles Standish and John Endicott has fascinated writers and artists, including Nathaniel Hawthorne, William Carlos Williams and Robert Lowell. Morton has been viewed as everything from an intriguer to an antecedent of Thoreau.

John Dempsey is completing a doctoral dissertation on Morton at Brown University. The centerpiece of the dissertation is a critical edition of Morton's own book about his Merrymount experience, "New English Canaan," the first critical edition of this book since that by Charles Francis Adams Jr. a century ago. Dempsey's work also includes the most complete biography of Morton to date.

Dempsey will detail the results of his research into Morton and his enterprise and his interactions with Native Americans, present Morton speaking in his own words, and suggest what can be learned by viewing Merrymount in a wider context than the Puritan-anti-Puritan framework. Admission is free. All are welcome.

A museum display, "Morton and Merrymount: History, Art, Archeology," will open at the Society that evening and continue through the spring.

Recognition Rally At QHS Today

A Recognition Rally will be held today (Thursday) from 9:30 to 11 a.m. at Quincy High School.

There will be two 45-minute presentations, one for freshmen and sophomores and one for juniors and seniors. All students scheduled to perform or be recognized must be present for both. Jack Rayer will serve as emcee.

Performers will include Andrea Osborne, who will sing the national anthem; cheerleaders and music students. There also will be a musical number from "Sold Out."

Those to be recognized

Children's Slide Stolen From Wollaston Home

A children's slide worth approximately $135 was stolen recently from the backyard of a home in Wollaston.

Roberta Dockham of 63 Elm Ave. told The Quincy Sun that her family awoke on the morning of Sunday, March 8 to find that their Step 2 Climb 'n Slide Ladder was missing.

Dockham said the stolen item, made of "heavy, heavy plastic," weighs so much it would have taken at least two people to carry it.

"They would have had to pick it up and put it on a pickup truck or something," she said. "It's not something you could walk down the street with. I mean, it took three people to put it together."

She added that the slide is worth about $135.

Dockham, who has lived in the neighborhood for nine years, said there have been no criminal activities in the area that she knows of prior to the theft. She said she is angered by the crime, since her son Kevin, 5, and daughter Christine, 19 months, enjoyed the slide very much.

"They play(ed) on it all year 'round," she said. "My son was crying for three days (after it was taken). He thinks it was just borrowed and that someone is going to bring it back. I keep trying to convince him that it was stolen.

"It really is annoying that grown-ups—or even kids 10 and up—would steal from little kids."

Dockham said she has reported the incident to the police, and posted flyers with a picture of the stolen slide on Elm Avenue, but so far has had no luck in retrieving it.

Those with any information about the incident are asked to call the Dockham family at 984-0668.

Sheriff Honors Employees Who Received Promotions

Norfolk County Sheriff's Office employees promoted over the past year, including 10 Quincy residents, were honored for their accomplishments at a recent ceremony.

Sheriff John Flood congratulated the 49 employees who received promotions since January 1997 at a ceremony and reception at the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office and Correctional Center.

"Providing promotional opportunities for professional, hard-working employees has been a priority of mine since I became sheriff," Flood said. "These people were rewarded for their diligent work on behalf of the citizens of the county."

Quincy residents who were promoted and their new job titles include William Chiasson, community service supervisor; Gerard Coughlin, court liaison;

Carol Cunningham, director of education; Maria DeBonis, community corrections center coordinator; Gary Delorio, assistant deputy superintendent II/electronic incarceration program; Jerry Layden, project supervisor; Stephen Linskey, sergeant; Edward P. Ryan, acting working release assistant; Gerry Shepherd, unit manager; and Megan White, unit manager/female unit.

Plans Call For Move To Hull Ayers Wants Lightship To Remain In Quincy

By MICHAEL WHALEN
Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers is seeking to keep the Nantucket Lightship in Quincy.

On Monday night, the City Council unanimously passed a resolution introduced by Ayers calling for MDC Commissioner David Balfour to discuss plans for the lightship's use with councillors at a future date. In addition, it asks Quincy's State House delegation to do its part to help keep the ship at its current location.

The MDC (Metropolitan District Commission) bought the 128-foot, 607 ton lightship, which is docked at Marina Bay, from the federal government years ago and converted it into a floating exhibit. Now, however, the ship may be moved to Hull as part of the effort to attract the National Lighthouse Center and Museum.

The resolution states that the lightship "is a valuable educational tool for enriching knowledge about the tactics and skill necessary for safe sea navigation and orderly marine traffic."

It goes on to say "the Nantucket Lightship and those serving as its officers and crew helped to save countless lives and were able to prevent damage to ships and valuable cargo"; that the ship helps attract visitors to the city, which falls in line with Mayor James Sheets' efforts to attract tourists; and that the MDC has not adequately consulted with the city about how to promote the lightship as an important historical site.

U.S. Coast Guard lightships were once used as floating lighthouses to guide vessels past hazards to safe harbors. The nation's first lightship was stationed off Norfolk, Va., in 1820, and the number of the ships grew worldwide to as many as 800 by 1913.

Lightships initially burned kerosene or whale oil, then converted to electricity. Eventually, they were replaced by huge buoys were electronic signals.

The diesel-powered Nantucket Lightship was built at a Coast Guard shipyard in Maryland in 1950 and served on the East and West coasts.

Hospital Expands Programs To Enhance Birthing Experience

Quincy Hospital has expanded the patient education classes related to pregnancy and childbirth.

Two new classes and a support group for young parents began in the last few weeks.

The first of the new classes is designed for expectant mothers early in pregnancy. This Early Pregnancy Class offers the woman and her partner information about prenatal care and testing, fetal development, physical changes, nutrition, and safety. Helpful hints for managing common discomforts of pregnancy will be discussed as well. A tour of the hospital's First Moments will conclude the three-hour class.

Focusing on mothers who delivered a previous baby by Cesarean, the Vaginal Birth After Cesarean (VBAC) Class offers a discussion of the fears and realities surrounding the labor process and a vaginal birth with the current pregnancy. The rationale and advantages of a vaginal birth are highlighted. The single class session is approximately two hours.

The Young Parents Pregnancy Support Group will provide education and a forum for conversation with other pregnant and parenting teens. The support group is an ongoing source of education and support throughout the pregnancy and parenting experience. Scheduled meetings will be held once a month.

Continued classes include the series on preparation for the birthing experience which is the core of the childbirth education program. This series is offered as a two-day weekend program or a four-evening weeknight class series. Breast feeding instruction and a class for soon-to-be big brothers and sisters continues to be popular with many of the expectant families.

For more information about class dates, times and cost or to register, call the hospital's Public Relations department at 376-4016.

in construction work, paving and landscaping throughout the community.

And, that Derbes as president of the Friends of The Thomas Crane Public Library has raised funds for library needs and for the Quincy Historical Society of which he is a member of the Board of Trustees.

"He really has had a lifelong love affair with Quincy and proudly wears that love and devotion on his sleeve," Bosworth said.

"I'm flabbergasted," Derbes said in accepting the award. "This award is a big deal. I'm really deeply touched.

"I really appreciate all of you coming out here to spend a little time with me, just to come here is an honor. I wish my folks could see this but my brothers and myself and all the Derbes family we appreciate all of this."

Sun Editor Robert Bosworth presented Derbes with a companion award—a special Page 1 of the Sun—telling of his selection as Citizen of the Year, and listing the names of the other 41 nominees and the selection panel.

A videotape of the award ceremony will be presented to Derbes later.

Speakers at the reception included City Council President Peter Kolson, acting mayor while Mayor James Sheets is on vacation; Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymond, state Sen. Michael Morrissey, state Reps. Ron Mariano and Stephen Tobin, and Imam Talal Eid, religious leader of the Islamic Center of New England where the Derbes family are active members.

Raymond, a close friend of Derbes, presented him with a commendation citation from the City Council. Morrissey and Mariano and Tobin presented him with Senate and House of Representative commendations citing his contributions to Quincy.

Memento gifts were presented to Derbes by Dr. Mian Ashraf on behalf of the Islamic Center, by his brother, Kim, on behalf of the Derbes brothers, and by Olin Taylor, the immediate past recipient of the Sun award.

Derbes was nominated for the award by Sandra McCauley, immediate past secretary of the Thomas Crane Public Library Board of Trustees who cited his many contributions to the community and said:

"He and his family have contributed much over the years to improving the quality of life to our community. "He always goes the extra mile in his contributions."

Derbes thanked The Quincy Sun for the award, and acknowledged his friendship with Bosworth which dates back to their Quincy Point youth.

"I am honored that this award is through his (Bosworth's) paper."

Derbes said the award is really a family honor.

"Anything you see me do, my brothers are behind me 110 percent. It's a family thing. I'm taking this honor but I'm taking it for the entire family.

"Whatever I've got, my clothes, my house, all the cars, any bills that I pay come through Derbes Brothers—that's the gold mine. We know this. We're all together. We argue—it's healthy—Derbes brothers are tough guys but when they do business, they're teddy bears. They're very good guys."

Derbes has never forgotten his roots, and has been steadfast in his commitment to giving back to the community.

"This community has been fantastic. There are a lot of good, compassion people out there, business people and regular people. I haven't forgotten where I came from. None of us had anything but each of us had compassion.

It was a melting pot of all different ethnic groups."

Derbes traced his family's community commitment to his mother and father. He recalled years ago when St. Joseph's Church would hold a Fore River Field Day for all the kids—regardless of faith—in the Quincy Point area.

"They would hold it on a Saturday during the summertime. They would supply the food and all the kids would go down there and play some games. My mother would donate four cases of all beef hotdogs, all the rolls and Hoodie cups and they did that for 10 years before they went out of business."

The favor to St. Joseph's was returned some years later, after a fire damaged the mosque in Quincy Point.

"Fr. Joseph Downey came over and said, 'Bob, anything you fellas need, you're welcome to the parish hall to hold your prayers, or your Sunday School, or whatever you want, you're welcome to come to our church.'"

Fr. Downey, former pastor at St. Joseph's Church, has since retired. Derbes then read a letter he received only a few days ago. "Dear Bob, I meant to congratulate you a long time ago on receiving the Quincy Sun Citizen of the Year award. When I was pastor of St. Joseph's Church in Quincy Point, I had many nice memories of how you and your family supported many of our activities of the church, besides doing so many nice things for your own church."

"Here's wishing you and your family God's blessing and success in anything you do in life." The letter was written by Fr. Downey.

Derbes thanked his family and friends for attending his special day. Among those he singled out was his wife, Marilyn.

"I met her in high school when I was a sophomore.

She's been with me going on 42 years. Behind every great man there's got to be a great woman."

Henry Bosworth noted that Derbes was born and grew up in Quincy Point "that wonderful melting pot with so many different and wonderful nationalities where your learned to judge a person as an individual and not by his nationality or religion."

It was also in Quincy Point, he said, where "kids learned that if you wanted something in life you had to work for it."

He said the Derbes Brothers contracting company was a Horatio Lager success story that was started on a shoe-string and built on a reputation for honesty and doing the job right.

He cited the many thousands of dollars in paving, landscaping and other work the brothers have donated to the community, including:

- Digging the trenches, pouring the concrete and laying the electrical conduits for the lighting at Veterans Stadium.
- Patching school playgrounds.
- Providing their large trucks and manpower to pick up the trash and debris collected each year during the city's Cleaner, Greener cleanups. And annually providing a flat bed for the Quincy High School float in the Christmas Parade.

• Contributing about 80 percent of the construction of the Islamic Mosque in Quincy Point, the first one in New England. And donating the paving at the new one in Sharon and plowing both parking lots in the winter.

• Repaving the entire parking lot at St. Boniface's Church in Germantown.

• Raising funds for the Thomas Crane Public Library and the Quincy Historical Society.

"Bob and his brothers believe in giving something back to the community," Bosworth said. "They have given a lot and are still giving."

Delahunt Sponsoring High School Art Competition

Congressman Bill Delahunt has kicked off a regional competition to "showcase the artistic talent and potential" of high school students in southeastern Massachusetts.

Delahunt, in conjunction with the North River Arts Society in Marshfield, has invited all interested high school students throughout the 10th Congressional District to take part. The winning entry, to be announced at a reception in late April, will be displayed in the U.S.

Capitol for a year as part of a national exhibition representing each participating Congressional District in the nation.

While a winner will be selected to represent Delahunt's district, he said, "the overall objective is to recognize and encourage the artistic potential of our kids."

The Congressman has mailed detailed packages about the competition to high school art teachers across the South Shore and the Cape and Islands. Included in the package of materials are contest guidelines and application forms.

Entry forms must reach

Five Residents On Thayer Honor Roll

Edward Martin Named 'Irishman Of The Year'

Edward T. Martin of Quincy was honored as "Irishman of the Year" recently at a dinner ceremony at the John F. Kennedy Library and Museum in Boston.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Stephen Breyer was among those on hand to honor Martin, the former city editor for the Boston Herald Traveler and long-time aide to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. The senator also attended the event.

Martin, senior vice president of R.M. Bradley in charge of human resources and public relations, was honored by the Friends of the John F. Kennedy Library for his outstanding contribution to the community and his distinguished career as a journalist, political activist and public servant.

Boston Post when the Post stopped publishing, he joined the Boston Herald Traveler where he advanced to the position of city editor. He covered every major New England story, including President Kennedy's inauguration, and was the only reporter in the region to witness an early atomic detonation.

Shortly after the inauguration, he was asked to handle press relations for Edward M. Kennedy in his first bid for the U.S. Senate. He has been an advisor in every subsequent campaign, including Kennedy's 1980 campaign for president, and was Kennedy's administrative assistant in Washington for seven years.

Martin served the federal government for 20 years, beginning as public affairs and educational officer for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Later, he was given a presidential appointment as New England regional administrator for the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. For several years, he was director of space management for the General Services Administration.

Martin was a student at Boston University when he enlisted in the Marine Corps shortly after Pearl Harbor. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Kennedy Library Foundation.

Recreation Department 'Tot Time' Starts March 27

The Quincy Recreation Department has limited openings for "Tot Time," a parent and tot recreation program for preschool-age youngsters and their parents.

"Tot Time," a parent and tot recreation program for children ages 3 to 5, will feature 90 minutes of supervised play, one day a week, in the Ward 4 Community Center (Della Chiesa Center), 100 Brooks Ave., South Quincy.

Recreation Director

Barry Welch said, "This program is designed to provide an opportunity for increased socialization among parents and children through games and activities conducted by recreation staff. The department has received many requests for this type of activity, particularly during the inclement weather of the winter months."

Welch also thanked the Ward 4 Civic Association for their assistance in organizing the activity, which is open to all Quincy residents.

The program will cost $18 for a seven-week period and will be held Fridays from 10 to 11:30 a.m. beginning March 27. Enrollment will be limited and taken on a first come, first serve basis, beginning immediately, at the main office of the Quincy Recreation Department, 100 Southern Artery.

For more information, call 376-1394.

Integrated Pre-School Program Seeks Students

The Quincy Public Schools are seeking children without special needs (who turn 3 or 4 on or before Dec. 31) to attend an integrated pre-school program at the Snug Harbor School.

The children will serve as role models and friends for eight children with various special needs.

The program will be held weekdays except Tuesday from 8 to 10:40 a.m. No transportation will be provided.

Those interested should call the Preschool Office at Snug Harbor Community School by March 24 at 984-8951.

Jack Corrigan District Attorney Candidate

Jack Corrigan has formally announced his candidacy for Norfolk County district attorney and promised "a more aggressive and smarter approach to crime prevention."

The Brookline Democrat and former assistant district attorney, said:

"I seek this office because I believe that a more aggressive and smarter approach to both prosecution and prevention of crime can make a difference to our communities."

Corrigan made his announcement last Thursday from his campaign headquarters in Quincy.

Corrigan stressed his nearly eight years as an assistant director under William Delahunt and his vision for the office. Calling himself "the only Democrat with both the prosecutorial and management experience to effectively lead the district attorney's office," he laid out his plan for the office, speaking of the need for aggressive, innovative action to confront crime in Norfolk County.

"Because crime rates and caseloads are down for the last several years while budgets have grown," said Corrigan, "new possibilities exist to address stubborn problems." He also promised, in the coming days, to lay out his detailed ideas for the office but offered a synopsis of his plan.

As district attorney, Corrigan said he would implement specific initiatives to:

- Bring community prosecution to Norfolk County.

- Target the rise in heroin use in our communities by increasing investigative resources and using neglected wiretap statutes to capture dealers.

- Reestablish the national leadership in domestic violence prevention that existed under Delahunt.

- Aggressively target career criminals for incarceration.

- Treat juvenile delinquents firmly but fairly.

"I believe that values have a place in a prosecutor's office," Corrigan said. "In Quincy District Court you see a lot of people who have inadequate educations or come from broken families; you meet people who have been victims of violent crime yet have neither health insurance nor high-priced lawyers to help them through the system; you listen to people who don't live behind gated communities yet want and deserve safe neighborhoods for their families."

"The courthouse is a place where the values of the decision-makers can have a profound influence on the effective and fair administration of justice and on the lives of those who find themselves there. I will turn the district attorney's office into the people's law firm."

Issuing a debate challenge to his opponents, Corrigan said, "I intend to wage this campaign on my qualifications for this office, the crime and social problems of Norfolk County's communities, citizens and courts and the specific direction and priorities of the DA's office. I will debate these issues with the other Democratic candidates, and the Republican candidates, at any forum, before any audience...I issue a debate challenge in the hope that my opponents will engage me in a discussion that is worthy of the office we seek."

Corrigan said that as an assistant district attorney for nearly eight years under Delahunt, he "tried hundreds of cases, prosecuting every type of crime from drunk driving to domestic violence to homicide."

As chief prosecutor in Delahunt's Civil Rights Unit, Corrigan prosecuted hate crimes, complex financial crimes and scams against the elderly.

A graduate of Boston College High School, Harvard College and Harvard Law School, Corrigan left the district attorney's office to pursue this campaign and is currently an attorney in private practice in Quincy. He lives in Brookline with his wife Kathleen and their three children.

His campaign is chaired by Quincy lawyer and former first assistant attorney general, Thomas Kiley, and has been endorsed by state Sen. Cheryl Jacques, former chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and herself a former prosecutor.

Think we can't do better fighting crime and drugs?

You don't know Jack.

JACK CORRIGAN. TOUGH. INNOVATIVE. EXPERIENCED.

As a top Assistant District Attorney for nearly eight years, Jack Corrigan helped Bill Delahunt make the Norfolk County DA's Office one of America's most innovative and respected crime fighting organizations.

As our next DA, Jack's experience — and fresh ideas — will restore that office's reputation for innovation and excellence.

Uniquely qualified.

No Democrat running can match Jack's years of experience prosecuting every type of crime from drugs and domestic abuse, to drunk driving and murder.

As Chief Prosecutor in Bill Delahunt's Civil Rights Unit, and Chief Prosecutor in the White Collar Crime Unit, Jack prosecuted hate crimes, complex financial crimes, and scams against the elderly. In his last two years as Assistant District Attorney, he managed the office's $5 million budget, while carrying a full caseload of major felonies in Superior Court.

The values we need.

Graduating with honors from Harvard Law School, Jack might have been expected to move into a lucrative private practice. But if you knew Jack's background, you'd understand how his lifelong dedication to justice and public service led him instead to become a prosecutor in Bill Delahunt's office.

Son of a mailman and one of five children, Jack Corrigan worked his way through BC High and Harvard, where he graduated cum laude. Tough, smart and passionate, Jack's management skills propelled him to the highest levels of national Democratic politics — earning him a reputation as one of America's top organizers.

Fresh ideas

When Bill Delahunt went to Congress and was replaced by a well-connected Republican political appointee, Jack resigned and later opened a private practice in Quincy. But Jack knows we can do a lot better in the fight against crime.

That's why Jack Corrigan is running for District Attorney. And that's why, in the days ahead, Jack will present his detailed, innovative plan to fight crime in Norfolk County, and make our neighborhoods safe from drugs and violence.

Weigh the evidence. Think about what is at stake.

Then please join us, and help Jack in his fight against crime!

Children often make up stories, but they rarely lie about being victims of sexual assault. If a child tells you about being touched or assaulted, take it seriously. Your response is very important and will influence how the child will react and recover from the abuse.

Stay calm. In a reassuring tone, find out as much as you can about the incident.

Explain to your child that you are concerned about what happened. Don't be angry. Many children feel guilty, as if they had provoked the assault. Children need to be reassured they are not to blame, and that they are right to tell you what happened.

A child may need to be taken immediately to a doctor or an emergency room. Sometimes the child may need to be treated for sexually transmitted diseases and checked for pregnancy. Law enforcement, special hot-lines, or a child welfare agency should be contacted right away.

Sometimes, a child may be too frightened or confused to talk directly about the abuse. Be alert for any change in behavior that might hint that the child has suffered a disturbing experience:

- Is the child suddenly more withdrawn than usual, refusing to go to school or afraid to be alone?
- Is the child having trouble sleeping, waking up with nightmares, or wetting the bed?
- Is the child complaining of irritation of the genital areas?
- Are there signs of increase anxiety or immature behavior?
- Does the child show a marked change in behavior toward a relative, neighbor, or baby sitter?

Other Child Abuse

Including sexual abuse, an estimated 1 million child abuse incidents are reported every year. Other forms of child abuse include physical violence, emotional cruelty and deprivation, and physical neglect. Each year, an estimated 2,000 to 5,000 children die from child abuse.

Child abusers are persons usually known to the child. This means most cases aren't reported to authorities, and children continue to suffer because abusers are repeat offenders.

Child abuse is dangerous and against the law. Many abused children will grow up and victimize their families, and others, later in life. It is your duty as a citizen to report suspected cases of child abuse by contacting a special hotline, the police, or child welfare agency immediately. The children need help and treatment as soon as possible.

Applications Being Accepted For Two Habitat Homes

South Shore Habitat for Humanity is building homes in a new 10-home neighborhood called "Granite Village" located at the end of Bower Road in Quincy Point.

The homes are being built in three phases by volunteers. Three homes are currently under construction; families for those have already been selected.

In the next building phase, two three-bedroom units in a duplex will be built. Applications for the two units are now being accepted. Deadline for applications is May 1.

Local families who can demonstrate a significant housing need and who meet Habitat income and residency requirements are encouraged to apply to purchase the homes. South Shore Habitat will select families on the basis of housing need, income, willingness to partner with Habitat and residence. Families will be chosen without respect to age, sex, sexual preference, disability, race, religion of national origin.

Since the homes will be new, construction may be able to be modified within limits to accommodate families with disabilities.

Families will purchase the homes at cost and will receive 20-year, zero-interest financing by Habitat, resulting in small monthly mortgage payments. Each home is estimated to cost $55,000 to $60,000. The Habitat mortgage principal payment will be about $250 per month. South Shore Habitat will use the payments to finance future home construction or renovations for other families with housing needs in the South Shore area. The new homeowners will also be responsible for paying property taxes and insurance and for upkeep of their homes. The homeowners will become part of a new neighborhood association that will maintain their common land area.

In lieu of a cash down payment, families must complete 500 hours of "sweet equity" time. They are required to help build the home working on Saturdays along with volunteers on construction, landscaping, site cleanup and other tasks. Sweet equity hours can be accumulated by any family member, no construction skills are necessary.

Applications are limited to families who are Quincy residents and have lived there at least one year or have been former Quincy residents for at least two years.

All candidates should meet the following annual gross family income guidelines. (extenuating circumstances will be considered.):

A family of three, $17,000 to $24,000; family of four, $17,000 to $25,000; family of five, $17,000 to $27,000 and family of six or more, $17,000 to $28,000.

For more information, or to apply, write to South Shore Habitat for Humanity, Inc. at 28 River St., Braintree, Mass, 02184 or call (781) 843-9080 (24 hours).

Applications may also be picked up at most Quincy churches, at the Information Desk in the Quincy City Hall lobby and at Eastern Bank, 731 Hancock St. and 63 Franklin St., Quincy.

Yard Sale Saturday For Mothers-Others Club

The Mothers and Others Club will hold its third annual Indoor Yard Sale Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the fellowship hall at Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Main Ave. Items available at the event, which is the club's major fundraiser, will include household goods, knick-knacks, furniture, toys, jewelry, an exercise bike and more. A snack bar will be available all day.

Proceeds will help pay for new counter tops for the church kitchen.

Those who need donations picked up should call 773-6522 by today (Thursday). They may also be dropped off at the church Friday between 6:30 and 9 p.m.

Council For Children To Meet March 24

Claudette Rowley, Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and Bonnie Gorman, Alliance for Young Families, will discuss their programs at the meeting of the Coastline and South Shore Councils for Children Tuesday, March 24 at 7:30 p.m. at East Milton Congregational Church, 610 Adams St., East Milton.

Rowley will emphasize the Children's Champion Network in her presentation. Gorman will explain the Alliance and will update the Councils on the stage budget and its effect on children.

Council Gives Mayor OK To Apply For State Funds For Point Improvements

The City Council voted unanimously Monday night to authorize Mayor James Sheets to apply for state Community Development Action Grant (CDAG) and Public Works Economic Development (PWED) funds for Quincy Point.

The two state economic development grants could result in between $5 million and $6 million in water main, street, sidewalk and traffic improvements in that section of the city.

The project would include sidewalk and water main improvements along a number of streets including part of Southern Artery as well as Chubbuck, East Howard and South streets; improved traffic signalization at the Fore River Bridge rotary and more than a dozen other intersections; and repaving.

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymond said two weeks ago the project would include the most extensive public works improvements his ward has seen at one time.

Costs for the project would be $2.5 million in traffic improvements, $1.5 million for water mains and $1.3 million for roads and sidewalks.

Raymond said the reason the city will be able to apply for the grants is that Greek shipbuilder Sotirios Emmanouil won $55 million in federal loan guarantees in December to modernize the soon-to-be reopened Fore River shipyard.

No city funds would be needed for the project. Quincy Planning Director Richard Meade noted Monday night that although the CDAG monies must be matched by the city, Quincy would use the state PWED grant to do so.

To Raise $50,000 For Thermal Imaging Units Project Hero Campaign For Fire Dept. Underway

Project Hero, a campaign to raise $50,000 for the Quincy Fire Department, begins this week.

The campaign is being launched by local businessman Daniel J. Flynn III and co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun. Funds raised will purchase two thermal imaging units, a complex camera and video screen mounted to a firefighter's helmet and face shield which allows him or her to see through thick, dark smoke and flames.

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman said, "I'm very excited about the opportunity to purchase two of these units. It's overdue and much appreciated."

Rich Bryant, treasurer

of the firefighters union agreed, saying that a city the size of Quincy needs at least two of the devices to function adequately.

"Right now, during a rescue, firefighters are forced to crawl on the floor through the thick, black smoke," said Flynn. "The thermal imaging units enable the firefighter to see through the smoke, facilitating rescues, saving lives. Project Hero increases the level of safety of every citizen of Quincy and everyone who works within the city. It presents everyone with the opportunity to be a hero."

Each week The Quincy Sun will donate a full page to the progress of the campaign as well as publicly thank those who contribute.

To make donations, send a check payable to Project Hero, P.O. Box 116, North Quincy, MA 02171.

BE A HERO TODAY

Dear Fellow Citizen,

Did you know that the City of Quincy had over 1,500 home fires in the past three years? Lives were lost and many people were injured as a result of burns or smoke inhalation. The real tragedy is that many people perish because firefighters just can't find them through the thick, black smoke. Firefighters still crawl on their hands and knees feeling their way to those in need of rescue which takes valuable time.

The good news? There is now a apparatus that allows firefighters to see in pitch black smoke. The bad news? The City of Quincy does not have that apparatus. It's actually a very complex camera and video screen mounted to a firefighter's helmet and face shield that allows him or her to see what other firefighters cannot. A firefighter with this helmet can actually run past the others crawling on their hands and knees to an adult or child who has been incapacitated by the smoke and get them out of the burning building, thus saving lives in record time.

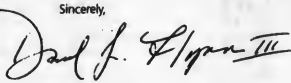

The device is called a Cairns Thermal Imager, and according to firefighter Rich Bryant of the Quincy Fire Department, a city the size of Quincy needs at least two to function adequately. Unfortunately, the Thermal Imagers are extremely expensive and cost $25,000 per helmet, and there currently is not money in the budget to purchase these units.

I have made it my mission to help the Quincy Fire Department attain these life saving devices, and I have established Project Hero. The sole purpose of Project Hero is to raise money to help buy two Thermal Imager units. My goal is to raise $50,000.

I appeal to you as a business or homeowner in Quincy to help me achieve these goals. Please send a donation to Project Hero. Checks should be made payable to Project Hero, P.O. Box 116, North Quincy, Massachusetts 02171. This page of the Quincy Sun has been dedicated to documenting the progress of the fundraising campaign each week. It shall publicly thank every person who contributes, because everyone who helps is a hero.

If you have any questions or would like to view a video of how the devices work, please don't hesitate to call me at 617.479.9000.

Sincerely,

Daniel J. Flynn III
Chairman, Project Hero

Vitamins With Preventative Power

(NAPS)—More than 80 percent of Americans don't eat enough fruits and vegetables, according to United States Department of Agriculture surveys.

That's why experts say taking a multivitamin supplement can be an effective, safe, and inexpensive way to ensure you get some of the nutrients you need—especially when it comes to preventing heart attacks and other degenerative diseases.

Multivitamins containing antioxidants such as vitamin C, E and the carotenoids (i.e. beta-carotene, lycopene and lutein) are known to protect cells from damaging free radicals. Free radicals, unstable oxygen molecules that attack healthy cells, cause damage that contributes to the development of cancer and heart disease.

Not only do an increasing number of doctors recommend taking vitamin supplements, many practice what they preach. A current survey found that 37 percent of doctors interviewed recommend antioxidants routinely to their patients and 44 percent take vitamin E, vitamin C, or beta-carotene supplements themselves, either alone or in combination.

For years, we've heard about the benefits of vitamin C in protecting against colds. In addition, a Tufts University study showed that people, 65 years and older, who took a supplement containing vitamin E were half as likely to develop infection-related illness as those who didn't take a supplement.

In addition, pregnant women who take a prenatal

Staying Active, Staying Healthy

(NAPS)—Images of retirement: travel, leisure, grandchildren, time for what you want to do. Whether you want to retire in grand style, or you prefer quiet and relaxation, one thing is certain—you want to enjoy this special time in good health.

Immunizations aren't just for children. Many people get flu shots, but what about being vaccinated against pneumococcal disease? Two out of three adults over 65—a group at high risk for infection—have never received the vaccine. Only about 25 percent of older Hispanics and 20 percent of African Americans have received the vaccine.

These statistics are nothing to sneeze at. Each year pneumococcal disease infects more than 7.5 million adults and children in the U.S. and claims 40,000 lives, almost as many as breast cancer. The highest number of deaths occur among the elderly and people with underlying medical conditions, and approximately half could potentially be prevented through the use of pneumococcal vaccine.

Until recently, pneumococcal disease, which includes pneumonia and infections of the bloodstream, brain lining and middle ear, could be effectively treated with penicillin and other common antibiotics. The alarming increase in bacterial strains resistant to these medications is making pneumococcal disease much more difficult and expensive to treat. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommend pneumococcal vaccination for:

- everyone over 65, regardless of their health;
- everyone over two years of age with a serious medical condition, such as diabetes.

Looking forward to a healthy retirement? Ask your doctor about adult vaccines.

bates, chronic lung, heart, kidney or liver disease or alcoholism;

• people two years of age and older whose immune systems have been weakened by such conditions as cancer or HIV infection;

• people without a functioning spleen, including those with sickle cell disease;

• residents of chronic care or long-term care facilities; and

• communities found to be at special risk: Alaskan natives and certain Native American groups.

Pneumococcal vaccination can be given at any time of year and is covered by Medicare. Most people only need to be vaccinated once in a lifetime. There are potential side effects, such as soreness, local swelling and fever, and the vaccine should not be given to those hypersensitive to any component of the vaccine or anyone who recently had immunosuppressive therapy. Talk to your health care professional to see whether the vaccination is right for you.

For more information about pneumococcal disease and adult immunization, ask your health care provider or call the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention at 800-232-2522 (800-232-0233 if you speak Spanish).

Addiction: What You Should Know

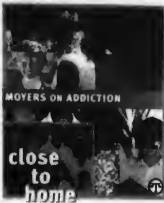

(NAPS)—Addiction. For many people the word brings to mind the image of the "junkie" smoking crack or shooting heroin in an alley. But addiction is a disease that affects all of society. Whether it's alcohol, nicotine, or other drugs, addiction strikes people of every age, background and way of life. Unfortunately, myth, misunderstanding and moral judgments have obscured the complexities of an illness that destroys individuals, tears apart families and devastates communities.

Now journalist Bill Moyers is undertaking a comprehensive examination of what may be America's number one health problem: addiction. The unprecedented five-part series, Moyers on Addiction: Close to Home, airs nationwide on PBS for three consecutive nights, March 29-31 at 9 p.m. (check local listings).

How does addiction happen? Why is it so widespread and hard to overcome? Who is at risk? What can be done to help addicts recover? In his new series, the Emmy award-winning reporter examines these issues in an effort to raise both awareness and understanding of a very personal subject.

"My wife Judith and I thought we knew about addiction, until it came close to home," says Moyers, referring to his oldest son's struggle with drugs and alcohol. "It's not about use, or even the occasional abuse, of a substance. We're talking about an obsessive desire—when something you take, drink or smoke becomes the master of your mind and the tyrant of your life."

As the series makes clear, the reality of addiction can be grim, frustrating and heartbreaking. Along the way, however, Moyers and his team of producers, editors and camera crews find hope and progress in medical advances, new intervention techniques, and an evolution in public attitudes. "Portrait of Addiction" (Sunday, March 29, 9-10 p.m.) begins the series with testimony from the real authorities—recovering addicts.

A new five-part documentary puts a human face on an American public health crisis.

"The Hijacked Brain" (Sunday, March 29, 10-11 p.m.) details the dramatic scientific discoveries on how addiction affects the brain. Commentary by recovering addicts offers a look at the individuals who stand to benefit from these discoveries.

"Changing Lives" (Monday, March 30, 9-10:30 p.m.) explores the very individual process of recovery as Moyers observes group therapy, talks with experts and recovering addicts about how addiction affects the entire family, and looks at the most difficult part of recovery—avoiding relapse.

"The Next Generation" (Tuesday, March 31, 9-10 p.m.) offers a glimpse into the lives of children at risk for addiction, and looks at some important new programs that are giving these kids a chance to lead healthy lives free from drug and alcohol abuse.

"The Politics of Addiction" (Tuesday, March 31, 10-11 p.m.) focuses on the public policy challenge of addiction in a society where the use of illegal substances such as cocaine and heroin is severely punished while legal substances such as alcohol and tobacco are advertised and promoted. America has responded to illegal drug use with increasingly punitive laws even though addiction to legal substances outstrips addiction to all illegal drugs combined. Moyers looks at what has brought American policy toward addictive substances to its present impasse.

Like such acclaimed Moyers series as Genesis and The Language of Life, Moyers on Addiction: Close to Home will reach beyond the television screen through a broad-based national outreach campaign. During the months leading up to the broadcast, the Public Television Outreach Alliance is working with community-based partners to coordinate activities in communities from coast to coast.

The centerpiece for the campaign will be Take a Step Day on Wednesday, April 1. On this day, Americans will be encouraged to learn about addiction, find out about prevention and intervention programs, and make personal assessments.

Educational publisher Scholastic Inc. and PBS station Thirteen/WNET in New York are also sponsoring a national youth writing and art contest about addiction in conjunction with the series.

To add to the value of the series, Thirteen/WNET will publish and distribute six comprehensive viewers guides geared toward the general public, corporations, health professionals, families, elementary schools and high schools. The family guide will also be available in Spanish.

To receive a guide, viewers should send their request on a postcard to P.O. Box 245, Little Falls, NJ 07424-0245.

A unique Website called Close to Home Online will offer a wealth of important information about addiction, including: animated illustrations, referrals, bulletin boards and a first-of-its-kind comic-book style Web soap opera about a group of young people dealing with addiction issues. The site will be accessible at www.wnet.org/closetohome and www.pbs.org/closetohome.

Moyers on Addiction: Close to Home was produced by Public Affairs Television, Inc., and presented nationwide on PBS by Thirteen/WNET. Funding for the series was provided by The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation and Mutual of America Life Insurance Company. Funding for Public Television Outreach Alliance participation was provided by the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

Would You Share A Toothbrush?

(NAPS)—If you forgot your toothbrush, would you be willing to use someone else's? If your response was "yuck"—you're not alone. A recent survey showed that, for 29 percent of male and 36 percent of female respondents, the answer is a resounding "no."

The Mentadent ProCare Toothbrush has a unique flexible handle to help you be more gentle on your gums.

The survey also found that:
• 48 percent of men and 33 percent of women would be most willing to borrow their significant other's toothbrush;

• 23 percent of women and 16 percent of men said they would use their own child's toothbrush in a pinch, but just five percent of both men and women would be willing to use their own mother's toothbrush; and
• Only one percent of both males and females would share their toothbrush with their favorite celebrity.

So what will people do if they forget their toothbrush? Some of the survey answers include brushing with a finger; chewing gum or eating breath mints; and using mouthwash.

The survey was commissioned by Mentadent ProCare Toothbrush and conducted by Opinion Research Corporation International, which polled 1,004 men and 1,007 women on their toothbrush and oral hygiene habits.

DON'T TAKE TETANUS FOR GRANTED

Tetanus is one of those childhood things that kids get shots for, right? Not entirely. While children do get tetanus shots as part of their regular immunization schedule, tetanus itself is a serious, often fatal disease that adults should be aware of as well. Tetanus is caused by an infection from the "clostridia" bacteria, which is found in soil. The bacteria typically enter the body via a puncture wound from a contaminated object, such as a nail or thorn. Untreated, the infection leads to painful muscle spasms and paralysis. Anyone who suffers a puncture wound and is uncertain whether a tetanus immunization is still in effect should seek emergency medical care.

Today, it is recommended that you keep these and other immunizations up-to-date so be sure you ask your physician what you need, especially if you are traveling out of the country. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. Adults are generally encouraged to receive tetanus immunizations every 10 years. Make sure yours are up to date!

Amy Madden On Providence Dean's List

Amy Madden of Quincy has been named to the Dean's List for the fall semester at Providence College.

An elementary special education major, she earned a 3.9 grade point average. She is finishing her senior year and has recently begun her student teaching requirement in Cranston, R.I.

Madden is the daughter of Kevin and Deborah Madden of Norton Road.

Title I Director To Receive State Award

School Supt. Eugene Creedon announced at a recent School Committee meeting that Alicia Coletti, Title I director, has been selected to receive the State Leadership Award of the National Association of Federal Education Program Administrators (NAFEPA).

The award is presented annually to deserving individuals for their contributions to the education of disadvantaged youth and their active support of state initiatives with regard to federal education programs.

The Title I program in Quincy receives $1.6 million in federal funds to provide tutoring and counseling for over 1,000 Quincy school children from kindergarten through Grade 8. The program also funds early childhood classes at Snug Harbor, Point Webster and the Della Chiesa Early Childhood Center. In addition, the program provides assistance at Broad Meadows and Sterling middle schools and at St. Joseph's and St. Mary's schools.

The award will be presented at the NAFEPA's 24th annual Washington Inservice Conference Monday, March 30 at the Key Bridge Marriott Hotel in Arlington, Va.

Two Residents On Dean's List At Framingham State College

Two Quincy residents have been named to the Dean's List for the fall semester at Framingham State College.

They are Beth A. Fradet, Class of 1999, an art major; and Tina Katsarikas, Class of 2001, whose major is undeclared.

REAL ESTATE

What A Difference A Decade Can Make

Commercial Market In Dramatic Growth

By JOSEPH MANNARINO
Less than a decade ago the recession hit the commercial real estate market and downtown districts very hard.
Quincy, like many communities in the Boston metropolitan area was a victim of the downtown. It was inconceivable that new construction would be possible with the glut of office and retail space available throughout New England.
What a difference a decade can make. Not only has Quincy's market absorbed the excess capacity of commercial space, it is now entering a period of tremendous growth. With the explosion of the financial services sector of our regional economy, many relocated Quincy based companies are finding it extremely difficult to expand at their current locations. The commercial real estate market is responding to this demand with a frenzy of office development projects; a majority of which are located along the peripheral areas of the city such as Crown Colony, Marina Bay, and North Quincy.

At the Crown Colony Office Park, located in West Quincy along Route 3, 93 and 128 development plans have been approved by the city for approximately 450,000 square feet of office space for Harvard/Pilgrim Health Care, Arbella Insurance, and Lincoln Properties. Plans are also expected to be submitted by The Flatley Corporation for new office buildings and a hotel. In addition, a townhouse development of 100 units is also under construction by Thorndike Development at Crown Colony. New development at Crown Colony could total as much as two million square feet.
In North Quincy, along Hancock Street, North

Quincy Transit Associates is planning a 265,000 square foot office building over the northern portion of the MBTA station parking lot. In conjunction with the office development, Transit Realty (the MBTA's real estate division) is building a five-story, 2100 space parking garage adjacent to the proposed office complex. This public/private partnership of North Quincy Transit Associates and Transit Realty offsets development costs for both the MBTA and boosts the North Quincy economy.
Marina Bay is a vibrant waterfront office, retail, entertainment, and residential community attracting tourists from the South Shore and the entire Boston metropolitan area. In 1997, Boston Scientific moved its national distribution center to the Marina Bay area. Plans have been approved by the city for the construction of an assisted living facility, a luxury apartment complex, and a townhouse project.

Most of the commercial and residential development projects planned for 1998 are located at vacant sites in close proximity to major arterial roadways. Quincy Center is also well positioned for development and is expected to experience growth in 1998.
Quincy Center is comprised of three districts: a traditional retail district, a government center, and a suburban shopping area. While the government and suburban districts thrive, the retail district is slowly being transformed from a retail center to a more service and entertainment based place for local employees and surrounding residents alike. This transformation is being led by Mayor Sheets, the City council, and The Quincy 2000 Corporation's downtown public improvement projects which are stimulating private sector investments.

Over the past few years, the building facades, streetscape, and business tenant mix in the retail district have dramatically improved. However, this district has yet to realize its full potential. One of the primary catalysts for the redevelopment of Quincy Center, the Concourse roadway project, will begin construction in 1998. This project will provide much needed access and circulation to and around Quincy Center. A colorful and innovative directional signage system will also be constructed along the roadway to lead travelers to their destination.

As the infrastructure is put into place, Quincy 2000, through its Real Estate Development Advisory Committee, is developing the financial strategies that will attract private investment in the downtown. One of the objectives is revitalizing the retail center is to replace many of the one story commercial buildings with modern efficient multi-story structures. An increase in both the work force and residential population in and around Quincy Center will create a greater demand for goods and services and as a result strengthen the retail mix downtown. Some of the investment strategies being considered include Tax Incremental Financing (TIF), Business Investment Districts (BID), and the pending District Improving Financing (DIF) Legislation. All of these strategies provide incentives to developers for investing in the designated business districts.

In 1998 and the coming years, the trends are positive for the entire Quincy real estate market. The city will increase its tax base, create thousands of construction and permanent jobs, and revitalize the central business district.

(Joseph Mannarino is the executive director of the Quincy 2000 Corporation, Quincy's public/private partnership for economic development.)

Senior Track Captain Excels In First Season

Quincy's Scott Desmond: A Leader By Example

By LIAM FITZGERALD
For someone who took up the sport just last fall, Quincy High School senior Scott Desmond has quite an impressive track record.

A baseball player by trade, Desmond decided to run track just to "stay in shape," but it became much more than that. After running cross-country in the fall, Desmond joined the boys indoor track team and excelled right from the opening race.

"It seemed like I got better with every meet," said Desmond, who also served as the indoor track team's captain.

An Old Colony League All-Star in the 55-meter dash, Desmond capped a memorable campaign with an impressive seventh-place finish (6.88) at the Class B state meet last month. In the semifinals, he ran a personal best 6.5 to qualify for the finals.

"I was as surprised as anybody that I did so well," he said. "To finish seventh in the state, that's unbelievable. I achieved my goal and more."

During the indoor season, Desmond accumulated 40 points, the most by a Quincy track athlete in the past five years, and incredibly, lost just a single 55-meter dash race. He was also a member of Quincy's 4x2 relay team, which dropped only two races all season.

In addition to Desmond's athletic achievements, his coach has been impressed with the captain's leadership qualities and positive example.

"He's been a big plus to the team, and we're sad to see him leave," said Scott King, Quincy boys indoor track coach. "He is a great role model to the younger kids and middle school kids, too."

"It was a real positive season, just with his presence. He got a lot more people interested in track by setting a positive example. He's a true superstar in every sense of the word."

Desmond, who attended Boston English for the first half of his freshman year while living in Dorchester, transferred to Quincy High when his family moved to Quincy's Adams Shore section.

On the honor roll the past three years and a straight A student this year, Desmond credits his academic success to good time management.

"After all sports, I go home and do an hour or two of homework and get it all done," he said, adding that his favorite class at QHS is electronics.

This spring, Desmond will participate in his second varsity season of baseball, playing right field and pitching for the Presidents.

Although his high school track career was short-lived, Desmond hopes his positive example results in increased interest in the sport by young people in the city.

"Now I wish I did it as a freshman or a sophomore, but it shows that anybody can do it if they put their mind to it," he said. "Hopefully a lot more kids will get involved when they see what can happen if they just try. That's all it takes, and I'm very happy I did."

QHS Boys' Freshman Hoop Wraps Up Successful Season

The Quincy High School boys' freshman basketball team recently wrapped up a successful season, finishing with a 12-8 record, including sweeps of rival North Quincy and Silver Lake.

Among the highlights of the first half of the season for the Presidents was a 70-68 overtime victory on the road against Silver Lake.

Quincy was sparked by Chris Brown, who scored 13 of his 16 points in the last four minutes of regulation and in overtime, and Dave Centrella, who poured in 20 points.

"That was the game of the year," said Quincy coach Mike Draicchio. "Dave had a great game and we won it with our hustle."

The Presidents followed that with a win over Marshfield and a 65-53 triumph over North Quincy. In the victory over NQ, Quincy was led by Adam Jewrich and Mark Robertson, who scored 14 points apiece.

Quincy opened the second half with a three-point setback to Taunton, then reeled off victories over Archbishop Williams, Falmouth, Silver Lake, Marshfield and North Quincy. In the second win over North, Centrella, Robertson and Brown led the way for the Presidents.

Draicchio was impressed by the Presidents' consistent effort, particularly on the defensive end, which kept them within striking distance every game.

"In five of our losses, we were within two points," he said. "That was the way the season went—close games and never giving up on defense."

Quincy's coach extended his appreciation to Jason Downey, who served as his assistant coach and in Draicchio's words, "did a great job."

Along with Brown, Centrella, Jewrich and Robertson, Quincy's talented freshman team was comprised of Greg Walsh, Rob McDonough, Brad DiMartino, Joe Thorley, John Lupo, Dan Walker, Chris Dicesare, Dennis Wong and Billy O'Brien.

"What a great season with 13 great kids playing hard all year and different kids contributing in different games," said Draicchio. "I wish the season had never ended. This group of young men were a lot of fun to coach. Watch for this group in the next few years."

NQ's Bradley, Radford Bounced From NCAAs

Ron Bradley, former North Quincy High School and Eastern Nazarene College basketball star and ENC coach, recently led Radford (Va.) University to its first-ever NCAA tournament berth.

Unfortunately for Bradley, a former Quincy resident, the 16th-seeded Highlanders' first-round opponent was none other than No. 1 seed Duke University, which was making its 14th tournament appearance in the last 15 years.

The Blue Devils, led by Roshawn McLeod's 19 first-half points, built a commanding 51-19 halftime lead en route to a 99-63 victory in the South Regional at Rupp Arena in Lexington, Ky. McLeod finished with 23 points to lead five players in double figures.

The South Shore YMCA in Quincy will offer swimming lessons beginning the week of April 13 through the week of June 8.

Registration begins April 7. The eight-week course is

The Highlanders (20-10) were led by Leslie Ballard, who scored 16 points.

NQ's Gonzalez Shines At All State, Class A Meets

At the All State meet at the Reggie Lewis Center, North Quincy High School's Jasmine Gonzalez placed 10th in the 600-meter race with a personal best of 1:41.14.

With the 10th place finish, Gonzalez advanced to the New England Championships at Harvard. Each state must supply six competitors, and as several high-placing athletes deferred, Gonzalez was chosen to compete.

This marks the ninth year that North Quincy sends an athlete to the New England (either indoors or out). In the 2-Mile at the All-States, Lynda Wilson ran her best ever time, 12:04.96, en route to an 18th overall placing.

At the Class A Championships on Feb. 21, North's girls placed 15th overall with 8 points. Gonzalez placed seventh, but advanced to the All State as an competitor.

Wilson took third in the 2-mile, running in the unseeded slower second heat. She ran alone for the final mile, with only the cheering crowd to push her. Her time of 12:12.26 was her fastest by 21 seconds.

Country Ski & Sport Olindy's Jr. All Star Bowling Leader

Country Ski & Sport continues to hold the top spot in the Olindy's Jr. All Star Kid's Bowling League with a 58-14 record.

The rest of the standings: Sweeney Brothers (49-23); Patriot Glass (42-30); Mike's Auto Body (42-30); Dom's (38-34); Marylou's News (36-36); Eco Muffler (34-38); Everlasting Engraving (29-43); Bernie's (26-46); Olindy's (8-64).

The top boys average is currently held by Todd White at 106, followed by Jason Badgett at 98 and Chris Baker at 97. In the girls division, Amanda Cosgrove is the leader with a 70 average, followed by Kendra Ciccone at 67 and Colleen Ryan at 64.

Bowlers of the week were Chris Baker, who had the league's weekly high single of 115; Todd White, who had the high triple of 317; Michael Crifo, who had his personal high single of 101, 30 pins over his 71 average; Chris Chernicki, who bowled 55 pins over his 87 average, with a 316 total and a high single of 111; Amanda Cosgrove, who had the ladies' high single of 75 and high triple of 200; Lindsay Reddy, who bowled her high single of 65, 21 pins over her average of 44; and Davonna Williamson, who bowled a triple of 185 with a high single of 66, 20 pins over average of 55.

The league's new high three (1321) and high single (461) were bowled by Country Ski & Sport, the team of the week. The team is comprised of Chris Baker (307 high three, 95 high single), Jack Sullivan (287, 110), Michael Crifo (232, 101), Colleen Ryan (195, 72) and Thomas Cabral (215, 59). Joan's Olympic Gymnastic Team Performs At FleetCenter

The Joan's Olympic Gym Elite gymnastics team recently performed at the FleetCenter in Boston to a packed house of enthusiastic Boston Celtics fans.

The team, consisting of 36 members ranging in age from 5 to 18, performed a fast-paced routine to a medley of popular songs. The gymnastics team, which has performed at halftime at Celtics games for the past 14 years, performs a long routine choreographed specifically for this event.

The ladies' performance began with a series of cheerleading stunts and mounts, including a basket toss and a difficult multi-level mount. The team then formed a large dance formation and executed a dance routine with pom poms in hand.

After their dance segment, they separated into two groups and began their non-stop tumbling passes back and forth across two sets of mats, building up to advanced skills with each round of passes.

The crowd got into the routine and clapped as each gymnast completed her tumbling pass. Towards the end of the routine, the ladies built stunts in center court and in front of each net and shot baskets as the crowd cheered them on.

For the finale, three senior members each performed high-speed back handsprings the full length of the court, concluding a flawless performance. Afterwards, the team and coaches were invited to watch the remainder of the game from reserved seats.

The annual FleetCenter performance is a yearly highlight for the gymnasts who enjoy performing as a group in this and other exhibitions, which include schools, retirement homes and Faneuil Hall. These performances are scheduled around the team's regular competition season, which has the gymnasts competing

NQ's Ross To Compete In Roundball Classic March 21

Brian Ross, who recently concluded a brilliant North Quincy High School basketball career, will participate in the first annual Hoop Mountain SchoolSports Roundball Classic on Saturday, March 21.

The event, which will be held at Boston College's Conte Forum (Ross' home gym when he enrolls at BC this fall), will feature more than 20 Division 1-bound high school athletes in two all-star games. The girls game is at 6:30 p.m., followed by the boys game at 8:30 p.m.

During halftime of each game, a fan will be selected to participate in a shooting contest for a chance at winning $5,000.

Admission is $7 for adults, $4 for children 12 and under. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to a local charity.

Bulldogs Edge Charlestown In Regular Season Finale

The Quincy Youth Hockey Squirt B Bulldogs edged Charlestown, 3-2, in the team's regular season finale last Saturday. Up next for the Bulldogs is the playoffs.

playing the great hockey which helped carry the team into the playoffs. Quincy's blueliners—Rose and Pat Devlin, Mike McPherson, Chris Tierney, Dan Foggi, Bryan Donelin and Marchand—did an outstanding job.

The success of the team must also be attributed to the coaching of Bill Barter, Paul Cosia and Jeff Giordani. Not only did they teach the kids about hockey, but they allowed them to have fun as well. Their efforts are much appreciated by the families and fans of the team.

In earlier league play, the Bulldogs picked up a tie and a victory.

The Bulldogs battled a strong Parkway team to a 1-1 tie on the road. Scoring for the B's was Bythrow, assisted by Matt Giordani.

Bulldog goalie Barter

continued his outstanding play in goal, turning away numerous shots.

Barter and the defense—the Devlins, Donelin, Marchand, McPherson, Foggi and Tierney—were commended by the coaching staff for maintaining the best goals against average in their division.

The Bulldogs edged Waltham, 4-3, with Shinnick notching the winning goal. Assisting on the game-winner were by Mulcahy and Foggi.

The scoring began when the Bulldogs' Bythrow lifted one past the Waltham goalie from 25 feet out, assisted by Gibbons. Mulcahy chipped in a goal assisted by the Giordani brothers, Matt and Mike. A short time later, Bythrow scored his second goal, assisted by Reggiani and Gibbons.

Two Quincy Residents Qualify For WEEI Million Dollar Contest

Paul Comerford and Jason McAvoy, both of Quincy, are two of the 85 qualifiers for the WEEI 850

AM Million Dollar Shot Contest.

Both listened to the Imus in the Morning show on WEEI for contest times and on two separate occasions were the eight callers. Both received four tickets to the Harlem Globetrotters at the FleetCenter on Friday, March 27.

During halftime of the Globetrotters game, WEEI will select one winner who will have the chance to sink the shot(s) that could make he or she a millionaire.

RESTORING YOUR CAR'S FINISH

Once an automobile leaves the dealer's lot, the sun and the elements begin their assault on the paint. Oxidation leaves paint looking dull, while acid rain, bird droppings, and other environmental insults produce etching and stains. Then, there are the light scratches that occur daily. The good news? As long as these defects do not go through the outer layer (whether a clear or color coat), they can be "finessed out." This means that enough of the top layer can be removed to take out the defects and return a smooth, glossy finish to the car. Professional paint restoration involves the use of various grades of rubbing compounds for light defects, while wet sanding is reserved for more serious cases.

Maintaining your car and its appearance is important in keeping its value. Bring it to the professionals at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO and trust its care to our ASE Certified technicians. Our friendly staff will gladly answer all your questions here at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We use the AllData CD-ROM based system for the very latest in maintenance and service bulletins for all makes of cars. We're "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Open: Mon-Fri. 8am-5pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm.

HINT: A worn finish can shave hundreds of dollars off a vehicle's resale value, which makes paint restoration a wise investment.

Healthy Kids Day At YMCA April 4

The South Shore YMCA, 79 Coddington St., Quincy Center, will hold Healthy Kids Day Saturday, April 4 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"The YMCA works all year round to develop children into well-rounded adults, equipped with the resources needed to thrive in today's stressful and competitive environment," said Jack Rothschild, the YMCA's Youth and Family Director. "YMCA Healthy Kids Day offers fun, hands-on activities that nurture children's creativity and promote family involvement and learning."

All children and their families are invited to attend. There will be cooperative family games, clowns, prizes, workshops on nutrition and healthy snacks, fitness training and aerobics, basketball and hockey, swimming and pool games, health screening, and demonstrations of In-Line skating, karate, and cooking.

According to Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC)'s 1997 Guidelines for Promoting Lifelong Physical Activity, the percentage of young people who are overweight has more than doubled in the past 30 years. Additionally, obese children are more likely to become obese adults. Overweight adults are at increased risk for heart disease, high blood pressure, stroke, diabetes, certain types of cancer and gallbladder disease. YMCA Healthy Kids Day is a national event aimed at getting families to understand, accept and avoid this risk together.

Rothschild said the South

Shore YMCA believes there is more to good health than physical fitness.

"Our definition of good health includes things like caring for others, respecting the environment, being honest and fair and taking responsibility for solving problems," he said. "The sum of these qualities is what defines a healthy child—and the YMCA works with families to give kids the tools to build healthy lifestyles."

For more information on Healthy Kids Day, call Rothschild at 479-8500, ext. 144.

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

"Mother Nature is providential. She gives us 12 years to develop a love for our children before turning them into teenagers." William A. Galvin.

We all know that the "teen-age" years can be a hectic time for both the teens and their parents. The following poem may help those who are going through this time and those who are about to enter this "era!"

"What is a teenager? I was asked one day.
I knew what he was, But what should I say?
He is noise and confusion. He is silence that's deep.
He is sunshine and laughter, Or a cloud that will weep.
He is swift as an arrow, He's a waster of time.
He wants to be rich, But can't save a dime.
He is rude and nasty. He is polite as can be.
He wants Parental Guidance, But fights to be free.
He is aggressive and bossy. He is timid and shy.
He knows all the answers, But still will ask "why?"
He is awkward and clumsy, He is graceful and poised.
He is ever changing, But don't be annoyed.
"What is a teen-ager?" I was asked one day.
He is the future unfolding; Don't stand in his way."

Your Horoscope

by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) It's a great week to go after what you want in your job. That little bit of extra initiative will make the difference. You find yourself quite popular over the weekend in various social settings.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Behind-the-scenes career moves are best this week. Creativity is also a plus. The rapport you have with a loved one makes you feel blessed indeed during the weekend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Manners are no substitute for principles. Hold fast to what you believe in. Some people are just too touchy to talk to this weekend but can be approached at a later time.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) This is probably not the best week to give anyone advice. Others may misjudge your sincere intentions. Don't be hurt by a co-worker's biting remarks to you. Just consider the source.

to November 21) You get the green light with travel, but keep in eye on costs. You'll be making new friends, but avoid disputes about your belief system. Remember, it's never a good idea to discuss religion or politics.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Common sense prevails in spending for family, but if out socializing this week, money could be spent unwisely. Keep financial matters to yourself. Something you're planning needs further research.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Social life looks very promising. Club activities are favored in general. Put your wonderful practicality to good account. This weekend, don't get in over your head.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) It's not a good week to lend or borrow money, especially if friends are involved. You could be offended by another's lack of alacrity in paying you back. Imagination is keen and should be used wisely rather than daydreaming.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Think before you act this week, especially in dealings with partners. Home life will prove more enjoyable than going out for good times. In fact, some loved ones require special attention.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Something you hear casually this week could offend you. You get good advice about a business or financial matter. If you go on about a certain subject, though, beware of a cantankerous audience.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) How to have time for your own interests and family too could be a concern this week. Those who are traveling should be careful not to misplace something of value. Pay close attention to details.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) It's just a little thing, but still you feel slighted or miffed. Try not to let this matter get out of proportion. Allow others some leeway since, after all, everyone can have a foul mood once in a while.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Something you hear casually this week could offend you. You get good advice about a business or financial matter. If you go on about a certain subject, though, beware of a cantankerous audience.

QHA To Try Again For New Director

that feeling in Quincy."

Kimmell said the QHA offered to pay Casamento $75,000 a year, which he termed "considerably less" than Framingham's offered. Casamento said he preferred not to discuss the terms of his offer.

He added, however, that he regrets he will be unable to work with Kimmell.

"I think the city is very fortunate to have him as chairman of the housing commissioners," said Casamento. "He's obviously very committed to the tenants. I would have enjoyed working with him."

The QHA has been in the public eye since former Executive Director John ("Jake") Comer, stepped down last year. Comer retired after 15 years on the job during a federal investigation into some of his management practices, including what the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development described as lax financial controls and a closed process for awarding contracts at the authority.

On March 7, the Board of Commissioners selected Casamento from a field of four finalists. Kimmell joined members Christine Cedrone and Mary Kay Bamford in voting for Casamento. The other two members, Frank Kearns and James McDonald, backed Lyne Houghton, a Quincy real estate broker.

The other two candidates were Paul Bergeron, the QHA's director of finance and John Mather, director of the Office of Family Independence and Resident Initiatives at the Brockton Housing Authority.

The QHA controls about 2,600 housing units, more than five times the number under the jurisdiction of the Saugus Housing Authority, which controls about 500. However, before becoming director of the latter—where he took over in January 1997—Casamento served as executive director of the 2,500-unit Somerville Housing Authority for five months in 1996.

Under his leadership, the authority in Somerville—which previously had experienced financial difficulties—paid off its debt, won modernization grants totaling millions of dollars, and began moving toward solving the problem of drug dealing and use among tenants, according to Casamento and published reports.

In August 1996, he was fired by Somerville Mayor Michael Capuano, who was criticized for subsequently hiring a friend with no prior experience heading such an authority.

$63,000 Appropriated For Teen Get-Away, DPW, Emergency Management

The City Council's Finance Committee had a busy evening Monday night, appropriating a total of more than $63,000 to Quincy Emergency Management, the Teen Get-Away, and the Department of Public Works.

The appropriations included:

• $12,607 from the city's current expenses account for Quincy Emergency Management. Deputy Director Tony Siciliano said the money will be used for various maintenance projects, with the bulk of the total going toward repairs to a number of vehicles.

• $25,000—a little over $1,400 from the city's free cash (cash reserve) account and the rest in federal Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) monies—for the Teen Get-Away, the city's youth center. School Committee member Jo-Ann Bragg, founder of the program, said most of the money will be used to pay the center's staff.

• $26,000 from the sewer-water-drain rehabilitation fund to the DPW for the recent replacement of about 250 feet of sewer off Lansdowne Street in Squantum. DPW Commissioner David Colton said the job was an emergency because sewerage was leaking.

The full City Council formally approved all three appropriations later in the evening.

Sheets: 'They Must Operate Out Of Their Own Revenue' City Won't Help College With Budget Problems

The city will not offer financial assistance to help struggling Quincy College with its budget problems, Mayor James Sheets said Tuesday.

The mayor told The Quincy Sun that although the home-rule petition passed to create separate budgets for Quincy College and Quincy Hospital allows the city to use monies from the municipal budget to help either when necessary, he has no plans to do so for the college.

"The petition was created with the idea that the city needs the money for its police, fire and other departments," said Sheets. "So both the college and hospital have to operate out of their own revenue. I don't see the city making any appropriation for the college budget. My hope is that they'll work it out."

Sheets said he is concerned about the college's situation, although he does not know all the facts. But he said even if the college's president, Dr. Jeremiah Ryan, asked for financial assistance in the event of a true emergency, the city likely would stay out of it.

"It would depend on the emergency," said the mayor. "But I have to be candid: I don't see that happening."

Ryan said last week the budget crisis--the result of decreasing enrollment--will result in layoffs at the college, which has campuses in Quincy and Plymouth (with satellite campuses in Springfield, Wareham and North Quincy and one planned for Boston). There are 50 full-time teachers and 300 part-time teachers at the two-year, city-owned community college, including five full-timers and 50 part-timers at Plymouth.

Ryan made his comments after Quincy College teachers obtained a confidential document saying the college would cut its budget by $1 million for Fiscal Year 1999--which begins July 1--and may lay off as many as 20 teachers.

Ryan said the college began Fiscal Year 1998 with a budget of $9.6 million but had to decrease that to $9.1 million because of lower-than-anticipated enrollment. Next year's budget will be $8.6 million, he said.

Enrollment at the college's main campus in Quincy dropped 2.8 percent this year, from 4,828 students (full and part-time) last fall to 4,690 this fall. In 1995, the campus had 5,201 students.

During the same period, however, the Plymouth campus has grown to 600 students.

Because the college received no city or state tax money, it relies almost entirely on student tuition and fees.

Ryan said a preliminary draft of the college's Fiscal Year 1998 budget is scheduled to be released April 1. Any final budget decisions will be made by the Quincy College Board of Governors, he said.

For New Crackdown On Teenage Drinking Undercover Police Would 'Work' In Package Stores

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

A new concept called "Cops In Shops" targeting underage drinking and fake ID's with undercover police working in package stores throughout the city has been proposed by Det. Sgt. Robert Perchard and supported by Police Chief Thomas Frane.

At Tuesday's License Board meeting, Perchard said "the key word is enforcement" and that persons violating the law will be arrested, prosecuted and have their names and addresses published in the newspaper regardless of their age or who they are.

He said this procedure will "guarantee that parents will take a closer look at their kids."

Perchard said the program is nationwide and called The Century Council, which is funded by the country's Distilleries. He said the only criteria is that Perchard have a quarterly statistic for the Century Council Perchard said he will present the program at the April 6 City Council meeting in hopes of receiving funds. He said he estimated that the program costs about $10,000 a year with $5,000 to jump start.

There will be undercover policemen working as employees in 26 package stores in Quincy on different nights.

He said owners of the package stores are elated with the program and have offered to help with the funding and have commented to Perchard that it's better than being targeted for selling to underage persons.

He said that he will notify the school department that if anyone is caught drinking, they will no longer play sports or be in the band. If they are not in any school activity, then they will have to serve community hours such as Father Bill's Place.

He said that the courts will also be notified so that money penalties can also be donated into the fund.

Finally, Perchard cited statistics in Maine where there were 57 fatalities from 1989 to 1993 for drunk driving. He added that in one store alone within four hours, 28 underage persons trying to purchase liquor were

At Former Home Of Ruth Gordon McDermott Opposes Planned 'Sober House'

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Ward 3 City Councillor Patrick McDermott is opposing a plan to turn the former residence of the late actress Ruth Gordon into a home for recovering alcoholics and drug addicts.

McDermott said this week he does not believe the use is a proper one for the house, located at 210 Arlington St. in Wollaston.

The house served for a number of years as the Arlington Green Elder care facility until about two-and-a-half weeks ago when the nursing home "abruptly closed," according to McDermott. He said he tried to learn more from property owner Vincent Pattavina but several telephone calls went unanswered, "much to my dissatisfaction."

PATRICK McDERMOTT

McDermott said he has since learned from Phil Malonson of the Twelve Step Education Program of New England Inc. that the organization plans to lease the property as a "Sober House" for about 21 residents.

The councillor said the site is zoned Business C, which is, in fact, proper for the intended use. "But I think you have to scrutinize and look at the use," he said.

McDermott said he opposes the "Sober House" plan for several reasons, the most prominent being parking. There are only "about 10 spots" readily available, he noted, which would not be enough to accommodate all of the residents.

He added that he has been told that most of the residents probably will not have driver's licenses.

"Probably" isn't enough of a guarantee for me," said McDermott. "So parking, in itself, is enough reason to question it."

Public safety is another

Board Tightens Up On City License Process

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

In an effort to tighten up the license process, the Quincy License Board Tuesday, adopted a new policy for those applying for a license called an "Inspection Sign-Off Sheet."

Devised by Building Inspector Walter White and Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue, persons would first have to go to both of these persons before appearing before the license board.

Board chairman Joseph Shea said sometimes unless a license is liquor related, some things "fall into the cracks."

Gallahue said if these items are checked off before a board meeting, persons would not have to come back to the board.

Sometimes, the board never sees the applicants after they finish the sign-off sheet which up until this time was done after the board voted in favor of a license.

The objectives refining the sign-off sheet is as follows.

•Each applicant will have a more detailed analysis to verify the feasibility and legality of the project in terms of building, zoning and health issues.

•To streamline the process so that applicants don't have to make several stops to collect signatures which may or may not be meaningful.

•To insure that the proper permits are applied for in each department.

•To determine if any money is owed to the City from the property owner.

On a proposal by Police Chief Thomas Frane the request form that will be sent to applicants before appearing at the license board meeting, will also be printed in Cantonese, Mandarin and Vietnamese.

Tide Mill Supported At Council Hearing

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The plan to save the Souther Tide Mill received only support at a lightly-attended City Council public hearing Monday night.

Three residents—Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi and Katie Barrett and Doug Gutro, both members of the Fore River Watershed Association—spoke in favor of rezoning the site from Industrial A to Planned United Development (PUD). There was no opposition.

In addition, Council President Peter Kolson noted that the council has received "several communications" in favor of the plan, including those from state Sen. Michael Morrissey, former Councillor Michael Cheney, the Friends of the Souther Tide Mill and local union representatives.

Mayor James Sheets also has voiced his support in the past.

On Monday night, Raymondi said the plan is "an appropriate planning mechanism for this parcel" and noted that the city has applied for a $1 million grant that would help preserve the site.

Barrett called the Tide Mill "one of Quincy's historic treasures" and said for that reason, it is "critical" the mill be protected.

Gutro agreed, saying that although the site is located in Ward 1 and borders Ward 2, it is something important to the entire city.

"It's a treasured resource throughout the community," he said.

The zoning change was proposed by Kolson, who represents Ward 1, and Raymondi. It would give the City Council the authority to control development of the five-acre site, located off Southern Artery and overlooking Town River Bay.

The Souther Tide Mill is one of the nation's last combination lumber and grist mills. It sits on a waterfront site that served as the home of the Quincy Lumber Co. before it closed 15 years ago.

City officials have sought to save the mill, which includes a deep water dock once used by wooden ships to transport various cargo, and turn it into a working museum since the early 1990s.

Attempts buy the city to team with the Metropolitan District Commission to buy the site have failed because the agency lacked the necessary capital.

Also, owner Eleanor Cottle of Harvard (Mass.) died a few years ago, and the property is owned by her estate—which includes 200 heirs.

According to city officials, the rezoning would improve prospects for saving the Souther Tide Mill because the nearby former John J. Duane Co. property could become a part of the development.

The Duane site, which encompasses seven acres, has been targeted in recent years by Stop & Shop as "Tide Mill Plaza," a 65,000-square-foot retail mall. However, Stop & Shop's parent company is seeking buyers for the property since the mall project stalled.

The mall property is already zoned PUD, which makes it possible for both

After One Month Economic Development Specialist Leaves Quincy 2000

Quincy 2000's new Economic Development Specialist has left the public-private planning organization after about a month on the job.

Executive Director Joseph Mannarino said Char-nan Bray of Waltham resigned because "she's actually making a career change and starting a family."

Mannarino said Bray had been doing some consulting work for a Waltham medical firm for about six weeks when she joined Quincy 2000. Shortly after accepting the Quincy job, the firm offered her a full-time consulting position.

CHARNAN BRAY

Bray took the Waltham position because she wanted to change careers and work as closely to her home as possible, Mannarino said.

At Quincy 2000, she replaced Downtown Development Coordinator Bruce Arons, who left after about 18 months to take a job in Middleborough.

Before coming to Quincy, Bray served as executive director of Hyde Park Main Streets Inc., a revitalization program similar to Quincy 2000. Previously, she held economic and planning positions in New Hampshire.

Mannarino said Quincy 2000 is looking at "about five" candidates to replace Bray. If none are deemed suitable, the corporation will advertise the position to open it to more candidates.

McCauley Eyes Mailing Ordinance

Frank McCauley, the Jack Benny of Quincy politics when it comes to spending money—the city's and his own—would like to see an ordinance governing the City Council's rising mailing costs.

"It's really getting out of hand," he says. "I think we need some restrictions."

McCauley has asked City Solicitor Steve McGrath—a former Ward 5 councillor—to look into a possible new ordinance that would be fair to the councillors and at the same time put some control over the amount of mailings to constituents.

He thinks one could possibly be in place for the next fiscal year that starts July 1.

He says he finds it a little hard to believe that all of the 119,237 council mailings last year were necessary. And, he notes, according to his arithmetic that represents a 62.7 percent increase over the year before.

The mailings have been escalating since 1994 when they totaled only 30,560, he says.

They are going out first class when under 500 pieces and bulk third class when over 500. Most of them go first class.

"I think we could cut some of that down," says McCauley. "I don't think we have to send letters out telling people a stop sign has been put up at a certain intersection. They'll see it. Or that a street will be closed off for a block party."

McCauley feels there should be a budget set for mailings with the bigger share going equally to each of the six ward councillors and a lesser share to the three at-large councillors.

"This would help separate what's really important from what is not with matters that really affect an area getting mailing priority."

McCauley said that if a councillor exhausts his allotment and additional money was needed to notify constituents in the event of a real emergency, funds for that mailing could be made available to him.

McCauley notes that in addition to the postage, there is the cost of envelopes and letterheads also involved. "And, if it's a large mailing, you're tying up the council office staff and the copier," he adds.

He says he has sent out about half a dozen letters since returning to the council in January. He dictates them to his wife, Sandra, who produces them on a computer.

"I'm using stationery I had when I was in the council in 1978 to 1981 and took home as a souvenir. I use my own envelopes. But I do bring them to City Hall for the mailing."

He says he seldom sends out letters.

"If I get one, I will respond to it or call the person on the phone. The phone is cheaper."

"You know, with all of the coverage of the city council by the news media, most people know what's going on without having to get a letter or notice telling them."

During the Depression years, Beefsteak and Onions is how hobos referred to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

McCAULEY

As a former ward councillor himself, he says he can appreciate the ward councillors wanting to keep in close touch with their constituents.

"But," he says, "I don't know of any ward councillor that wasn't re-elected for not sending out letters. But I know of two or three who weren't re-elected because they didn't return phone calls."

Incidentally, McCauley also has some old stationery left over from his days as mayor.

Might he be thinking of a return to the mayor's office?

"No, I don't think so," he says. "I'm just keeping it as a souvenir."

TIM CAHILL GOT the chance the other day to try out a job he has long been interested in: mayor.

Well, acting mayor. Or, was it acting acting mayor?

Mayor James Sheets was out of state on vacation. That made City Council President Peter Kolson acting mayor. Then Kolson went to Washington, D.C. to attend the National League of Cities Conference.

And, with both Sheets and Kolson out of town, Cahill was next in line as acting mayor as senior councillor in length of service. He is in his 11th year, and sixth term.

Cahill has long been interested in running for mayor.

Did his stint as Acting Mayor Tim Cahill renew his interest?

"It was fun," he says. "I really enjoyed it. I signed a few warrants but there was no crisis."

Cahill said he did not sit in Sheets' chair.

"I wouldn't feel right sitting in it," he says. "His stuffed teddy bear was sitting in it and I just let him sit there."

Well, did it perk his interest in a future run for mayor?

"I'm still interested," he said. "In fact, I am more interested right now than I have ever been."

Potential mayoral candidates take note.

Incidentally, he bought one of the hydrants for his dog "Riley" who died last year. "That hydrant is good as new," says Bud. "Riley never used it."

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS POSTCARD VIEW of Squantum in the 1920's shows the intersection of Parke Avenue, East Squantum and Dorchester Streets. At that time this was known as Post Office Square. On the right is Watt's Variety Store where the Squantum post office was located for more than 30 years. That building has been enlarged and is now the home of the Ralph DiMattia Sailmaking business. In 1915, Realtor John R. Nelson built the building on the left. He was the agent for the Lillie B. Titus Squantum estate that had been divided into more than 900 house lots. Nelson's office, complete with a fireplace, was in the lower right store front. The second floor was a hall for parties and meetings, and the first Catholic Mass in Squantum was celebrated there. The hall was later converted into apartments. On this site today is Trevore House, a larger apartment complex built in 1963.

Memories Of The Fore River Shipyard

The picture of the old Fore River Bridge in the March 12 Quincy Sun brought back many memories.

My dad, Lucian "Skip" Quinn, was an electrician on many of the ships that left the Fore River shipyard. (He started as an apprentice in 1916 and retired in 1961.) In the late 20s and early 30s when his children were very young he used to go out on the trial trips of the ship he was working on. This required him to get up about 3:30 a.m. and leave for work about 4 a.m. from our home on Main St. Frequently he would be away for two or more weeks.

At about 4:30 a.m. my mother would wake my two sisters and myself and dress us up to "say good-bye to Daddy." We would go down to that bridge and wait for the ship to approach the bridge. Excitement was very high when Dad would come up on deck and wave to us and then quickly disappear again.

We were not the only ones standing there waving to friends and family members. After the ship left the bridge area we would all go home and have breakfast and try to decide how long it would be before we saw Dad again. His homecoming was always a big event also but it was never at a time when we would be very sleepy because of the early hour.

I am sure some of your readers will have similar stories to tell of the old Fore River Bridge.

The People Of Iraq Are Our Brothers

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Joan Baez, the beautiful American folk singer, once said that there is no justifiable reason whatsoever that one human being should kill another.

President Richard Nixon, who shares with Baez the same birthday (Jan. 9), but not all the time the same philosophy of life, once said that the greatest honor that could be bestowed upon a human being in a title of a peacemaker.

Needless to say that Christ inspired both of these two social activists to love peace more than anything else in the world.

President Clinton's philosophy, in his younger days, could be defined as: "Peace by peaceful means." I made that conclusion using Christ's dictum: "You will know them by their deeds." President Clinton, as a young man, rejected force and violence, rejected war, in the case of Vietnam as a means by which to solve international problems. Let us help our President to remain truthful to his youthful philosophy of life: "Peace by peaceful means."

Let us not forget that the American President is elected by representative of the entire human race, since America is pan-humanity. Hence, the American President, is, de jure and de facto, the President not only of the United States, but of the whole world.

That is why the American President would order the bombing of any country, as Truman did with Japan, the American President would do the same thing of what some people accuse President Hussein for having done—the American President would order bombing of his own people. And, if we truly believe that all humanity has the same common Father in Heaven, then the people of Iraq, including President Hussein, are our own brothers. Who-value than a galaxy of stars.

When the Pope of Rome, John Paul II, came to America for the first time, he visited the United Nations. And, on that occasion, he offered prayers "for every man on Earth."

Our Heavenly Father, who as the Father of Love, by any standards, religious or not, wants us to reconcile with another and thus reconciled to reconcile with Him.

God bless America, God bless Iraq, God bless the world, God bless President Clinton, God bless Kofi Annan and God bless President Hussein.

JENNESS ANSWERS 2000TH ROLE CALL

Rep. William Jenness celebrated his 52nd birthday, answering his 2,000th consecutive role call in the Massachusetts House of Representatives. His perfect roll call record was the first in the 176-year history of the Massachusetts legislature. He'd never missed a roll call since he was elected to the legislature in 1945 to represent the First Norfolk District.

As city councillor, (first elected in 1938) he also had a perfect roll call record. He served three years as council president, and also served as acting mayor.

As an elected official he was particularly concerned with expanding the city's off-street parking, cleaning up the pollution in Quincy Bay and expanding the protection of the waterfront with the construction of seawalls.

QUINCY-ISMS

Marathon runner Johnny Kelley was teaching English at North Quincy High School. . . James Asher of WJDA was named head of the civil defense agency. . . Assistant football coaches at QHS were Tony Quintiliani, Marty Finnegan and John Chrusciel. . . Tributes were paid to the late labor leader Gerald Hurley, who served on the board of the Quincy Housing Authority. . . Former city councillor David Crowley, who was known as the father of Quincy public housing, was mentioned as a replacement for Hurley on the QHA board. . . The North Quincy K of C's 35th anniversary celebration was planned for the Neighborhood Club. . . The planning board recommended purchase of the Craig property at 127 Franklin St. to enlarge the land surrounding the Presidents' birthplaces. . . Co-Chairmen Selected For Beechwood Fundraiser Donald Uvanitte and Helen Gallahue Irvin of Quincy have been named co-chairmen of the Development Committee charged with planning the Annual Fundraiser for Beechwood Community Life Center.

Known as the "Hungry Ones," the annual event will take place Wednesday, April 1 from 6 to 9:30 p.m. at the Quincy Neighborhood Club, 27 Glendale Rd. The April Fool's Day event, with a Mardi Gras theme, will feature a raffle, silent and live auctions, and a "mystery guest."

Proceeds will benefit Beechwood's Multi-Purpose Senior Center, which includes the Quincy Alzheimer's Association, support groups, Be-Fit and activity programs, the city-wide Elder Home Repair Program, Senior Olympics, arts and music programs, and intergenerational performances and activities.

"The demand for inter-generational services is growing every day. More and more families are looking to Beechwood for help," Uvanitte said. "The $20,000 we expect to raise on April 1 will launch Beechwood's development year and serve as 'challenge' monies for additional resources."

Last year the $15,000 in proceeds generated $30,000 (with matching grants), making it possible for Beechwood to provide expanded services for seniors "at risk," including the installation of smoke detectors and grab bars.

Beechwood, located at 440 East Squantum St., is a private non-profit, multi-purpose intergenerational center, governed by a volunteer board of community leaders, and is 98 percent self-supporting.

For more information, call 471-5712.

Memorial Plaque At Quincy Hospital

You can remember a loved one or honor a friend by putting their name on the Quincy Hospital Auxiliary plaque in the Hunting Hall of Founders at the hospital.

Name plates cost $85 each and become a permanent part of the auxiliary plaque.

The Hunting Hall of Founders recognizes the contributions of the many individuals, businesses and organizations who have provided financial support to Quincy Hospital over the years. It is named for Dr. Nathaniel S. Hunting, a member of the medical staff of Quincy Hospital since 1890, who became the first Chief of Staff when the City of Quincy assumed responsibility for the hospital in 1919.

Proceeds from name plate contributions help support the Quincy Hospital Auxiliary, which raises funds for equipment and services benefiting patient care at Quincy Hospital.

To place an order for a name plate in memory of or to honor a family member or friend, call Natalie Fossati in the hospital gift shop at 376-5509.

OF ALL THE GOOD REASONS TO HAVE SURGERY AT QUINCY HOSPITAL, THIS ONE'S THE CHIEF.

When you or a member of your family needs an operation, you want the most skilled doctors in attendance. At Quincy Hospital, you can be confident that they are. For example, there's our new Chief of Surgery, Dr. Craig Donaldson, who comes to us from our new surgical affiliate, Brigham and Women's Hospital, where he is Vice Chairman of Surgery. Board Certified in General and Vascular Surgery, he is an Associate Professor of Surgery at his alma mater, Harvard Medical School. Just as important, however, is Dr. Donaldson's dedication to providing quality medical care to everyone in our community.

There's a new commitment to excellence in all areas of Quincy Hospital. Dr. Donaldson is one chief example.

Comprehensive Assessment System Topic At Beechwood School

An informational meeting on the upcoming Massachusetts Comprehensive Assessment System will be held Wednesday, April 1 at 7:30 p.m. at Beechwood Knoll School, 225 Fenno St., Wollaston.

This spring, all Massachusetts fourth, eighth and 10th graders will take challenging new tests in English, mathematics, and science and technology.

Quincy Public Schools elementary school parents are invited to attend the meeting about the new MCAS tests.

Some facts about the tests:
*For the first time, rigorous state academic standards will be used to measure how well students are doing.

*For the first time, individual scores on the state tests will be reported for students in Grades 4, 8 and 10.

*Beginning with the Class of 2003, students will have to pass a 10th grade test in order to graduate.

It is hoped that with the 1998 test results as a starting point to measure progress, taxpayers will begin to see the results of the state's $1 billion investment in schools since the passage of the Education Reform Act of 1993.

William Guenther from Mass Insight Education and Research Institute Inc. and Dr. Janet DiTullio, director of curriculum in the Quincy Public Schools will speak at the meeting. A question and answer session will follow.

Coffee Shop License Suspended Indefinitely

The Quincy License Board Tuesday, suspended indefinitely a common victualer license of The Bean Routine, 299 Newport Ave. for operating a business without an occupancy permit since November, 1997.

Also for violation of closing hours, overcrowding the restaurant and having a five piece band on Feb. 21, without an entertainment or cabaret license.

The coffee shop will no longer be able to present entertainment.

Owner Michael Condon told the board he was "confused" because he has an entertainment license at his other store in Quincy Center.

Ward 3 Councillor Pat McDermott tried to sway the board into not revoking the license of the establishment, by singing the praises of the coffee shop geared for the younger generation.

Board chairman Joseph Shea said he didn't like the word "revoke" anyway and that the board would prefer "suspension" as a better word.

Building inspector Walter White reprimanded Condon for jeopardizing his insurance coverage by opening without an occupancy permit, or a plumbing inspection and final inspection permit thus placing the patrons in "serious jeopardy" as well.

Police Chief Thomas France commended Det. Sgt. Robert Perchard and said the department and the residents "owe Perchard a debt of gratitude" for recognizing the violations at the shop before a tragedy occurred.

Condon said he was having a problem with the contractor finishing the job.

However, Fire Chief Thomas Gorman told Condon the board had "no other choice" and said "you can't open the door without an occupancy permit". He added "you're closed, that's the end of it."

He suggested Condon hire someone else to finish the job.

Shea said in addition to not having entertainment, Condon would have to abide by the original plan of closing at 7 p.m. instead of 11 p.m.

It was not known how long it would take for Condon to complete all of the work before a final inspection permit is issued.

When you see the doctor, how do you want the doctor to see you?

When you're a parent, you want the best health care for yourself as well as for your family. You see protecting their health and yours as one of the most important things you can do.

At Harvard Vanguard Medical Associates, we see that, too. Our primary care doctors, pediatricians and specialists know you want to be involved in any decisions that affect your health or that of your child. That's why you can turn to us with any questions you have, from preventive care to special needs to advice on child rearing. It's also why we offer an all-night nurse advice line, extended evening appointments, and evening and weekend urgent care hours.

Because when it comes right down to it, you can't think of anything more important than your family's health. And, as a matter of fact, neither can we. To find a doctor who sees things the way you do, call 1-888-876-HVMA.

Harvard Vanguard Medical Associates accepts the plans of Harvard Pilgrim Health Care as well as most traditional insurances.

Cleaner, Greener Quincy Open Forum April 2

Mayor James Sheets announces the City of Quincy will kick-off its ninth annual Cleaner, Greener Quincy program with an open forum Thursday, April 2.

The pre-event rally will be held in the City Council Chambers at City Hall, beginning at 7 p.m.

At the forum, Sheets will announce major improvements to the Cleaner, Greener Quincy program. Audience members will be allowed to ask questions and offer recommendations on how to keep the city cleaner and greener. In addition, the mayor will unveil the newly-designed Cleaner, Greener Quincy t-shirt. All intending to participate in the cleanup are encouraged to attend.

"The Cleaner, Greener forum will allow residents an opportunity to display the civic pride that has made this program a success for the past eight years. Only through the generous assistance of our volunteers have we all been able to enjoy a cleaner and greener city. I respectfully request and appreciate the continued participation of all our volunteers," said Sheets.

The cleanup will be held Saturday, May 9. It will begin at 9 a.m. at various locations throughout the city. Specific locations will be announced at a later date.

After the cleanup, Sheets and the City Council will host an appreciation barbecue for volunteers at the Richard J. Koch Family Park & Recreation Complex in Merrymount Park, beginning at 12:30 p.m. All volunteers will be invited to join the mayor and the city councillors for hot dogs, hamburgers, soda and games.

Rain date for the event is Saturday, May 16.

"Even after eight successful seasons, there is still more we can do to make Quincy cleaner and greener. We will expand on the program this year to help nurture the Cleaner, Greener spirit throughout the year. The Cleaner, Greener Forum will be the first of many new events that will result in the overall aesthetic improvement of our great city" said Sheets.

For more information on Cleaner, Greener Quincy, call 376-1251.

Real answers on crime

"With more kids trying heroin, it's time we tried some fresh ideas."

— Jack Corrigan

Heroin use by our young people is growing. But our appointed District Attorney brought only three indictments for heroin sales in Norfolk County in all of 1997!

Jack Corrigan is running for DA because he knows we can do a lot better.

"Heroin use — especially by young people — is up nationally, and in Norfolk County," former Assistant District Attorney Corrigan explains. "Our current DA has been slow to act to protect kids from this growing threat, despite bigger budgets and a decrease in other crimes."

Zero wire taps in 1997

Not only did the well-connected Republican appointed to be our DA issue only three indictments for heroin sales last year, he reported using no wire taps to help arrest heroin dealers!

Jack Corrigan knows we have powerful investigative resources, including wire taps, but we must be far more aggressive in using them to prosecute heroin dealers. Corrigan said: "With the drug market shifting to heroin, we must shift our strategies as well."

"Heroin use on rise in south suburbs"

— Patriot Ledger headline 6/22/96

Saving kids from addiction

Jack Corrigan also knows prevention is as important as prosecution. "We need to reach kids experimenting with heroin early, and treat them before they are lost to addiction and crime. That means enlisting and educating students, teachers, parents, coaches, police and others in this fight," he explains.

"I'll also work for tougher laws dealing with addicts once they are arrested so we can force convicted addicts into treatment and drug test them regularly at their own expense. Every time an addict on parole or probation tests positive, they'll be subjected to increasingly tough punishments — a day, a week, a month in jail — until they break their cycle of addiction."

"...users are younger, whiter, and more suburban..."

— "The New Face of Heroin" Boston Globe Magazine 6/8/97

Tougher penalties for heroin dealers.

"Today, laws against selling heroin are too weak. Penalties are too low and it takes massive quantities to trigger a mandatory sentence. As DA I'll push for tougher penalties for heroin traffickers, and use the tough new law to attack the hierarchies of heroin distribution."

Experience and innovation.

As Assistant District Attorney for nearly eight years, Jack Corrigan was Chief Prosecutor in Bill Delahunt's Civil Rights Unit, and Chief Prosecutor in the White Collar Crime Unit. He also managed the office's $5 million budget, while carrying a full caseload of major felony cases in Superior Court. An honors graduate of Harvard and Harvard Law School, Jack has what it takes to restore innovation and excellence to the Norfolk County District Attorney's office.

Think we can't do better fighting crime and drugs? You don't know Jack.

New Treatment Available For Menopausal Symptoms

(NAPS)—According to a recent nationwide survey, nearly 50 percent of women turn to medical treatments to help with the symptoms of menopause.

While there have been oral hormone replacement therapies on the market for years, a new treatment option for the relief of hot flashes and night sweats is now available by prescription: a low-dose skin patch, FemPatch® (estradiol transdermal system) can offer relief of moderate to severe menopausal vasomotor symptoms at only a .025 milligram dose per day, a strength unavailable until now in a patch.

"A low-dose transdermal estradiol patch is an effective new treatment option for physicians," said Gloria A. Bachmann, M.D., professor and chief in the division of General Obstetrics and Gynecology at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey—Robert Wood Johnson Medical School in New Brunswick, N.J. "Physicians who have menopausal patients requiring low-dose estrogen will find it to be a beneficial choice."

There are about 20 million women in the U.S. between the ages of 45 and 60; the age range when menopause typically occurs. While menopause is a process that occurs over time, the length of time it can last varies from woman to woman.

FemPatch, manufactured by Cynos Therapeutic systems, was introduced by Parke-Davis, a division of Warner-Lambert Company.

As with other estrogen replacement therapies, FemPatch may not be suitable for all patients and should not be used by women with any known or suspected pregnancy, breast cancer or estrogen-dependent neoplasia; undiagnosed abnormal genital bleeding; active thrombophlebitis; or thromboembolic disorders.

For more information about FemPatch or menopause, see your doctor.

NEWS OF EDUCATION

Celebrating 35 Years Of Dental Education

(NAPS)—Here's news that continues to put a smile on the face of America's students.

During National Children's Dental Health Month, the Crest First Grade School Program celebrates its 35th anniversary of providing dental education to elementary school students.

The program teaches first graders in more than 50,000 schools nationwide the importance of oral care, including proper brushing and flossing techniques. So far, the program has helped one hundred million children. It also annually reaches one million children in China.

As part of the celebration, Crest is kicking off a search for "Sparkling Crest Songs." Kids nationwide can enter the search by writing their own lyrics and putting to music the important oral hygiene information they have learned through the program.

The song search began in Bloomington, MN, where students from the Valley View Elementary School sang their sparkling songs with Marc Summers, a popular children's game show host.

Children in grades one through six can submit videotapes of their musical accounts. Entries will be accepted until March 31, 1998; three finalists from each grade will win $100 savings bonds and the chance to compete for two Grand Prizes.

Each Grand Prize includes two round-trip tickets to Los Angeles to tour Universal Studios and meet Marc Summers. Grand Prize winners will be announced in June.

Geena the Giraffe, star of Crest's educational video, helps Crest celebrate 35 years of teaching children the basics of good dental care through the Crest First Grade School Program.

The winners' respective schools will receive up to $1,500 in new computer equipment and a scientific tooth model for their student's winning songwriting efforts.

To commemorate this anniversary, Crest has also brought back red plaque disclosing tablets, a cornerstone of the program in the 60s and 70s. Teachers will distribute the chewable red tablets to help students identify plaque they missed during brushing. For more information or complete contest rules, call 800-379-4183, visit the Crest Web site at www.dental-care.com, or write to Aimee Jasculca c/o Manning Selver Drive, Suite 440, Chicago, IL 60601.

Orthodontic Q&A

By DR. FRED ATTARZADEH

In general, tooth position can be improved at practically any age. While we tend to associate orthodontic treatment with children, age is not a limiting factor because the tissues involved in the movement of teeth are the same in both children and adults.

The orthodontist, as a skilled professional with at least two years of continuous advanced training in an orthodontic program, is best qualified to evaluate your specific condition and to provide a detailed program of corrective treatment.

The questions and answers below should give you some insight into the field of orthodontics for adults. They are not meant to answer all the questions you might have about your specific situation. Your particular malocclusion can best be analyzed by an orthodontist.

If you have seen children successfully complete orthodontic treatment, you're aware of the remarkable changes—both in appearance and state of mind—that take place. Changes so remarkable, you may have wondered if orthodontics is possible for adults, too.

Not only is adult orthodontics possible, it is becoming a large part of orthodontics service each year. To help you evaluate your own situation, here are answers to questions most often asked of orthodontists:

What kind of problems can be helped?

Spaces between the front teeth...protruding front teeth...tipping of teeth into a space that was not kept open after premature extraction or loss of a tooth...and teeth that for any reason have assumed abnormal positions in the mouth; all can be helped by adult orthodontics. Treatment may also be necessary in preparation for other dental care or for problems of the jaw joints, which could include facial pain or severe headaches.

What will happen if nothing is done?

Most conditions do not improve without treatment. In fact, they usually become worse. Again, your specific condition can best be determined by consultation with an orthodontist.

Are there any drawbacks?

The patient should be aware that there are some inconveniences connected with orthodontic treatment. Many hours of time are required for transportation and office visits. There may be occasional discomfort following placement of appliance or adjustments during treatment. The patient may be self-conscious at first and, for a time, may have slight difficulty in talking or eating. The cooperation of the patient between visits is essential, and can ensure that problems will be few.

Do the long-range benefits outweigh the drawbacks?

You be the judge. The most important benefits to the patient are on improved facial appearance, increased self-esteem, and a healthier mouth. And don't forget the smile on the patient's face—that's for keeps!

How long will treatment take?

Depending upon the complexity of the situation, and the level of patient cooperation; active treatment time can vary from as little as several months to two years or longer. Most patients then remain under the supervision of an orthodontist for several additional years to assure that their teeth remain in stable alignment.

How much will it cost?

Fees for treatment vary widely, depending on the severity of the problems and with length of treatment time. Many cases require limited treatment at relatively inexpensive fees. The orthodontist welcomes the opportunity to discuss fees on an individual basis before treatment begins.

Pointers For Parents Counting The Benefits of School Breakfast

(NAPS)—The most important feeling working parents can have is the security that they're doing their very best for their children.

Although working parents know only so much can be done in any day, many have found a time-efficient way to get their children's day off to a nutritious start.

Providing a complete breakfast may be considered a luxury on hectic mornings, but the habit of missing morning meals can compromise a lifetime of good health.

Many resourceful parents have turned to the School Breakfast Program to help their families keep healthy eating a priority and to get that extra 15 minutes at home in the morning. National School Breakfast Week, March 2-6, celebrates the benefits school breakfast offers families.

"Busy parents should know that their children can receive nutritious, good-tasting meals in the social setting of school each and every morning," says Tab Forge, M.S., R.D., vice president of Nutrition Marketing, National Dairy Council® (NDC). "The national School Breakfast Program helps families with kids who don't eat breakfast at home because they aren't hungry first thing in the morning, they don't have time to eat, or they want to eat with their friends."

School breakfasts are designed to provide about one-fourth of a student's daily needs for key nutrients like bone-building calcium.

More families are taking advantage of school breakfast. A recent report from Washington, D.C.-based Food Research and Action Center found that 72.4 percent of 93,000 U.S. schools that offer lunch now offer breakfast as well. A decade ago, only 40 percent of those schools served breakfast.

Educators feel that this

Many resourceful parents have turned to a school breakfast program to help their kids get off to a nutritious start.

growth may be linked to research showing breakfast eaters perform better in the classroom.

It is well documented that children who have a meal each morning enter the classroom ready to concentrate on their studies. They are also less likely to misbehave, skip class or request sick visits to the nurse.

During National School Breakfast Week, events such as invite-your-parents-to-school-breakfast mornings and theme days like "breakfast around the world" are planned to showcase the creativity, healthfulness and fun of school meals.

NDC and the American School Food Service Association (ASFSFA) have made promotional materials and helpful tips available to schools.

"Schools are planning exciting activities to interest students entering the cafeteria. Now it's up to parents and their children to take advantage of school breakfast," says Melinda Turner, ASFSFA president. "The benefit to kids' health and the family lifestyle really add up."

Six Physicians Join Cancer Care Network

Commonwealth Hematology-Oncology, P.C., in Quincy has added six area physicians to its private practice cancer care network.

The physicians, who specialize in hematology-oncology, are: Dr. Jack Evjy, Dr. Harvey Finkel, Dr. Paul Spieler, Dr. Jason Mann, Dr. Yamil Kouri, and Dr. Boris Karpovsky. Previously, they practiced with Oncology & Hematology Associates, Inc.

Dr. Evjy is president of the Massachusetts Division of the American Cancer Society, president-elect of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and clinical professor of medicine at Boston University School of Medicine.

Dr. Finkel is director of Somerville Hospital's Oncology-Hematology Clinic, co-director of Deaconess-Waltham Hospital's Oncology-Hematology Unit, and clinical professor of medicine at Boston University School of Medicine.

Dr. Spieler is past president of the Medical Staff at Anna Jacques Hospital and is also on the staffs of Hale Hospital and Holy Family Hospital & Medical Center.

Dr. Mann is on the staff of Melrose-Wakefield Hospital and is clinical instructor of medicine at Boston University and Tufts University School of Medicine.

Dr. Kouri is medical director of the Cancer Management Center at Holy Family Hospital & Medical Center and is also on the staffs of Lawrence General Hospital and Parkland Medical Center.

Dr. Karpovsky is on the staffs of Boston Regional, Malden, Whidden, and Winchester Hospitals.

The mission of Commonwealth Hematology-Oncology is to provide patients with the highest quality of care for cancer and blood diseases in the cost-effective manner. The practice is joining with leading cancer specialists to form the most comprehensive cancer care network in Massachusetts.

Atherton Hough Students Visit Museum Of Science's 'Starlab'

MUSEUM OF SCIENCE'S "Starlab," an inflatable traveling planetarium, was recently visited by students from the Atherton Hough School at nearby Most Blessed Sacrament Hall in Houghs Neck. Students Danielle Bolling and Samantha Shaw crawl out of the dome, which measures 12 feet tall and 25 feet wide, with the assistance of teacher Andrea Goodman. Looking on at left is Karen Flateau of the Museum of Science in Boston.

LOOKING OVER SKYCHARTS from the Museum of Science are Atherton Hough School students Lambros Papalambus and Emily Gaeta during the recent trip to the museum's "Starlab" planetarium.

Off To Good Start Project Hero Reaches $4,700 In First Week

Project Hero, a community campaign to raise $50,000 to purchase new life-saving equipment for the Quincy Fire Department is off to a good start.

In its first week, the campaign launched by Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn, III and co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun reached the $4,700 mark.

The $50,000, when raised, will enable the Fire Department to buy two thermal imaging units, complex helmets which enable firefighters to see through thick, dark smoke and flames and make it easier to find and rescue occupants in a house or other buildings fires.

First to step forward with a donation was the Quincy Rotary Club with the presentation made by Rotary President Lynne Houghton.

The Rotary Club was quickly followed by Mark Ryan of Able Restoration Inc., Joe Shaddock of the Shaddock Financial Group, Jay Eckblom of President's Press, Peter Palmer of Petar's Automotive Inc. and Atty. Thomas Williams of the law office of Thomas F. Williams.

All were designated "Quincy heroes" for their Project Hero contributions.

"As the only fire restoration company in Quincy, my business works closely with the Quincy Fire Department," said Ryan.

"I am happy to contribute to such a great cause that enables the fire department to work with the state-of-the-art technology that it needs to protect the people of Quincy."

Flynn, who is chairman of Project Hero, said:

"I am thrilled with the initial response that we have received after our first week. I hope people continue to see the importance of this project and that donations continue so that we may reach our goal as soon as possible."

The Quincy Sun each week is donating a full-page public service advertisement to document the process of the campaign and to thank those who contribute.

In addition, The Sun is also covering the progress of the project with news stories.

To make a donation, send a check payable to Project Hero, P.O. Box 116, North Quincy, MA 02171.

Southern Artery Name Change Takes First Step

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The Quincy Park Department's plan to rename a portion of Southern Artery "Merrymount Parkway" by sometime this spring took the first necessary step Monday night at a City Council public hearing.

Park Department Executive Director Thomas Koch, the only person to voice an opinion of the hearing, spoke in favor of the plan. The council has to approve the name change by amending a city ordinance and will vote on the matter at a later date.

Koch first told The Quincy Sun about the department's proposal last month.

Koch told The Sun at that time that the idea of the name change—which would affect Southern Artery from Hancock Street to Furnace Brook Parkway—coincides appropriately with the department's master plan for historical renovations to the park.

Koch noted that the park, donated to the city by Charles Francis Adams in 1885, was dissected in 1928 when the state decided to build Route 3A, which includes Southern Artery. He said the feeling at the Park Department is the name change makes sense in conjunction with the other work planned.

"In our effort to restore the park, we felt we should take advantage with this," he said. "Southern Artery was originally part of the park."

In addition to the name change, that portion of Southern Artery would receive additional trees and flower beds to beautify the area. Other changes that would make the roadway safer—including a lower speed limit and/or a traffic signal near Collins Rest-A-While and Veterans Memorial Stadium—are also a possibility.

No residential homes will be affected by the name change.

In fact, the only address change will be that of the Park Department, currently located at 100 Southern Artery. He said that change will be a welcome one, because the mail for the department sometimes goes to the senior citizens complex at 1000 Southern Artery—and vice versa.

LICENSE BOARD BRIEFS

The Quincy License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting.

*Granted a permit to Fiesta Shows to conduct their annual First Night Carnival April 28 through May 3 at Faxon Field.

*Granted a common victualer and cabaret license to Coffee Break Cafe, Inc. 77 Parkingway formerly the Electric Beach (in Pat Flanagan's building). The cafe was formerly on Old Colony Ave.

*Granted a one day permit to the American Legion Honor Society of Woman Legionnaires, to hold a yard sale at the DPW parking lot, 55 Sea St. Saturday, May 16 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

*Granted a one day permit to Bethany Congregational Church, 18 Speak St. to hold a yard sale on the church lawn, Saturday, May 16 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

*Granted a one day liquor license to the Filipino Apostolate of South Shore for a dinner dance at the Sacred Heart School Auditorium April 18 from 7 p.m. to 12 midnight.

*Allowed a transfer of ownership and license of Furnace Brook Gas & Variety, 507 Furnace Brook Pkwy. from Leo Gaquin to Elie Youssef.

*Adopted the new proposed requirements that Quincy Liquor Establishments be required to renew all licenses early in December each year and late payments assessed a fee.

*A notice of appeal from Shaw's Supermarket 475 Hancock St. to appear at the ABCC April 22 at 2 p.m. was sent to the license board, which had voted 3-2 against the license several months ago.

Quincy Veterans Home Formally Opens April 9

Mayor James Sheets announces the formal opening of the Quincy Veterans Home, 191 Burgin Parkway, will be held Thursday, April 9 at 11 a.m.

The event is being held in conjunction with National Community Development Week (April 6-12) and will include a luncheon reception.

The house came into being as the result of a collaborative effort between public, private and not-for-profit agencies.

Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, a non-profit developer, acquired and renovated the formerly condemned and boarded-up building and transformed it into eight units of affordable housing for single homeless veterans. The Quincy Planning Department administered federal funding for the project. The building is now owned and managed by the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition, and Quincy Veterans Services will provide support services for the residents of the house.

The project was funded by: Eastern Bank (formerly The Hibernia Bank), which contributed $125,000; federal CDBG and HOME funds and state HOME funds, $110,000 apiece; Federal Home Loan Bank, $60,000; Bank of Boston, State Street Bank and The Painters Union Local 35, $10,000 each; The Brooks Foundation, $7,500; and The Raytheon Foundation, $5,000.

HUD McKinney funds will pay the operating expenses of the house for the next 10 years.

The following individuals and groups also contributed to the development of the Veterans House:

Quincy Housing Authority, Peterson Associates, South Shore Habitat for Humanity, Atty. Jay Davis, BankBoston, Colonial Federal Savings Bank, E & L Security, Gensler Corp., Citizens Bank, Michael O'Brien Construction, and BFI.

Also, the homeless of Father Bill's Place, Arthur Tucker, Paul Cooney, Fran Donovan, The Sokoloves, Donald Barry, Bruno Debas, Quincy Park Department and the American Ex-Prisoners of War, S.E. Mass. Chapter.

Women's Realtors Program March 30

The Adjustable Rate Mortgage May Be What You're Looking For

By CAROL BULMAN

If you want the advantage of a low initial interest rate, an Adjustable Rate Mortgage (ARM) may be just what you're looking for.

The ARM is an innovative and extremely useful financial instrument and has gained increased popularity over the past decade. With this kind of loan, the interest rate changes at predetermined intervals based upon an index which reflects the current money market rate. The change in interest rate will also change your monthly payment.

Here are a few garden variety ARMs that lenders can offer you:

One-Year ARM

Usually priced 2 1/2 percent below the 30-year fixed rate mortgage with its rate indeed to the one-year Treasury bill or the cost of funds. Under this program, your interest rate could not increase or decrease by more than two percent in any given year or six percent over the life of the loan.

CAROL BULMAN
President, Conway
Financial Services

Three-Year ARM

Pegged at a little higher rate than the one-year but still less than the 30-year fixed. Your initial interest rate is locked in for the three year period before adjustments take effect.

Five-Year ARM

A higher rate than the one- or three-year note, but sometimes still below the 30-year fixed rate. Your initial interest rate is locked in for five years before the adjustment period.

The Positive Aspects of the ARM

•The loan starts out lower than the current fixed rates.

•The money you save by paying less interest can be invested in the money markets.

•Should the interest rates increase in the future, you may also receive higher returns on your investments.

•Even if your interest rate increases in the future, your earnings may have also increased to keep pace with the higher payments, allowing you an affordable starting rate.

•ARMs can be less expensive than a fixed rate mortgage over an extended period of time. Since ARMs rates are traditionally lower than the fixed rate quoted for the same period, you may continue to benefit from an ARM if rates remain stable.

•Should interest rates go down in the future, your payment could also be reduced when your loan comes for rate review. This would eliminate the need to refinance to obtain a lower interest rate. Refinancing can involve paying settlement costs at the time the new loan is closed.

•ARMs may offer the protection of interest "caps" which guard against substantial interest rate changes. Usually an ARM will have a maximum cap on how much the interest rate can charge for each review period, and a maximum interest rate for the life of the loan.

With an adjustable rate mortgage (ARM) it is always important to bear in mind that you could experience an increase in your future payments if the rates should go up. So the task is to weigh the "positives" of an adjustable rate mortgage against the potential "negatives." If you are a shrewd and flexible home buyer who can offset the fluctuations of the mortgage markets against investments, the ARM may be just the program for you. If not, leave Las Vegas for the stout at heart, and stick with good old mashed potatoes and gravy—the "no surprises" fixed rate mortgage.

Delahunt To Keynote Housing Forum March 30

Congressman Bill Delahunt will keynote a regional forum on the imperative of creating and maintaining affordable rental housing in southeastern Massachusetts.

The forum, co-sponsored by a consortium of Cape Cod and South Shore non-profit housing groups, will be held Monday, March 30 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the Sheraton Inn in Plymouth.

Delahunt said the conference will seek to address how the region's continuing population growth affects Southeastern Massachusetts residents of modest means. The forum will examine public policies impacting multi-family housing and transportation, and how these policies relate to market forces affecting the local business climate.

The session will feature a panel discussion of representatives from state and federal agencies that finance housing construction, including the Department of Housing and Community Development, Massachusetts Housing Partnership Fund, and Federal Home Loan Bank.

Kennedy Memorial Run June 13 At The Stadium Friends Unite To Battle Debilitating Disease

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Rich Kennedy watched helplessly as his father, Christopher, a Quincy School Committeeman, and youngest brother, Jimmy, suffered and died from ALS and decided enough was enough.

His childhood friend, Martin Levenson, was also frustrated to look on as vital, active people like the Kennedys withered away and wanted to do something to fight the degenerative disease.

But what could they do, since there is no known cause or cure for ALS (Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis), better known as Lou Gehrig's disease?

"We wanted to get active and somehow beat this disease," said Levenson, a classmate of Rich Kennedy's at North Quincy High School, Class of 1977. "We went to meetings of the local ALS chapter, and saw that they needed help fund-raising. From our love of running, we decided to organize a memorial race, in the spirit of Jimmy."

Kennedy and Levenson's brainstorm will soon become a reality, as the first Jimmy Kennedy Memorial Run for ALS (AKA "The Squirrel Run"), will be held Saturday, June 13 at 11 a.m. at Veterans' Memorial Stadium in Wollaston.

"We want it to be a big first year and make it an annual event," said Levenson, a Quincy native. "This is for the city, in the city. Our goal is to make it the biggest race in the city."

The 5-mile race, which will start and finish at the Stadium, is being billed as a day-long family event with activities for all ages. Relay races, water balloon fights, pony rides and a petting zoo are among the activities planned for children.

Levenson said their goal is to attract 500 runners and make it an annual event in the city to help find a cure for ALS.

The two friends knew organizing a race would take enormous amounts of their time and energy, but that was not about to deter this determined duo.

"The easiest part was deciding to do it," said Levenson. "It's much bigger than I expected, in terms of permits and costs. It's a large challenge, but when I starting thinking of Rich's father and brother, there's that underlying sadness. From that, you push forward and keep going."

According to Kennedy, getting people involved has not been difficult.

"Whenever I speak to someone who's lost someone close to ALS, there's an automatic bond," he said. "Those who lose someone close to it care enough to do something."

Also getting involved are current and former patients of Kennedy's and his brother, John, at Kennedy Brothers Physical Therapy in Boston.

"We also have run the Christmas in the City charity for years and got 700 volunteers during our Christmas party," added Kennedy. "On a separate level, my father's name is still well-known in Quincy, by officials who worked with him and for him. They still know him and want to lend a hand."

Jimmy graduated from North Quincy in '84, so that's younger breed of people who knew him well and want to help out, too. You call one of them, they call 10 others and the word gets spread. That's so gratifying, that so many want to help out."

The Kennedy family's first exposure to Lou Gehrig's disease occurred in the late 1980s when the father, Christopher, came down with a serious illness.

"My father had brain tumors and went through surgery, chemotherapy and radiation, but didn't respond," said Kennedy. "Only through more testing did the doctors rule out everything else and diagnose ALS."

What is ALS?

"It's a progressive neurological disease that has its origin in the central nervous system," explained Kennedy. "It involves the wasting away of nerves which supply the muscles. You lose ability to function, which starts in fingers, continues to the hands, arms, limbs, legs, causing you to lose balance."

"You then lose the ability to swallow, then breathe. While all this is happening, you remain perfectly intelligent and cognizant of what's going on. The last thing to go is the brain."

Kennedy and his seven siblings, along with his mother, Mary, then witnessed the debilitating effects of ALS weaken his father to the point that he could no longer function on his own.

Christopher Kennedy, longtime Quincy resident, School Committeeman, Dean of Students at Northeastern University and Harvard graduate, died in 1989.

About five years later, the disease latched itself onto another member of the Kennedy clan, the youngest child, Jimmy.

"His eyes sparkled, even when he couldn't use anything," said Levenson. "I could see into his soul, and I knew he was still in there."

After a two-and-a-half year battle, Jimmy succumbed to ALS last April. Jimmy Kennedy, a lawyer who graduated from Northeastern University and Georgetown Law School, left behind a wife and a young son. He was 31.

Before Jimmy passed away, he and his brothers Rich and John shared a special moment that Rich will never forget.

It was the summer of 1996, and the Olympic Games were attracting a large audience in Atlanta, Ga. The Kennedys were track fanatics from way back, when Rich starred on NQHS track teams in the mid-1970s and Jim ran for the Red Raiders in the early 80s.

"His health was going rapidly downhill in the last year," said Kennedy. "With the Olympics going on, I thought it'd be great to take Jimmy there and have a good time. I have great patient connections, so we got tickets to the final night of track and field."

"Another patient heard about it, and booked us on a flight and another got us reservations at a hotel. It was phenomenal, a spur of the moment trip. It was also the last nice thing we did together."

Levenson continues the story: "My twin brother was at the Olympics at the same time, and he looked through his binoculars and saw Rich's face among the 80,000 in the stadium. He made his way over and it turned into a huge reunion. It was quite emotional and exciting for all of them."

Soon after, Billy Mills, an American Indian who won the gold medal in the 10,000 meter event at the 1964 Olympic Games, walks by the reunited group, who recognized the Olympian immediately.

"He was shocked we remembered him, and we asked if he'd pop up and say hello," said Kennedy. "He came up and sat with us through most of the event and had his picture taken with all of us, which was a huge thrill."

When his brother relayed the story back to him, Levenson was overwhelmed—to say the least.

"When my brother told me what had happened, I had tears in my eyes," he said. "The kindness that comes out of people is amazing."

Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston has set up a special laboratory devoted to ALS research, where all the money raised through the race will be donated.

"We need help—contributions, services, products, promotional work," said Levenson. "Anyone that can help us in any way is welcome to contact us. All the money is for a good cause—ALS research. Plus, it's tax-deductible."

To make a donation or for more information, write to Rich Kennedy at 5 Norman Todd Lane, Cohasset, MA 02025 or call him at (781) 383-6008.

Four Quincy, NQ Athletes Participate In National Girls And Women In Sport Day

Four Quincy and North Quincy High School female athletes participated in the Massachusetts celebration of the recent National Girls and Women In Sport Day at Faneuil Hall in Boston.

Erin Barry and Rebecca Mackey represented Quincy High, while Laurie Flynn and Kristen Keohane were North Quincy High's representatives. The athletes were chosen because they are positive contributing members of both their teams and their school.

The event, which is supported by the Department of Education and sponsored by New Agenda Northeast, Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association and the National Association for Girls and Women in Sport, is held to honor female athletes in the Commonwealth.

At Quincy High, Barry participates in volleyball, track and basketball and Mackey competes in soccer and basketball.

At North Quincy High, Flynn and Keohane both participate in soccer, basketball and softball.

DRIVE OR FLY?

According to a study recently released by the Department of Transportation, we Americans are still clearly in love with our cars. The government's first comprehensive look at Americans' long-distance traveling habits shows that they take about 1 billion long-distance trips (which is defined as 100 miles or more) per year. More than 75% of these trips are taken for vacations, to visit relatives and friends, and to attend to such personal matters as weddings and funerals. The real news is that 80% of these trips are taken in personal vehicles. Even on trips that covered between 500 and 999 miles, three travelers in four chose to take their cars instead of getting on a plane.

Our team at LEO & WALTS has earned a wonderful reputation from our many satisfied customers... your friends and relatives. We are your local full service auto repair shop and take pride in our workmanship and the service we offer. Make sure your car is in the best condition and safe before you begin that special trip. Stop in and visit us at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Count on us also for propane for grills, motor homes, and converted vehicles.

HINT: The study mentioned above shows that Americans prefer driving their cars to taking planes even on trips up to 2,000 miles.

Funeral arrangements were by the Dolan Funeral Home, Dorchester Lower Mills.

Warren Watson, 72
Crane Library Director 25 Years

A funeral Mass for Warren Watson, 72, of Quincy, was celebrated Tuesday in Star of the Sea Church.

Mr. Watson died March 20 at Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston.

He was the director of the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy for 25 years before his retirement in 1993.

Following Tuesday's funeral Mass, a reception in Mr. Watson's memory was held at the library, which otherwise was closed for the day.

During his tenure at the library, he initiated many improvements. He professionalized the staff, bringing in more employees with library science degrees. He oversaw the opening of the Adams Shore Library and helped found the Eastern Regional Library Services and Old Colony Library Network.

Mr. Watson also launched the program to build a $13 million addition to the library's main building. In 1987, he commissioned a space study that developed the plan for what the library needed and how much space it should have.

Land for the addition was not purchased until after his retirement, but he continued to stay involved. He served as chairman of the building committee and treasurer of the foundation formed to raise funds.

In addition, Mr. Watson helped return the library's Bookmobile to Quincy's streets.

Library Director Ann McLaughlin, who served as Watson's assistant, said a number of employees stayed at the Crane Library for many years "because he was such a pleasure to work for."

"I think everyone remembers him as a gentleman," she said. "He was polite, kind, and very helpful to everyone. He had a very rare quality in that he took great pride in his staff. You don't often get to work for somebody like that."

"One of his missions from the time he got here was the expansion of the library. That's one of the reasons everybody is so sad, because he didn't get to see it. We all loved him very much."

WARREN WATSON

A lifelong resident of Quincy, he graduated from North Quincy High School in 1943. He served as a U.S. Army Air Force aviation cadet from 1943 until 1944, when he was honorably discharged.

Mr. Watson then enrolled in Boston College, where he earned his bachelor's and science degrees.

From 1950 to 1959, Mr. Watson worked for news departments of a number of radio and television stations in Providence, R.I., and was also a freelance news and feature writer.

Mr. Watson began his library career in 1959 in the Boston Public Library. In 1960, he became head of night service operations of the Boston College libraries.

He was hired as assistant librarian in the Framingham town system, where he was involved in construction work and had major responsibility in the library staff's recruitment and development.

In 1962, after attending night classes for several years, he received a master's degree in library science from Simmons College. Two years later, he was named head of the Framingham system.

He was hired to serve as director of the Thomas Crane Public Library by Mayor James McIntyre in 1968.

Mr. Watson was active in the American Library Association and a former president of the Massachusetts Library Association.

He was an executive board member of the Quincy Retiree Association and co-editor of the newsletter.

He owned a plane and two boats and held various offices in the U.S. Power Squadron. He would have been installed as district commander this year.

SCOTT DEWARE

*A Thought
For The Week*

Of all God's gifts to man, laughter is one of the most subtle and is one of the most precious. It has neither nationality nor religion. As an equalizer, it has no equal. Even science which can do so many things cannot teach us to laugh. It has been said that mirth is from God, dullness from the devil. When we laugh we agree with God that all is good...

It would be a pretty inhuman world without laughter, but it would be a pretty frivolous world without serious thought, meditation and occasional weeping. Yes, one of the most wonderful gifts God has given man is the gift of humor; the ability to laugh and to see the funny side of things.

Humor can take the antagonism out of differences. It can promote a congenial atmosphere. It opens the line of communication and breaks down barriers. Some people can't express humor even though they appreciate it, just as some people appreciate good music even though they can't carry a tune...

Laughter is not the final solution to life's problems, but it eases many a difficult situation. A very wise person once commented that the most utterly lost of all days, is that in which you have not once laughed... Have you had your laugh today? ...

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Mental work doesn't go as well as anticipated. Also, judgment is off this week when it comes to spending on matters of pleasure. You uncharacteristically splurge for some reason.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It will be difficult this week to convince family members of the merit of a business project you're puruing. Try not to skim the surface. Be thorough and follow through on all details.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Even if principle is involved, remember that sometimes others simply forget what is expected of them. Small problems arise later in the week with friends. These are easily cleared up by the weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Avoid friction with higher-ups as the week begins. Projects around the house keep you busy. It's be a bit hard on one friend though there's a tendency to keep up with some of your high-stepping friends. You can't have it both ways. Make the more conservative choice and stick to a safer routine.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) After holding yourself in check for part of the week, there's a tendency to trip the light fantastic. However, you could spend a bit more than you'd anticipated. Take steps to correct this in order to avoid future not a good idea this weekend to get financially involved with a friend's investment scheme.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Although the social sector of your life is happily emphasized, you experience rivalry in romance or let jealous feelings come to the fore. Negativity is never VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) New ideas have you anxious to get started, but impatience could cause trouble with those around you. Still, you will get ahead. A weekend social outing proves fascinating.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Charm and persuasiveness serve you well this week. Still, in dealings with higher-ups, you have to gauge the situation carefully. Behavior must be appropriate.

Kevin Walsh's Heroics Lift St. Ann's To YMCA Hoop Championship

Kevin Walsh's two free throws with two seconds left lifted St. Ann's of Wollaston over St. John's, 44-43, in the finals of the recent YMCA Church School Basketball League David Division playoffs.

The victory capped an undefeated season for the St. Ann's team, which is comprised of 15- to 17-year-olds coached by Buzz Connolly.

The team was led by the scoring and playmaking of Walsh, the strong defense of Connor Quilty and Robby Bell and the all around play of Pat Mannion, Matt O'Mahoney and Pat Vasquez. Matt Lebo, Ishwar Mahadeo and Pat Foley made key contributions throughout the season.

Erin Duggan 14th At N.E. Track And Field Championship Meet

Erin Duggan, a senior at Bentley College in Waltham, registered a 14th-place finish in the mile at the recent New England Women's Track and Field Championships at Smith College.

A North Quincy High School graduate and Bentley's indoor track coach, Duggan also placed 17th in the 3,000 meter (10:51.21) in the predominantly Division I meet.

Duggan qualified for the Track and Field Championships with a 15th-place finish in both the mile (5:24.94) and 3,000 meter (10:42.17).

In an earlier meet, Bentley's distance relay team of Duggan, Michelle Djer, Khalilah Miller and Jackie Fay narrowly missed a school record at the Boston University Terrier Classic.

The foursome combined for a time of 12:59.01, missing the school record (set in 1987) by just 0.87 seconds.

turned away.

He said a five year felony will be issued for altering a driver's license.

Perchard said he would ask Mayor James Sheets to touch bases with Braintree, Weymouth and Milton, so that underage persons won't be able to purchase liquor out of the city.

In the package stores, there will be signs posted that will read "Warning: Police Officers May Be Posing as Store Employees."

He said there will be two billboards which will say: "Under 21: Try Buying Alcohol" and depicting an officer showing his badge."

concern, he said, since he does not yet know the exact nature of the residents who would live in the house. At least some of them would be living there because they were court-ordered to do so, he said.

Finally, McDermott said he opposes the plan because of the second-hand way in which he learned of it.

"It's like they tried to slip it in under the radar of the city," he said.

The "Sober House" is also opposed by neighbors, who picketed and circulated a petition against the plan at a recent open house at the site held by Malonson.

McDermott said he has asked the Zoning Board of Appeals to place the matter on its agenda so that it can hold a hearing to determine if the intended use of the house differs enough from the previous use to require a variance.

He added that the plan also will require the support of the Building Department and Fire Department and, ultimately, the License Board. The board would have the final say because a Rooming House License would be required before the "Sober House" could open. Traditionally, the board backs the ward councillor when it comes to neighborhood issues.

McDermott said the earliest date the License Board has available to consider the matter is March 31. He said he will voice his opposition when the proposal is brought before the board.

Actress Ruth Gordon was born Oct. 30, 1896 at 41 Winthrop Ave. in Wollaston. She later lived at 14 Elmwood Ave., which according to Quincy Historical Society Director Edward Fitzgerald is the same house now numbered 210 Arlington St. The house stands at the corner of the two streets.

Gordon enjoyed a successful stage, film and television career, the highlight of which was winning an Academy Award for Best Supporting Actress for her work in the 1969 film "Rosemary's Baby," directed by Roman Polanski.

During her career, she visited Quincy on a number of occasions, the last being Nov. 10, 1984 at the dedication of the Ruth Gordon Amphitheater off Southern Artery.

Although she planned to return again the following year, she never got the chance. Gordon died in August 1985 at the age of 88.

Brockton Official Hired To Run Quincy Authority

Sheets Pleased With New Housing Director Choice

The selection of a Brockton Housing Authority official as the new executive director of the Quincy Housing Authority has the enthusiastic support of Mayor James Sheets.

On Monday, the QHA Board of Commissioners unanimously voted to offer a three-year, $75,000-a-year contract to John "Jack" Mather, 53, a Halifax resident who currently serves as director of the Brockton Housing Authority's Office of Family Independence and Residential Initiatives.

Mather has 22 years of public housing experience. He is expected to begin work April 21.

One of four finalists for the position, Mather was selected after the QHA's first choice, Saugus Housing Authority Executive Director William Casamento, and the QHA board could not agree on the terms of a contract two weeks ago.

Sheets said he met with Mather and Rev. William Kimmell, chairman of the QHA board for about 45 minutes on Monday and noted that he is very pleased with the selection.

"I think Jack's going to do a good job," said Sheets. "I think he has the people skills to work well with the staff, the board and the tenants, and he certainly has enough administrative experience. He'll do an excellent job."

"I spoke to Brockton Mayor John Yunitz about Jack, and he was very impressed with him. He also thinks Jack will do a good job here."

Sheets said he would have liked someone from Quincy with the proper qualifications to get the position, but no such candidate was available.

At the Brockton Housing Authority—which has 3,100 units, compared to Quincy's 2,600—Mather established a program that helps authority tenants find jobs and save money so they can make the transition out of public housing. As a tenant's income increases, a portion of his or her earnings is put into a savings account by the authority so that the person can buy a home in the future.

Mather said he would like to establish such a program in Quincy.

Mather is chairman of the legislative committee of the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Organizations, an association of public housing officials.

In addition, he serves as Halifax's representative on the board of the Old Colony Planning Council and is a former commissioner of the Halifax Housing Authority.

Casamento turned down the Quincy job because he wanted at least a three-year contract, which never happened. He also said he felt a little insecure because only three of the five housing commissioners—Kimmell, Mary Kay Bamford and Christine Cedrone—voted to hire him, while board members Frank Kearns and James McDonald supported Lynne Houghton, a local real estate broker.

Kimmell said the board did not offer Casamento a three-year deal because the city received telephone calls from people who had worked with the Saugus director suggesting a long-term contract might not be in Quincy's best interests. There have been no such calls about Mather, he said.

Kimmell cited Mather's experience, people skills and compassion (the new director is a former Catholic priest) as being the main reasons he was hired, as well as his willingness to initiate new programs such as a computer program he started at the Brockton authority.

The fourth finalist for the QHA position—in addition to Mather, Casamento and Houghton—was Paul Bergeron, the QHA's director of finance.

Three Being Studied To Aid Fiscal Woes

Q. College Seeks Best Budget Plan

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Quincy College officials have begun discussing a preliminary draft of the Fiscal Year 1999 budget for the financially struggling, city-owned, two-year community college.

Dr. Jeremiah Ryan, college president, said at press time that he and "the entire Quincy College community" including faculty, staff, and the Board of Governors will be involved in the budget talks during which three spending plans will be considered.

The process, which began Wednesday, will last about six to eight weeks, he said, and the Board of Governors will hold a public hearing and vote on the budget May 18. The new fiscal year begins July 1.

Ryan said two weeks ago the college's Fiscal Year 1998 budget initially was $9.6 million but had to be decreased to $9.1 million because of lower-than-anticipated enrollment. The new budget will be about $8.6 million, he said, and layoffs of non-tenured and some tenured faculty will be necessary.

This week, Ryan said there are three scenarios college officials will consider when deciding how to utilize the Fiscal Year 1999 budget:

•Plan A would not provide funding for "strategic initiatives" such as the college's library, various

Leaf Pickup Begins April 13

The Quincy Department of Public Works announces the rules for leaf disposal for city residents this spring.

Leaves will be accepted curbside by a separate truck on regular trash days Monday, April 13 through Friday, April 24. If necessary, the pickup will be extended.

Leaves will be picked up curbside in barrels, boxes (free boxes are available at Hancock Tire and Appliance), and paper leaf composting bags available at Quincy supermarkets, convenience and hardware stores.

Yard waste and leaves are no longer accepting in plastic bags because:

•State law prohibits disposal of leaves/yard waste in landfills.

•BFI brings the leaves to the DPW yard for composting.

•Plastic bags (even "biodegradable" ones) do not break down in the pile.

•When plastic bags were cut open and emptied in the past they were left behind by the leaf crews (there was nowhere to dispose of them on the trucks), some people did not pick them up, and they wound up blowing down the streets where they had the potential to clog storm drains.

•Bringing plastic bags to the DPW yard and emptying them there would be full-time work for at least one or two men.

The city is not selling or giving away paper leaf bags.

HN Playground Renamed In Honor Of Fallen Son

The Macy Street Playground in Houghs Neck was renamed during a special ceremony last Saturday, Vietnam Veterans Day, in honor of the late Sgt. Lawrence Grenham.

More than 200 people attended the event in honor of Grenham, a Houghs Neck native who was killed in action March 28, 1967 in the jungles of Vietnam at the age of 19.

His two brothers, Lt. Col. Thomas Grenham, USAF and Robert Grenham, unveiled a black plaque with a bronze star identifying the playground as Lawrence Grenham Memorial Park.

Historic Books Stolen In 1996 To Be Treated For Damage

Adams Site Officials Still Seek 'Closure'

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Four Adams National Historic Site officials and a member of the Adams family have expressed relief that the man accused of stealing four historic books from the site in November 1996 has been indicted.

But although they feel satisfaction that the man is being brought to justice, they said they will not feel a true sense of closure until the books—which must be treated for water damage—are returned to their rightful place at the site's Stone Library next to the Adams Mansion on Adams Street.

The five made their comments last Friday, two days after the indictment of longtime suspect Kevin P. Gildea. He has been charged with four counts of theft—two for stealing and hiding “objects of cultural heritage,” and two for hiding government property.

U.S. Attorney Donald Stern has said Gildea probably will be arraigned within two weeks. If convicted, he could face 10 years in prison and a $250,000 fine on each count.

Meanwhile, the books—two of which were displayed at the Adams Site for two days after the indictment—have been brought to the Northeast Document Conservation Center in North Andover where they will receive varying amounts of repair and preservation for water damage.

folks will recommend to us whether they'll do it or have someone else do it. We're very pleased and relieved the books are in good hands,” said Marianne Peak, Adams Site superintendent. “It's nice to know they're going to be treated.”

Peak praised the efforts of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Quincy Police Department in locating the books, saying, “We had every assurance the books would be returned, we just didn't know when.” She added that she hopes the 1838 Mendi Bible owned by John Quincy Adams, the nation's sixth president, will be returned Hospital Officials To Speak At Montclair-Wollaston Assn.

Two Quincy Hospital officials will be guest speakers at a meeting of the Montclair-Wollaston Neighborhood Association tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at Work Inc., 3 Arlington St.

Speaking will be Renee Buissou, vice president of public relations and Mary-rose Mirick, director of development of the hospital's Health and Education Foundation.

The two will discuss what is happening currently at the hospital and where health care will be in the future.

Tired of big banks' "take-it-or-leave-it" attitude?

A big-city giant buys your bank. And—before you know it—fees go up, branches close, people disappear and they give you an 800 number that lets you queue up and wait to talk about your account. It's no fun! Want to escape? Come see us! We're Colonial Federal Savings Bank, a true neighborhood bank. (Yes, they do still exist!) We're strong, stable, independent and we can't be taken over or forced into a hostile merger. We have all the accounts those big-city banks offer—everything you need!—

plus something they don't seem to have time for...attentive service from friendly people! Take our “NOW Checking Account.” The minimum daily balance is only $250 ($100 with Direct Deposit) and you get your first order of checks free, a free ATM card, free telephone banking, nice people to deal with and you earn 1½% interest. It's easy to switch. And we'll take care of all the paperwork! Call Jaime or Judy at 617-471-0750. Or return the coupon and we'll get back to you!

Volunteers Needed At Quincy Hospital

Quincy Hospital has a variety of departments looking for people willing to donate four hours of their time on a regular volunteer basis.

Opportunities presently exist in the following areas:

- Filing of medical records, training provided, any day, any time up until 10 p.m.

- Reception Desk, greet visitors and patients and direct them to various hospital departments. A knowledge of basic computer skills, or willingness to learn is necessary. Openings available daily, 8:30 a.m. to noon; noon to 4 p.m.; and 4 to 8 p.m. Also available are Saturday evenings between 1 and 4 p.m. and 4 and 8 p.m.

- Cherry Gift Shop, preferably with cash register experience or an interest in learning. Meet new people while helping them select merchandise from collectibles to baby clothes.

- Medical Library; helping with light mailings, photocopying and helping keep book shelves organized.

For more information, call Karen Tufts at 376-5504.

What Would The Adamses Say?

Just thinking out loud:

I wonder what John Adams and John Quincy Adams would have to say if they were around to see today's goings-on in Washington.

George Bush recently diplomatically ducked when asked by a reporter what he thought about it all. "Heck, I don't want to get into that," he sidestepped the question.

JOHN ADAMS

JOHN QUINCY

CLINTON

But, I would be willing to bet that old John Adams and John Quincy would have given that reporter a good quote or two.

A no-nonsense father. A no-nonsense son. And, two no-nonsense, no hanky-panky presidencies.

I think Bill Clinton might have gotten a stern lecture at least.

Of course, there's that story about John Quincy Adams. Scandalous, some people thought back then. That's the one about him skinny dipping in the Potomac when he was in the White House as our sixth president.

As one version has it, a woman reporter one day spotted him splashing about and sat on his clothing on the river bank until he agreed to an interview.

Don't know how true that one is. Did they really have women reporters back then?

First Ladies can have their problems, too. Hillary hasn't gone away yet.

Funny, though, how those work sheets from that Little Rock law firm she was associated with disappeared for two years. And suddenly showed up on a table in the White House family living quarters.

But how quickly someone was able to put his or her hands on the Kathleen Willey letters.

Our own Abigail Adams had a problem as First Lady, too.

Some folks in Washington thought it was scandalous when she hung her laundry in the East Room.

But, she was just being practical, New England style. She and John were the first president and first lady to occupy the White House. And when they moved in in 1800, the place wasn't finished.

- Applicant must have graduated from the fifth grade of the Merrymount School.

- Applicant must be continuing his/her education at a college, university or accredited tuition program.

- If awarded the scholarship, receipts of book purchase totaling $200 must be forwarded to the Merrymount PTO for reimbursement.

Applications are available at the school and the Free Legal Clinic At Quincy Court

A free Legal Clinic will be held Tuesday, April 21 from 6 to 8 p.m. at Quincy District Court, 1 Dennis Ryan Parkway.

Attorneys will be available for a private, one-on-one consultation to discuss any legal issues. No appointment is necessary. Clinics work on a first come, first serve basis.

The clinic is being sponsored by the Bar Association of Norfolk County. For more information, call 471-9693.

Many of the rooms were not completed. So, Abigail started hanging laundry in the East Room by the fireplace. Ideal for drying.

But John Quincy's skinny dipping and Abigail's laundry were pretty tame stuff compared to the alleged goings-on at the White House today.

I hope this thing is brought to a head soon. I'm tired of seeing the TV clip of Clinton and Monica Lewinsky hugging in that crowd shot.

And, frankly, I get uncomfortable watching the president coming out of church with a Bible in his hand.

I can't help it, but I find myself thinking of Richard Nixon with that miniature American flag pinned to his lapel and assuring the American people "I am not a crook" as Watergate was closing tightly in on him.

As an old police reporter I learned that where there's smoke there's usually fire. And as this thing drags on and new accusations keep popping up, I wonder if maybe the Washington Fire Department should be on stand-by notice outside the White House just in case.

But, as an old police reporter, I also learned that a man, woman, child—or president—is innocent until proven guilty.

So let's not rush to judgement.

Hopefully, the facts will soon be separated from the fiction and the truth finally known.

But, with all the charges, counter-charges, leaks and spin, there is one thing for sure: someone is lying.

The president is innocent, or he's guilty. One or the other.

If he's innocent, a lot of time and money have been wasted and a man's reputation smeared. Those peddling the lies should be exposed and somehow dealt with.

If he's guilty, he's not the kind of guy I want to see in the White House. He should resign.

No man or president is indispensable. The country survived after George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Franklin Delano Roosevelt. And will survive after William Jefferson Clinton.

A lot of people—according to the polls—apparently don't care how a president personally behaves. These are good times, why rock the boat!

But one man didn't create today's booming economy. And one man won't change it. And there is something more important at stake here than the dollar bill. It is moral values.

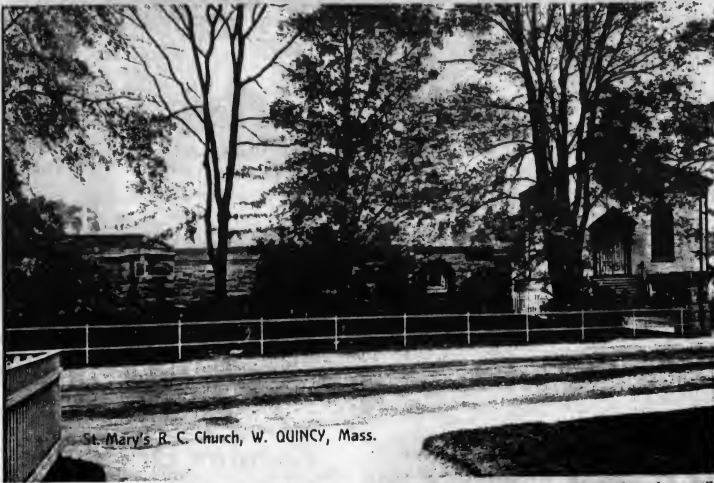

Without moral values, this great country is going to erode into moral decay like the Roman Empire. It may already be on its way down.

The longer these White House accusations go on, the more the country hurts.

It's been called the White House soap opera. Well, let's hope it has an ending—and soon.

And, that, we will never see a sequel.

Growing Asian Population Will Strengthen The City

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Quincy's demographics have changed much in the last fifteen or so years. Quincy's Asian population has grown leaps and bounds. Today, Quincy is home to a large Chinese community and has also seen a growing Vietnamese presence.

When I moved to Wollaston in 1984, the Asian population here was already visible but over the past fourteen years it continues to change the face of Quincy. Since living in North Quincy's Atlantic neighborhood since 1987, I have seen new neighbors come here. Yes, they speak a difficult language to understand. Yes, their culture is far removed from mine. But all in all, these newcomers are no different than all newcomers before them.

They come to Quincy because it is a livable city. It is safe. It has good schools. It has the MBTA Red Line. Many buy homes. Many of their children play with our children. My daughter recently went to a classmate's birthday party. When I arrived to take her home, I quickly noticed she had been the only non-Asian party-goer there. I'm sure she never noticed that and that says something about today's children.

Hopefully, we learn with time and each generation is a bit better than the one before. I grew up in Roxbury which also went through massive demographic changes in the Sixties.

Asians are becoming a part of the community. It may well take two more generations before it is wholly assimilated into the Quincy mind set. It may even be longer before Asians become city councilors, school committee members, state reps or the mayor but eventually it will happen as it should.

I do not feel threatened by a growing Asian population. I think it will strengthen the city as a whole. Quincy can show the South Shore that there is a vibrant and diverse community of peoples living here.

We can work together. We can eventually shop together. Our children already go to school together. There have been few if any signs of racism evident beyond a few unfortunate comments by some who think their better than Asians. However, comments of this nature usually prove just the opposite.

As a second generation Irish/Sicilian American, I remember my roots. I remember by father telling me stories about how Italians were once treated when they arrived here as brand new immigrants. I remember the bigotry people from Ireland faced when they tried to get jobs. My family roots are found in Sicily and West Cork. For a while these two immigrant groups even took on each other but essentially saw they had more in common than they may have ever wished.

Asians look different. Talk different. Act different. Eat different. Do all kinds of things different from us. The same could once have been said about any other ethnic group. The first and second waves of immigration take all the pain and sacrifice. They survive for their children and grandchildren just like others did before them.

Quincy will grow and be enriched. Cultures don't have to clash. They can live side by side and learn from each other. I like North Quincy and why am I not surprised that others from faraway lands like my city too?

My daughter's generation will improve the life of Quincy. That is the task of each generation. The task of the one before is to instill positive values of respect for differences and to find ways of healing the breach between peoples when uncovered. My generation moved beyond the one before. The next generation will move beyond us and life will go on for the neighborhoods of Quincy and for all of us.

Killing Of Smelt Eggs 'Absolutely Inexcusable'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The situations leading to the killing of the smelt eggs in spawning season for the second year in a row is absolutely inexcusable and is a disgrace to the City of Quincy and the state.

Last year at this time, construction near Burgin Parkway and the Star Market was done illegally during the spawning season.

After two major floods in the fall of 1996 the deep water tunnel was put into operation. Now the gates are left wide open all the time, creating an almost dry riverbed in places along the brook where the smelts spawn.

Several times over the past few months my husband, Dr. Carl Goodman told our Ward 5 City Councilor Stephen Durkin about the water level being so low was a danger to the fish in the brook and the spawning of the smelts. He told Councilor Durkin that the water level was so low, we could see areas with an inch of water or less from our property which abuts the brook. He also told Councilor Durkin that according to Brad Chase, the expert from the Department of Marine Fisheries, that if the smelt eggs were killed for two years in a row, they would never come back.

If we never informed our elected official of this potential environmental disaster, we would be remiss. But the fact is we gave the warning and it was ignored by our city officials, and that is an absolute disgrace.

This environmental disaster must be dealt with immediately and it must be fully investigated with a full statement to the public. The responsible parties must be removed from their jobs and elected or appointed positions must also be removed. Everybody is passing the buck to someone else. It seems to me that logically all public works construction, whether by the MDC, the Army Corps of Engineers, the MBTA or the railroad must come under Quincy's public works commissioner.

Who really is responsible for this negligence for two consecutive years? Who is it that ignored warnings?

It is time to get to the bottom of this disaster and get rid of the incompetent officials who did not do their jobs.

Quincy 'Pyramid Club' Collapses

By PAUL HAROLD

A Quincy-based pyramid club collapsed this week when there was a run of people seeking to sign up. At the time of its collapse it was one of the largest such clubs in amounts ranging from $8 to $984.

If the pyramid worked out as planned, the largest pay-off would be $2,048.

Mrs. Mary Patterson, owner of Bobbie's Beauty shop in Quincy Center, called Police Captain George Fallon to report the collapse, who in turn asked Judge James Mulhall to rule on the case.

Meanwhile, police were stationed at the beauty shop to keep potential members away.

CLAM DIGGERS CROWD FOR PERMITS

A string of clam diggers crowded city hall to apply, belatedly, for permits, following an enforcement raid along the beaches of Adams Shore.

Police Chief John Avery ordered non-residents off the clam beds and told Quincy residents to apply forthwith for permits. Residents needed tax records or poll tax receipts as proof of residence.

At the same time, City Solicitor John Flavin was drafting an ordinance, establishing the position of shellfish warden, at a salary of $2,500, to enforce the harvesting of shellfish within the city limits.

LOTS AT FURNACE BROOK ACRES

Developer Anthony Spinelli advertised the sale of lots for the newest neighborhood in the city, "Furnace Brook Acres," lying between Adams St. and Furnace Brook Parkway.

Lots were available, starting at $2,500. Included in the plans was the construction of a community center at the corner of Miles and Puritan Drives.

QUINCY-ISMS

An estimated 20,000 attended the opening sale of an expanded Bargain Center on Washington St. . . As part of Army Day observances, the members of the city council were flown over city hall at 7:30 p.m. on a C-47 from Logan Airport. Their flight was tracked by search lights, manned by units of the National Guard. Arrangements for the trip were made by Lt. Col. Charles Hedges, who also was the state representative from Wollaston. . . Sparkles Cleaners, the largest and most modern "supermarket of the dry cleaning industry," opened on the Parkway. . . L. Paul Marini, former school committee member, was named to fill a vacancy on the board of the Thomas Crane Library. At the same time he resigned his position as an associate member of the Zoning Board of Appeals. . . Some 200 attended the 25th anniversary dinner of the Sons of Italy, held at the Rotary Hall. Atty. John Allergini was installed for a second year as Venerable, with Mrs. Lucy Comis installed for her sixth year as head of the ladies unit. City Councillor William Papile served as master of ceremonies, with speakers, including charter member Vincenzo Moscardelli and Dr. Vincent Corsini. . . A lobster dinner at the Fox and Hounds on Sea St. cost $2.50. . . Montilio's restaurant and bakery (formerly on School St.) opened at its new location at the corner of Chestnut and Foster Sts. . . Newcomb's Bakery baked the largest cake in New England, weighing 375 pounds, standing two feet tall. It took seven bakers 18 hours to bake it, requiring three cake decorators. . . The Finish Ambassador to the U.S. was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. K.W. Fagerlund on Greenleaf St. . . A son was born at Quincy City Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Visea of Copeland St. . . Mrs. Hazel Babbitt was head of the auxiliary at the Bryan VFW. . . Mary Charles Ross was waiting two weeks before he named a replacement for Police Chief Avery, who was retiring at the mandatory age of 65. Lt. James Kemp had topped the civil service list, but one half of a question on the exam was being re-corrected, to the apparent advantage of another candidate. . . The school committee recessed its meeting for one hour to listen to Winston Churchill on television. . . The Quincy Homing Club entered the pigeon racing competition this week, bringing birds as far away as Sandusky, Ohio, for the 600-mile flight back here. . . United Presby captured the Y Sunday School Church Basketball League championship, ending a five-year reign by St. John's.

REPEAT ON YOUR FEET

One of the common complaints of our high-tech age is carpal tunnel syndrome, sometimes referred to as repetitive stress syndrome. It often affects the hands of people who repeat a given movement - such as striking a computer's keys - over and over again, day after day. Less well-known but just as troublesome is tarsal tunnel syndrome, a problem that frequently plagues people who work on their feet, such as nurses and teachers. When the feet are not protected by footwear with adequate arch supports and a snugly fitting heel, the foot tends to roll inward (pronate) with every step. Constant repetition can irritate key nerves. Treatment may include shoe inserts (orthotics), steroid injections, or surgery.

If you are suffering from these or any other foot related complaints call us at (617) 773-4300. We are located at 1261 Furnace Brook Pkwy., Suite #18, Quincy and are affiliated with Carney, Quincy and South Shore Hospitals.

P.S. As many as one-third of people with heel pain may actually suffer from tarsal tunnel syndrome.

"We've always thought about this place as being among our personal belongings," said Adams, 55, a banker who lives in Lincoln. "It will be nice to have the books back. We were very happy when they initially were found. It's a wonderful thing."

Describing what he felt when the theft took place, he said, "It was, I think, one of astonishment. It was incomprehensible that it could happen. It served as a wake-up call to us and the people who look after this place. It was just as difficult for the staff as it was for the family because they're closer to the things here."

Adams added that several small items taken from the Adams Mansion during a burglary in the early 1980s were never recovered.

Other Adams Site officials also commented upon the events of the last week.

Judith McAlister, curator, said she was happy to learn of Gildea's indictment but was more excited when the books were first located after the theft.

"We were all relieved," she said. "We do feel these items belong to us. We care for them. But they also belong to the American people."

Kelly Cobble, museum curator, voiced similar sentiments.

"We're happy," she said.

"The books are an intricate part of the site. But our biggest excitement was when they found them."

Park Ranger John Stanwich said, "It's wonderful that the books are going to be returned here. I think it'll be closure when all the work that has to be done on the books has been done and they are returned here. It's a terrible tragedy that they were taken out of here."

He added, however, that the theft, in addition to new programs at the Adams Site and the popularity of the Steven Spielberg film "Amistad," which chronicles the relationship between John Quincy Adams and members of the West African Mendi tribe—who gave him the Mendi Bible as a gift—could actually result in increased tourism at the site.

Stanwich said the site, which has been operated by the National Park Service since 1946, attracted 57,000 visitors in 1997, about 35 percent higher than 1996.

Also on hand to view the books at the Adams Site last week was Marie Rust, regional director of the National Park Service's Northeast Field Area. She praised the work of authorities in locating the books and encouraged Peak to apply for Cultural Resource Preservation Program funds to pay for the conservation of the four historic volumes, since that cannot be covered by the Park Service's annual budget.

The four historic books were stolen from a table in the Stone Library on the evening of Nov. 11, 1996, by a thief or thieves who sawed a hole in the library door.

Police and FBI agents found the Mendi Bible and the 1521 "Biblia Cu Concordantia Veteris in a Gold's Gym in Portsmouth, N.H. on Jan. 10, 1997. On April 23, the recovered a 1772 Bible owned by John Quincy Adams' wife, Louisa Catherine Johnson and "Ichthyologie," a 1785 illustrated volume on fish and marine life, at Gold's Gym in Salisbury.

Gildea, 42, a native of Quincy—who is now serving a federal prison sentence for violating probation in an unrelated theft conviction—is a member of both gyms.

The Johnson Bible and fish volume were found inside a tote bag, soaking wet and wrapped in towels and masking tape. They have been placed in a freezer for preservation while restoration experts consider what action to take.

The other two books were found in a backpack, dry and with considerably less damage.

Gildea was the prime suspect for authorities from the beginning, but Stern, the U.S. attorney, and FBI agents said they did not get the final piece of evidence needed to indict him until the last month or so. More than a year was spent analyzing the bags, towels and masking tape in which the volumes were wrapped.

A few days after the break-in, Gildea told FBI officials he would give them information about the books if the Justice Department would dismiss charges he faced for an unrelated break-in and federal probation and state parole violations. However, the U.S. Attorney's Office declined, and Gildea was arrested on Nov. 22, 1996, 11 days after the books were stolen.

The FBI agent in charge of the case, Barry Mawn, said Quincy Police Detective Tom Healey played a key role in the case by tracing Gildea's connection to Gold's Gym.

Cleaner, Greener Quincy Forum Set For Tonight

Mayor James Sheets will host a Cleaner, Greener Quincy open forum tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. in the City Council Chambers at City Hall.

The mayor and key department heads will be on hand to provide information, answer questions and receive feedback from residents on the Cleaner, Greener Quincy program. Ideas on how to keep the city cleaner and greener throughout the year will be solicited as well.

Sheets will also unveil plans for an expanded

Cleaner, Greener Quincy. There will be significant additions to this year's program in an attempt to nurture the Cleaner, Greener spirit throughout the year. This will be the first of a series of events related to the Cleaner, Greener program. Sheets will also model the newly-devised Cleaner, Greener t-shirt.

In its ninth year, Cleaner, Greener Quincy has drawn over 1,400 volunteers to help clean Quincy's parks, playgrounds, beaches and open space areas. This year's event will be held Saturday, May 9. Volunteers will be instructed to report to specific sites in their ward to help in the effort.

After the cleanup, the mayor and City Council will host an appreciation barbecue for volunteers at the Koch Park and Recreation Complex at Merrymount Park.

There will be new information on this project provided at the forum. In addition, there will be photo opportunity with Sheets and the new Cleaner, Greener Quincy logo and t-shirt.

Children In Sports Lecture At Quincy Hospital

For parents worried about a child being injured while playing sports, Quincy Hospital is offering a free lecture Wednesday, April 8 at 7 p.m. in the hospital's Conference Room A. Parents can learn ways to help their child enjoy sports and avoid sports-related injuries.

Dr. David Irons, a pediatrician with Quincy Pediatrics Associates, will discuss how to set appropriate expectations for a child's sporting activities and how to avoid sports injuries.

The program, part of a free monthly health education series offered by the hospital, is open to the public. Call 376-4016 to register.

Cancer Topic April 21 For Inter-Agency Council

"Serving the Cancer Patient" will be the topic for the Inter-Agency of the South Shore at its luncheon meeting Tuesday, April 21 at noon in the McCauley Conference Room at Quincy Hospital, 114 Whitwell St.

Guest speakers will be Marilyn Mugno and Mary Shepherd of the American Cancer Society. Mugno, field executive for patient services at the society's Southeastern Regional Center, will speak about its services and programs. Shepherd, in charge of fundraising, will discuss the society's annual signature events.

Cost for the reserved luncheon is $5. Payment must be made by April 16 to: Inter-Agency Council, c/o Karen McKim, R.N., JFK Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169.

SELLING YOUR CAR?

It pays to have an auto technician give a car a thorough inspection before selling it. By replacing burned-out signal lights, adjusting the brakes, and performing whatever repairs are necessary to bring the car up to snuff, the technician can provide reassuring evidence to prospective buyers that the car is in good condition. Even if the owner elects not to engage in some of the more costlier repairs, he or she can disclose some important facts to prospective buyers that will likely instill the confidence and trust necessary to consummate the sale. In this respect, it also pays enormous dividends for car owners to be able to produce receipts that indicate the maintenance that has been performed on the car.

If you have questions about your car or any of its systems, don't hesitate to ask when you come into LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO. For most all of your car's repairs, we have modern test equipment, the right parts, and the best ASE Certified technicians available in the area. Get acquainted with us at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). Count on us also for propane for grills, motor homes, and converted vehicles. We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Most major credit cards honored. Open: Mon.-Fri. 8am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm.

HINT: Because appearance helps to sell used cars, have your car professionally detailed before putting it on the market.

Ayers Named Elk Citizen Of Year

The Quincy Lodge of Elks announces the selection of Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers as 1997-98 Elk Citizen of the Year.

The award is bestowed by the National President of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks to a citizen residing within an area served by a local Elks Lodge. Ayers was nominated for this award based on his record of service and innovation as a business owner and member of the City Council. The award was presented recently at a ceremony installing new Quincy Lodge officers for the fraternal year 1998-99.

Ayers received the honor for his proactive involvement in assisting the less fortunate. During his tenure as an elected official, Ayers has worked on issues important to the elderly and disabled of the South Shore.

Using space and personnel donated from his business, Ayers created the Helping Hand program which provides medical and assisted living equipment, at no cost, to the uninsured and those with low income. The program receives donated and used equipment, provides necessary reconditioning and repair, and then reissues the equipment to those in need. It operates at no public cost and helps to ensure that equipment is available to anybody who might otherwise suffer a decline in quality of life without items vital to their daily routine.

Ayers was also saluted for his proactive efforts in working with the Elks to provide assistance to the financial needy. For the past several years, he has helped the Elks to identify those in need during the holiday season. He then volunteered his time to assist the preparation and delivery of Christmas food baskets to Quincy families facing an otherwise unfortunate Christmas. For the past two years, he has also added to this longstanding charitable event by organizing a toy drive that distributed free toys, along with a food basket, to families with difficult finances during the holidays.

Additionally, Ayers serves the Elks as chairman of the Scholarship Committee. Last year, that program provided college scholarship grants to 19 local high school graduates and assisted another eight local students to qualify for scholarships offered by the Massachusetts Elks State Association.

County Removed From 'Credit Watch List'

Moody's Investment Services recently removed Norfolk County from its "credit watch list."

The county was placed on the list last year when the movement to abolish county government was at its strongest point. However, the $4 million cash sale of Massachusetts Respiratory Hospital to the Westborough-based Olympus Healthcare Group and the assumption of Middlesex County's debt by the state, helped facilitate the removal of Norfolk County from the list.

According to Timothy Cahill, Norfolk County Treasurer, "With the proceeds from the sale of the hospital, we have been able to retire our general obligation bonds. I expect that when all of our other hospital-related debts are paid later this year, we can look forward to a bond rating upgrade."

Massachusetts Respiratory Hospital, located in Braintree, had been operating since 1918 when it was first utilized as a tuberculosis hospital. With the passage of the Tuberculosis Hospital Reorganization Act of 1961, the county was allowed to transform the hospital into a 110-bed chronic care facility where patients with pulmonary disease or those in need of rehabilitation services could receive treatment.

Within recent years the hospital has been faced with financial challenges due to cuts in Medicare and Medicaid, and consideration to sell the hospital has been fueled by mounting financial demands.

"Sadness over the sale of the hospital is tempered by the reality of the healthcare industry today which makes it harder and harder for governments to run hospitals," said William O'Donnell, chairman of the Norfolk County Commissioners.

Applications Available For Louise Clifford Scholarship

Applications for the Louise B. Clifford Scholarship are currently available in the guidance offices at Quincy High School and North Quincy High School.

There are two awards totaling $500 each for high school seniors who plan to attend a four-year college and major in environmental studies or natural resources.

Interested students should see their guidance counselors for an application which explains deadlines and eligibility requirements.

Art Assn. Spring Classes

The Quincy Art Association, 26 High School Ave., is offering spring art classes for children and adults beginning the week of April 14.

Beginner and advanced classes in clay, watercolor, oils, drawing, and ceramic tiles can be taken during the day and evening. Also offered are one-day workshops and open studios with live models.

Robert Curry To Receive Work Inc. Award April 21

Robert Curry, owner of Curry Hardware in Quincy and a resident of the city, will receive Work Inc.'s 1998 Probus Award during the agency's annual Awards Ceremony Tuesday, April 21 at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston.

Curry will receive the award, Work Inc.'s highest honor, for his long-standing support of Work Inc. and his leadership role in Quincy and throughout the South Shore.

Others winners and their awards include: Richard Skinner, who is served by Work Inc., the Outstanding Progress in Employment Award; Massachusetts Senate President Thomas Birmingham, the Public Service Award; UNUM Life Insurance Company of America, a Work Inc. Corporate Award; Copley Pharmaceutical Inc., a Work Inc. Corporate Award; Sybil Feldman, served by Work Inc., the Outstanding Progress in Residential Support Award; and Stephen Messina, residential case manager, the Employee of the Year Award.

"Recognition is long overdue for this year's group of outstanding award

ROBERT CURRY

winners," said Work Inc. President Hank Cheney. "It is our privilege to honor corporations and individuals who maintain a steadfast commitment to people with disabilities, consumers who have achieved a tremendous level of independence, and staff who exemplify Work Inc.'s mission."

Headquartered in Quincy, Work Inc. is a leading non-profit provider of vocational rehabilitation services, housing, transportation and employment opportunities for people with disabilities.

The deadline to submit a theme for the 46th Quincy Christmas Festival Parade is April 10.

Festival Committee Chairman George White said the winning theme helps set the stage for non-commercial and commercial groups who must soon begin planning their parade floats.

Past parade themes include: "Christmas on Parade," "Forty Years of Christmas Memories," "The Wonders of Christmas," "Christmas in Toyland," "Christmas Around the World," "The Magic of Christmas," "Memories of Christmas," "Joys of Christmas," and "Christmas Wishes on Parade." The 1997 theme was "The Sights and Sounds of Christmas."

The winner of the theme contest, which is open to the public, will be invited to participate in the parade and will receive an appreciation gift from the Festival Committee.

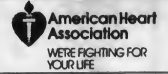

The parade, which each year attracts a crowd of thousands, is billed as the largest Christmas parade on the East Coast.

To enter the contest, submit themes to: Frances Flynn, 79 Freeman St., Quincy, MA 02170.

The winner will be chosen at a Christmas Festival Committee meeting April 15.

We need you.

Real answers on crime

"Burglars work 24 hours. Why can't our DA's office?"

— Jack Corrigan

Burglary is the crime of choice for career criminals, because they like the odds.

Last year in Norfolk County thousands of burglaries were reported...but fewer than 30 burglars were indicted by Norfolk County's appointed District Attorney.

As our next DA, Jack Corrigan will change the odds in our favor with a plan that targets career criminals, solves more burglaries, and makes our homes safer. All that stands in our way is inertia.

Open 24 hours.

Jack Corrigan's plan will make trained prosecutors available around the clock to assist police investigations. "As DA, I'll make sure experienced attorneys are always on duty to provide assistance with investigations, interrogations and search warrants," the former assistant district attorney said. "That'll mean more convictions, and fewer criminals freed on technicalities and loopholes."

Taking a computer byte out of crime.

While criminals long ago entered the computer age, the Norfolk County DA's office is still in the stone age. Jack Corrigan will create a state-of-the-art fingerprint division with a computerized Automated Fingerprint Identification System (AFIS) connection to help all local police departments solve more crimes by quickly matching fingerprints with known felons.

"I'll also create a criminal offender database to give every police department in Norfolk County instant access to fingerprints, police reports, warrants, photos, and other key data on suspects."

Community Prosecution.

Community prosecution programs in other counties have lowered crime rates and helped citizens reclaim their neighborhoods. "By meeting regularly with local leaders, prosecutors gain a real understanding of local problems, and crime goes down," Corrigan explained. "Like community policing, community prosecution works. Norfolk County needs it now."

He'll get the job done.

As Assistant District Attorney for nearly eight years, Jack Corrigan was Chief Prosecutor in Bill Delahunt's Civil Rights Unit, and Chief Prosecutor in the White Collar Crime Unit. He also managed the office's $5 million budget, while carrying a full caseload of major felony cases in Superior Court. An honors graduate of Harvard and Harvard Law School, Jack has what it takes to restore innovation and excellence to the Norfolk County District Attorney's office.

Think we can't do better fighting crime and drugs? You don't know Jack.

Lions Club To Hold Pancake Breakfast Sunday

The Lions Club of Quincy will sponsor its annual Pancake Breakfast on Sunday at the 1000 South-ern Artery senior citizens complex, Quincy.

The purpose of the event is to raise funds to support eye research programs for visually-impaired individuals, provide eyeglasses and eye exams to those in need, and other programs for people who need a helping hand.

The club holds a raffle of donated prizes to help achieve its goal of raising $10,000 for those causes.

Among those making donations:

Ailian McNamara (glass picture frame), Dina's Unisex Salon (gift certificate), Don Uvanitte/Mahoney & Wright Insurance (Richardson framed print), Bette Deans/Braintree Flower Shop (Dish Garden), First Trade Union Bank/James Flaherty ($30 gift certificate to Quincy Adams Restaurant), Vin Moscardelli/ERA Central Real Estate (relaxation gift basket compliments of Merile Moscardelli).

Also, George C. Smith Jr. ($25 gift certificate to Barry's Deli), Joseph Mazzarella (wooden wall clock), Vin Sullivan/Sullivan's Corner (Hummel figurine), Common Market Restaurant ($25 gift certificate), The Quincy Sun (one-year subscription; six winners), Condon & Walsh Real Estate (framed print of USS Salem), Clifford's Flowers ($50 gift certificate), Roche Bros. ($25 gift certificate; two winners), Finian's Restaurant & Pub ($25 gift certificate), Dependable Cleaners ($25 gift certificate; two winners).

Raffle tickets are $1 apiece, $3 for two, and $5 for 10.

The event is open to the public. To donate a raffle item, call Jim Flaherty at 773-1121 or Sam Rounseville at 774-1776.

Harvard Vanguard To Offer Patient Self-Referrals

Harvard Vanguard Medical Associates, formerly Harvard Pilgrim Health Care, announces that starting April 1, patients will be able to visit any of the group's 400 specialists without a referral from a primary care physician.

Harvard Vanguard is the first physician group practice in Massachusetts to allow its HMO patients the option of self-referral.

"In our group practice, patients can refer themselves to any specialist, anytime and for any reason," said Dr. Robin Atlas, medical director. "We encourage our patients, always, to partner with their primary care clinician to receive what they want and need, but the decision belongs to them."

Harvard Vanguard Medical Associates is a non-profit, multispecialty group practice with 14 medical offices in the Greater Boston area, including one in Quincy. It offers an extensive choice of primary care physician and specialists, with more than 550 physicians and 680 advanced practice clinicians.

Harvard Vanguard is a teaching affiliate of Harvard Medical School and has ties to Brigham and Women's, Children's, Beth Israel-Deaconess, and Mount Auburn hospitals.

Three NQHS Graduates Receive Durkin Scholarships

Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin recently awarded $250 scholarships to three 1997 North Quincy High School graduates.

The scholarships, known as the Ward 5 Councillor's Scholarships, are awarded each year to graduated high school seniors who live in Ward 5.

Students receiving the scholarships were William Barron of 55 Sturtevant Rd., presently attending Assumption College in Worcester; James Melchin, 117 Granite St., attending Suffolk University; and Hillary O'Donoghue, 20 Oval Rd., attending Mitchell College.

Hey Kids, Look For The Parade Of Presidents!

Win A Trip For Four To Washington, D.C.

Hey kids!

Would you like to win a three-day family trip for four to Washington, D.C.?

You have the chance to in a special "Parade of Presidents" contest sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

The contest is open to Quincy youngsters in public, parochial and private schools, kindergarten through grade 8. There is no entry fee.

The trip is for two adults and two children and includes: airline tickets for round-trip from Boston to Washington, two nights' accommodations at the Sheraton Washington and a tour of Washington, D.C. and Arlington National Cemetery.

In addition, if calendar scheduling allows, the winner and guests will be greeted in Washington by Congressman William Delahunt.

Besides the chance to win the trip, the contest will give youngsters a chance to become acquainted--or reacquainted--with all of our Presidents and to test how observing they are of the Quincy Center area.

A parade of photo images of the Presidents will be placed in the windows of participating QCBPA member businesses on Hancock St. and adjoining streets, one to a business.

Although we have had 42 presidents, only 41 will be displayed. Grover Cleveland served at two different times.

The entry form appears on this Quincy Sun page and flyer copies are being distributed to Quincy public school children this week.

The object of the contest is to find in "treasure hunt" fashion the 41 presidential images and to identify by name or address the business in which each image is displayed.

The contest is being sponsored to encourage local families to rediscover Quincy Center while reminding them of Quincy's role in history as the birthplace of the nation's only father-and-son presidents--John Adams, second president, and John Quincy Adams, sixth president.

Deadline for submitting entries is April 30. Entries with all 41 correct presidential display locations will be eligible for the drawing to determine the winner of the Washington trip.

Only one entry per youngster may be submitted.

Entry forms are available at the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association office, 1416 Hancock St. and at The Quincy Sun, 1372 Hancock St.

Entries should be mailed to or dropped off at the QCBPA office or The Quincy Sun.

Only one entry per student will be accepted. Entries with all the correct identifications will be eligible for the drawing to determine the winner.

Remember, the deadline is April 30.

Washington 	Adams 	Jefferson 	Madison 	Monroe 	J. Q. Adams 	Jackson
Van Buren 	W. Harrison 	Tyler 	Polk 	Taylor 	Fillmore 	Pierce

Project Hero, the community campaign to raise $50,000 to purchase new life-saving equipment for the Quincy Fire Department is moving up the goal ladder.

The campaign, going into its third week, has reached the $5,265 rung with $44,735 still needed to get to the top.

The campaign was launched by Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn, III and is co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

The $50,000 will enable the Fire Department to purchase two thermal imaging units, complex helmets which enable firefighters to see through thick, dark smoke and flames and make it easier to find and rescue occupants in fires in houses and other buildings.

Newest Quincy "heroes" to make donations are:

John E. Queenan Insurance, Carrie I. Smith, Isabelle M. Barra, Retired Deputy Fire Chief Joseph and Virginia Jackson, Independent Packaging Inc., Joel R. Davidson, Dr. Esther S.W. Davidson, Daniel J. Gorman, Marie and Lawrence Watts, Elizabeth J. Curtis, Jeanne and Graham King, Jason and Enes Allen, Alice C. Burke and a contributor who wishes to remain anonymous.

"The initial response has been terrific but we still have a long way to go to reach our goal of $50,000," said Flynn.

The Quincy Sun each week is donating a full-page public service advertisement to document the progress of the campaign and to thank those who contribute.

In addition, The Sun is covering the progress of the project with news stories.

To make a donation, send a check payable to Project Hero, P.O. Box 116, North Quincy, MA 02171.

5,000 Daylilies To Be Planted At Squantum Causeway April 25

The Squantum Causeway Beautification Project organized by the Seaside Gardeners of Squantum, city officials and others will result in the planting of 5,000 daylilies at the causeway on Saturday, April 25.

The project began because of the concerns of Sally Erickson, Seaside Gardeners president, over the deteriorating condition of the site.

Others who have aided the effort include Mayor James Sheets, Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers, Michael Wheelwright of the Department of Public Works, landscape architect Mary Smith, Arthur Bay of the Marina Bay Company, the Quincy Conservation Commission and the City Council, which appropriated funds for the project.

The schedule of events is as follows:

On Monday, April 6, the Department of Public Works will prepare 16 garden beds. On April 13, the DPW will remove soil from the beds and replace it with topsoil. Between April 17 and 24, the daylilies will be tagged and grouped according to growing season, variety and color.

On April 25 at 8:15 a.m. program participants will meet at Beechwood Community Life Center for groundbreaking ceremonies scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. Planting will start at 9 a.m. Those 14 and under must be accompanied by an adult.

In the event of rain, participants will meet April 26 at noon. If a second planting date is needed, it will be May 2 at 9 a.m.

Volunteers are needed to assist with the program. For more information, call Marie Stamos at 328-9400.

Special License Considered To Sell Liqueurs, Cordials

The Quincy License Board Tuesday, took under advisement the creation of a special license to sell liqueur and cordials.

The licenses would be issued to those holding common victualer and beer and wine licenses.

Chairman Joseph Shea said this was the first time the board had been asked for the special license. He added that City Solicitor Steve McGrath said it looked like a "pretty straight forward" procedure.

Shea said the City Council will have to vote on the measure before any action is taken by the license board.

The law on Section 2, Section 12 of Chapter 138 reads as follows:

"In any city or town which votes to accept the provisions of a common victualer, who holds a license under the section to sell wines and malt beverages may, upon written approval also sell liqueurs and cordials pursuant to said license, subject, however, to all other licensing provisions of this chapter.

LIVING WITH ARTHRITIS

With arthritis, the saying that "little things mean a lot," can take on special meaning. For many people trying to cope with this chronic condition, the difficulty in managing such "little" tasks as opening a jar or walking up a few stairs can make daily life seem like one big problem. Feelings of despair and depression are not uncommon. Just as little things can get you down, though, little things can empower you to lift yourself right back up. For example, understand that your body needs more rest during flare-ups of arthritis—and make sure you get it. Eat a balanced diet every day, keeping in mind that extra pounds can put painful pressure on ar-thritic joints. Experiment with hot and cold packs to ease pain. Talk to your doctor about exercises that can help keep joints flexible while building muscle strength and raising spirits!

For those in chronic pain, making small adjustments can improve the quality of one's life far more than one might imagine. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. Sharing your experience with arthritis through support groups and self-help courses can provide a physical and mental boost.

Renovations Planned At Downtown Store Firestone To Participate In Quincy 2000 Program

Quincy 2000 kicked off the second round of its Commercial Building Renovation Program last week at the Firestone store at 2 School St., Quincy Center.

Officials from the public-private planning corporation joined Mayor James Sheets, Bridgestone/Firestone representatives and others to announce Firestone's participation in the program and the renovation of the building's blighted exterior which begins this month.

Tom Galvin, past chairman of Quincy 2000 and one of its founders, said, "I am pleased that Firestone is now making this improvement. The renovation of the Firestone store in Quincy Center has been a priority of Quincy 2000 since the inception of the Commercial Building Renovation Program in 1996."

Galvin added that Firestone took over the property from Quincy Motor Company in 1947.

Sheets said he also is happy about the plan.

"I am very pleased to see the plans for the improvement of this property. Quincy 2000 has once again proven to be an effective public-private partnership that is getting things done."

Alan Chapman, Firestone manager of design and construction, said that in addition to the exterior improvements, the store's interior will be renovated this spring or summer. The improvement of both will cost about $200,000.

"We owe this to our customers in Quincy," he said. "This is one of our better-performing stores in the country."

Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph Mannarino said Firestone will match the funds Quincy 2000 spends on the project by almost seven times.

"Firestone management informed us these improvements were not scheduled for another few years," said Mannarino. "However, our incentive grant program provided the needed catalyst to get it done. Firestone is contributing to the revitalization of Quincy Center."

Officials also said Firestone was inspired to participate because a nearby property was renovated in the first round of the program.

Quincy-based general contractor Louis Pasqualucci & Son has been awarded the contract through a competitive bidding process and will complete the project in approximately six weeks.

Century 21 Abigail Adams Wins Quality Service Award

Century 21 Real Estate Corp. has honored Century 21 Abigail Adams of Quincy with its Quality Service Award.

The Quality Service Award is in recognition of Century 21 offices that offer exceptional achievement in customer satisfaction. The award is based on accumulative quantified results from Century 21 Quality Service Surveys received from previous clients at the conclusion of a transaction.

"Client service is essential to our business, growth, and its success," said Jayne Magown, daughter of Century 21 Abigail Adams founder, Virginia Prasinos. "This award depicts the quality of service that we strive for with every client we serve. We have been in business for over 17 years. Many of the transactions we are involved in are referrals which are a wonderful source of business."

"In addition to serving the public in a real estate capacity we also field a number of calls regarding tours of the Adams Homestead. It is amusing to inform callers who ask for Abigail that she passed away over 180 years ago. I will gladly arrange a tour, but my focus is quite a bit different."

Century 21 Real Estate Corp., a subsidiary of Centand Corp., has more than 8,300 offices in more than 20 countries and territories worldwide.

Palm Sunday Services

St. Joseph's

St. Joseph's Catholic Church, 550 Washington St., Quincy Point, announces its Palm Sunday schedule.

Services will be held at the Vigil Mass Saturday at 4 p.m. and Sunday at the 8:30, 10 and 11:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Masses. Palm branches will be blessed and distributed at all the Masses.

Christians today use palms on Palm Sunday to commemorate the multitudes bearing palms who led Christ in procession on that day in Jerusalem. During the procession with palms, the people walk in demonstration of their loyalty to Christ. Palm Sunday begins the solemn celebration of Holy Week when Christians celebrated the Paschal Mystery—the Easter event.

The services are open to the public and all parishioners of St. Joseph's are invited. The church is handicapped accessible.

Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern will preach on "Jesus the King" at the 10 a.m. Palm Sunday worship service at Wollaston Congregational Church, 48 Winthrop Ave.

Rev. Zuern will have a message for the Church School children before they go to class. A donkey will provide rides for the children at 9:15 a.m. and Palm Crosses will be given at that time. A Palm Procession will be held during the service for the Sunday School Youth. Child care is also provided.

The Chancel Choir will be directed by Minister of Music Edwin Leach. Greeter will be Evelyn Montgomery. Ushers will be David and Brittany Abbott. Deacon on duty will be Sue Sweetser. Scripture reader will be Richard Pendleton. Acolyte will be Jordan Oster, Katrina Nurmenniemi or Patrick DeVal.

A traditional Passover Seder Meal will follow worship at 11:30 a.m. Cost for the meal is $6 for adults, $3 for children, $15 maximum for a family. Traditional foods and symbols of the Last Supper of Jesus with his disciples will be explained and served. For reservations, call 773-7432.

St. John's

Palms will be blessed and distributed at all Masses at St. John's Church, Quincy Center, in observance of Palm Sunday.

Masses Saturday will be at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Sunday Masses will be at 7 a.m., 9 a.m., 11 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

There will be a solemn blessing and procession of palms at both the 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. Masses Sunday.

Lenten Masses will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

St. John's parishioners will attend the Mass of the Holy Chrism at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross Tuesday at 11 a.m.

Quincy Home Opener Friday Presidents' Pitching A Big Question Mark

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Who will take the mound for the Quincy High School baseball team?

That's the big question facing the Presidents as they open the 1998 season Friday with an Old Colony League game against Taunton (4 p.m., Adams Field). Junior Dennis Palardy is expected to start the opener, but the remainder of Quincy's pitching rotation is up in the air.

"The first thing we have to know is how many legitimate varsity pitchers do we have?" said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia. "We're dealing with a lot of inexperience, especially on the mound. Dennis is our ace, our No. 1 pitcher and we'll rely on him heavily to get us going."

Seniors Scott Desmond and Sean Walsh, juniors Tom Daley, Bill Armstrong and Mike Clark and sophomore Joe Tower will compete for the other slots in the pitching rotation.

"How many of them can pitch at the varsity level will tell me what kind of season we'll have," said Sylvia, beginning his 15th season as Quincy's coach. "If three of those kids win three games, we'll accomplish our goals."

"First and foremost, you must have pitching—that's the name of the game. If you're letting six, seven or eight runs a game and don't have strong hitting, you won't win. But if you hold a team to three or four runs, then you give yourself a chance to win."

The Presidents' first objective is qualifying for the state tournament, meaning they must win 50 percent of their games (9 of 18).

To achieve that goal, Quincy will depend on the experience and talents of its three senior captains, Steve Maze (catcher), Tony Staffier (shortstop) and Steve Wiltshire (first baseman), all returning varsity players. Joining this trio is returning

Raiders Open Today At Ply. South Perdios, North To Rely On Senior Leadership

Coming off its first post-season appearance in the 1990s, the North Quincy High School baseball team would like nothing more than a return trip to the state tournament.

In order to accomplish that feat, the Red Raiders will rely on the performances of their eight seniors, many of whom started for coach Dave Perdios in 1997.

"We have a lot of seniors back, and they saw a lot of playing time last year," said Perdios, now in his third year at the helm. "But none of them quite reached their potential."

"My hope is that they all step up as seniors and have good years; they need to carry the load. I've been impressed with their leadership and their attitude has been phenomenal."

North's postseason quest begins today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. when they visit Plymouth South in an Old Colony League game Perdios called a "must-win."

"We have to win this game," he said. "We have to get off to a good start, and it's a game we should win."

Among the North Quincy seniors back for another tournament run are catcher Bill Walker, first baseman-pitcher John Sullivan, third baseman Bryan Linsky, right fielder Greg Peck and Adam Delorey, a first baseman-left fielder and catcher.

Starting for the third consecutive season at shortstop will be junior Chris Bregoli, one of the team's leading hitters in '97. Junior Kevin Walsh will play the outfield and also pitch in relief.

Also roaming the outfield grass will be sophomores Andy Carrie and Jody Bravo, while sophomore T.J. Bell will provide backup at a few infield positions. Sophomore pitcher Brian Deputila could also be called upon as the season progresses.

A player who will not start the season with the squad is sophomore Rob Celata, one of NQ's top pitchers in '97, who is currently ineligible to play. Also a talented hitter and outfielder, Celata may not rejoin the squad until later this month, according to Perdios.

"His ineligibility hurts us

Crane Library Annual Road Race April 26

The Crane Library Building Fund Committee is planning the third annual Richardson 5K Run/Walk and 1K Walk for Children to benefit the library's expansion and renovation project which will soon get underway.

The site next to the current library has been cleared and it is anticipated that construction will begin in April.

The race will be held Sunday, April 26 and entry forms will be available in mid-February at the library.

Two new team categories have been added this year: Family, for those who come to the library together; and Book Clubs.

The race has been a well-attended event for the past two years, attracting about 400 runners of all ages and abilities as well as local celebrities.

For more information call the library at 376-1301.

PSSB Annual Walk April 26

The Protestant Social Service Bureau in Wollaston will sponsor its 24th Annual Walk to raise funds for its many services Sunday, April 26.

The 10-kilometer (6.2-mile) walk will begin at East Congregational Church in East Milton.

The PSSB is a private, non-profit agency that provides adoption and counseling services, a food pantry, thrift shop and more to South Shore residents. The walk is its single largest fundraiser.

Raiders Host Quincy Today NQ Aims For Seventh Straight Tourney Bid

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Is a seventh consecutive tournament berth on the horizon for the North Quincy High School boys' volleyball team?

Coach John Perkins thinks so, despite nine new faces replacing nine valuable members of last spring's strong Red Raider squad.

"We're definitely a young team, but we're working hard to improve and I think we're capable of making the tournament," said Perkins, in his 12th season as North's coach. "That's our goal every year, and this year's no different."

The Red Raiders opened their season Tuesday with a match at Durfee and host rival Quincy today (Thursday) at 3:30 p.m.

"Quincy should be a strong team," said Perkins. "It should be a good early season match; it always is when these two teams meet."

Next Tuesday, North

hosts Weymouth at 4 p.m. and visits perennial powerhouse Greater New Bedford Vocational next Thursday at 4 p.m.

Only one starter remains from last spring's North team, senior defensive specialist and captain James Cheung. Just two other players saw varsity action in '97: senior middle hitter Rob McCauli and junior outside hitter Albert King, both of whom will start for NQ this season.

The remaining nine players have no varsity experience, but Perkins in confidence they will adjust once they get a match under their belts.

"They're coming from a strong JV program under coach Kipp Caldwell," he said. "They've succeeded at the JV level and know how to win. The varsity level is a lot quicker, so they're going to need some experience. I think they will become much better as the season goes on."

Joining Cheung, McCauli and King in the starting lineup is senior Jackie Cheung (no relation to James Cheung), an outside hitter and setter. Jackie did not play volleyball last season, but was a member of the JV squad as a sophomore and was called up to the varsity for the tournament.

North's other starters are sophomore setter Kin Yun and sophomore defensive specialist Philip Cai.

New Coach, Same Goal For Upbeat Presidents

Though she is beginning her first year as coach of the Quincy High School boys' volleyball team, Christine Barrett had a good idea what to expect when she took the position.

"The good part about coaching here is that I was an assistant last year, so I knew what I'd have to work with this spring," she said. "I'm ecstatic. I'm coaching with Jim Rendle's son, J.R., and we're a couple of young, energetic coaches looking for a good season."

Barrett replaces longtime successful Quincy volleyball coach Tom Henderson, who stepped down following last season. She served as Henderson's assistant last year on the boys' team and assisted him for two years on the girls' squad.

"I coached with him the past few years and as a rookie coach, I definitely have big shoes to fill," she said, adding that "our goal is to qualify for the tournament for the fourth year in a row."

Quincy opened its season

Tuesday against Brockton and takes on rival North Quincy today (Thursday) at 3:30 p.m. at North's gym.

"It'll be a dogfight," said Barrett, who previously coached North Quincy's freshman girls' volleyball team and the Emmanuel College team. "Hopefully, this will be our year."

Quincy is back in action Friday at 4 p.m. in a match at Weymouth. The Presidents then play three matches in three days, starting next Monday at 4 p.m. against Xaverian, followed on Tuesday at 4 p.m. at Dighton-Rehoboth and Wednesday at 4 p.m. against Wareham.

Four seniors, including co-captains Jared Downey and Eddie Smith, return to help guide the Presidents to a postseason berth. Downey, a setter, and Smith, an outside hitter, have impressed Barrett with their tireless effort and leadership ability.

"Jared and Eddie are great kids," she said. "Eddie's probably the best defensive player I've ever seen. He's all over the place, getting to so many balls. Jared's a hard worker, a real good athlete who gives 100 percent every day."

"They've been around four years and helped the team into the tournament before. I expect them to do it again this year."

The two other seniors who will play a vital role in Quincy's success are Felix Chan, an outside hitter, and DeMing Guan, a defensive specialist and outside hitter.

Juniors Jason Goldrick (middle hitter), Brian Chen (middle hitter) and Matt Nicklas (setter) will also see significant playing time. Freshman Dennis Wong, a defensive specialist, and sophomore Larry Antonellis may also gain some varsity experience this spring.

"We definitely have some athletes, and they've been working hard the past two weeks," said Barrett. "They've done well in the scrimmages, and hopefully that will carry over into the season."

Quincy, North Softball Open Seasons This Week

The softball teams at Quincy and North Quincy High School kick off their 1998 seasons this week.

North Quincy, under the guidance of second-year coach Bob Doyle, opens its season today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. against visiting Old Colony League foe Plymouth South.

The Red Raiders are back in action next Monday at 4 p.m. when they visit Falmouth in an OCL tilt.

Next Wednesday at 4 p.m., North hosts OCL opponent Barnstable.

The Presidents, led by first-year coach Colleen Gallagher, play their first game Friday at 4 p.m. at OCL opponent Taunton. Gallagher stepped in for Bob Keuther, who coached the team for five years and was recently hired as the new principal at Quincy High.

Following the opener, Quincy hosts Dennis-Yarmouth next Monday at 4 p.m. and visits Bridgewater-Raynham next Wednesday at 4 p.m. Both are OCL opponents.

Quit smoking.

Bobby Muollo Selected To AAU Baseball Team

Bobby Muollo of Quincy was recently named as an early selection to the 1998 South Shore Baseball Club Seadogs 13 and Under Division AAU Travel Team Baseball Program.

The announcement was made by the South Shore Baseball Club in Holbrook.

As a member of the Seadogs, Muollo will compete against other AAU (Amateur Athletic Union) organizations in Massachusetts for the right to appear in the AAU Baseball National Championships to be held in Lowell in August.

In his third season with the Seadogs, Muollo was the only 13-year-old from Quincy to try out and make the team. He played at Cooperstown, N.Y., and Minneapolis, Minn. last year in the national tournament.

"BoMo is a big lefty who has some of the best mechanics off the mound of anybody on our squad," said Matt Runge, 13 and Under team manager. "When he gets a pitch to hit down and in, you better dial nine for long distance."

Locally, Muollo is a seventh grader at Central Middle School and was selected to play on the Quincy Sons of Italy Babe Ruth League team. He looks forward to a rewarding season for the Sons of Italy and the Seadogs.

"Our three captains have played a lot of varsity games," said Sylvia, "but the rest are brand new to this level and will have to make the adjustment."

Joining the captains and Clarke in the starting lineup will likely be junior Nathan DoRosario (left field), Daley (center field) and Desmond (right field). Clark and senior Mike Centrella are battling it out for the nod at second base. Others who may see action are seniors Ryan Ploof and Jason Crossman, junior Jason Caduya and sophomore Tim Pezzullo.

Following the season opener, Quincy plays two of the stronger OCL teams when the team visits Dennis-Yarmouth Monday for a 4 p.m. tilt and host Bridgewater-Raynham Wednesday at 4 p.m.

"The OCL is one of the best baseball leagues in the state, year in and year out," said Sylvia. "Teams like B-R, Falmouth, Barnstable and Taunton, you don't see them with any weaknesses. Every year, they're strong."

"And now you add D-Y to the mix and they're an extremely good team. All the Cape teams are strong, with very aggressive baseball systems that the kids buy into. Those will be two tough games for us."

Steven Crosby On Mass. College Of Pharmacy Dean's List

Steven J. Crosby of Quincy has been named to the Dean's List for the fall and spring semesters at Massachusetts College of "Rob's also a solid No. 3 hitter who gives us some power, but we'll have to fill his absence as best we can. He's working very hard now and we hope to get him back soon."

Following the opener, NQ's next game is Friday at 3:30 p.m. at O'Rourke Field against a Maine high school team. Next Monday at 4 p.m., the Red Raiders take on visiting Falmouth at Adams Field and visit Barnstable next Wednesday for a 4 p.m. tilt. Both are OCL opponents.

OBITUARIES

Lillian H. Stockman, 80
Waitress For Many Years

A funeral Mass for Lillian Helena (Powers) Stockman, 80, of Plymouth, formerly of Quincy, was celebrated March 27 at Sacred Heart Church.

Mrs. Stockman died March 24 at Life Care in Plymouth.

A retired waitress, she worked many years at the former Hugo's Lighthouse in Cohasset, the Copley Plaza in Boston and at many resorts in Florida during the winter season.

She was born in Boston and lived in Quincy for many years.

Wife of the late Walter Stockman, she is survived by two daughters, Joanne Corbett of Marshfield and Irene Hoehle of Minnesota; two brothers, Edward Powers of Quincy and William Powers of Brockton; two sisters, Dorothy Connelly of Brockton and June Douglas of California; 13 grandchildren, and many great-grandchildren, nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St.

Alice M. Carter, 85

A private funeral service was held for Alice M. (Wartovich) Carter, 85, of Quincy.

Mrs. Carter died March 24 at the St. Joseph Nursing Care Center, Boston.

Born, raised and educated in South Boston, she moved to Quincy in 1945 when she married the late Raymond "Nick" Carter.

She is survived by two sons, Raymond N. Carter Jr. of Brockton and Paul A. Carter of Plympton; a daughter, Susan M. Carter of Dorchester; three sisters, Eleanor Chaisson of Rockland, Anna Murray of South Boston and Rose Crosby of Florida; and two grandsons.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St.

Donations may be made to the Maryknoll Missionaries, Maryknoll, N.Y. 10545.

George D. Reardon, 81
Civic Leader, Businessman

A funeral Mass for George D. Reardon, 81, a native of Quincy and a prominent South Shore businessman, will be celebrated by Fr. James Rafferty, pastor of St. Paul's Church in Hingham, today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. in Resurrection Church, 1057 Main St., South Hingham.

Mr. Reardon died March 28 at his Hingham home after a long illness.

Born in Quincy on July 30, 1916, he was a longtime resident of Hingham, and vacationed on Freese Island, Maine and Montserrat, B.W.I. The son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Daniel B. Reardon of Quincy, he graduated from St. John's School and Quincy High School and attended Thayer Academy and Bowdoin College.

After early employment at the Quincy Trust Company, he entered the U.S. Army during World War II as a member of military intelligence and was present at the liberation of Paris, the Battle of the Bulge, and the crossing of the Rhine.

Following the war, he became personnel manager at Pneumatic Scale Corp. in North Quincy and then founded President Chevrolet in 1953. The company, located on Southern Artery, served South Shore customers for more than 20 years. Mr. Reardon was president of the South Shore Auto Dealers Association, vice president of the Chevrolet Dealers Association and was recognized as General Motors' Man of the Year in 1968.

He was a member of the Board of Directors of the Quincy Trust Company, a director of its successor, Hancock Bank and a trustee of Quincy Savings Bank. He supported the formation of new community-based banks and businesses including the Lincoln Bank of Hingham, eventually purchased by the South Shore Community Bank; The Quincy Sun, and The Hingham Times.

Mr. Reardon helped to shape the creation of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the second largest suburban Chamber in the United States, representing 26 communities and some 2,000 members. As the Chamber's second president in 1973 and 1974, he was a strong proponent of the extension of the MBTA Red Line to South Quincy and South Braintree. On that issue, he repeatedly said, "If we can put a man on the moon, we can't be rebuild the railroad bridge over the Neponset River?"

GEORGE D. REARDON

Eric Swider, the former South Shore Chamber executive director, recalls Mr. Reardon's summing up his years of service by singing to the Frank Sinatra ballad, "I Did It My Way," at the Chamber's annual meeting.

In addition to his work at the Chamber, Mr. Reardon was active in many local and regional business, charitable, and community initiatives. He was chairman of the Red Feather Campaign of Quincy's Community Chest, predecessor to The United Way; president of the Parents' Club of Thayer Academy, chairman of the Advisory Committee of the Quincy Vocational-Technical School; member of the Town of Hingham Advisory Board, trustee of the Labour School of Nursing, and the first treasurer of the South Shore Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Reardon married childhood friend Ruth Salter of Arlington and Post Island (Quincy) and they celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary in 1996. She predeceased her husband in December, 1996. The Reardons enjoyed music, sailing, travel, bowling and golf. He was a lifelong member of the Neighborhood Club of Quincy, and a member of the Wollaston Golf Club, the Hingham Yacht Club, and the Cohasset Golf Club. He and his wife traveled extensively, culminating in an around-the-world cruise

John M. Bille Sr., 66
Retired Quincy Fire Lieutenant

A funeral Mass for John M. Bille Sr., 66, of Quincy, was celebrated March 28 in St. Ann's Church.

Mr. Bille died March 25 at home.

He was a retired lieutenant with the Quincy Fire Department.

He served with Engine 4 on Beale Street and worked for the department for 32 years before retiring in 1990. He was secretary of the Quincy Firefighters Relief Association.

Mr. Bille served in the Coast Guard from 1949 to 1952.

He was an active member of the board of directors of the Quincy Municipal Credit Union. He was president of St. Moritz Youth Hockey and was involved with the organization for more than 20 years.

He was born in Boston.

Mr. Bille is survived by his wife, Josephine (Bonnano) Bille; two sons, John M. Bille Jr. of Rockland and James M. Bille of Quincy; a daughter, Joanne Grasselli of Quincy; a brother, Thomas Bille of Randolph; a sister, Josephine Nichols of Bridgewater; and 10 grandchildren.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St.

Donations may be made to the American Lung Association, 1505 Commonwealth Ave., Brighton, MA 02135 or the John M. Bille Scholarship Trust Fund for St. Moritz Youth Hockey, 24 Adams St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Your Horoscope
by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) If you're less possessive with a loved one, this person will listen to reason. Partners are on the same wave length this week. Later, a pep talk brings family members together to rally for a common cause.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Travel plans could include a visit with an old friend. Save time for reading, writing and arithmetic. You sometimes concentrate too heavily on the esoteric and ignore the basics.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your single-minded dedication to a project this week is admirable, but it's time to welcome suggestions from others. A turning point will shortly be reached. Cooperation with co-workers is what urges this to fruition.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It's time to finish one project and get on to the next. You're very effective in dealings with higher-ups, so make your move. Don't be afraid to aim for the sky.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Buying and selling are favored activities. Domestic interests are highlighted as well, although you could take time out for sports later in the week. Couples enjoy going out this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Expect some stimulating talks with friends who are on your intellectual level. Getting the facts you need this week should be your main priority. Continue your research toward that end.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A monetary plan is revamped for the better. Intuition aids your career, but it's common sense that dictates your current financial moves. You are happily surprised at the solution to a pressing dilemma this weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) It's a good time for self-promotion since you're able to communicate your ideas effectively. Meet with advisers or start your own personal publicity campaign. This is a good week to talk to superiors about raises.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Insisting on your own way won't get you what you want. However, charm, persuasiveness and a generally reasonable approach work wonders. Remember that compromise is your watchword this weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You'll be going out and about more than usual. The accent is on romance and leisure activities. Financial interests prosper thanks to your careful planning and attention.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Job matters are highlighted this week when you should be able to get new assignments or add to your income. Accept a fun invitation to go away for the weekend. In fact, singles meet with exciting new romantic prospects.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Partners play a more important role in your life in the near future. Social life continues at a merry pace for you. A future getaway is on the agenda and plans can be made for it.

Citizens Assn. Begins 'Best Ideas Contest' For Downtown Revitalization

The Quincy Citizens and Wollaston Park Associations invite Quincy residents to join in their "Best Ideas Contest" for the retail revitalization of Quincy's downtown.

The contest runs through June 1 and the prize is $100. Residents can present their ideas for bringing desirable stores and businesses that attract customers and satisfy their own shopping needs.

The contest will be discussed at the civic group's April 8 meeting at 7:30 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 12 Hunt St., North Quincy. All are invited to attend.

The contest winner will be presented with the $100 award June 20 at noon at a Quincy Neighborhood Club luncheon.

Residents are also invited to send in nominations for "The Citizen of the Year Award" which will give in recognition of the exceptional community service done throughout the years by one of Quincy's unsung heroes or heroines.

Entries for both contests are limited to 200 words and should be sent to the Quincy Citizens and Wollaston Park Associations, Box 125, Wollaston, MA 02170 by June 1.

The QCA invites all interested Quincy voters to attend the April 8 meeting and join the association. Refreshments will be served.

The QCA was established in 1967 as Quincy's Voice of the People and was successful in limiting the residential building height to six stories, to preserve Quincy's historical and suburban character.

ORDER NO. 98-030

ORDERED

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy as follows:

That the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1992, as amended, be further amended as follows:

In Title 5, Chapter 5.12 Hackney Carriages, Section 060. Rates of Fares.

Amend the following: The fare for the conveyance of passengers in metered and unmetered hackney carriages shall not exceed the following rates: For the conveyance of one or more passengers from one place to another within the city, not more than one dollar and fifty cents for the first one quarter of a mile or portion thereof, and twenty-five cents for each additional eighth of a mile; use time at the rate of twenty-four dollars per hour, a change of ten cents may be charged for each additional passenger carried.

When a carriage is engaged to carry a passenger a distance of less than that from the carriage stand to the place where the passenger enters the carriage, the passenger may be charged the fare from the carriage stand to the place where the passengers enter the carriage.

Special flat rates for metered and unmetered hackney carriages may be arranged for mileage covered under the direction of any passengers not to exceed the rate.

These provisions are to be posted in all licensed cabs in the city at all times. This notice is to be posted in all hackney carriages within one week of passage.

PASSED TO BE ORDAINED MARCH 16, 1998.

equipment, and increased marketing and maintenance. "That would mean the fewest layoffs," said Ryan.

"Plan B would provide about half the necessary funding for the strategic initiatives, resulting in more layoffs.

"Plan C would fully fund the strategic initiatives, which would result in the highest number of layoffs.

A fourth possibility,

Ryan said, is that a new proposal or a combination of the above three could be chosen as the most desirable.

Ryan noted that he would like to keep the number of layoffs down, but he is "not optimistic" that will be possible.

"Clearly, it's tough when you have to omit people...but I'm leaning toward funding the strategic initiatives," he said.

He added that he will make a recommendation about what action to take before the Board of Governors meeting on April 24.

The actual number of layoffs that would result from each of the three plans under consideration was still being determined at press time.

Ryan said he also wants to meet with Mayor James Sheets and the City Council to discuss what he termed "a couple of fairness issues" in the hopes of obtaining more money for the college.

The first issue is the college's annual payment of rent for the facilities it uses. Under the provisions of a 1994 home-rule petition, the rent payment--a total of $217,000 a year--is used to help fund foreign language program in Quincy's middle schools.

Ryan said the college, given its current situation, could be relieved of that financial responsibility.

"We're the only city agency that pays rent for city buildings," he noted.

The second "fairness" issue pertains to the salaries of 13 Civil Service employees--including secretaries, custodians and security personnel--that the college leases from the Quincy Public Schools. The School Committee is going to negotiate a new contract with them, Ryan said, and the college will have no say concerning how much they are paid. He would like that situation changed if possible.

"I think these people should be part of the college budget," he said.

Ryan made the institution's financial woes public March 20 after Quincy College teachers obtained a confidential document saying the college would cut its budget by $1 million for Fiscal Year 1999 and may lay off as many as 20 teachers.

Last week, Sheets told The Quincy Sun he has no plans to use monies from Quincy's municipal budget to aid the college, despite the fact he has the right to do so. Those monies, he said, must be used for the police, fire and other city departments.

Still, Sheets was speaking at the time about funds in the city's cash reserve, not something such as the college's rent payments.

Quincy College has campuses in Quincy Center and Plymouth, with satellite campuses in Springfield, North Quincy and Wareham and one planned for Boston. The student-to-teacher ratio is about 18 to 1.

There are 50 full-time teachers and 300 part-time teachers at the college, including five full-timers and 50 part-timers at Plymouth.

Enrollment at the college's main campus in Quincy Center dropped this year from about 4,800 students (full and part-time) in the fall to around 4,300 this spring. In 1995, the campus had just over 5,200 students.

During the same time, however, the Plymouth campus has grown to 600 students.

Because the college receives no city or state tax money, it relies almost entirely on student tuition and fees.

To Celebrate The Life Of John Quincy Adams

Kolson Invites Spielberg, Hopkins To Visit Quincy

City Councillor Peter Kolson has invited the director and one of the stars of the 1997 film "Amistad" to come to Quincy to celebrate the life of President John Quincy Adams. The city is embarking on a year-long celebration of the life of Adams, the nation's sixth president and a Quincy native.

Steven Spielberg directed the critically-acclaimed film and Sir Anthony Hopkins was nominated for an Academy Award for Best Supporting Actor for his portrayal of Adams.

The story depicts Adams in his post-White House years and his role in saving members of the West African Mendi tribe from slavery while he served as a Congressman. For his help,

HOPKINS AS ADAMS

Adams received a Bible from the tribe that was stolen from the Adams National Historic Site in Quincy in late 1996 but recovered in early 1997.

Kolson wrote to Spielberg and Hopkins about the city's Adams celebration this week, telling them the city would be honored to have one or both of them visit the city at a time of their choice.

"Your participation would add even greater dignity, importance, excitement and enjoyment to any program to honor the memory of this distinguished gentleman and highlight his accomplishments," he wrote.

Southern Artery Name Change OK'd

The Quincy Park Department's plan to rename a portion of Southern Artery "Merrymount Parkway" by sometime this spring was approved by the City Council Monday night.

Park Department Executive Director Thomas Koch originally proposed the name change in February. A public hearing on the matter was held two weeks ago, with Koch the only person speaking.

Koch told The Quincy Sun when he first made the proposal that the idea of the name change—which will affect Southern Artery from Hancock Street to Furnace Brook Parkway—coincides appropriately with the department's master plan for historical renovations to the park. Koch noted that the park, donated to the city by Charles Francis Adams in 1885, was dissected in 1928 when the state decided to build Route 3A, which includes Southern Artery. He said the feeling at the Park Department is the name change makes sense in conjunction with the other work planned.

In addition to the name change, that portion of Southern Artery will receive additional trees and flower beds to beautify the area. Other changes that would make the roadway safer—including a lower speed limit and/or a traffic signal near Collins Rest-A-While and Veterans Memorial Stadium—are also a possibility.

No residential homes will be affected by the name change.

In fact, the only address change will be that of the Park Department, currently located at 100 Southern Artery. He said that change will be a welcome one, because the mail for the department sometimes goes to the senior citizens complex at 1000 Southern Artery—and vice versa.

Neighborhood Meeting On Proposed WQ Project April 14

Ward 4 City Councillor Michael D'Amico and the Ward 4 Neighborhood Association will hold a joint neighborhood meeting to discuss a proposed West Quincy development project Tuesday, April 14.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at the Ward 4

Community Center, 100 Brooks Ave., South Quincy.

The topic will be the Congress Venture plan to develop 1,600-plus units on Quarry Street. A number of department heads from the city will be in attendance and the developer also has been invited.

Library Trustees To Meet April 13

The Library Board of Trustees will meet Monday, April 13 in the Art Gallery of the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.,

Quincy Center. The planned addition to be built onto the main library building and other matters will be discussed.

Are Your Joints Hurting?

Chiropractic care can often help joint pain in your hand, wrist, elbow, shoulder, ankle or knee. This pain can be caused from repetitive motion, slips, falls, accidents and overexertion. Terms like "frozen shoulder", "runner's knee" and "carpal tunnel syndrome" are often used to describe conditions associated with joint pain.

When joint function is impaired there can be inflammation, calcium buildup, scar tissue and a decreased range of motion. Chiropractic can help restore normal motion to joints that are locked up, in turn helping to speed the healing process.

'He'll Do A Great Job' New QHA Director Gets Comer's Endorsement

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The hiring of John "Jack" Mather as the new executive director of the Quincy Housing Authority has received another impressive endorsement, this time from his predecessor.

John "Jake" Comer, who served as the QHA's executive director for 15 years before his retirement last year, said the authority has in its new leader both a quality professional and a quality person.

Comer's comments to The Quincy Sun follow similar praise Mather received last week from Mayor James Sheets.

Comer said he has known Mather, who has 22 years of public housing experience and most recently served as director of the Brockton Housing Authority's Office of Family Independence and Residential Initiatives, for 15 years.

He also served with him on the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials (NAHRO) Legislative Committee that votes on what legislation should be filed to support housing and lobbies state senators and representatives on such issues. The committee currently is chaired by Mather.

"I have great respect for Jack," said Comer. "I was pleased when I heard he was the final selectee. He's more than qualified. He's also more experienced than I was when I first started."

"I think Jack will be fair and innovative. He knows housing. Like any new director, I'm sure he'll want to start some new programs. But knowing his background, I'm sure he'll also continue to uphold what's already been done."

Comer predicted that the

JAKE COMER

authority will continue to prosper under Mather's leadership.

"He'll do a great job," he said. "And having (Assistant Director) Jackie Loud as a backup will be an outstanding asset for him."

He added that Mather, as a former Catholic priest, also has a great compassion necessary for the job.

"And I want him to know that if I can help him in any way, I will," said Comer. "If he needs to call me about anything, he can."

The QHA enjoyed more than its fair share of success stories while Comer was there, including the establishment of two day care facilities in Germantown and the Manet Community Health Center in Houghs Neck. It also stepped up security following the rape of an elderly woman at one of its facilities a few years ago and is one of only two authorities in the state (Fall River being the other) to cap the number of mentally handicapped people that can live in one of its senior facilities.

In 1996, the QHA was ranked first among all authorities in Massachusetts of comparable size. It was the only authority in the state with more than 2,000 units to receive an "ex-

Signage Ordinance Public Hearing May 18

The City Council and Quincy Planning Board will hold a joint public hearing Monday, May 18 at 7 p.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall to discuss a proposed downtown signage ordinance.

A special committee spent 18 months revamping the city's existing signage law resulting in the new ordinance currently pending before the council.

Adams Site Opens With Interactive Program April 19

On Sunday, April 19, the National Park Service, Adams National Historic Site will open the 1998 season with a special day-long program.

The Adams Site invites the public to picture themselves in 1775 as Patriot refugees fleeing British-occupied Boston. In the interactive program, visitors will play colonial crafts and trades people and demonstrate their skills at the Adams family farm (the Adams Birthplaces, 133 and 141 Franklin St.).

Artist Courtney Skinner will portray a traveling "shadow portraitist" and participants can enter a drawing to win a silhouette portrait. Edwin Page will portray an 18th century doctor. Douglas Neumann will be on hand with his collection of 18th century military artifacts.

At 1 p.m., the Middlesex County Volunteers Fife and Drum Corps, a world-renowned ensemble of regimental musicians, will perform. Participants later will be able to enjoy a cup of cider and slice of "Liberty Cake."

All activities will take place at the Adams Birthplaces. The program is free but space is limited and reservations are required. For reservations, call 770-1175.

Central Forum Meeting April 15

The next meeting of the Central Forum will be held Wednesday, April 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the Learning Center at Central Middle School.

Information regarding the proposed relocation of Central to the current Quincy High School site will be discussed. All parents of Central's elementary feeder schools are welcome.

The Nimitz Connection

Unless you recently dropped in from Mars, you know about John Adams, John Quincy Adams and John Hancock.

But maybe not the Quincy connection to other famous names or historic events.

Examples:

Wallis Warfield Spencer who became the Duchess of Windsor when King Edward VIII gave up his throne in 1936 "for the woman I love," lived in a second floor apartment on Davis St. in Wollaston in 1917 while her then husband, Lt. Earle Spencer, headed a Navy air training school in Squantum.

EARHART

Famed aviatrix Amelia Earhart whose disappearance in the Pacific on an around-the-world flight in 1937 is still a mystery, took flying lessons in the 1920's at the old Dennison Airport in North Quincy where she was part owner.

Harriet Quimby, the first woman to earn a pilot's license and the first woman to fly the English Channel in 1911, was killed at an air meet in Squantum in 1912 when she and her passenger, William Willard, manager of the meet, fell out of her plane and plunged into Dorchester Bay.

Richard Byrd, who became the famed North Pole explorer, was once stationed at the Squantum Naval Air Base as a commander.

You might have heard about their Quincy connections.

But how about Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz who directed the U.S. Naval operations in the Pacific after Japan's sneak attack at Pearl Harbor?

He married a Quincy girl, Catherine Vance Freeman, here in 1913. Today (Thursday) would have been their 85th wedding anniversary.

World War II Army veteran Leonard Morris, who doesn't let much get by him and is now one of the spearheads for a planned World War II memorial, brought the Nimitz connection to our attention.

He obtained a copy of the marriage certificate showing that Nimitz, then 28, and Catherine, 21, were wed April 9, 1913 by Rev. Carl G. Horst who was minister of the then Wollaston Unitarian Church, on Winthrop Ave., Wollaston where Wollaston Congregational Church is now located.

The first marriage for both, they were married at her family's home at 40 Grand View Ave., Wollaston. Her father, Richard, was a former city council president.

They apparently met while Nimitz was in Quincy waiting for his submarine to be outfitted at the Fore River Shipyard.

Nimitz years later recalled his marriage to Catherine as "the happiest day of my life."

His name was one of the most famous of World War II as commander in chief of the Pacific fleet.

He brought the Navy roaring back to life after the Pearl Harbor disaster winning such key battles as Midway, the Solomons, the Gilbert and Marshall Islands, the Marianas, Philippines, Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

He was there aboard the USS Missouri with General Douglas MacArthur as a signer for the U.S. at the Japanese surrender ceremonies Sept. 1, 1945.

Nimitz died in February, 1966, in San Francisco following a stroke, just before his 81st birthday. Catherine, a daughter and a grandson were at his bedside.

DUCHESS

The Admiral Nimitz Museum was established in Fredericksburg, Tex. where he was born.

According to the museum, there were four children, three daughters and a son. The latter followed in his father's footsteps and became an admiral.

The museum says Mrs. Nimitz died "several years after" her husband's death, but that the children are still living, although it doesn't say where.

WORDS CAN NEVER undo a tragedy, but they can help people get through one.

Even as devastating and shocking as the one in Jonesboro, Ark. where four young middle school students and a heroic teacher were gunned down by 11 and 13 year-old boys.

Mayor James Sheets and City Council President Peter Kolson tried to help ease the pain for residents there with a letter to Jonesboro Mayor Hubert Brodell on behalf of Quincy residents.

SHEETS

KOLSON

The letter's text: "It is with heartfelt sympathy that we write to you and your grieving community after the shocking tragedy that took place this week at the Westside Middle School.

"We want you to know that as fellow Americans, we share the immense pain that you are feeling in Jonesboro, Arkansas. We pray that your community will join together and gather strength from each other.

"We have been deeply saddened but, try as we may, we cannot express the depth of our sorrow. You have suffered such a tremendous loss and we mourn with you. Our hearts go out to all of you.

"We would like to send a message of hope—never to be lost. God bless everyone in Jonesboro from the citizens of Quincy, Massachusetts. We wish you peace and comfort."

Little things, like a letter, can mean a lot at a time of tragedy.

THERE WAS A light moment at this week's City Council meeting as the Quincy High School hockey team was honored for reaching the South Sectional final in the Division 1 Hockey tournament.

QHS Principal Bob Keuther asked City Council President Peter Kolson and Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymond both of whom played football at Quincy if they had ever played hockey.

Raymond, with a wide smile, replied: "Somehow the thought of Peter Kolson on skates scares me."

Kolson, chuckling, responded: "It scares everyone else, too."

(No, they never played hockey.)

YOU CAN'T KEEP a good man down. Or a good woman, either.

It's been a long road to full recovery for Anneli Johnson, who organizes the Quincy Farmer's Market for the Massachusetts Department of Food and Agriculture, but she's getting there.

Anneli fractured her left hip Christmas Eve in a fall while ice skating with a granddaughter at Shea Rink. She will be off the crutches this week in favor of a cane.

But she hasn't let the injury slow her down. She's already busy getting ready for this year's Farmer's Market as you can see by her letter on Page 5.

She's looking forward to parting with the cane.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1950 POSTCARD published by Winfield and Lena Strout, proprietors of the Winfield House Restaurant on Hancock Street in Wollaston. Opened before World War II, the family operated this restaurant for 50 years until it closed in 1987. In its early years the Winfield House was famous for its chicken dinners. The family lived over the restaurant and raised the chickens in the big old barn at the back of the property. The main dining room was the Knotty Room with its pine paneling and decorations of antique plates around the tops of the walls. They named the smaller Mural Room for the peaceful scenic murals that they had painted on its walls. There were more dining rooms upstairs. The cozy cocktail lounge was a favorite destination for local customers who enjoyed the nightly live music at the piano and Hammond organ. Many regulars brought their own instruments or just their voices to add to the entertainment. On Thanksgiving Eve there was always a pre-game rally here. And on the day of the big game, hundreds of North Quincy and Quincy High alumni would come here to meet old friends. A few weeks ago this wonderful old landmark was demolished to make way for an expanding Nazarene College. To the Strouts, we say, thanks for the memories.

Remembering Victims Of The Holocaust

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

During World War II, Norwegians wore red hats and vests to show their opposition to Hitler's Nazi regime, but the practice was soon outlawed.

The protesters then decided to wear paper clips because they were readily available and less obvious.

However, Nazi troops uncovered the new code and made wearing paper clips illegal as well.

In 1980 Congress established the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council and the annual Days of Remembrance commemoration.

This year the Outreach

Ministry of Bethany Congregational is promoting the wearing of paper clips during the 1998 Days of Remembrance (April 19-25) to honor the victims of the Holocaust and to denounce racism and discrimination.

We would like to urge all who feel strongly about this cause to proudly wear a paper clip prominently displayed on their clothing and to explain the reason for same to anyone who inquires.

Crops Lost To Weather Will Result In High Produce Prices

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The sudden temperature fluctuations and the severe floods in the southeastern region of the United States and the loss of crops to frost and floods is enormous. As a result, we can expect higher produce prices in the coming months.

Therefore, it is important to reevaluate and assess the role of local agricultural production. When natural disasters strike, such as the ones we have witnessed this year, one can be thankful that this region has been saved, in fact has enjoyed an unusually mild and pleasant winter.

Our peach and apple orchard have not suffered thus far from frost or floods, and as consumers we can look forward to tempting tree ripened local peaches and sun drenched tomatoes. And, our strawberry fields are expected to be ready for picking from mid June to mid July.

These natural disasters also make us take notice that it is vital that we try to preserve our own area farming, and reduce our dependency on imported food stuff. Massachusetts, according to the Department of Food and Agriculture statistics, imports over 85 percent of its food needs from out of state or from foreign countries.

One asks, "How can consumers go about preserving local farming?" Simply by buying locally grown produce during the growing season by shopping at their farmers' markets, farm stands, or by picking their own fruits and vegetables from the farms offering this service. Many farms are expanding their pick-your-own operation to include such specialties as raspberries, herbs, flowers and even chopping down your own Christmas tree when the time comes. Lists of these farms are available from the Massachusetts Department of Food and Agriculture 24-hour line (617) 727-3000, ext. 187 or by www.massgov.org.

To further address the needs of public, retail shops and restaurants, Quincy Farmers' Market, an open air public market, announces that it will accept inquiries about various kinds of produce and their availability, and pass requests along to farmers who sell at the market. Also, chefs are invited to browse and look over the farm fresh produce and make contacts with their farmers. Quincy Farmers' Market is starting the end of June on Fridays at the John Hancock Municipal parking lot.

Requests can be made by writing to Quincy Farmers' Market, c/o 36 Garfield St., Quincy, MA 02169 or by calling (617) 479-1601.

Praises City Officials For Tree Replacements

[The following letter addressed to Quincy Park Department Executive Director Thomas Koch was submitted by the author for publication.]

Dear Mr. Koch:

Your timely environmental response to a community concern has not gone unnoticed and is greatly appreciated. On behalf of a concerned community, I applaud your efforts and those of the City of Quincy Park Department employees. You all deserve an A-plus.

The replacement of the trees along Hancock and Beal streets will help to cushion the harsh effects of urban traffic. These trees also offer some beautification that can be enjoyed in the present and also as a legacy for the future.

And lastly but not forgotten, recognition belongs to the person who allowed this important work to go forward: Mayor James Sheets. Hopefully, with a continued and dedicated effort, this city can really achieve the true distinction of a greener City of Quincy. Keep up the good work.

Once again, many thanks to all of you for your interest in these community environmental concerns.

Edsels Purchased For Police

By PAUL HAROLD

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa announced this week that the city, for the first time, would be using Ford Edsels to replace its fleet of station wagons and sedans for the police department.

The mayor's decision came following a low bid by Fore River Motors, and on the advice of Chief William Ferrazzi, who confirmed "good reports on performance from other departments."

Purchasing Agent Thomas Morrissey listed Fore River Motors as the low bidder with a price of $4,870 (with trade ins) for five station wagons and $2,172 for three sedans. Other bidders were North Quincy Garage, Granite Motor Sales and President Chevrolet.

In papers filed at the Norfolk Probate Court, it was revealed that Mrs. Jessie Dawes left her entire estate, including her bungalow at 657 Quincy Shore Drive, to the city.

Jessie was the widow of the late Dr. Franklin Dawes, a Boston and South Shore dentist and a prominent yachtsman. The Quincy Trust Company was executor of the estate.

The will provided for use of the bungalow by groups with charitable purposes.

BURKE SEEKS NUCLEAR SHIP CONTRACTS

Cong. James Burke took issue with the Navy's announcement that Fore River would not be asked to bid on the three remaining Polaris-type submarines, because the yard "did not have the experience to bid on the ships."

"This is another case of when the administration has arbitrarily decided against the best interests of Massachusetts," Burke said.

The Navy's decision was somewhat puzzling because in a TV broadcast last week, Sen. Leverett Saltonstall and Admiral Hyman Rickover said, "Quincy can expect a large share of the forthcoming nuclear ship construction by the Navy."

THOSE OLD SLEEP PROBLEMS

Sleep problems are so common after age 60 or so that they could almost be considered a normal part of old age. Natural changes that go along with aging include a decrease in the amount of nighttime sleep needed, an increase in daytime napping, more awakenings during the night, and an overall drop in sleep efficiency. There are times, however, when changes in sleep patterns can become a serious threat to an elderly person's physical and mental health—and then it's time to get help. For example, sleep apnea, or disrupted breathing, can have a variety of causes, all resulting in serious sleep loss. Snoring is also prevalent among the elderly, and can be a sign of sleep-disordered breathing.

If you are having trouble sleeping, talk with your doctor. Simple remedies, such as getting enough exercise, can make a huge difference in the depth of your sleep. Better to find out what help is available than to suffer needlessly. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. Even small amounts of alcohol can have a devastating effect on sleep patterns. Anyone with sleep problems should avoid alcohol at bedtime.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Easter Side Dish

Here is a different and delicious way to prepare potatoes for an Easter dinner. I'm preparing this to accompany the ham and roast beef we're having.

It can be prepared the day before which is a big plus!

Cheese Potato Crisp Casserole
 3 cups raw potatoes, shredded
 2 cups sour cream
 2 cups shredded cheddar cheese
 1 can cream of chicken soup
 1/2 cup diced onion
 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon pepper
 2 cups crushed corn flakes (for topping)

Mix all ingredients together, place in an ungreased 9 x 13 pan and top it with the corn flakes and drizzle the butter or margarine over the pan.

Bake uncovered in a 350 degree oven for one hour. It cuts like a dream.

Happy Easter!

"Life is easier when we have a helping hand."

--Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers

Helping Hand is a free service for Quincy residents who need the use of wheelchairs, walkers, commodes, hospital beds, crutches, canes and other ambulatory healthcare aids. Just have it picked up at Helping Hand's storage facility in North

Quincy. You may use the equipment as long as necessary. For more information, call 376-1341 or 472-9877.

Council Backs Second E911 Site At Fire Dept.

The city's plan to set up a second Emergency 911 site at Quincy's fire headquarters received crucial support from the City Council Monday night.

The council voted unanimously to ask Mayor James Sheets for a $9,348 appropriation request that will fund the change. The appropriation would be approved by the council upon receipt of the request.

However, the plan may end up in a legal battle between the city and the state E911 board.

John Sciara, a member of the board, told councillors he expects the board to reject the proposal by the Quincy Firefighters Association because the state's agreement with Bell Atlantic allows no modification of the E911 system in operation in all 351 communities in Massachusetts.

Sciara, a Rockland firefighter, added that the change would set a precedent for other Massachusetts communities, which could cause problems for the E911 board and the phone company, which supplied the equipment for the system.

The state board should review the city's plan in June after getting a report from Bell Atlantic and make a decision shortly thereafter.

Sciara said the board also has asked Kathleen O'Toole, the state's public safety executive secretary, for a legal opinion on whether it still has final approval over local E911 systems.

The city is the only Massachusetts community permitted to open a second E911 site. The state Legislature passed a home-rule petition for the change in November after the board rejected Quincy's initial request.

Despite Sciara's comments, the council unanimously endorsed the firefighters' proposal, which calls for a $9,348 monitoring system to be installed by a Hingham communications firm, SESCO Inc.

Among the firm's clients is the MBTA, which uses similar electronics systems to run its commuter rail lines and subway.

In addition, the council endorsed a request from Fire Chief Thomas Gorman to replace aging radio transmission equipment. The equipment is over 20 years old, according to the chief.

Quincy Data Processing Director Charles Phelan told councillors SESCO's design would not alter the six-line E911 system that operates from the Quincy Police Station. It would take the audio signal from the logging recorder, the system's end point, and amplify all six lines at fire headquarters where two firefighters would listen in at the touch of a lighted button, he said.

The change would provide even faster response to fire and medical emergencies, according to fire officials, and would not tamper with calls going into the E911 center.

'Ransom Of Red Chief' At Broad Meadows

Students at Broad Meadows Middle School will present "The Ransom of Red Chief" in April.

On Monday, April 13 at 9 a.m., a dress rehearsal will be performed for students from the Snug Harbor, Merrymount and Atherton Hough schools.

Show dates are April 14 at 7 p.m. and April 15 at 2 and 7 p.m. Cost for the evening shows is $2 for students, $4 for adults. Cost for the matinee performance is $1 for students, $3 for adults.

Curbside Waste Collection Begins April 24

The Quincy Department of Public Works, in cooperation with Browning Ferris Industries, Inc. (BFI) has announced the kick-off of a bi-annual yard waste collection program.

Curbside collection of yard waste will begin Monday, April 13 and ends Friday, April 24. There are specific guidelines for residents taking advantage of the program:

• All yard waste must be placed in uncovered barrels, cardboard boxes or in 30-gallon biodegradable paper bags.

• Containers must be placed curbside by 7 a.m. on the day of pickup.

• Leaves in plastic bags will not be picked up.

• This is a very successful program for the city, keeping an estimated 20,000 tons of recyclable material out of nearby landfills," said Mayor James Sheets. "Furthermore, composting yard waste allows us to provide rich loam to Quincy citizens at no charge—a valuable community service."

BFI, as the city's municipal waster contractor, will tag improperly prepared leaves so those residents clearly understand why a bag was left behind.

Biodegradable paper bags are available at local retail outlets including Home Depot, Shaw's Supermarkets, Stop n' Shop and Roche Bros. If residents prefer, yard waste can be brought to the Department of Public Works, 55 Sea St. from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday and from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Leadership Quincy Program Underway

A program called Leadership Quincy is being held to assist existing community leaders and create a committed, involved and diverse network of young leaders in the city.

The program is a cooperative effort between Quincy College and the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Leadership Quincy gives participants the opportunity to learn from today's specialists and helps create, in a small group, a communications network between present and future community leaders.

The purpose is to develop each individual's awareness of the community while simultaneously promoting new leadership on an ongoing basis. As the group becomes aware of the challenges in our community and the opportunities for growth, they will be better able to develop the best and most creative solutions.

The program, comprised of 12 seminars, began March 5 and is being held for 10 consecutive weeks. The early morning time slot, 7:30 to 9 a.m., allows participants to start each Thursday with an opportunity for dialogue with community leaders and each other. Upon completion of the program, graduates are publicly recognized and receive certificates of achievement.

This year's group includes: Andrea Ayer, Boston Financial Data Services; Robert Bunstein, Fabricated Steel Supply Co.; Alex Lee, College of Management, UMass Boston; James Lockhead, vice president of corporate operations, Boston Financial Data Services; Maureen McGuire, Boston Financial Data Services; Maryrose Mirick, Quincy Hospital Health and Education Foundation; Claudia Rasmussen, Welch Health-care and Retirement Group at Hancock Park; Atty. Christopher Sheehan, Law Offices of Thomas Williams; Kristen Williams, Community Relations, BankBoston.

THE NOT-SO-SIMPLE SPRAIN

"Great, it's only a sprain!" elastic. Wrap gently but firmly, beginning behind the toes and working backward, foot or ankle injury, remember: A sprain can be just as serious as a break, and must always be treated with the utmost respect. The first line of treatment is usually to elevate the affected foot and apply ice packs. Anti-inflammatory medications (aspirin, ibuprofen) are generally recommended. Depending on the amount of damage to the ligaments, determined by a professional evaluation, treatment may call for stabilizing the foot with a soft-type cast, strapping or wrapping with

If you are suffering from these or any other foot related complaints call us at (617) 773-4300. We are located at 1261 Furnace Brook Pkwy., Suite #18, Quincy and are affiliated with Carney, Quincy and South Shore Hospitals.

P.S. Not treating a sprain in hopes it will just "go away" can lead to chronically weak ankles and arthritic complications.

Tired of big banks' "take-it-or-leave-it" attitude?

A big-city giant buys your bank. And – before you know it – fees go up, branches close, people disappear and they give you an 800 number that lets you queue up and wait to talk about your account. It's no fun! Want to escape? Come see us! We're Colonial Federal Savings Bank, a true neighborhood bank. (Yes, they do still exist!) We're strong, stable, independent and we can't be taken over or forced into a hostile merger. We have all the accounts those big-city banks offer – everything you need! – plus something they don't seem to have time for... attentive service from friendly people! Take our "NOW Checking Account." The minimum daily balance is only $250 ($100 with Direct Deposit) and you get your first order of checks free, a free ATM card, free telephone banking, nice people to deal with and you earn 1 1/2% interest. It's easy to switch. And we'll take care of all the paperwork! Call Jaime or Judy at 617-471-0750. Or return the coupon and we'll get back to you!

Josephine Shea Named To Policing Commission

Norfolk County Sheriff John Flood has appointed Special Sheriff Josephine Shea to serve as a representative of the Sheriff's Office on the Quincy Community Policing Commission.

Shea, a lifelong Quincy resident, brings 21 years of experience in the Sheriff's Office to the commission. She is second in command of the sheriff's $25 million operation. She said she hopes to make the services of the Sheriff's Office available as Quincy moves to a community policing program.

"So much of what we do is in the communities," said Shea. "By including us on the commission, we'll be able to continue to offer support to the communities and hopefully, find new ways to benefit the communities we serve."

In a letter to Shea, Mayor James Sheets said, "I am excited about the role the commission will play in deterring crime and improving the quality of life throughout the city. Thank you for your willingness to serve and for your continued efforts on behalf of the City of Quincy."

In addition to housing an average of 600 inmates each day, the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office provides many services to the county's communities, including grants for DARE programs, a DARE officer for communities unable to provide the program, the use of specially-trained canines in police searches for drugs and fugitives, and a weekend lock-up program which houses defendants at the Dedham correctional center for police departments.

Faculty Vote Premature, Says Ryan

a result of budget woes caused by slumping enrollment.

Fourteen of the college's 51 full-time faculty members were absent from the vote. Three part-timers also voted.

Faculty members said this week that although a vote of no confidence carries no legal weight, it will send a message to Ryan they do not approve of his plan to lay off full-time staff and expand short-term, non-degree programs.

The teachers agreed to send certified letters to the college president and 13 members of the Board of Governors notifying them of the vote.

Ryan said last week that between now and April 24, at least three budget plans would be considered for the next fiscal year which begins July 1. Budget meetings open to the entire college community will be held, he said.

In a best-case scenario for teachers, Ryan said the college could cut spending on computers and the library and maintenance, making it only necessary to cut only 10 full-time positions. In a worst-case scenario, fully funding those items would make it necessary to lay off as many as 21 teachers.

Two programs, communications and office technology, also will be cut because of enrollment problems.

The college's Plymouth campus will not be affected by the cuts.

cellent" rating.

Mather, for his part, said he enjoyed working with Comer on the NAHRO committee.

"I've known Jake as an asset and an ally, an active member who has worked hard for quality legislation for housing," he said.

Told of Comer's offer to help him, Mather replied, "That doesn't surprise me. Jake's that kind of person. He's always been someone who's willing to roll up his sleeves."

One of four finalists for the director's position, Mather, a resident of Halifax, was offered a three-year, $75,000-a-year contract by the QHA Board of Commissioners last week. He was hired after the board's first choice, Saugus Housing Authority Executive Director William Casamento, could not agree with the board on the terms of a contract two weeks ago.

Mather will begin work at the QHA—which at 2,600 units is slightly smaller than the 3,100-unit Brockton authority—on April 21.

Loud, the QHA's assistant director, has served as acting director since Comer's retirement.

Quincy High Hockey Team Honored By City Council

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The Quincy High School hockey team was honored by the City Council Monday night for advancing to the South Sectional final of the Division 1 Hockey Tournament this year.

Head coach Bob Sylvia and the team's assistant coaches and players received commendations for their successful season. Although the team lost to Needham, 4-3, in the final game last month, it was the furthest the Quincy High team had gone in 20 years.

The commendations were presented by Councilor Timothy Cahill and Ward 2 Councilor Daniel Raymond, both graduates of Quincy High.

"We're just very, very proud," said Cahill. "Thank you for a great season. It was very, very exciting."

Raymond noted that Quincy High School has had lot to endure this year, including the retirement of a principal and the death of a teacher. In such times, he said, a successful team can do wonders for a school's morale.

"Who can count what this team meant to the spirit of the school?" he said.

Also congratulating the team were City Council President Peter Kolson, another Quincy High graduate and Ward 6 Councilor Bruce Ayers, a graduate of rival North Quincy High School.

"You've really made the City of Quincy proud," said Ayers.

Quincy High Principal Robert Keuther Jr. told the councilor, "They've represented our school very well." Turning to the players, he said, "We do appreciate your effort."

Sylvia, Quincy High's hockey coach for more than 30 years, paid the players the ultimate compliment.

"This is certainly the best team I've ever coached," said Sylvia.

He also said it was thrilling for the team to play on the ice at the FleetCenter in Boston, where the Boston Bruins and other National Hockey League players make their living.

"It was the highest of highs, a great experience," he said.

The Quincy School Committee similarly honored the Quincy High team last month.

City Investigating Death Of Smelt Eggs

The city is trying to find a way to stop the death of smelt eggs in Town Brook.

Nearly a year after millions of the eggs were killed when brook levels dropped, marine biologists were stunned to recently again find masses of dead eggs in the brook.

Asked by Ward 5 City Councilor Stephen Durkin about the matter at Monday night's council meeting, Department of Public Works Commissioner David Colton said officials are still not exactly sure what is causing the water level. DPW crews have cleared out the brook, but the level is still low, he said.

"We're addressing every problem as quick as we can," said Colton, who added that the need to rebuild the nearby Braintree Dam is part of the problem. The city will continue to do what it can, he said.

State biologists have said that the millions of dead eggs are important because Town Brook, along with the Back River on the Weymouth-Hingham line and the Fore River in Braintree and Quincy form the best spawning grounds for smelt in the state. Smelt is an important link in the food chain, providing nourishment for bigger fish such as cod and haddock.

Scientists are concerned that if the brook's water flow is not increased soon, the spawning grounds could be ruined before the smelt run finishes in early May.

A FLUID SITUATION

Because a car's automatic transmission is such a complicated and expensive component, it pays to keep track of its condition by checking the level and condition of the transmission fluid. This involves locating the transmission fluid dipstick, usually at the rear of the engine compartment. To get an accurate reading, it is best to have the engine warmed and running. If the fluid is below the "add" line, transmission fluid should be added to the reservoir, taking care not to overfill. The fluid's color should be bright, cherry red. If it is darker, reddish brown, schedule an appointment to have the fluid changed. If the fluid is very dark and smells like varnish, the transmission could be damaged.

For more information, call 472-5817.

St. Joseph's To Open New Parking Lot On Easter Sunday

St. Joseph's Church in Quincy Point will open its new parking lot on Easter Sunday.

The church has been preparing for the new lot for almost a year and a half.

Nearly 18 months ago, a parcel next door to the church was sold. The Parish Council looked into the possibility of acquiring the land for additional church parking. The council discussed the matter with the Parish Finance Committee, Archdiocesan Chancery Office, Chancery Real Estate Office, Quincy License Board and others.

After several months of negotiations, the parish took a loan from the Archdiocesan Chancery to purchase the buildings and property from the proprietor, Theresa Abouzeid, through Daniel J. Flynn Real Estate & Co. The buildings were razed in February to prepare for the making of a new parking area.

"This parish expansion will be particularly helpful for funerals and weddings with their use of limousines as well as additional handicapped parking near the front entrance of the church," said Fr. Daniel Graham, pastor.

The new land has been cleared and a primer coat of asphalt has been installed. A decorative fence has been added and additional shrubs and landscaping will be added this spring as part of a master plan for the parish property developed by Mary Smith Associates of Quincy. The statue of St. Joseph in the rectory garden area will be moved to enhance the parking lot.

Parishioners have supported the project through a monthly building collection take up to help defray the parish loan.

St. Joseph's was built in 1917 before cars were used and when parishioners walked to church. The parish is now comprises of about 1,050 households in the Quincy Point area.

PSSB Pantry Shelf Seeks Food Donations

The Protestant Social Service Bureau (PSSB) Pantry Shelf is seeking donations of canned goods and non-perishable foods.

Bettyanne Muir-Lang, Pantry Shelf coordinator, said the PSSB is grateful to all the individuals, businesses and organizations that helped assist families this past holiday season, but added that more donations are always needed because hunger and poverty are on-going problems.

In addition to numerous individuals, churches and community organizations that contributed during the holidays include: Altrusa International, Bethany Congregational Church, Central Middle School, Christ Church, First Church in Scituate, First Trinitarian Congregational Church in Scituate, Houghs Neck Congregational Church, Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Memorial Congregational Church, North Quincy Senior Citizens, Quincy Foursquare Church, Sacred Heart Church, Second Parish Church of Hingham, Union Congregational Church and Winthrop Congregational Church of Holbrook.

Businesses that contributed include: Amer-sham/Sentinel, Blue Cross Blue Shield, Boston Financial Data Services, Colonial Federal Savings Bank, Corporate Software & Technology, Emerson Swan Co., Harvard Community Health Plan, Serono Labs, South Shore Savings Bank, Standard Uniform, State Street

Bank, Stop & Shop, and Video To Go.

"Without these folks, the holiday season would not have been very merry for many, many families in this area," said Muir-Lang. "But we had a busy January, and the shelves are almost bare again."

Items such as peanut butter, spaghetti sauce, cereal, crackers, soup, canned meats and vegetables, tuna, dry milk, pasta, jelly, baked beans, toiletry items and toilet paper are always needed.

Food donations may be dropped off at 776 Hancock St., Wollaston, weekdays between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. To arrange for pick-up of large donations, call 773-6203.

$43,177 Still Needed For Fire Dept. Lifesaving Equipment Project Hero Campaign At $6,823 Mark

Project Hero, the community campaign to raise $50,000 to purchase new life-saving equipment for the Quincy Fire Department, has reached the $6,823 mark.

The campaign, which has completed its third week, was launched by Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn, III and is co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

The $50,000, when reached, will enable the Quincy Fire Department to purchase two thermal imaging units—complex helmets which will enable firefighters to see through thick, dark smoke and flames to find and rescue occupants from houses and other buildings fires.

The newest "Quincy heroes" to make donations to help reach the $50,000 goal are:

G and G Commercial Systems Inc., Blue Hills Spring Water Co. Inc., Cody & Cody, LLC., Villa Rosa Restaurant, American Metalcraft Co. Inc., Fire and Rescue Training Inc., Dependable Cleaners, Wood Commercial Painting and Wallcovering, Mary A. Moore, Ralph L. Yobe, Patrick and Ann Mullin, John C. Shirriff, Frannie's Kitchen, Barbara D. Gil-land, John Rigas Co., Marion Gorbeg, Lydia E. Ciardi, Donovan Brothers Automotive Services, Mary L. Capiferri, Margaret E. Capiferri, Malachy and Mary Creaven, Jane E. Granstrom, and Barbara A. Giroux.

Each week The Quincy Sun is donating a full-page public service advertisement to document the progress of the campaign and thank those who contribute. By donating to the campaign everyone can be a hero.

To make donations, send a check payable to: Project Hero, P.O. Box 116, North Quincy, MA 02171.

Cheney Democratic Chairman

Cheney replied with a chuckle, "Well, I'm not in the same boat as him."

Cheney said he ran a campaign for the office because he believes he can bring "positive changes" such as setting up a World Wide Web site for the Democratic City Committee and encouraging people to become more involved in the electoral process.

"I thought it was time for a change," he said. "I have new ideas, particularly when it comes to education and information, and I hope to have an active year. But some of the changes will cost money, and I will call a meeting of officers within the next couple of weeks to discuss holding a fundraiser."

He also said he hopes to continue other events, such as the committee's annual breakfast.

Cheney replaces Alicia Coletti, who chaired the Democratic City Committee for four terms. Officers are elected annually.

Coletti told those at Saturday's meeting she was stepping down to spend more time with her grandchildren, Cheney said.

"I commended her at the meeting," he said. "She gave freely of her time for four years."

Cheney served as Quincy's Ward 1 councillor for five years and an at-large councillor for eight years before choosing not to run for re-election in November. He has been a Democratic ward committee member for 14 years and in that time has "been a delegate to all of the Democratic State Conventions with the exception of one," he said.

He had been elected as a delegate to this year's convention to be held in Worcester in June, but now will attend in an ex-officio capacity because of his new title. City Council President Peter Kolson, the Ward 1 councillor, had been elected as an alternate but now will take Cheney's place as a delegate.

Cheney also has served on various city boards and chaired family-oriented events such as First Night Quincy, Arts in the Parks and the Presidents Day Winter Festival.

Others elected at Saturday's annual meeting: Arthur Wahlberg and Barbara Morris, vice chairmen; Joanne Condon Walsh, treasurer; Dave Musgrave, corresponding secretary; and Ronald Mariano, sergeant-at-arms.

Harvard Pilgrim Donates $25,000 To Germantown Committee

The Harvard Pilgrim Health Care Foundation recently donated $25,000 to the Germantown Human Relations Committee to help develop a neighborhood anti-violence and self-help program in conjunction with Manet Community Health Center.

The donation was given as part of the foundation's Community Partnership Grant Program that gives annual awards to local community outreach efforts in areas of AIDS prevention, violence prevention, health promotion among the elderly and substance abuse prevention.

The Germantown Human Relations Committee recently celebrated 10 years of its work in supporting collaboration around service needs of Germantown residents. The committee began in response to the need to improve communications in the community. It brings together representatives of support systems from the Quincy Police Department and the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office to direct services in the schools, the Germantown Community Center and Manet Community Center.

The Germantown Human Relations Committee was formed under the auspices of Manet Community Health Center which serves the health care needs of South Shore residents. A multi-site, community-based health center, Manet works to ensure that its patients, many of whom are medically underserved, have access to all levels of the health care system.

Manet Community Health Center and the Germantown Human Relations Committee together have been a driving force in violence prevention outreach in the Germantown community. A strong proponent of preventative education and public health activities, Manet collaborates with other local agencies and organizations to identify health-related needs and the development of resources to meet those needs.

Manet has developed programs that teach children preventative strategies to combat against drug and alcohol abuse, offers classes for young parents in need of guidance and provides counseling services for those in need of someone to talk to as part of its medical services. The health center provides a safe place to turn to for young adults and children.

The Harvard Pilgrim Health Care Foundation is responsible for the philanthropic outreach of Harvard Pilgrim Health Care. A separate, non-profit corporation, the foundation's mission is to improve health through community service, clinical research, and medical education. It serves New England by funding community service programs that focus on the promotion of health through the prevention of illness.

Real answers on crime

"Sometimes a jail cell isn't the best answer."

— Jack Corrigan

As a former prosecutor, Jack Corrigan knows preventing crime is as important as prosecuting criminals.

Sure, violent teenagers need tough treatment.

But Jack Corrigan understands that 99% of juvenile offenders return to society. "It makes sense to offer non-violent juveniles alternative programs to help them straighten out," he said.

Tough talk isn't enough.

"Public fear of violent juveniles has led politicians to call for the worst kinds of 'sound bite justice,' such as trying all juveniles accused of felonies as adults," Jack Corrigan said. "Pushing those kids into our overcrowded prisons means releasing violent adults early, and exposing kids to a prison graduate course in crime."

Instead of turning non-violent juveniles into tomorrow's career criminals, Jack Corrigan has a plan to turn them into tomorrow's contributing citizens.

Alternatives that work.

"Most juvenile crimes are committed between 3 and 8 p.m.," Jack points out.

"We need new strategies to deal with the increasing lack of adult supervision, including keeping school gyms, computer labs, and libraries open longer to provide activities and safe places with adults present."

"As DA, I'll push aggressively for community-wide support for these kinds of diversion programs. I'll also work with the schools — starting at the youngest ages — to identify kids at risk of becoming criminals, and get them preventive treatment early."

"And I'll support mentoring programs providing positive adult role models to help disadvantaged kids from homes with drug, alcohol and other kinds of abuse."

Inertia in Norfolk County.

In Suffolk County, police and community officials created 45 separate programs to deal with Boston's rising juvenile homicide rate ... and rates dropped 90%.

But in here in Norfolk County, our appointed DA has failed to meet the challenge.

"Now is the time to deal creatively with juvenile crime, before we create the next generation of criminals in Norfolk County," said Jack.

The one candidate with a plan.

Jack Corrigan's years of experience as a senior prosecutor in former DA Bill Delahunt's office — and his tough, new crime fighting ideas — will help restore innovation and excellence to the Norfolk County District Attorney's office.

You can help too, by calling 617/472-1140 and joining Jack's fight.

Nancy Merritt Named Conway Top Selling Agent

Nancy Merritt has been named Jack Conway & Co.'s top-selling agent, announces Richard Cahill, company president.

A Realtor with Conway's Dorchester office, Merritt received the award for most sales company-wide at their annual convention held recently at the Sheraton Tara in Braintree. She successfully closed nearly 70 transactions during 1997, many involved first-time homebuyers.

"I really enjoy working with the first-time buyer," Merritt said. "It may sound trite, though it shouldn't—it's so rewarding to help people realize their dream."

Though knowledgeable about a wide and varied market, she prefers the lure of the local neighborhood.

"Selling in this city is

Taking a look at the majority of newly-built homes, you may notice that the driveway that's visible from the front leads to nowhere.

Well, at least it looks this way from the street, anyway. It appears as though some homeowners have put the focus of their facade on their front door, porch and landscape.

Garages and the cars within them are indeed taking a back seat, as they are now designed with the garage bending to a right angle and away from the street.

Aesthetics aren't the only reason homeowners are opting to hide garages. Security is another reason. The houses are popular, in part, because a buyer can have a builder move the street-facing garage from under the living quarters to the back of the house.

Especially if the latest sports car resides in the garage, most homeowners may want their prized possession to stay secluded closer to the backyard instead of the more populated front. Also, if the lot is big enough, shifting the garage to the back of the house frees roughly 400 square feet of basement space in which the owner can build a home office or gym.

The majority of homeowners today would prefer the front of their homes to appear more inviting to visitors; thus, they want the front entrance of their home to dominate the scene. Garages will never become obsolete, although the change in floor plans reveals that living space inside and outside the home takes precedence over storage space inside the home.

Homeowners Urged To Use Pest Control

The Massachusetts IPM Council urges homeowners to protect their family and the environment by implementing Integrated Pest Management (IPM), an ecologically-based pest control strategy that de-emphasizes the reliance on the use of pesticides as the primary way to solve pest problems in and around the house.

IPM focuses on preventing and eliminating the conditions that support pests, while using the least amount of pesticides necessary to do the job. The result is better pest control and a healthy environment.

The Massachusetts IPM Council is an alliance of government agencies, non-profit environment/public interest groups, pest control industries, and academia. Council workgroups such as Structural, Lawn-care, Turf/Golf Course, Mosquito Control, and Outreach help the alliance through its work on projects such as the development of consumer IPM checklists, good practice statements, and the development of IPM certification to verify the practice of IPM.

"Children and adults are often needlessly exposed to toxic pesticides used on our lawns and gardens, particularly in the spring. Reducing the use of chemicals while employing safer alternatives will be a big step forward in protecting our health and ensuring a clean environment," said Paul Burns, environmental attorney with MASSPIRG.

"Pest-proofing your home by sealing cracks or gaps around doors, windows, cable wiring and vents with caulking materials will minimize pest entry and harborage. This low risk IPM solution is more effective than the use of pesticides in preventing pest problems," said Mark Buffone, entomologist and pesticide license coordinator with the Massachusetts Department of Food and Agriculture's Pesticide Bureau.

Household Help by John Amantea

Q. We plan on selling our home before the start of the new school year. The stucco on the exterior walls, below the vinyl siding, has either stained or just faded. The surface was painted white and we haven't used paint on it. We have tried power washing the stucco, but the stains did not clean entirely. Can you suggest the best method of applying paint or anything else?

A. Painting stucco is not recommended due to the lack of the surface having pores and needing breathing. What this means is that ordinary house paint forms a tight seal and can also trap moisture behind that seal. This can create your painted surface to chip and peel away.

The best method is to apply a mixture of whitewash, which is just white Portland cement and water. The density of the mixture should be firm, but not watery. The stucco surface should be sprinkled with water from your garden hose. A masonry brush or a coral-like, round sponge would be ideal when applying your whitewash. You should ask your home decorating dealer for masonry dyes to color your whitewash if desired.

You don't have to periodically spray or dampen the surface of whitewash after drying. There isn't any treatment necessary for proper curing.

Win Streak Reaches Three Quincy Sweeps North, Weymouth, Xaverian

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Since a season-opening loss to Brockton, the Quincy High School boys' volleyball team has captured three straight matches, including its first win over rival North Quincy in six years.

The Presidents (3-1 through Monday's action) looked to add to their winning streak Tuesday at Dighton-Rehoboth and yesterday (Wednesday) against visiting Wareham at 4 p.m.

Quincy plays three more matches next week: Monday at 4 p.m., the Presidents visit Xaverian. Tuesday at 4 p.m., they host a powerful New Bedford squad, and Wednesday at 5:30 p.m., they visit perennial powerhouse Greater New Bedford Vocational.

"Those New Bedford teams are extremely tough," said Quincy coach Christine Barrett. "When we play them, it'll be a good indicator of where we stand."

"Greater New Bedford knocked us out of the tournament last year, so we'd love to avenge that loss. It'll be a grudge match."

Quincy claimed its third win in a row Monday, sweeping visiting Xaverian, 2-0.

Sparkling the Presidents to the 15-3, 15-6 win were senior co-captain Ed Smith (six kills, six digs) and juniors Jason Goldrick (six kills, five blocks), Brian Chen (six kills) and Matt Nicklas (six kills).

Last Friday, the Presidents rallied against host Weymouth to capture a 2-0 victory. Leading the way in the 15-13, 16-14 triumph were Goldrick (10 kills, six blocks, eight digs), senior co-captain Jared Downey (eight kills, 20 assists, 11 digs) and senior DeMing Guan (eight digs, two service aces).

The Presidents picked up their first win last Thursday, surprising rival North Quincy, 2-0, on the Red Raiders' home gym. Afterwards, the Presidents savored the 15-11, 15-7 victory, only their second triumph over North in the last 12 years.

"This was a big win for us, because we hadn't beaten them in a long time," said Barrett. "It was also my first win as coach, and was doubly special because it came against North."

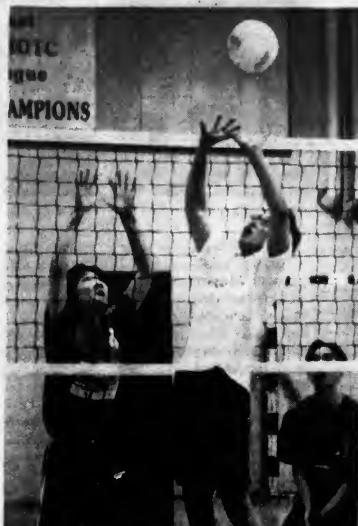

"I told the kids they had nothing to lose, and that if they played hard, we'd be in position to win. The kids gave it their all and I'm very proud of them." Quincy's standouts were Nicklas (10 kills, eight digs), Downey (17 assists,

The Presidents opened the season with a 2-0 loss to visiting Brockton. Quincy fell, 7-15, 15-17.

North's Inexperience Results In Two Losses

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Inexperience has gotten the best of the North Quincy High School boys' volleyball team early this season, which doesn't come as a surprise to coach John Perkins.

"They have to go through their growing pains," he said. "We have a talented team, but they have to learn to maintain a lead and put a team away."

The Red Raiders, who entered this week with an 0-2 record, took on visiting Weymouth Tuesday and visit one of the elite teams in the state, Greater New Bedford Vocational, today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. Next Tuesday, the Red Raiders host Brockton in a 3:30 p.m. match.

"Greater New Bedford is undefeated and has already beaten a strong Cambridge team," said Perkins, "so we'll be in for a tough match."

Last Thursday, the Red Raiders hosted rival Quincy and came out on the losing end of a 15-11, 15-7 score. Perkins said he expected a good match, adding that North's lack of returning varsity players was a factor in the setback.

"Anytime these two teams play, it's a battle to the end," he said. "We hung tough, but our inexperience showed again. The quickness of the game at this level is tough for some to adjust to right away, and with only one returning player, that means the rest of them have to make that adjustment."

Among North's leaders were junior Al King (eight kills), sophomore Kin Yun (six kills) and senior captain James Cheung (strong defensive game).

Against Duxbury last Tuesday, the Red Raiders endured a similar experience, dropping a 16-14, 15-5 decision.

"We led 14-11 in the first game and had the serve, then lost it and never got it back," said Perkins. "Once we lost that serve, the momentum swung and we couldn't recover."

"We had them, but didn't put them away. In the second game, we missed four serves in a row, and that just about did it."

Perkins was impressed with the performance of senior Jackie Cheung, who he said played a strong setting game and finished with seven kills.

Palardy Earns Win Vs. Tigers Presidents Rally Past Taunton, Fall To D-Y

By LIAM FITZGERALD

After splitting its first two games, the Quincy High School baseball team returned to the field yesterday (Wednesday) for a 4 p.m. tilt against visiting Old Colony League foe Bridgewater-Raynham.

Junior Dennis Palardy, who guided Quincy to victory in the season opener, was expected to get the start on the mound for the Presidents (1-1). Junior Tom Daley may also pitch a few innings against B-R.

Following yesterday's OCL game, the Presidents are off until next Wednesday at 4 p.m., when they visit league opponent Plymouth South.

In recent action, Quincy faced one of the leading contenders for the OCL crown, Dennis-Yarmouth, on D-Y's home field and suffered a 14-5 setback Monday afternoon.

"D-Y's the class of the OCL," said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia. "They've got an excellent team. Ryan Ploof, our starting pitcher, deserved a better fate. He didn't pitch badly, but we played poorly behind him."

Despite the loss, Sylvia mentioned a number of positives, including the hitting and pitching of sophomore John Tower, the hitting of junior Bill Armstrong and the pitching of senior John Caliri.

"We spread out some hits and made contact," he said. "John (Tower) hit the ball hard twice and also pitched an inning, which was a pleasant surprise. Billy's hitting the ball better and Caliri pitched an inning, too, and did fine."

"This game gave us the opportunity to look at some others on the mound and see what they can do, and they looked pretty good. We're still trying to find some arms to go along with Dennis."

In the opener, Quincy rallied from a three-run deficit to upend visiting Taunton, 7-6, in OCL action. Senior captain Steve Wiltshire and senior Steve Clarke (two singles, triple) provided the offensive punch for the winners.

"Stevie Wiltshire got a hit or two and played good defense, and Steve Maze also hit the ball well," said Sylvia. "Our captains stepped up and got it done. We also showed our resiliency in coming back late in the game and getting a big win."

Though it is early in the season, the Presidents feel they can contend in the OCL—if the pitching holds up.

"The kids have a good feeling about the club," said Sylvia. "But they also realize that we have to be at our best every game, because the OCL is a good, strong league. We can't afford to have an off-day."

"I think we'll play our best baseball in the second half. We'll have to crawl a little before we walk, then run. Basically, it comes down to the pitching, and if that works out, we'll be O.K."

North Hosts Milton Today

Veteran Red Raiders Embark On Drive Toward Postseason

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Coming off a two-run setback in Monday's opener, the North Quincy High School softball team returned to action yesterday (Wednesday) at 4 p.m. against Old Colony League foe Barnstable.

Today (Thursday) at 3:30 p.m., NQ hosts Milton in a non-league game at McCoy Field. Next Monday, North visits Silver Lake for a 4 p.m. OCL showdown and then travels to New Bedford for a 4 p.m. non-league tilt next Wednesday.

In a 3-1 loss to OCL host Falmouth on Monday, NQ senior starting pitcher Kristy Deputa turned in a strong performance, but miscues resulted in two unearned runs for the Clippers.

"Kristy pitched a great game," said North coach Bob Doyle, beginning his second year at the helm. "She struck out five and gave up five hits, but we made some mistakes. We also didn't get the timely hit. It was just the first game, and we have a long way to go."

(Last Thursday's OCL game against Plymouth South was postponed due to poor field conditions caused by inclement weather. No makeup date has been announced.)

With 10 returning players, including eight seniors with significant varsity experience, a tournament berth is a definite possibility for the Red Raiders.

"Our outlook is very positive, very upbeat," said

Doyle. "We went 8-12 last year, and I don't want them to be satisfied with just 10 wins.

"We're not a team that just shows up anymore. We're a scrappy team that plays hard all seven innings. I think it'll be an exciting year."

Joining Deputa are seven other seniors: Kerry Skehan (first base), Kristen Keohane (third base), Laurie Flynn (shortstop), Danielle Likas (second base), Maura O'Brien (right field), Jessica Flannigan (right field/center field) and Erin Rooney (right field/center field). Skehan and Keohane will also see their share of innings on the mound.

"Our eight seniors have been on the varsity for at least three years," said Doyle. "We'll rely on them a lot for veteran leadership and hope they lead us to the tournament. I expect and am confident they will do just that."

The Red Raiders lost just one starter, Bridget Shaughnessy, to graduation. Taking her place this spring is senior Rachel Bonanni, the starting catcher on last year's JV squad.

North's two other returning players, juniors Kristen Bowes and Rachel Powers, are also two of the team's top defensive players. Bowes will start again in left field, alongside Powers in center field. Powers may also catch a few games, according to Doyle.

A few other players who will also be called upon to contribute are pitcher Renee Gillan, a junior transfer from Rhode Island, sophomore infielder Jessica Lorman, a solid hitter on last spring's freshman squad, and junior third baseman Meredith Hutchinson, a member of the JV squad and will likely be called up later in the season.

Lending Doyle a hand will be volunteer assistant coaches Tim Flynn and Megan Mazzara, a match teacher at North. Siobhan Nolan will serve as manager and Eleanor Holt will be the team statistician.

Moving up from the freshman team to coach the JV is Larry Keough, replacing Charlie Bunker, who stepped down. Last year's varsity volunteer assistant, Erin Toomey, takes over as the freshman coach.

Surveying the team as a whole, Doyle sees NQ as a solid defensive squad with excellent pitching and good speed on the bases. One of the few aspects he seeks to improve upon is the team's hitting.

"We're solid overall, but we need to step it up offensively," he said. "We've been concentrating on that in practice and hope it translates to the games."

"With our speed, I'm emphasizing the running game, being aggressive and smart on the bases. We're not going to wait for our opportunities—we want to beat the opponent to the punch and gain the upper hand."

Teaching Children How To Respond To Abuse

By McGRUFF THE CRIME DOG
Guest Columnist

How children respond to trouble will depend upon their age and the particular circumstance they encounter.

Copyright 1984 The Advertising Council, Inc.

More important, however, is whether a child knows what to do and where to go when feeling threatened.

While it is important for a child to know how to avoid and spot danger, it is also critical that a child knows how to respond quickly and wisely when confronted with trouble.

Children should understand that there are many people they can depend on and should turn to when they feel unsafe.

Teach children that the police are their friends, whose job is to protect them. If a police officer can't be located easily, a child should also know to run or seek out a trusted teacher, a neighbor, or a friend's parent when frightened or feeling endangered.

Children should know that they should report trouble right away.

Teach children how to operate the telephone to call for emergency assistance.

- They should know how to dial "0", "911", or other emergency numbers used in their area.
- They should memorize their area code and phone number, and maybe a friend's number as well.
- They should memorize your work number.

Keep a list of emergency phone numbers - like the fire department and a close relative's or friends - posted near all the phones in your home.

Walk the neighborhood and the route traveled to and from school with your child.

Point out places to go when in trouble - like homes or certain stores - and unsafe areas to avoid.

Children can be prepared to respond to trouble through role-playing. Make up situations and rehearse responses to increase the child's ability to act rationally and calmly.

No one likes to think about the possible threats to a child's personal safety and well-being. But a safe child is one who knows what to do when trouble happens.

A child's best response to trouble is using common sense. Like knowing when to stick up for his or her rights, and when not to. Small children should not fight back when outnumbered by bigger youths who want to take their bike, radio, or other possessions. In this situation, a child should give in and then run to an adult, or older brother or sister, and report the incident right away.

North Wins Opening Meet

A Mix Of Veterans, Newcomers

The North Quincy High School girls' spring track team opened its season on a positive note, earning a 79-48 Old Colony League victory over host Plymouth South.

Senior Nicole Bertone (discus, javelin) and juniors Kellie Johnston (100 meter, long jump) and Kim Huert (high jump, triple jump) were double winners for North. Also picking up victories were Lynda Wilson (two miles) and Claire Quilty (shot put).

Second-place finishers included Johnston (200 meter), freshman Kelly Rose O'Brien (400 meter), freshman Linda Nguyen (800 meter), Wilson (mile), sophomore Sarah Houghton (two miles), junior Kelly

Head coach Geoff Hennessy, in his 10th year at the helm, is optimistic about this spring's squad and believes the Red Raiders can contend for the OCL crown.

"We'll be there when it counts, at the Conference Championships," said Hennessy, who is joined on the staff by Maureen Fallon, now in her ninth year as assistant coach.

North returns 13 lettermen for last spring's 4-4 team, including five seniors (Sarah Boston, and captains Bertone, Jasmine Gonzalez, Sharon Lee and Quilty) and three juniors (Huert, Johnston and Lockhead). Bertone, Gonzalez and Boston all have won OCL Conference titles in the past.

The team is typically strong in throwing events, and this year is no exception, says Hennessy. The track events from the 400 on up to two miles also has some strong individuals. Gonzalez and Wilson went to New England or Allstate, veterans.

and Johnston, Holleran, Lee, Nguyen, and the O'Brien sisters, Genevieve and Kelly-Rose, all have seen tournament action.

Freshman Kellie Conley was impressive in a scrimmage against Notre Dame Academy. A lack of depth in sprints, jumps and hurdles could hurt the Raiders but Boston also has seen state competition. The squad is a mix of rookies, said Hennessy, sophomores and veterans.

A Thought For The Week

SCOTT DEWARE

On Easter we echo the psalmist's joyful cry: "I shall not die but live!" We shall not die but live, because we have a living God, who is a God "Not of the dead but of the living." We shall not die but live, because we have a living Savior, who has assured us, "Because I live, ye shall live also."

Easter means, therefore, that the promise of life brings hope; hope in the glad reunion with our loved ones on the resurrection morn; hope in the eternal vision of our risen Lord.

But Easter is more than hope, Easter also means witness. We who have beheld the glory of our Lord's resurrection and felt the surge of life within us must also - as the psalmist bids us - "declare the works of the Lord."

In Easter we have the promise of life. In Easter we have an immortal hope...

City Celebrates National Community Development Week

Quincy and other communities across the nation are marking the 12th annual celebration of National Community Development Week this week through Sunday.

The celebration is a week-long campaign to emphasize, both locally and nationally, the "Signs of Progress" and "Signs of Success" of the federal Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program.

Andrew Cuomo, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said, "I encourage Americans, in communities large and small, urban and rural, to celebrate and highlight the good works brought about by the most successful and popular community development program this country has ever seen."

Mayor James Sheets has said that "the City of Quincy has clearly demonstrated the capacity to administer and customize its CDBG program to address and resolve pressing local needs and to devise innovative and constructive neighborhood and economic development solutions to improve the physical, economic and social conditions in Quincy."

Sheets invites all Quincy residents to join him in recognizing the CDBG program and the importance it represents to the city.

Enacted into law in 1974, the CDBG program's primary objective is the development of viable urban communities by providing decent housing, a suitable living environment and expanded economic opportunities, principally for low and moderate income persons. It is administered locally by the city's Department of Planning and Community Development and nationally by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

This year, Community Development Week takes on heightened significance. In the Fiscal Year 1998 budget, the CDBG program contained almost $500 million in set-asides. The $500 million is virtually an 11 percent cut to the overall allocation of $4.675 billion. Since FY 1995, the number and dollar value of program cuts (set-asides) has increased from $90 million to $499.8 million in FY 1998.

If that trend continues, not only will funds available for locally determined projects be reduced, but the essence of the CDBG program will be lost.

City officials say it is therefore critical to focus national attention on the vital role CDBG plays in our communities and for our residents.

According to Quincy Planning Director Richard Meade, the city will receive $2.428 million in CDBG funds—$138,000 less than received by the city in FY 1995-1996. In addition, the city will receive $641,000 in HOME funds and $97,000 in ESG (Emergency Shelter Grant) funds in fiscal year 1998.

The city is celebrating National Community Development Week with the formal opening of the Veterans Home in Quincy Center, a tree planting ceremony, American Planning Association (APA) workshops and several public service activities.

The Veterans Home, located at 191 Burgin Parkway, will open today (Thursday) at 11 a.m. Opening ceremonies will be attended by federal, state and local elected officials, HUD representatives, as well as housing and community development advocates. The Veterans Home will provide adequate shelter for homeless veterans in Quincy.

Representatives from FEMA and MEMA (Massachusetts Emergency Management Administration) will be on hand for a tree planting ceremony at 127 Rock Island Road. The property was purchased and the structure was demolished using CDBG and FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Administration) funds. The property will be turned over to the Park Department.

The city's community centers are hosting various public service events for seniors, children and Quincy families, in recognition of this year's CDBG week. Quincy's six community/neighborhood centers, as well as its many public service providers are supported (in whole or in part) through the CDBG program. Call the individual center or the Planning Department for event schedules.

Topics of workshops held earlier this week included the Fore River shipyard and Quincy Housing.

The 1998 APA National Planning Conference being held in Boston is bringing together more than 4,000 professional planners, planning officials, and planning students all working together to address ideas and technologies and to address a broad range of planning topics that include: economic development, transportation, housing, historic preservation, information technology, and neighborhood planning.

For more information about Community Development Week, call the Planning Department at 376-1168.

Mosquito Control Project Underway

The Quincy Health Department has received notice from the Norfolk County Mosquito Control Project that the 1998 larval control program has begun in Quincy.

The Norfolk County Mosquito Control Project will be conducting larval control applications from the end of March through September in low-lying swampy areas where mosquito larvae breed throughout the season. The larviciding (treatment of mosquito larvae during aquatic development) is applied through use of backpacks, brickettes and mist blowers.

The Norfolk County Mosquito Control Project and Quincy Health Department will issue an additional notice in May before early morning residential fogging applications commence.

Please be advised that according to 333 CMR 10.03, all residents requesting to exclude their property from pesticide applications must file with the City Clerk, by certified mail, and it is recommended that a copy of the exclusion filing be sent to the Quincy Health Department.

The filing must include the following information: name and address, telephone number, names of all abutters and list of program(s) from which exclusion is requested.

Those filing for exclusion must post their property at least every fifty (50) feet with markings made known to those making the applications.

In addition to Source Reduction Work (cleaning drainage ditches, cutting brush which obstructs drainage and reconstruction of drainage structures), the Norfolk County Mosquito Control Project applies pesticides as follows:

*Larviciding (the treatment of mosquito larvae during aquatic development) by backpack, brickettes and mist blowers from April to September.

*Adulticiding (the treatment of adult mosquitoes) by fogging from trucks, from May to September.

For further information concerning mosquito control exclusions, please contact the Norfolk County Mosquito Control Project at (781) 762-3861.

An informational brochure is also available from the Quincy Health Department.

Your Horoscope

by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Be sure to follow through on family commitments. Don't allow bickering over small matters to spoil your week. Family members are undecided about who does what, so be prepared to delegate responsibilities accordingly.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A few cross words with a partner could temporarily upset you, but overall, this is a good week for conveying ideas and enjoying leisure activities. For the most part, those around you are cooperative and in a good mood. Key in on them for peace of mind.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Make plans for some future travel and also for fun and exciting things. There may be one monetary dispute on your mind, but rest assured that all is well. A friend surprises you with an interesting suggestion this weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Leisure activities and romance are highlighted, but a pushy friend could irritate you. Work developments bring an improvement in your income. However, don't let a pessimist's gloom and doom prophecies drag your buoyant mood down.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Although it's not a good week for signing papers, you are in agreement with partners and clients about important issues. This sets a harmonious tone for the entire week. Socializing is a plus this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) The emphasis is definitely on saving rather than spending. Look for possible investments that will make your money work for you. Investigate innovative options and opportunities, since it's a good week to be adventurous.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Speaking up is preferable to moodiness and keeping things in. Powerful connections prove helpful to you in business. The weekend accents togetherness with friends and family.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You certainly should stay away from gambling. Also, try not to overspend. Indications are that a heart-to-heart talk will benefit both you and a loved one regarding a mutual concern.

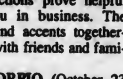

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A family member is quite moody this week. Make sure everyone at home has the chance to participate in a project. Doing so will insure that no one feels left out or ignored.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Dealing with a co-worker's sensitivities can be quite trying. Once you detach yourself from this situation, you'll begin to make progress. This person's feelings are being blown out of proportion.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You're the one who's so concerned about reputation, so be careful not to jeopardize it with foolish or indiscreet behavior. However, should you slip, don't be too hard on yourself. Learn from your mistakes instead.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Dieters who have been too lax with themselves could go on a big-time binge. Adopt moderation, if possible. Get sufficient and well-deserved rest over the weekend.

INVITATION TO BID

The Department of Public Works for the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will receive sealed bids for Renovations to Atherton-Hough School, Window and Door Replacement until 12:00 noon local time on April 15, 1998 at the offices of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA 02169, at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The scope of the work includes, but is not limited to, removal of existing windows, panels and related items; new aluminum windows; scraping and painting existing steel lintels; new window shades, painting of some existing door panels and frames; exterior doors.

Bidders must be certified by the division of Capital Planning and Operations. Bids will be valid only when accompanied by a Certificate of Eligibility issued by the Division of Capital Planning and Operations, showing that the Bidder has been approved to bid on projects of the size and nature of that advertised, and an update statement summarizing the Bidder's record for the period between the latest certification and the date the Bidder submits a Bid for this Project.

Bids are subject to M.G.L. c149, 44A-S and to minimum wage rates as required by M.G.L. c149, 26 to 27D inclusive.

All work under this contract shall be completed by August 28, 1998.

Bidders requesting Contract Documents by mail shall pay a non-refundable amount of $10.00 per set to cover shipping and handling costs. All checks shall be made payable to the City of Quincy. The Contract Documents may be obtained during the business hours from 8:30 AM to 4:30 PM at the Offices of the Commissioner of Public Works, Engineering Division, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA 02169 on or after April 1, 1998.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a bid security in the amount of five percent (5%) of the total value of the bid in the form described in the instructions to Bidders. The Successful Bidder shall be required to furnish a one hundred percent (100%) Construction Performance Bond and a one hundred percent (100%) Payment and Materials Bond from a surety company acceptable to the City. The bidding and award of this contract shall be in full compliance with Massachusetts General Law, Chapter 30, Section 39M, as last revised.

No bidder may withdraw the bid within 60 calendar days after the actual date of the opening of the bids.

All Federal/State and City of Quincy regulations in relation to Minimum Wage Rates, Minority Business Enterprise, Women Business Enterprise, Minority Work Force, Apprenticeship Training, Equal Employment Opportunity and Employment of Quincy Residents must be complied with. The project goals in these areas shall be as given below:

1. The Contractor shall maintain on the project a not less than ten percent (10%) ratio of minority employee manhours to total manhours in each job category.

2. A minimum of ten percent (10%) MBE participation and five percent (5%) WBE participation by state-certified MBEs and WBEs will be required and maintained on this project. The bidder shall submit completed MBE/WBE forms with the bid.

3. Compliance with the City of Quincy's Ordinance Chapter 12.28 requiring Contractors working on City-supported construction projects to hire a certain percentage of Quincy Residents is mandatory.

4. Compliance with Quincy's Ordinance Chapter 12.28 regarding Apprenticeship Training Programs must be complied with.

5. Conformance with the minimum wage rates for all workers, as mandated by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries issued in the most current "Wage Decisions" as applicable to the project area shall be enforced.

Failure to comply with these requirements may render the bid non-responsive, and thus ineligible for further consideration. No waiver for any portion of these provisions will be granted.

The City reserves the right to waive any informality in or to reject any or all bids if deemed in the best interest of the City. The City does not condone submission of unbalanced bids. Such bids may be summarily rejected.

City To Fund Undercover Police In Liquor Establishments

in package stores and pouring establishments in an attempt to prevent minors from purchasing alcohol. In addition, the effort is designed to crack down on those who buy alcohol for underage drinkers. Perchard noted that the officers assigned to work undercover in such businesses, who will be paid time-and-a-half for those duties, will not be allowed to operate any cash registers while doing so.

Perchard said he sent a proposal to state Sen. Michael Morrissey making the purchase of alcohol by a minor a misdemeanor with a one-year mandatory suspension of his or her driver's license. Although it is currently a felony, Perchard said the loss of the license will mean more to someone under 21.

He also has proposed making the purchase of alcohol for a minor by an adult, which is currently a misdemeanor, a felony.

"Let's slap them (adults) with the felony," he said.

Perchard said the names of youths caught purchasing alcohol should be printed in the newspaper, something that would embarrass both the minor and his or her family.

"Embarrassment is a motivating factor," he said.

Such minors also should be taken off their high school or college sports team, student council or any other activities in which they participate as sanctions against them for drinking, he added.

Perchard noted that in February, police caught "eight or nine" underage drinkers at Squaw Rock in Squantum.

"If that's the case, what's going to happen in June or July?," he asked the council.

Councillor Francis McCauley asked Perchard if the city is losing the battle against alcohol abuse.

The liquor inspector replied that although "it seems like an uphill battle" the city's DARE Program designed to tackle the problem of substance abuse and similar efforts have done a good job of doing so.

Perchard said the city's pouring establishments and package stores do their best to prevent underage drinking, but some altered driver's licenses look so real it is difficult to tell they are not. The owners of a number of businesses throughout the city that sell alcohol have voiced support of "Cops In Shops," he said.

Ken Slate, manager of Wollaston Wine and Liquors—which has been owned by his family for years—agreed.

"We deal with a product that is a pleasure for some people and a real problem for others," he said. "We certainly don't want to see young people start to have that problem."

Councillors agreed that funding the program would be a step in the right direction.

"I think it would be appropriate to do so," said Council President Peter Kolson.

Councillor Timothy Call agreed.

"I do think it's a very worthwhile program," he said. "It might save a life. It certainly would be great to have Quincy lead the way in this fight."

Citizens Group Meeting

The Quincy Citizens and Wollaston Park Associations Inc. was scheduled to meet last night (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 12 Hunt St., North Quincy.

Matters on the agenda: "The group's "Best Ideas Contest" for downtown revitalization.

*Plans for the Annual Book Committee to contact advertisers.

*An update on the effort to save the "Bird Sanctuary" at Marina Bay.

*An effort to keep Pagant Field and the parking area at Black's Creek on Southern Artery open to the public.

*Nominations for the group's "Citizen of the Year" Award.

For more information about the group, call Dorothy Kelly, secretary, at 472-4257.

Safety Saturday Attracts 400 Children At Quincy Hospital

QUINCY HOSPITAL'S annual Safety Saturday program attracted nearly 400 children from surrounding communities. Among those attending were Connor Darcy, left, who tried a fire helmet on for size; and Amanda Flores, warmly welcomed by Sparky the Fire Dog. The event also featured McGruff the Crime Dog and Quincy Police Officer Bob Hanna who spoke to children about safety; and a bicycle safety obstacle course set up by the Quincy Kiwanis Club. Quincy Hospital sponsors the event to teach children safety tips as well as help parents update important records such as fingerprints and height and weight measurements.

New Library Building To Be Named After Warren Watson

It appears the new addition to the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center will be named after Warren Watson, who served as its director for a quarter of a century.

Mayor James Sheets said Tuesday he supports a proposal by the library's Board of Trustees to name the planned 50,000-square-foot addition in honor of Watson, who died March 20 at the age of 72.

Sheets said he is unsure

WARREN WATSON

whether he must send the proposal to the City Council or vice-versa, but he supports it either way.

"Certainly, he's worthy of the honor," said Sheets.

On Monday, the board unanimously passed a resolution introduced by member Sandra McCauley calling for the action.

The resolution states that Watson "devoted the major portion of his life to the citizens of Quincy and the Thomas Crane Public Library, and...had a vision of a new and expanded Tho-

Cellucci To Present Funds On Visit Here

Up To $3.7 Million Expected April 22 For Point Projects

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Acting Gov. Paul Cellucci will visit Quincy on Wednesday, April 22 to present up to $3.7 million in state grants for various public works infrastructure and traffic signalization improvements in Quincy Point.

Cellucci will make the presentation at 4:30 p.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd. The city applied for the money last month.

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi said Tuesday he is eager to see the Quincy Point project begin. He noted that he worked with Mayor James Sheets and Department of Public Works Commissioner David Colton to identify the needed area improvements.

"I'm just very excited," said Raymondi. "It's the most extensive public works and traffic signalization initiative that Ward 2 has ever seen at one time. It's a tremendous opportunity."

He also urged residents of Quincy Point and the rest of Ward 2 to come to the clubhouse for the governor's visit to show they back the project.

PAUL CELLUCCI

"We want to show the governor we support these initiatives," he said.

Raymondi said he is unsure exactly what figure the city will receive—Cellucci will make that announcement when he visits the city—but the most would be $3.7 million. That would mean the governor has decided to fully fund both the $2 million Public Works

Won't Suffice In Long Run, He Says Sheets Against Two Proposals For Helping College Financial Woes

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Two suggestions by Quincy College President Dr. Jeremiah Ryan on ways the city could help the struggling college with its financial problems have been rejected by Mayor James Sheets.

The mayor made his comments Tuesday when asked about the president's two proposals. Ryan has said the college's declining enrollment has caused a fiscal strain at the school that likely will result in a number of layoffs.

Ryan has suggested that the city relieve Quincy College of its responsibility for paying rent for the facilities it uses. The annual payment of $217,000 is used by the city for pay for foreign language programs in the city's middle schools.

Additionally, Ryan has proposed allowing the college to have some say as to what it pays 13 Civil Service employees it leases from the Quincy Public Schools. He said the School Committee is going to negotiate a new contract with them and the college will have no control over any possible wage increases.

Sheets said while he appreciates the two suggestions, neither will help the college in the long run.

"I don't think that solves the problem," he said. "I think they have to get to the source of the deficit and work it out. They have to deal with the economic trend that's occurring."

"The two things you have to ask yourself (in Ryan's position) are, one, how do I balance this year's budget and two, how do I bring in revenue, long-term, to prevent this from happening again?"

Sheets said it was "very evident" when Proposition 2 1/2 was passed in the early

Veterans House Opens For Homeless Veterans

VETERANS HOUSE at 191 Burgin Parkway in Quincy Center formally opened at a recent ribbon cutting ceremony attended by city leaders as well as state and federal housing officials. The house provides adequate shelter for homeless veterans. It had been condemned after a fire several years ago. The shelter has eight single room occupancy units, of which three are handicapped accessible, and four baths (one handicapped accessible). The $1 million project included $500,000 for development, and $500,000 for rental subsidies over the next 10 years. The managed care facility is owned and controlled by Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition.

ED O'NEIL (left) a veteran and resident of Quincy's Veterans House, presents an award to Fran McMorrow, veterans liaison for Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition, during the formal opening of the managed care facility for homeless veterans. O'Neil, in remarks during the ceremony, said, "I pray that you continue all the work that you've already started... for the veterans, the homeless and the children who are still out there. They're not looking for a hand-out, they're asking for a hand-up."

Fowler House Expansion Gets Board's Green Light

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The Quincy License Board at Tuesday's meeting voted unanimously in favor of the Fowler House Cafe to renovate and expand their restaurant.

Construction calls for the addition of 39 extra seats making it a total of 137 seats.

Owners Richard and William Rizzotti presented expansion plans to the board which include a new dining room, new handicapped restrooms and a larger and more accessible kitchen.

Four egresses will be available plus one from the basement.

The new construction will take approximately two months to complete, William Rizzotti said.

The Rizzottis have owned the restaurant for 17 years. To make way for the new construction two former businesses, a beauty salon and Century 21 office were taken for the expansion.

The exterior of the cafe will remain the same as most of the renovations will be done inside.

While there is a brick wall separating the restaurant, most of the work will be done on the other side of the kitchen area at first so the restaurant will not have to close for too long a period.

When the kitchen area is being renovated, the restaurant will still be open for business. However if and when the kitchen closes temporarily, owners asked Jane Gallahue if they could still serve food from a caterer. Gallahue said the temperature of the food would be important before serving and a later inspection would have to be made.

Parking concerns from an abutter who lives at 77 Adams Place were dispelled by Rizzotti who said he has a parking lot in the rear of the restaurant that holds 18 cars. He said he plans to have his employees park either at Central Junior High parking lot (if he gets permission), or further down from the restaurant.

Rizzotti said after 5 p.m. there is ample parking on Hancock Street.

Chairman Joseph Shea said he has been in touch with the public works department to reconstruct the corner at the restaurant where Rizzotti plans to build a handicapped ramp.

William Rizzotti told the board he is enlarging the "no smoking area."

The Rizzottis have no plans to change the menu and their hours will remain the same, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 12 noon to 1 a.m. on Sundays.

Shea told the owners construction cannot begin until they receive approval from the Alcohol Beverage Control Commission (ABCC)

Shea read letters of support from Quincy 2000 and Ward 5 Councillor Steve Durkin.

Kolson Named Chairman Of Millennium Committee

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Mayor James Sheets has selected City Council President Peter Kolson to chair a committee that will be in charge of planning events for Quincy's millennium celebration that will begin next year.

In addition, former Mayor Francis McCauley is working on a political history of the city that will become a part of the celebration, he said.

Sheets said Tuesday that Kolson is the perfect person to chair the planning committee, which will consist of "15 or 20" people to be selected within the next two weeks.

"Peter Kolson has a real keen interest in historical things," said the mayor. "I just think he has a very strong instinct for them. He and I will select the committee members together."

Sheets said the committee will be given the responsibility of coming up with ideas for events that should be held to mark the upcoming millennium and ways to pay for them. Another group to be appointed in the future will have the responsibility of organizing those events, he said.

"The planning committee will identify an agenda of things we'd like to do," he said. "They'll put together a plan for the millennium."

Sheets said he hopes to receive his first report from the committee by the end of this summer. The year-long millennium celebration will kick off on Dec. 31, 1999, with events held in conjunction with the city's First Night Quincy festivities, he said.

The mayor noted that he would like to have some millennium events that are "forward-looking," such as a time capsule that could be buried with residents' predictions about the future and then unearthed in 25 or 50 years.

Also, he said, there should be events that look back at the past 100 years in Quincy, including the role of veterans, schools, Quincy Hospital, Quincy College and other institutions and individuals, including political figures.

On that last note, Sheets added that former Mayor Francis McCauley is working on a political history of the city--a narrative of politics in Quincy--that will be released as part of the millennium celebration.

"I figured he's probably the guy to do it, because he loves that stuff," said Sheets. "I think he'll do a good job. He'll be impartial. And he's not being paid for it. He volunteered to do it."

"I'm really looking forward to it." Sheets also said various fund-raisers will need to be held to pay for the millennium celebration and will be among the topics discussed by the planning committee.

'Beanie Babies' Vending Machine Is Approved

The Quincy License Board Tuesday voted in favor of Fantasy Entertainment to install a coin operated vending machine at Osco Drug Store pending a ruling from the Building Department as to the placing of the machine.

Tom Coco told the board that the machine will feature the popular "Beanie Babies." It will cost from 50 cents to $1 to play, he said.

When the money is put into the machine, he explained, a claw comes down and sometimes picks the prize. Coco said there is always a consolation prize for each player.

Concerns from customers falling on machines were raised by Fire Chief Thomas Gorman.

Coco said the 3-by-4 foot machine is very heavy and is 75 inches tall. He said the bottom is usually filled with lead.

Coco said the machine is inspected and refilled by the company two to three times a week.

Coco said he didn't know where Osco planned to place the machine, but thought it might be in the foyer of the building.

Tired of big banks' "take-it-or-leave-it" attitude?

A big-city giant buys your bank. And--before you know it--fees go up, branches close, people disappear and they give you an 800 number that lets you queue up and wait to talk about your account. It's no fun! Want to escape? Come see us! We're Colonial Federal Savings Bank, a true neighborhood bank. (Yes, they do still exist!) We're strong, stable, independent and we can't be taken over or forced into a hostile merger. We have all the accounts those big-city banks offer--everything you need!-- plus something they don't seem to have time for...attentive service from friendly people! Take our "NOW Checking Account." The minimum daily balance is only $250 ($100 with Direct Deposit) and you get your first order of checks free, a free ATM card, free telephone banking, nice people to deal with and you earn 1 1/2% interest. It's easy to switch. And we'll take care of all the paperwork! Call Jaime or Judy at 617-471-0750. Or return the coupon and we'll get back to you!

A Political History Of Quincy

Frank McCauley is writing a political history of Quincy as part of the city's planned millennium celebration.

The city councillor and former mayor was asked by Mayor James Sheets to undertake the special project.

A good choice on Sheets' part.

McCauley is a virtual walking encyclopedia on local politics.

So, Sheets feels certain McCauley will do a good job. And obviously has faith in him on another point: Sheets is a Democrat and McCauley a Republican.

McCauley says he will keep it accurate and wants to make it interesting.

You might say it's already a little interesting.

Sheets told McCauley he would like to have the history "printed and available for the Inauguration Ceremonies beginning January of 2000." That's when whoever is mayor will be inaugurated.

Sounds like Sheets is planning on it being him.

For that to happen would require one more term which would be his sixth. His present fifth one will take him through 1999. One more term would take him into the year 2001.

And that would mean another historic footnote for him: he would be mayor in two difference centuries. But not the first to do it.

The first was John Hall, a Quincy undertaker, who was mayor in 1900 and 1901. The year 1900 was the last year of the 19th century and the year 1901 the first year of the 20th century, notes McCauley.

The year 2001 which Sheets would reach with a sixth term would make him mayor in the 21st century as well as the present 20th.

Sheets already has made some history. He has been re-elected to three terms without opposition. Only two other mayors have been re-elected without an opponent: Thomas Burgin and McCauley, but only one term each.

Completing his fifth term would give him 10 years in the Mayor's office--the most under the present Plan A form of government. It would break the record held by Charles Ross who served nine years.

The all-time mayoral longevity champ was Amelio Della Chiesa who served 12 years as mayor: eight under Plan A and four under Plan E.

A Plan E mayor was more a ceremonial head with a city manager the executive head. The mayor was actually a city council president with the title mayor.

McCauley's history will cover the 20th century beginning just before in 1888 when residents voted to change from a town to a city.

In the beginning and until 1916, says McCauley, mayors served one-year terms, the city council had 23 members and the school committee nine.

The elections were held in December then and were partisan with candidates running as Republicans, Democrats, Socialists and members of other political parties.

The 23 city councillors, notes McCauley, included three ward councillors from each of the six wards and five at-large.

Wonder how long council meetings lasted back then?

"Well," says McCauley, "John Smith who served on the council once told me the meetings could go on until 3 o'clock the next morning and get hung up on such issues as whether the Philippines should be free."

Did you know the early city council had a father-and-son team? Herbert M. Federhen and his son, Herbert, Jr., were both Ward 2 councillors at the same time while living in the same house. The father, who was the council's first president, was a Republican and his son a Democrat.

The school committee back then, says McCauley, had nine members similar to today's city council lineup with one from each ward and three at-large. The mayor was not a member or chairman as he is today.

All of these political nuggets and a lot more will appear in McCauley's history.

"I already have an outline for it," he says. "I should have it finished in time to turn over to the mayor for the celebration starting in 2000."

Mayor who?

A good bet: Mayor James A. Sheets

LOOKS LIKE THERE could be five candidates seeking the Democratic nomination for the state representative seat in the First Norfolk District.

Patrick Conroy of Billings St., North Quincy, is the fifth to take out nomination papers for the seat Michael Bellotti is vacating to run for Norfolk County sheriff.

Conroy ran against Bellotti as an Independent in 1992, the year Bellotti first won the seat. Conroy polled 2,001 votes that year but thinks he can do better this year as a Democrat.

Five Democrats running but where are the Republicans?

QUINCY'S George Burke was the guest of Nets Coach John Calipari at the recent Celtics-Nets games at the Fleet Center.

Burke, who was a star at UMass Amherst and Calipari, former head coach there, are close friends.

After the game, Burke visited Celtics Coach Rick Pitino in the Celtics locker-room and informed him that he was nominating him for the UMass Hall of Fame.

Pitino, who played for UMass in the early 1970's, was a point guard as was Burke in the 1950's.

"I don't think I'm deserving," said Pitino modestly when Burke told him about the nomination.

Burke, who is in the UMass Hall of Fame himself, says he feels Pitino "is a most deserving Hall of Famer as a player, coach and for the honor he has brought to UMass."

FORMER STATE SENATOR Patricia McGovern will be the lead-off batter in the series of South Shore Chamber of Commerce breakfasts with the 1998 candidates for governor.

McGovern, a Lawrence Democrat, will be the speaker at the Thursday, April 23, 7:44 a.m. breakfast at Lantana, Randolph.

For ticket information call the Chamber at 479-1111.

HERE'S WISHING a speedy recovery to Dorothy Badger of the city Purchasing Department. Dorothy recently underwent successful knee surgery and is now undergoing physical therapy. She will be sidelined for awhile.

SQUAW ROCK, SQUANTUM, MASS.

THIS IS A 1926 POSTCARD view of Squaw Rock at the northern tip of Squantum. Rising 90 feet above the water, the rock gets its name from an old Indian legend about a young squaw who leapt to her death from here. Another story has it that the squaw's tumble was the origin of the name Squantum, though it probably was named in honor of Tisquantto the Indian chief who first befriended the Pilgrims. The unusual conglomerate rock that makes up this and the rest of Squantum Head is quite different from the molten granite rock found in the West Quincy hills. It is called tillite and is believed to have been formed from boulder clay in a very old glacial period millions of years before the last ice age. The height of these rocks provides a commanding view of Boston Harbor. The sign on the right advertised water view dining at the Squantum Inn.

READERS FORUM

Thank You, Quincy Hospital!

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

We all hear about it, we all read about it, but one never expects that it will one day be a reality and traumatically turn your world inside out—that day came for me on Feb. 11, 1998—the day I was diagnosed with breast cancer.

Needless to say my options were limited and I was scared to death. My son, my family, my boyfriend and all those who I love and care about were by my side immediately—but this note is to specifically address the staff at Quincy Hospital.

Words cannot be created to describe how much genuine sincere warmth, compassion and care was given to me during this up-set in my life. Every nurse and technician on every shift were outstanding in their care for me. Mrs. Margaret Fitzpatrick, of Surgical Day Care, treated my family with the utmost respect and concern, and graciously received callers without ever losing sight of her other patients and daily responsibilities. She not only is a dynamic employee of QCH, but I made a friend and confidant who took an active interest in my well-being and outcome.

I reach out to thank Dr. Elizabeth Griffey, who was my general surgeon. Her patience and kindness in educating me on what was ahead went far beyond my expectations, and Dr. Jeffrey Darrow, my reconstructive surgeon. Thanks to this truly gifted man my worries and cosmetic concerns are now put to rest. I bow my head to you both.

I applaud Quincy Hospital for their diligence, attentiveness and demonstrative ability to make this traumatic experience as pleasant and comfortable as it possibly could have been.

The Town Brook Project And Problems

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The Friday, March 28 Patriot Ledger contained an article about this season's wanton destruction of smelt eggs due to the decades long Town Brook-Braintree Dam construction project. Four smelt biologists from Quebec's Ministry of Environment and Wildlife had been invited by Brad Chase of our Division of Marine Fisheries to view our smelt spawning grounds, but no one was prepared to find millions of dead eggs in the brook.

Frankly, this should not have been a surprise. In April of last year, ignoring Division of Marine Fisheries advice and admonitions, the same tragedy took place when a contractor diverted Town Brook while engaged on another phase of this seemingly endless project which has been plagued by other disasters, including widespread flooding of Quincy homes and irreparable loss of personal possessions when water surged into citizens' houses and business establishments.

Unfortunately, we can expect the same senseless idiocy to take place again in the spring of 1999, if in-dead, any smelt are left.

There is a solution. Have the ACOE and MDC officials and the contractors involved take a field trip to Cohasset and observe how the problem was solved there. A fish ladder was constructed and has worked perfectly for years.

A similar fish ladder at the Braintree Dam would insure the smelt population to increase and would also correct a truly idiotic present plan to enlarge and deepen the present spillway to a depth of up to 32 feet, this deadly drop being protected only by an easily-circumvented chain link fence.

When I brought this deadly hazard to the attention of OSHA last Nov. 12, I was informed that OSHA covers workers during construction, but municipalities are exempt as is the MDC, the present owner of the Dam. However, if someone is killed, for example, some venturesome kid falling into the 32-foot deep spillway at any time, even years from now, OSHA will 'take action.'

According to some sources, work started on the Town Brook-Braintree Dam project in 1972. Twenty-six years ago! Reportedly, the total distance involved is about five miles, from the Dam to the ocean.

Some comparisons: the Erie Canal is 340 miles long; it was begun in 1817, completed in 1825, for a total time of eight years. The Suez Canal is 88 miles long; construction started in late 1860, and was completed ahead of schedule in 1869, just over eight years. The Panama Canal is over 40 miles long, started in 1907, and was opened in 1914, ahead of schedule. Seven years.

So, our Town Brook project has been under construction in one way or another for more years than the combined total years it took to build the Erie Canal, the Suez Canal and the Panama Canal!

And we still, under the present plans have at least three or four more years to go, to demolish and rebuild Braintree Dam using the same materials removed by modern equipment and extensive blasting; plus an estimated year to correct conditions on Howie Road, a project which was not even considered until recent years. And a few more millions of taxpayer dollars to be wasted on this project.

Whiton Strong Backer For State Lottery

By PAUL HAROLD

In a speech before the Quincy Taxpayers Association, Rep. Joseph Whiton voiced his support for the establishment of a state lottery.

Whiton told his audience that they had to face reality, that many people, from all walks of life, gambled in some form or another and a state-sponsored lottery could raise considerable revenues.

He called the existing state income tax a "curse" and voiced opposition for a state sales tax.

TROPHY FEUD FLARES ANEW

The decade old dispute over possession of the Ban Johnson trophy flared anew this week when an unidentified man walked into the mayor's office demanding the trophy, saying he had a court order. The mayor's staff referred him to City Solicitor John Smith.

The trophy was originally given to the city 10 years before by former Mayor William Bradford, to recognize the city's leading sports team. Its possession had been the subject of an extreme court battle several years ago, and had since been stored in the vault of a Quincy Square bank.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS HONORED

Quincy Associates, a group of young sports followers, sponsored a "Trophy Ball" at the Chamber of Commerce Hall, to recognize the "fighting spirit" showed by the basketball teams during the season.

QHS Coach Monroe MacLean, NQHS Coach John Mullarkey and City Council President John Savage were special guests.

THE SHINGLES SHOCK

The pain is often described as excruciating; yet patients sometimes feel their condition is not treated as seriously as it should be, perhaps because the disorder usually eases within a few weeks leaving little permanent damage. Shingles, or herpes zoster, is the result of an infection by the same virus that causes chickenpox. While chickenpox most commonly strikes children, however, shingles is largely an adult affliction. Symptoms include burning pain in certain parts of the body (usually only on one side) and blisters. After about a week, the blisters tend to crust over and disappear, but the pain can hang on for weeks or even months. There are treatment options for relieving the symptoms - ask your doctor!

If you suffer from shingles, or any other illness that is aggravating in its discomfort, you can be sure we will treat you with compassion and respect. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. If shingles affects the face or particularly the eyes, contact your doctor immediately to take protective measures.

Fashion Show To Benefit Maria Droste Services

An informal spring fashion show will be held Sunday, April 26 at noon at The Fours, Quincy Center, to benefit The Maria Droste Services.

The agency operated by the Sisters of the Good Shepherd and professional volunteers recently marked its fifth anniversary. The community counseling service opened in Quincy Center in 1992 and has been providing critical support to individuals, couples and families in need ever since.

Sister Joanne Westwater, director, and the staff have provided counseling services to clients as young as five years of age and as senior as 78 years of age with fees adjusted according to ability to pay.

Models for the event will include board members, friends, interns and volunteers from several of the South Shore communities the agency serves. The spring clothing selections featured will be from the Dress Barn. Commentator will be Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

For reservations or ticket information, call Maria Droste Agency at (617) 471-6622.

Easter Leftover Pot Pie

Have you still got leftover ham or turkey from Easter? Instead of hot turkey sandwiches, or a ham and cheese, how about pot pie made as easy almost as a sandwich.

Turkey or Ham Pot Pie

1 package frozen mixed vegetables (cooked slightly)

1 or 2 cups leftover turkey or ham

1/2 cup milk

1 egg

1 cup Bisquick baking mix

1 can cream of chicken soup

Preheat oven to 400. Mix soup, vegetables and turkey or ham together.

Place in a 9 inch pie plate or casserole dish.

Mix milk, egg and baking mix and pour over turkey mixture. Bake for about 30 minutes. The crust will be lightly browned. Serve hot.

Instead of using canned soup, a basic cream sauce can be used.

(Marie D'Olimpio has written a cookbook containing recipes printed in The Quincy Sun.)

It is available at the Fruit Basket (near Star Market), Previte's Market on Summer Street, Quincy, Nanci's Barbershop, 21 Elm St., Braintree, the Cherry Gift Shop at Quincy Hospital, Harvest Moon Restaurant, Scituate Harbor and Samoset Pharmacy on Sea Street.

QUINCY LIONS CLUB recently held its annual Pancake Breakfast at the 1000 Southern Artery senior citizens complex. The event raised about $8,000 for eye research and other causes supported by the service organization. A CASE OF COMPRESSION

Physical fitness is a great personal goal, but there can be downsides to overly vigorous exercise, and one of them is known as compression neuropathy. Nerves can be damaged by compression in several ways. Perhaps the most obvious is a direct trauma, as can occur while playing a rough-and-tumble sport, falling from a bicycle, or stepping down on a sharp object. In such cases, the compression is likely to be acute and suddenly painful.

If you are suffering from these or any other foot related complaints call us at (617) 773-4300. We are located at 1261 Furnace Brook Pkwy., Suite #18, Quincy or stepping down on a sharp object. In such cases, the compression is likely to be acute and suddenly painful. Compression neuropathy can also creep in over time, "falls asleep" after being held in an awkward position overly zealous jogger. Whatever the cause, the condition should not be ignored. The longer the never compression or entrapment continues, the more serious the damage may be. Quincy Students Receive $32,000 Bell Atlantic Grant

Students in Quincy will benefit from a $32,000 grant awarded by the Bell Atlantic Foundation to the Quincy Public Schools for the creative use of technology in education.

Overall, $150,000 was awarded to organizations representing 60 Massachusetts communities.

Representatives of the project received the award during a recent ceremony at Boston High School featuring James Earl Jones, Bell Atlantic spokesman and critically-acclaimed actor.

Bell Atlantic established the EdLink awards last year to support emerging technological needs in education. This year, the program is funding efforts to integrate technology into the K-12 core curriculum so that teachers and students can use the power of technology to explore new ways of thinking and to share new experiences.

collaboration with Massachusetts Heavy Industries (MHI) and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology--will use the fundamentals of computer integrated manufacturing to augment the math, science and technical curricula. The project continues the relationship between the Quincy Public Schools and MHI, in anticipation of the reopening of the Fore River shipyard which will create a demand for computer literate employees.

The winning proposals promote collaboration among schools, teachers and communities; increase teachers' and students' technology skills, and develop models that can be used in other communities or schools.

In 1998, the Bell Atlantic Foundation will spend more than $1 million on a variety of educational initiatives in Massachusetts. In addition, Bell Atlantic also supports a variety of community projects and company employees spend hundreds of hours volunteering on educational programs throughout the Commonwealth.

QUINCY PUBLIC SCHOOLS recently received a $32,000 grant for the creative use of technology in education. Pageant Field Renovations To Be Completed Soon

The City of Quincy's Park Department is nearing completion of the first phase of its renovations to Merrymount Park.

The Pageant Field phase, which began last fall, will be completed and ready for the spring/summer picnic and sports seasons, Thomas Koch, Executive Director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments said.

The historical renovations at Pageant Field and throughout the park, have been inspired by this country's finest landscape architects. The Park Department has compiled the plans and drawings of Frederick Law Olmsted and his associates Charles Eliot and Herbert Kellaway to design a "Master Plan for Historical Renovations to Merrymount Park." The master plan will serve as the basis for upcoming changes expected for the entire park over the next two years, Koch said.

"Visitors to Pageant Field can expect to see major changes this summer. The old picnic pavilions have been replaced and will be relocated nearby the site of the old bowling green location. The new pavilions will allow picnickers more privacy, while offering scenic views of Black's Creek and Quincy Bay. The picnic area will be completed before the summer picnic season begins on June 1."

The rest room building will be relocated as well. The new facilities will be positioned between the new pavilion location and the Ruth Gordon Amphitheater. The new location will allow for better access, especially for those attending events at the amphitheater.

Walking trails surrounding the field area will be refurbished to allow residents to enjoy a leisurely stroll while enjoying the scenic beauty of the park. There are also future plans to construct a gazebo overlooking Black's Creek to allow walkers a chance to sit and relax while enjoying views of Quincy Bay and Boston Light.

"The historical renovations at Pageant Field will begin to institute the vision that Charles Francis Adams II had for this beautiful piece of land over one hundred years ago. The new locations will capitalize on the beauty of the area while meeting the practical needs of park-goers," said Koch.

The access roadway to the Ryan Boathouse will replace the road that encircled the field. The new road will travel along the path of the original roadway, winding along the park's western edge. The new road will remove vehicular traffic from high areas of pedestrian activity.

There will be new backstops installed at both of the little league diamonds. The renovated little league fields will be ready for use by May 1. The renovations will also provide for more field space for playing of games. The existing little league diamonds are being shifted to allow for more play space between the fields.

In addition, the area of the old rest rooms and pavilions will be leveled and graded, therefore adding significant recreational space to the park. The Quincy Youth Football League will utilize this area for their fall football schedule.

"Olmsted emphasized the importance of the natural beauty of this park. In order to meet the active recreational needs of our citizens without infringing upon our natural environment, it is imperative that we maximize the use of our existing space. This plan will allow for more recreational space and eclectic usage of the area," Koch said.

The Park Department has managed to minimize the cost of this phase of the project by performing a large portion of the job with City personnel and donated material. The necessary fill for the job, valued at $30,000, has been donated by a local contractor. In addition, the mild winter allowed Park Department personnel to perform most of the construction work, further saving the City tens of thousands of dollars.

The next phase of the project will be the construction of a formal garden at Upper Merrymount. The Park Department expects the work to begin on this phase of the historical renovations during the winter of 1998.

SPOTLIGHT ON BUSINESS

'A Festive, Fun Atmosphere' Mando's Italian Bistro Attracts Loyal Following

By LIAM FITZGERALD

On a dismal, rainy Thursday afternoon, I opened the door to Mando's Italian Bistro and was warmly greeted by Tony Agnitti, one of the restaurant's proprietors, and immediately felt welcomed.

Mando's, located in the heart of Quincy Center at 1388 Hancock St., opened last fall but has already attracted a loyal following in Quincy and the South Shore.

"It's a festive, fun atmosphere," said Agnitti. "My brother, Larry, and I always thought we'd open a restaurant someday, and the opportunity presented itself."

Originally, the plan was simply to rehabilitate what Tony termed "a tired property," but the more the Quincy natives researched the location, the more they leaned towards purchasing the property.

"We used money from Quincy 2000 and personal money to rehab it," said Tony, "and it took eight or nine months to rehab, re-do and restructure it. We were working the property about rental, not thinking about buying it ourselves."

Said Larry: "We looked at the demographics and discovered that 5,000 people live in the immediate area. Also, the Quincy 2000 Action Plan placed this corner in the middle of all industrial office and retail zones, so the location was there."

"Our family has always had a passion for good food, good wine, and entertaining friends and guests, so we decided to go for it."

Also factoring into their decision was what they saw as a need in Quincy Center for "fine Italian dining at casual prices," a statement which appears on the restaurant's logo.

While Larry as the manager handles the day-to-day operation and Tony assists in overseeing the business, it's their father who seems to enjoy the restaurant the most.

"My father, Armando, absolutely loves the interaction with clients here," said Larry. "He's here constantly, greeting people, socializing and enjoying himself."

Armando also played a role in the decision to name the restaurant Mando's Italian Bistro, since Mando is a nickname for Armando.

"We actually named the place after my son and my father," said Tony, "both of whom are named Armando."

Tony, who this year is celebrating 10 years in business with Agnitti Insurance in Quincy, has thoroughly enjoyed the camaraderie that comes with owning a restaurant.

"The restaurant business is communal; I get to see lot of my friends, clients, and acquaintances I've made from charities and church organizations," he said.

Another positive aspect of opening Mando's, said Larry, is the stimulation of the economy in Quincy—due in large part to the efforts of Mayor James Sheets, Quincy 2000, local businessmen and women, the South Shore Chamber of Commerce and the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Taking a look at the menu, one can choose from a wide variety of pasta, seafood, pork, steak, veal and poultry entrees, along with a large selection of complimentary wines and microbrewed beers.

"We pride ourselves on great food, great service and great prices," said Tony. "There is constant inspection and delivery of food daily to maintain freshness."

Before each meal, fresh focaccia bread, a thin-crusted bread with tomatoes, fresh rosemary, olive oil and kosher salt, along with rolls and butter are brought to the patron's table.

"Our dough is made daily on site, so we know the quality of the breads we use is top-notch," said Chef Stefano (a.k.a. Steve Sullas), who brings to Mando's 15 years of restaurant experience and what Tony called "a tremendous flair for good food."

Chef Stefano, who exquisitely prepares the dishes, described a few of the more popular items: "The Lobster Alfredo is lobster meat, sautéed in our homemade alfredo sauce."

"We also sell a lot of our Veal Michelangelo, which is sautéed medallions of veal with fresh diced tomatoes, artichoke hearts, black olives and mushrooms in Alfredo sauce served over Angel Hair pasta."

Mando's Chicken Madeira, fresh chicken tenders sautéed with mushrooms, sundried tomatoes and tossed with fresh cheese tortellini in a Madeira wine sauce, was featured at the South Shore YMCA's recent "Taste of the South Shore" event.

The restaurant's pizza, which are grilled, are made with the freshest dough to ensure top quality. A basic cheese pizza is $5.95, while the Naples pizza, with shrimp, black olives and pesto, is $7.95.

Customers are also welcome to bring their whole family, as Mando's offers a selection of dinners for children.

"We want our customers to feel comfortable bringing their children here," said Larry. "The dinners are large portions and include milk or soda for $2.99."

If you still have room left over for dessert, you are in for what Tony calls "a taste adventure." Mando's specialty is its homemade tiramisu, prepared by Chef Stefano. Others include traditional cannolis, Amaretto cake, and cappuccino flavored mousse.

Reservations are encouraged, particularly on Friday and Saturday nights. Sunday nights, you can relax at the bar and listen to live music. Mando's hours are Monday through Wednesday, 11:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.; Thursday from 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Friday and Saturday from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m., and Sunday from 3 to 9 p.m. The phone number is 479-1900.

Mando's is also available for different functions, including bridal and baby showers, christenings, wedding rehearsals, local business meetings, family events.

In the short time the restaurant has been open for business, it has been involved in a number of different charity works, from the South Shore YMCA and Quincy Hospital to Quincy's youth sports teams and Quincy D.A.R.E.

"We want to be an integral part of the community, because we live here, work here and they've supported our venture," said Tony. "We try our very best to please everyone who walks in our door."

TAKE IT FOR A TEST DRIVE

Since car dealerships offer test drives to prospective buyers, take full advantage of this opportunity by taking the car on the highway to see how it handles, accelerates, and brakes. Take note of any wind noise and blind spots, all the while checking driver positioning and seating comfort. Then, take the automobile onto a bumpy side road to see how well the suspension absorbs road irregularities. Try parking the car to see how well it maneuvers in tight spaces. Unless the car is a two-seater, ride in the backseat to see how passengers might enjoy the ride. It also pays to check such things as trunk volume and heating/cooling capacity before stepping outside the car to kick the tires.

HINT: About one-quarter of new-car buyers purchase service contracts.

QUINCY'S 11TH ANNUAL LEAF COMPOSTING PROGRAM
MONDAY, APRIL 13, 1998
THRU FRIDAY, APRIL 24, 1998

LAST YEAR . . . we composted over 2,000 tons of leaves, and saved over $160,000 of your tax dollars.

THIS YEAR . . . we hope to hit 4,000 tons, and save your valuable tax dollars.

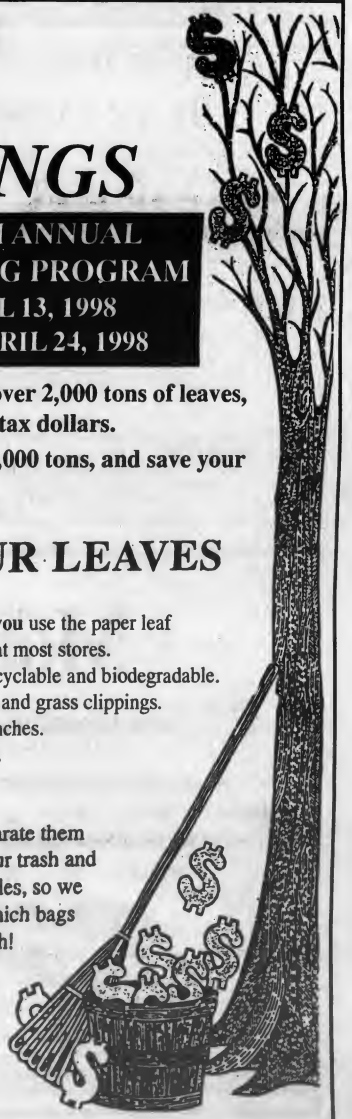

1. RAKE YOUR LEAVES

It is mandatory that you use the paper leaf composting bags sold at most stores. They're easy to fill, recyclable and biodegradable. Bag only leaves, twigs and grass clippings. No trash. No large branches. NO PLASTIC BAGS.

Just separate them from your trash and recyclables, so we know which bags are which!

Week Of The Young Child Celebration Begins April 27

Mayor James Sheets will officially kick off the festivities for this year's Week of the Young Child at the South Shore YMCA, Coddington St.

Sheets will greet parents, children, and teachers for a continental breakfast, story time and music program. Invited guests will see firsthand how high-quality early childhood services are meeting the needs of young children and their families in our community.

This year's Week of the Young Child theme, "The Early Years Are Learning Years....Make Them Count!" is a reminder that early childhood lays the foundation for all later learning and shapes whether children succeed in school and later life. The Week of the Young Child is a time to reflect on how well children's experiences in Quincy are preparing them to take full advantage of their educational opportunities and to become effective citizens, capable workers, and loving parents of the next generation and to develop specific strategies for improving the quality of life for young children in our community.

Other activities through the Week, sponsored locally by the Quincy Coalition for Children & Families will include:

- Parent Workshops
- Children's Activities
- Family Events

All event details are listed in a calendar of Events available at all public school, private daycare centers, preschool programs and child service organizations.

For additional information about the celebration or planned events, contact Jeanne Satterlund 472-2960 or Nancy Harvey 984-8777.

13 QHS Students On Exchange Trip To Italy

As part of a cultural exchange, 13 students from Quincy High School left Wednesday (yesterday) for a trip to Italy on an 11 day tour.

The students, mostly seniors are members of the Italian and Latin classes at QHS.

They are, Elizabeth Ashworth, Erin Barry, Andrea Cappellano, Andrea DiBona, Kimberly DiBona, Kerry Duffy, Julie Dunn, Laurel Kennedy, Tom LoRusso, Rebecca Mackey, Kara McSweeney, Tony Monaco and Linda Wallace.

The exchange, which began two years ago, is the culmination of a cultural exchange between the students and staff of Liceo de Scientifico di Forli, Italy and the staff and students at Quincy High School/Center for Technical Education.

Teachers began corresponding by mail and on the Internet for months to start the process of the exchange. After that, Nikolai Librandi, Italian teacher at Quincy High School contacted Bruna Baravelli, an English teacher at Liceo Scientifico.

Accompanying the students will be Librandi the Italian language teacher, and Joan Gallagher, the librarian at Vo-Tech.

Librandi lived and studied in Florence, while Gallagher spent a year teaching in Rome as a librarian-media specialist for Notre Dame International School.

The students left the harbor Express at 4:30 p.m. for Logan Airport. Their flight left for Brussels at 7:30 p.m. After that a two hour flight to Rome and six day tour including visits to Florence, Venice, Sistine Chapel, Vatican among others is planned.

They will stay at several families in the town of Forli, Italy. The homes of students they hosted last year. The students will attend school and visit local areas of interest.

The cost of the trip for each student was approximately $1,500. Each student was given an additional $100 from various fund raisers.

The fundraising included a coloring book drawn by QHS students and printed by QHS graphic students.

Last year, 15 students and three staff members from the northern Italian High School stayed in home of Quincy citizens' and attended classes at QHS. At that time, members of the Italian American community, and others gave these students memories of America.

The Sons of Italy gave an opening luncheon featuring American specialties such as hot dogs and hamburgers. Torre dei Passeri provided a dinner.

The students stayed overnight at the Salem in Fore River, visited Harvard, the Freedom Trails and more.

The students and their entourage will return home April 26.

Rhyme 'n Reason Offering Alternatives To Television

Rhyme 'n Reason Toy Store, 1253 Hancock St., Quincy Center, is encouraging children to participate in National TV-Turnoff Week, April 22 to 28.

Owners Lorraine and Chris Kusy are distributing pledge cards at the store for children to sign up for a week free of television.

When completed and signed by the parent, the cards can be redeemed at Rhyme 'n Reason for an award sticker and a $5 gift certificate.

Pledge cards must be picked up by April 21 and returned no later than May 7.

Throughout the week, the store is offering various activities as an alternative to television. They will be held weeknights from 6:30 to 8 p.m. and Saturday morning and afternoon.

The schedule: April 22, Science Night, in celebration of Earth Day; April 23, Arts and Crafts; April 24, Games Night; April 25, Dramatic Play (call for more details); April 27, Puzzle Night; and April 28, Physical Activities followed by refreshments.

Corrigan Announces Plan To Combat Criminals, Burglars

Jack Corrigan, a Democratic candidate for Norfolk County District Attorney, announces a plan to combat career criminals and burglars he would implement if elected.

The measures include:

- Trained prosecutors available around-the-clock to provide police assistance with search warrants, interrogations and investigations.

- A state-of-the-art fingerprinting division with a computerized Automated Fingerprint Identification System (AFIS).

- A computerized criminal identification database available to all police departments in the county.

- Community prosecution programs that, he said, have already proven themselves in Suffolk and Middlesex Counties.

"At a time of rising budgets and falling caseloads, our DA should be moving aggressively to make our communities safer and rid our streets of career criminals," Corrigan, a former assistant district attorney, said.

"There is no reason that the DA's office does not have prosecutors available around the clock. As DA, I'll insure that experienced attorneys are always on duty to provide police with assistance with investigations, interrogations and search warrants. That would mean more convictions and fewer criminals freed on technicalities and loopholes.

"The Norfolk County DA's office is way behind the times when it comes to the application of modern technology."

Drive For Kids At Parker School

The Parker School will sponsor a Chrysler Corporation Drive for Kids event Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon at the school.

Chrysler will donate $5 to the school for every adult who test drives the van and fills out a questionnaire providing feedback for the corporation.

The children may participate in a Bike Fair at the same time. There will be a Bike/Doll carriage parade and an obstacle course. Bike safety information will be available.

Children may also be fingerprinted and have their bicycles registered.

Real answers on crime

"I'll seize drug dealers' homes as shelters for abused women and kids."

— Jack Corrigan

Jack Corrigan served for nearly eight years as a prosecutor in Norfolk County, working alongside former DA Bill Delahunt as he mobilized an entire community in an innovative, effective battle against domestic abuse.

As our next DA, Jack Corrigan will expand and revitalize that nationally-recognized effort to prevent violence against women and children.

"Bill Delahunt's outstanding work with police, the courts, hospitals, schools and victim's advocates helped lower the rate of domestic violence," Jack Corrigan said. "Unfortunately, Norfolk County's present DA has dropped the ball when it comes to moving forward aggressively to protect families in trouble."

75% of abuse victims denied shelter.

Lack of space means three times as many women and children are turned away from shelters as are accepted — leaving them trapped in dangerous, and sometimes deadly, situations.

Jack Corrigan's plan will help prevent violence to innocent victims.

"As DA, the first home of a drug dealer my office seizes will become a shelter for battered women and their children. I'll also dedicate a portion of the DA's office drug forfeiture account to battered women's shelters, and I'll be a vocal advocate for securing more state funding for shelters."

Breaking the substance abuse link.

As a former prosecutor, Jack Corrigan knows substance abuse frequently triggers outbursts of domestic abuse, and often has a role in the escalation of domestic abuse into violence and murder.

"Drugs or alcohol are involved in 90% of domestic abuse incidents," Jack explains. "We need to force batterers to refrain from substance abuse before violence occurs. As DA, I'll use coerced abstinence — forcing abusers to take random drug tests — whenever we see signs of substance abuse. Failing to test clean will mean jail for batterers on parole or probation."

The ideas and experience we need.

Jack Corrigan's years of experience as a top prosecutor — and his tough, new crime fighting ideas — will help restore innovation and excellence to the Norfolk County District Attorney's office and make our communities safer.

Join Jack's fight against crime!

$50,000 Goal To Purchase Life-Saving Fire Dept. Equipment Project Hero Campaign Reaches $8,893 Rung

Project Hero is steadily climbing the rungs up the ladder to its $50,000 goal to purchase new life-saving equipment for the Quincy Fire Department.

The community campaign completed its fourth week at the $8,893 rung and is starting its fifth week with $41,107 to go.

The campaign was launched by Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn III and is co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

The $50,000 when reached will enable the Quincy Fire Department to purchase two thermal imaging units helmets that enable firefighters to see through thick, dark smoke and flames to find and rescue occupants from houses and other building fires.

The latest "Quincy heroes" to make donations to the worthy cause are:

George F. Gales Jr., M.D., Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Zooleck, Mr. and Mrs. Gino Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Minton, Marion A. Dolbear, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Zancelli, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sweet, Bruno E. Carloni, Coastal Air, Heat & Refrigeration Inc., Sacred Heart Church.

Library Building To Be Named For Warren Watson

mas Crane Public Library and worked tirelessly, under adverse health conditions, to help make that vision a reality."

It goes on to say, "Whereas he did not live to see his dream completed, the Library Board of Trustees should honor the memory of Warren E. Watson by naming the new addition to the library the Warren E. Watson Building, with a suitable plaque and a portrait of Warren E. Watson."

Library officials have said Watson first began planning for the $13 million expansion project 11 years ago with a study of the current building's usable space, and continued to work on the project after his 1993 retirement.

Watson, a lifelong resident of Quincy, began as the Crane Library director in 1968 and held that title for 25 years.

The other two sections of the library, the original Richardson building and the subsequent Coletti addition, are named after the architects behind those projects.

Construction on the addition is scheduled to begin next month and last until December 1999 or January 2000. Sheets has said he hopes to hold a dedication ceremony on Dec. 31, 1999, in conjunction with the city's First Night Quincy festivities and its millennium celebration.

ATTENTION QUINCY RESIDENTS

Due to Patriot's Day, Monday, April 20, 1998, rubbish collection will be a day late. Monday's rubbish will be collected on Tuesday. Tuesday's will be collected on Wednesday, etc. There will be a Saturday collection for rubbish usually collected on Friday. This applies to all routes.

Safe Communities: Safe Children

By McGRUFF THE CRIME DOG
Guest Columnist

To increase the safety of your children, increase the safety of your neighborhood. Keeping your neighborhood safe is the responsibility of concerned adults working together to prevent crime.

Start with local law enforcement agencies. They can tell you what special crime problems your community may have and what you can do about them. They can also tell you about other crime prevention child safety programs already operating that you can join, like:

Safe Homes

The "Helping Hand," "Black Parent" or "McGruff Safe

Home," program is a good idea. If you don't have one already, start one. Here's how it works:

Neighborhood parents, grandparents, or other adults are recruited to volunteer their homes to serve as temporary shelters for frightened or lost children. Volunteers can be trained to aid and comfort children. A special sign posted in the window of their homes tells children this is a place to go when they are confronted with a serious problem. Local law enforcement can help in setting up a sound and effective program.

After School Programs

Millions of children are home alone after school while parents work. Think about starting an after school program - at school, church or in one of your community centers.

"I am helping folks across Oregon with their Block Home program. They've got over 10,000 homes participating, and many kidnappings have been prevented."

Crime Prevention Curriculum

More and more schools are adding personal safety instruction and crime prevention to their school agenda. Teaching children how to play it safe and what to do when they're threatened can and should be taught in all grades. The more often they hear that they can keep from being hurt, the less fearful they'll be. Children benefit from such instruction in the school and can learn a lot from exchanging ideas and experiences with their classmates. Kids can also learn ways to protect their property, skills to help them cope at home alone, and rules of good citizenship. Many of these classes are taught by local police officers who bring along special puppets, coloring books, posters and other teaching aids to reinforce their invaluable lesson. This way kids get to know personally the authorities who are there to protect them. Schools can help teachers get training in crime prevention techniques for children. Older kids are good teachers, too! Discuss these ideas with the P.T.A., school board, and local law enforcement authorities. Crime prevention can also be a part of your child's organized extracurricular activities. Crime prevention clubs are a good way for kids to be a part of their community's crime prevention program.

Parent Alerts

Sometimes a kid who hasn't arrived at school isn't home sick or playing hooky. If something happens to a child on the way to school, parents often don't know until later in the day. Precious hours are lost to law enforcement investigators when crimes are reported to them several hours after they occur. Many schools have organized volunteer parents and senior citizens who call the parents of absent students to check that the children are somewhere safe.

Lots of concerned parents are getting their children fingerprinted. Remember, fingerprints must always be retained by the parents or guardians, never by third parties. Fingerprinting will not help prevent the tragedy of child abduction or disappearance. It may help law enforcement authorities identify children unable to identify themselves.

"A safe home and a safe neighborhood increase children's -- everyone's -- safety."

The Blue & White Buildings

REAL ESTATE

At Granite Village May 1 Habitat Applications Deadline

South Shore Habitat for Humanity is building homes in a new 10-home neighborhood called "Granite Village" located at the end of Bower Road in Quincy Point.

The homes are being built in three phases by volunteers. Three homes are currently under construction and families to live there have already been selected.

In the next building phase, two three-bedroom units in a duplex will be built. Applications for the two units are now being accepted. Deadline for applications is May 1.

Local families who can demonstrate a significant housing need and who meet Habitat income and residency requirements are encouraged to apply to purchase the homes. Habitat will select families on the basis of housing need, income, willingness to partner with Habitat and residence.

Families will be chosen without respect to age, sex, sexual preference, disability, race, religion or national origin.

Since the homes will be new, construction may be able to be modified within limits to accommodate families with disabilities.

Families will purchase the homes at cost and will receive 20-year, zero-interest financing by Habitat, resulting in small monthly mortgage payments. Each home is estimated to cost $55,000 to $60,000. The Habitat mortgage principal payment will be about $230 per month. South Shore Habitat will use the payments to finance future home construction or renovations for other families with housing needs in the South Shore area.

The new homeowners will also be responsible for paying property taxes and insurance for upkeep of their homes. They will become part of a new neighborhood association that will maintain their common land area.

In lieu of a cash down-payment, families must complete 500 hours of "sweat equity" time. They are required to help build the home working on Saturdays along with volunteers on construction, landscaping, site cleanup and other tasks. Sweat equity hours can be accumulated by any family member and no construction skills are necessary.

Applications are limited to families who are Quincy residents and have lived there at least one year or have been former Quincy residents for at least two years.

All candidates should meet the following annual gross family income guidelines (extenuating circumstances will be considered):

family of three, $17,000 to $24,000; family of four, $17,000 to $25,000; family of five, $17,000 to $27,000; and family of six or more, $17,000 to $28,000.

For more information or to apply, write to South Shore Habitat for Humanity Inc., 28 River St., Braintree, MA 02184 or call (781) 843-9080 (24 hours). Applications may also be picked up at most Quincy churches, at the information desk in the Quincy City Hall lobby and at Eastern Bank, 731 Hancock St. and 63 Franklin St., Quincy.

Selling Your Home 'As Is'

[The following is from Vin Moscardelli at ERA Central Real Estate, 128 Mayor McGrath Highway, Quincy.]

Q. Is it a good idea to sell my home "as is"?

A. In all cases, whether you choose to sell your home "as is" or not, it's a good idea to be clear to the buyers about any defects in the home. If you are up-front to the buyers about any defects, you'll be helping the selling process go a lot smoother for both sides.

There may be a specific part or location of the house that you know needs to be fixed. This is something you need to disclose first for the buyers. That way you won't have to label your entire home "as is." However, as long as all these defects are put in writing and agreed upon by both parties, selling your home "as is" is acceptable.

Keep in mind, however, that if you sell a house with an "as is" clause, all defects must be visible to the buyers in order to be covered by the clause. If any defects are not observable, these will most likely not be covered under such clause.

As your ERA real estate professional, I'm here to answer any questions you'll have about selling your home.

Choosing A Home Improvement Contractor

Ahh, the sounds of spring--the birds chirping, children playing after a winter of being cooped up inside, the hammering of home improvement contractors...

If you are like most New England homeowners, you will be spending the spring season fixing leaky roofs, trying to cope with the water damage in your basement, replacing downed gutters, removing debris from damaged tree limbs and shrubbery from heavy rains...and the list goes on.

The task of spring cleanup may be so overwhelming that you are tempted to hire professionals to do the job for you--but before you do, heed this advice from the Better Business Bureau:

•While the BBB cannot recommend any company or service over another, we can tell you whether or not a contractor has had serious problems in the past. Contact the BBB for a Reliability Report by calling (617) 426-9000, or visit our web site at www.bosbbb.org. A new program available only through our web site can forward your request for services to appropriate BBB members. Check out the Information, Estimate and Proposal page listed on our home page.

•Contact your local building inspector's office. Once again, they can't make recommendations, but they can help you understand the process of choosing the right contractor.

•In Massachusetts, home improvement contractors who perform jobs of over

$1,000 are required to register with the state. Registration does not endorse a contractor's abilities, but it does mean that a consumer who hires a registered contractor is eligible to be reimbursed up to $10,000 for a botched job. It is the consumer's responsibility to hire a contractor who is licensed and properly registered.

•Put together a list of contractors from neighbors, friends, and family. You can also check in the Yellow Pages but remember, the Massachusetts contractor's registration number (HIC number) must be listed in all advertising.

•Get at least three estimates for the same job. In other words, make sure that all contractors are bidding on the same exact project, including materials (quality and quantity) and your expectations.

•Insist on the contractor applying for the building permit, if one is needed. The reason for this is two-fold--if the contractor applies for the permit, the local building inspector will check to make sure the contractor is properly registered and licensed, as well as properly insured; and if anything goes wrong during the project, you are not responsible for the contractor's mistakes.

•Carefully review the contract. The written contract should specify the work to be done, any special materials, the total price, payment schedule, the start date and the expected completion date. If it is an outside project, keep in mind that weather conditions may prevent completion on the exact date as stated in the contract.

•If you do not understand anything in the contract, do not sign it until you do. If you feel there is anything missing from the contract (anything verbally agreed upon), make sure to get it in writing. Sample contracts are available from the Massachusetts' Office of Consumer Affairs at (617) 727-7780.

•According to Massachusetts law, contractors are not allowed to charge more than one-third of the total price as a deposit on a job.

Early Outburst Sparks North Over Silver Lake

By LIAM FITZGERALD

A seven-run, first-inning outburst and an impressive pitching performance by sophomore Matt McCann lifted North Quincy High School's baseball team over Silver Lake, 8-3.

The Red Raiders (2-1) are back in action today (Thursday) when they host South Boston in a 3:30 p.m. non-league contest. Friday at 4 p.m., North visits Old Colony League foe Taunton and hosts Stoughton next Monday at 10 a.m. Next Wednesday at 11 a.m., Canton pays NQ a visit.

In Monday's OCL victory over Silver Lake, North batted around in the first, collecting six hits. NQ catcher and leadoff hitter Bill Walker had two hits and two RBI in the inning and finished with three hits and two runs scored.

Also contributing was designated hitter John Sullivan, with a single, double and RBI, and Greg Peck, Adam Delorey, Bryan Linsky and Matt Kisel had hits in the inning.

On the mound, McCann (1-1) threw the first six innings and yielding just one earned run while scattering four hits. He registered two strikeouts and walked one.

"He didn't walk batters, which was the key," said NQ coach Dave Perdios. "Sometimes it's tough for a young pitcher to pitch with that lead, but he kept his focus and worked hard. You have to hand it to him—he did a good job and got the win."

Last Wednesday, NQ appeared on the verge of losing to OCL host Barnstable, but a seven-run seventh propelled NQ to a thrilling 8-7 triumph.

Four straight hits by Adam Goodrich, Linsky, Andy Currie and Kisel pushed North ahead in the final inning. Sullivan and Walker also had clutch hits in the comeback. NQ's defense kept the team in the game, turning three double plays and throwing a runner out at the plate.

On April 6, a non-call may have cost North in a 2-0 setback to OCL opponent Falmouth. A scoreless game through five innings, Falmouth had runners on first and third with one out.

Falmouth attempted to execute the squeeze play, but as the runner from third was racing towards home, the batter missed the pitch. Before Walker could chase down the runner, the batter put his shoulder into him and knocked Walker down, allowing the runner to retreat to third and the other to move up to second.

"The rule is that any contact like that should be called interference," said Perdios. "But no call was made, so instead of having two outs and one on, they had two on and the next batter singles them both in. It's too bad, because the kids played good and deserved better."

McCann was NQ's starter and pitched five scoreless innings of three-hit ball before Kevin Walsh came on in relief.

Palardy, Presidents Aim To Get Back On Track

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Despite a strong pitching performance by junior Dennis Palardy, the Quincy High School baseball team fell to visiting Bridgewater-Raynham, 5-4, last Wednesday.

The Presidents (1-2) were back in action yesterday (Wednesday) at 4 p.m. in an Old Colony League game at Plymouth South. Friday at 4 p.m., Quincy hosts OCL foe Falmouth and next Tuesday, Boston Latin pays Quincy a visit for a non-league doubleheader starting at 10 a.m.

"The Plymouth game is a key game for us," said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia, who said a rested Palardy will get the nod on the mound. "It's very important we win it, so we can get back in the swing of things. We'll go down and give it our best and see what happens."

In the OCL setback to B-R, Palardy went the distance, striking out four and scattering seven hits, but walks and early Trojan hits were the difference, said Sylvia.

"Dennis pitched a heck of a game, and gave us a chance to win it," he said. "That's all you can ask for. He did have a little control trouble, but with a few more hits, we could've pulled it out."

"It was a good game that could've gone either way. We competed with B-R, which traditionally has one of the best programs around, and that's a good sign for our ball club."

Presidents center fielder Tom Daley paced the offense, going two for four with two RBI.

Quincy's Chris Haidul Selected To Play For Team Massachusetts

Chris Haidul, captain of the Quincy High School hockey team, was selected from among 170 of the top high school hockey players in the state to play for Team Massachusetts in the Chicago Showcase, which began Tuesday and continues through Sunday.

Haidul, a two-time Patriot Ledger All-Scholastic and two-time Old Colony League All-Star hockey player and a two-time OCL

CHRIS HAIDUL, Sportsmanship Award winner, is representing the City of Quincy and the state in the prestigious tournament.

The Presidents' senior captain recently completed his senior season as one of the top scorers in the OCL with 35 goals and 17 assists. He finished his outstanding high school career with 206 points.

Presidents Pick Up Sixth Straight Victory

By LIAM FITZGERALD
Make it six consecutive victories for the Quincy High School boys' volleyball team, which hasn't even dropped a game since the season opener.

The Presidents improved to 6-1 following a 15-4, 15-12 triumph at Xaverian Monday afternoon. Sparking Quincy were junior Jason Goldrick (10 kills), senior co-captain Eddie Smith (five kills, five digs), senior Felix Chan (four kills) and junior Brian Chen (five aces, two blocks).

"It's great to see the team winning," said Quincy coach Christine Barrett. "What coach wouldn't want that? It's definitely a plus, but we still have a lot more to work toward. We have two more matches before the break, and they'll be our toughest of the season so far."

Tuesday, the Presidents hosted New Bedford, the No. 2 team in the state, and yesterday (Wednesday) visited Greater New Bedford Vocational, another perennial powerhouse, for a match slated for approximately 7 p.m.

"The competition will be tremendous in these two matches," said Barrett. "They're both strong teams with a lot of talent, so we'll have to stay focused and give 110 percent effort. I can't ask for anything else."

"We'd love to go in and shock them (Greater New Bedford). There's no pressure on us; it's all on them, because they're expected to win. It could be just like North Quincy, when we went there and won. We've got nothing to lose; this could be our turn."

In earlier action, the President swept visiting Wareham, 2-0, on the serving skills of Chen (six service aces), Smith (four service aces) and senior co-captain Jared Downey (three service aces). Quincy won the match, 15-1, 15-2.

A 2-0 triumph over host Dighton-Rehoboth was highlighted by the top-notch performances of Smith (eight kills), Goldrick (seven kills, two blocks) and Downey (15 assists, four digs, two service aces). The scores were 15-2, 15-11.

Errors Cost NQ Freshman In 9-7 Loss To Silver Lake

Leading 5-2 heading into the fourth inning, things unraveled in a hurry for the North Quincy High School freshman baseball team, which lost to host Silver Lake, 9-7, Monday afternoon.

Starting pitcher Chris Lockhead pitched well for three innings, allowing just two runs. Unfortunately for the Red Raiders, the Lakers took advantage of five NQ errors in the last three innings to score seven runs and win the game.

Playing well for North was center fielder Joey Holleran, who went three for four with two RBI and made an outstanding catch to rob a Silver Lake hitter of extra bases.

NQ first baseman Vinny Traietti collected two RBI, Steve Baraski doubled, and Pat Lahar and Frank Alibrandi each picked up a single. Right fielder Paul Venuti turned in a fine defensive effort.

North opened its season last week in less than ideal conditions, and dropped a well-played game, 5-4, to Plymouth South.

Chris Doherty started for NQ and threw the ball well. He gave up a leadoff triple in the first, the only hit he allowed in three innings. Transfer Chris Cathcart relieved Doherty and was touched for two hits and three runs in three innings.

Trailing 3-0 in the fourth, North's bats responded to tie the game. Lockhead led with a walk and Alibrandi followed with a single. Cathcart then launched a bomb to right center, driving in two runs. Kyle Piazza singled home Cathcart from second to tie it at 3-3.

South took a 4-3 lead in the fifth and could have added to it in the sixth, were it not for a spectacular catch in center field by Barraski.

The Red Raiders again rallied to tie the game, with Piazza tripling to score Cathcart in the sixth. South took the lead for good in the seventh.

Playing well for NQ were Brandon Sleeth, who made two exceptional plays at second base, Dean Zoia, who was solid behind the plate, and Matt Moriarty, who pitched well. North also got base hits from Moriarty and Lahar.

NQ Assistant Track Coach Wins Shotput At U.S. Masters

NQHS assistant track coach Maureen Fallon won the shot put in the recent U.S. Masters National Track Meet at the Reggie Lewis Center in Boston.

Fallon (a member of the 1984 Patriot Ledger All-Scholastic track team) won with a toss of 37 feet, 4 1/2 inches.

A Stoughton resident,

Fallon is in her ninth year as a NQ assistant. A 1989 graduate of North Adams

State College, she is a grade 2 teacher at the Lincoln-Hancock School.

North Improving With Every Passing Match

By LIAM FITZGERALD
The North Quincy High School boys' volleyball team bounced back from two early losses, picking up its first victory and taking one of the state's elite teams to three games.

NQ coach John Perkins credits the Red Raiders' resurgence to the experience the younger players are getting on a first-hand basis.

"I've seen a lot of maturity in these kids," he said. "They're gaining more and more experience with every match, and it's a huge confidence boost for them. I've seen improvement with every game, but this week will tell where we stand."

"We have three matches coming up, and we'd like to get above .500 before the break. I realize we're 1-3, but the experience we've needed is starting to develop in a positive way."

The Red Raiders, who hosted Brockton Tuesday, welcome Wareham to town today (Thursday) for a 4 p.m. match. Friday at 3:30 p.m., North visits Boston Latin in the final match before the school vacation week.

In recent action, North visited Greater New Bedford, one of the strongest teams in the area, and played its best match of the season, said Perkins. Greater New Bedford, a state finalist last season, won the match, 15-7, 14-16, 15-7, last Thursday.

"That was a total team effort, with everyone contributing," he said. "We didn't win the match, but we're the first team they've lost a game to. The team felt very good, even though it was a loss."

After dropping the opener, the Red Raiders were in danger of being swept, trailing 11-9 in the second game. However, NQ rallied to tie it, 14-14, then scored the next two points to win the game.

Leading the way for NQ were Kin Yun, who registered six kills and 31 assists, and Kin Chan, who collected six service points.

Last Tuesday, North picked up its first win, defeating visiting Weymouth, 15-12, 15-8. Pacing North's effort were Al King (13 kills) and Jackie Cheung (nine service points).

Five Residents To Run Marathon To Raise Funds For Dana-Farber

Five Quincy residents are among the 350 Dana-Farber Marathon Challenge runners who will raise more than $1 million for cancer research when they run the 102nd Boston Marathon on Monday, April 20.

The runners are Mary Benyo and J.J. Lerner of North Quincy, Maryann Fennessy and Lisa Tramontana of Quincy, and Jerry Smith of Wollaston.

Benyo will serve as team captain of the South Shore A Team, which includes Fennessy and Smith. Lerner will be the captain for the South Shore B Team, which includes Tramontana.

By raising a minimum of $1,500 each to participate, the runners fund the Claudia Adams Barr Program in Innovative Basic Cancer Research at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, a world-renowned leader in cancer research and treatment.

Over the past eight years, Marathon Challenge runners have raised almost $5 million to support the innovative research of more than two dozen scientists.

The Marathon Challenge began in 1990 when Peter Farber Santis and Dr. William Farber Santis, grandsons of Institute founder Dr. Sidney Farber, were inspired by a medical student who ran the Boston Marathon in honor of a friend who was battling a brain tumor. What began as "Mike's Run" is now one of Dana-Farber's leading fundraising events.

First Choice, Jay Cashman In Jamboree Championship

First Choice Home Care topped Bruce Ayers Club, 7-3, in one semifinal, and Jay Cashman edged Quincy Sheet Metal, 2-1, in the other semifinal of the recent Quincy Youth Hockey Mite Division House League jamboree.

Molly O'Connell, with single assists from Samantha Shaw and Patrick Young, scored both Cashman goals in the victory. QSM's goal was netted by Amanda Maggio.

Leading the way for First Choice were Tom Conley (four goals), Casey Conley (hat trick), Glen Misho (three assists) and Carla Nickerson. Teddy Walsh and Kyle Tobin (one assist apiece). For Ayers, Jim Dunn notched two goals and an assist and Brian Sullivan added a goal and two assists.

In earlier action, a goal and an assist by Patrick Young helped lift Jay Cashman over Quincy Sheet Metal, 4-3.

Other JC goals were by Andrew Bythrow, Samantha Shaw and Nash Winters, with single assists from John Magliozzi, Steve Graham, Matt Lawlor and Matt Shaw. For QSM, John McInnis scored two goals, Josh McKeon had a goal and two assists and Allison Griffith and Jeff Giordani each collected an assist.

Bruce Ayers Club rolled past Kiley Real Estate, 8-3, sparked by a hat trick by Charlie McGee.

Other top scorers for Ayers were James Corbett and Jim Dunn (one goal, two assists each), Patrick Totten (goal, assist), Kevin Tryon and Nick Masone (two assists apiece), Derek Murphy and Brian Sullivan (one goal each), and Ryan Murphy (assist). Scoring for Kiley were Joe Ferris, Joe Vialpando and Jason Laura, with single assists from Bill Kiley and Brian McLean.

Goalender Chris Rooney turned away every shot he faced as First Choice Home Care blanked Doran & Horrigan, 6-0.

Offensive standouts for FCHC were Casey Conley (hat trick), Tom Conley (two goals, assist), Ted Walsh (goal), Glen Misho and Carla Nickerson (two assists apiece).

Three-point efforts by John McInnis (two goals, assist) and Josh McKeon (goal, two assists) sparked Quincy Sheet Metal over Paul Harold Club, 6-1.

Also contributing for QSM Allison Griffith, Lammy Papalambros and Wayne Milford (one goal each), and Frank Sorrento (assist). Mike Griffin netted the Harold goal, assisted by Joe Canavan.

Kiley Real Estate edged Lydon-Russell, 3-2, on goals by Patrick Morrissey, Joe Ferris and Bill Kiley.

Adding an assist apiece were Joe Vialpando and Dominic McDougall. Both L-R goals were notched by Conor Roche, with two assists from Richard Pugsley.

Brian Sullivan scored four goals to spark Bruce Ayers Club to an 8-3 triumph over Barry's Deli.

Other scorers for Ayers were Charlie McGee (goal, two assists), Jim Dunn (goal, assist), Patrick Totten and Kevin Tryon (one goal apiece), and Matt Brady, Matt Bridgeman and Nick Masone (one assist each). Deli's offensive stars were Jim Fitzpatrick (two goals), Andrew Gormley (two assists), Jamie Gregoire (goal) and Joey Curtis (assist).

Morrissey, Coffee Break Cafe, Bernie's Among Jamboree Victors

Billy Barter notched a hat trick for Bernie's General Store, which defeated Mike Morrissey Club, 8-5, in recent Quincy Youth Hockey Pee Wee Division House League playoff action.

Joining Barter on Bernie's scoring sheet were Casey Winter (two goals), Brian O'Hanley (two assists), Patrick Kelley, Joey McManus and George Snowling (one goal each), and Bryan Cooper and Nicole Murray (one assist apiece). Morrissey was paced by Josh Giordani and Matt Peters (two goals each) and Andrew Ross (goal, assist).

Four goals and an assist by Tim Duggan sparked Coffee Break Cafe to a 9-6 victory over Skinner's Winners.

Other offensive standouts for CBC were Robert Mooney (hat trick, assist), Tim Mullen (two assists), Tim Coughlin and Kristen DiMatteo (one goal, one assist apiece), and Dennis

PEE WEES

Rugg, Adam Foley and Andrew Jordan (one assist each). Skinner's scorers were Matt Grazioso (goal, two assists), Ryan Tobin (two goals), Ryan Conley, James Chiochio and Brendan Craig (one goal apiece), and Andrew Flores and Robert Richards (one assist each).

Mike McGonagle's two goals and three assists powered Quincy Car Wash to an 8-2 triumph over Colonial Federal Savings.

Also contributing offensively for QCW were Bob Donovan, Ryan Donahue and Mike Cox (one goal, one assist apiece), Dan Donovan, Jeff Butts and Pat Maxey (one goal each), and Chris Sheehan and Jim Burke (one assist apiece). Liam Powers scored both Colonial goals, with one assist from Rich Stone.

Brian O'Hanley netted two goals as Bernie's General Store topped Skinner's

Winners, 4-3.

Daniel Clark and Joe McManus also scored for Bernie's, with single assists from Matt Lavery and Keith Flaherty. Skinner's was led by Andrew Flores and Brendan Craig (one goal, one assist each), James Chiochio (goal) and Ryan Tobin (three assists).

Coffee Break Cafe upended Colonial Federal Savings, 5-4, thanks in part to Tim Duggan and Robert Mooney (one goal, one assist apiece).

Other goal scorers for CBC were Kristen DiMatteo, Tim Coughlin and Ryan Feldhoff. Colonial was sparked by Liam Powers (goal, two assists). Other goals were netted by Tom Walsh, Andrew McAllister and Bill Cox. Joe Norris collected two assists and Tim Sommers and Ross Pasquantonio each picked up an assist.

Keohane's, Westminster Dodge, Burgin Platner Playoff Winners

Alex Shaffer's two goals and one assist helped Keohane's edge The Quincy Sun, 3-2, in recent Quincy Youth Hockey Squirt Division House League playoff action.

Matt Giordani notched a goal and an assist and Paul Lennon dished out two assists for Keohane's. Scoring for the Sun were Kevin Nee and Matt O'Quigley, with single assists from John McClintock and Jim Callahan.

Goals by Mike McKeon

and Joe Sweeney, with single assists from Kevin Richardson and Bryan Donelin, sparked Burgin Platner over M. Sugarman, 2-0. BP goalender Dan Poggi recorded the shutout.

Goals by Patrick Malone, Paul Graham, David Tapper and Andrew Donovan lifted Westminster Dodge over Pat Foley Painting, 4-3.

Collecting an assist apiece for WD were Andrew Patten, James Sheehan, James Spellman, Donald Gardiner, Gregory Jenkins and Michael Faherty. Goal scorers for Foley were Mike Lohnes, Sean Warwick and Matt Haskins, with single assists from Marisa Powers, Terrence O'Connell, Patrick Maloney, Paul Noonan and Patrick Devlin.

Bantam C's Reach State Playoff Semifinals; GBL Playoffs Next

The Quincy Youth Hockey Bantam C's capped off an undefeated Greater Boston League regular season with an appearance in the semifinals of the state playoffs.

Despite a valiant effort, the Quincy team couldn't catch a break against a strong, fast Medford squad and fell, 5-2. Andrew Nestor and Andrew Mahoney scored for Quincy, with two assists from Pat Lahar and one assist from John Ryan.

The C's season, however, continues this week as the hard-working team enters the GBL playoffs as the top seed, its reward for a 26-0 regular season conference mark. Coach Brad Vinton, a lifelong hockey player and fan, is justifiably proud of his team as he reflected on his first year of coaching in the QYH program.

Quincy opened the state tournament with a 13-0 shutout over Cape Cod Canal, sparked by the exceptional netminding of Tom Shurhan, who was unscored upon in the tournament's preliminary games. He was protected by tenacious, hard-hitting defensemen Joe Callahan, Chris Farr, Mark Fitzpatrick and Matt Miller, all of whom contributed a goal or an assist in the opener.

Joe Thorley and Nestor led the Quincy forwards with two goals and two assists apiece. Quincy's well balanced attack was evident as forwards Lahar, Ryan, Mahoney, Rene Lumaghini, Scotty Markarian and Colin Maxey each contributed to the scoring frenzy with at least a goal or an assist.

The C's returned the next day to defeat Burlington, 7-0. Shurhan was spectacular in net, making several near impossible saves, while defenders Fitzpatrick, Farr, Miller and Callahan repeatedly cleared Burlington attackers out of the crease. Lahar's impressive hustling resulted in two goals and an assist, while heads-up play and pinpoint passing garnered Nestor three assists and Thorley two assists.

Markarian made his formidable presence felt with body-jolting checks and two goals and Ryan's tireless forechecking created several scoring opportunities, including an assist on Lumaghini's goal. Maxey and Mahoney each netted a goal and Callahan got an assist to round out Quincy's scoring.

Mrs. Lynch died April 8.

We're Fighting For Your Life.

SCOTT DEWARE

*A Thought
For The Week*

Did you ever put something in the wrong place and wonder later where it was? Of course you have. We all have. Sometimes when the thing shows up, we ask the silly question, "How did it get there?" And this is without "smart alecky" semantics.

We know God is in Heaven. But He is elsewhere, too. Instead of placing Him in that uncharted area "way up there," why don't we put Him where we can find Him all the time? We go to His house of worship on Sunday and then return to OUR home. Why not bring Him along home with us? When we put Him in our home, where most of us need Him most, we always know where He is...

Similar reasoning can apply, in a way, to religion. People put God in the wrong place. It may sound peculiar, but we can put God in the right place. It can even be said we can put God in His place, if we want to. And this is without "smart alecky" semantics.

Insurance Agent; Son Of Mayor

A funeral service for Herbert G. Ross, 90, of Weymouth, formerly of Quincy, was held yesterday (Wednesday) in the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Mr. Ross died April 11 at St. Patrick's Manor in Framingham after a long illness.

An insurance agent, he was the owner of the Charles A. Ross Insurance Agency in Quincy.

He was the son of the late Quincy Mayor Charles A. Ross and served as his father's campaign manager. Mr. Ross was also the son of the late Margaret (Campbell) Ross.

He was a longtime member of the First Presbyterian Church of Quincy.

He was a Navy veteran of World War II and a member of the Cyril P. Morrisette American Legion Post in West Quincy.

John R. Mullally, 69
Railroad Conductor For Amtrak

A funeral Mass for John R. Mullally, 69, of Quincy, was celebrated Tuesday in St. John's Church.

Mr. Mullally died April 9 at the New England Medical Center in Boston.

A railroad conductor for Amtrak, he worked there for many years before his retirement in 1992. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Mr. Mullally served in the Army in World War II and was a member of the Thaddeus Kosciuszko Veterans of Foreign Wars Post.

He enjoyed sports. Born in Boston, he lived in Dorchester before moving to Quincy 22 years ago.

Effie Quinn

A funeral liturgy for Effie (Dan) Quinn, of Quincy, was held April 10 at St. Joseph's Church.

Mrs. Quinn died April 6 at Elihu White Nursing Home in Braintree after a long illness.

She managed her family's bar, the former Dan's Place, in Quincy Point.

She was a member of the Sons of Lebanon.

A lifelong Quincy resident, she attended Quincy schools.

She is survived by her husband, Edward M. Quinn;

Mr. Ross was a 50-year member of Delta Masonic Lodge in Braintree and a member of the Quincy Lodge of Elks and the Scottish Clan MacGregor.

Born, raised and educated in Quincy, he was a graduate of Quincy High School and Burdett College. He lived most of his life in Quincy and 30 years in Weymouth before moving to the nursing home one year ago.

He is survived by his wife, Grace M. (Savage) Ross; two sons, Charles H. Ross of South Natick and John E. Ross of Abington; four grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

He won gold medals in bocce, bowling, and horse-shoe pitching in the Quincy Senior Olympics.

"This man will forever be an inspiration," said Sharon Beals, executive director of Beechwood Community Life Center where the Senior Olympics are held. "His mind, his spirit, his intellect—such a phenomenal human being he was. He was so vital."

He made a difference in the lives of many people. I will miss him dearly."

Beals added that Mr. Benedetti also helped found

Alfred Benedetti, 104
Senior Olympian; Local Activist;
Worked At Fore River Shipyard

A private burial was held for Alfred Benedetti, 104, of Quincy, the city's oldest Senior Olympian and a well-known community activist.

Mr. Benedetti died April 11 at home.

In December, he served as grand marshal of the city's annual Quincy Christmas Festival Parade.

He maintained a strong interest in Quincy affairs for many years, writing letters to Mayor James Sheets, city councilors, The Quincy Sun and other local newspapers, and various civic groups.

Sheets said he was "shocked" to learn on Monday of Mr. Benedetti's death.

"With the passing of Al Benedetti, a piece of Quincy died," he said. "He spanned so many generations, so many pages of history in the City of Quincy. He was an inspiration to me, and he was an inspiration to everyone he met."

"It will be a long time before we have someone who can fill the pages of history he did."

Sheets said he had hoped to make Mr. Benedetti the first man "rehired" at the Fore River shipyard in Quincy Point later this year. Former shipyard employees such as Mr. Benedetti are to be rehired for the reopening of the yard which closed in 1986.

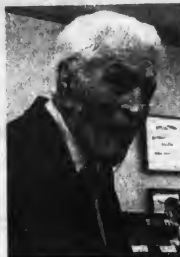

Mr. Benedetti sustained his intellectual vigor despite a fall on March 1 that resulted in his being hospitalized. He had been doing some woodworking at the time of the fall. He was released from the hospital April 7.

He won gold medals in bocce, bowling, and horse-shoe pitching in the Quincy Senior Olympics.

"This man will forever be an inspiration," said Sharon Beals, executive director of Beechwood Community Life Center where the Senior Olympics are held. "His mind, his spirit, his intellect—such a phenomenal human being he was. He was so vital."

He made a difference in the lives of many people. I will miss him dearly."

Beals added that Mr. Benedetti also helped found

ALFRED BENEDETTI
Beechwood's Aviation Information Center.

He had been active until about a year ago at the Beechwood Center. Until a few years ago, he also bowled twice a week at Merrymount Lanes.

In recent years, he had taken an active interest in the Boston Harbor cleanup project, asking his daughter to drive him to various sites to see the progress.

Mr. Benedetti constantly read and clipped articles about news events to keep up with current events, using low-vision glasses and a special magnifying lens. He attended many public meetings until his hearing loss made it difficult to follow what was said. He then relied on written reports, and he also contributed information to the Quincy Historical Society.

In 1996, at the age of 103, he voted in his 20th consecutive presidential election.

Born Aug. 11, 1893 in a small town outside Florence, Italy, he came to America at age 9. His parents soon moved to Quincy.

He was still corresponding with an elderly cousin in Italy, using an Italian-English dictionary.

Mr. Benedetti worked for 56 years in the ship design field, 47 years at the Fore River shipyard where he was a piping supervisor in the engine drawing room for 33 years. He trained at the Franklin Institute in Boston and entered the shipyard's apprenticeship program. For five years during World War I, he moved to Bridgeport, Conn., to work on submarines.

During his tenure at the shipyard, which was operating under Bethlehem Steel, the yard turned out

An Alfred Benedetti Scholarship Fund was established last year by the Fore River Long Service Club.

Mr. Benedetti also collected information over the years about the Italian community that had grown in South Quincy, centered around the stonemaking jobs in the city quarries.

He left his brain to Massachusetts General Hospital for research on aging. He was part of a study by New England Deaconess Hospital in Boston of centenarians, and in 1995 he was featured in an article on the study in the magazine Scientific American.

He is survived by three daughters, Madalyn Macdonald of Quincy, Laura Trescott of Marshfield and Anna MacKinnon of Quincy; six grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren. His wife, Battistina "Lena," died about 18 years ago.

At Mr. Benedetti's request, there were no wake or visiting hours prior to the private burial.

Richard P. LaPointe Jr., 54 Longtime Stop & Shop Meat Cutter

A funeral Mass for Richard P. LaPointe Jr., 54, of Braintree, formerly of Quincy, was celebrated Tuesday at St. John the Baptist Church.

A funeral service for Rachel (MacKay) Molyneaux, 93, of Hanover, formerly of Quincy, was held Tuesday at Fort Square Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Molyneaux died April 9 at Norwell Knoll following a brief illness.

A retired nurse and crafts teacher, she was born in Ball's Creek, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia.

She came to Boston in 1925 and completed nurse's training at the Fairlawn Hospital in Worcester in 1931. Following graduation, she worked for six years as a children's nurse for several Boston area doctors' families, including the future ambassador and lieutenant governor, Elliot Richardson.

Following her marriage to the late W. Gordon Molyneaux, they moved to Quincy in 1942 where she worked part time as a private duty nurse.

She taught copper craft evening classes in Quincy and Braintree from 1967 to 1972.

A member of Fort Square Presbyterian Church in Quincy for 56 years, she was a former deaconess and vice president of the friendship circle.

Following the death of her husband in 1980, she moved to Hanover to live her son, Leslie Molyneaux.

She was a member of the Hanover Historical Society and Hanson Historical Society.

In addition to her son, she is survived by another son, the Rev. Wilfrid Molyneaux of Schenectady, N.Y.;

two grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sullivan Funeral Home, Hanover.

Donations may be made to the Memorial Fund at Fort Square Presbyterian Church, 16 Pleasant St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Marie Mitchell, 84 Worked In Clothing Business

A funeral blessing for Marie (Boyle) Mitchell, 84, of Quincy, was held April 9 at St. Ann's Church.

Mrs. Mitchell died April 7 at home.

She worked part time for her family's business, Progressive Clothing, for 25 years. It opened in 1950.

She also was a credit manager at Rogers Jewelry in Boston for 13 years, retiring in 1945.

She was a member of North Quincy senior citizens groups.

Born in South Boston, she lived in Canton for 25 years, Bridgewater for nine years and Florida for 10 years before moving to Quincy four years ago.

Wife of the late Harry Mitchell, she is survived by two sons, Robert Mitchell of Kingston and Richard Mitchell of Branchburg, N.J.; a brother, Gerard Boyle of Dorchester; eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Knollwood Memorial Park, Canton.

Sheets Against Two Financial Proposals For College

1980s that both Quincy College and Quincy Hospital would have to operate out of their own revenue.

"Now, they've (Quincy College officials) got to adjust," he said. "They need to look at anything that could provide them with added revenue, and they've got to pull together as a team. The institutions that adjust are the ones that survive."

The mayor added that he did not think the recent vote of no confidence the college faculty took in Ryan's leadership was much of an example of pulling together as a team, saying, "It made me sad to see that. But again, I'm not there every day."

Sheets, who chairs the School Committee, said that board would have to approve any proposal by Ryan to help brighten the college's financial picture. He said he has no plans to bring Ryan's two suggestions before the committee, although he noted that any of the other six members are welcome to do so.

At press time, Ryan could not be reached for comment.

Ryan said last month the college's Fiscal Year 1998 budget initially was $9.6 million but had to be decreased to $9.1 million because of enrollment problems. The budget for Fiscal Year 1999, which begins July 1, will be about $8.6 million, he said.

Ryan said he and the college's Board of Governors would consider three spending plans, each with a certain number of layoffs that would depend upon how much was spent on "strategic initiatives" such as the college's library, various equipment, and increased marketing and maintenance. The faculty's vote of no confidence followed.

He also has said he will make a recommendation about what action to take before the Board of Governors meeting next week.

Wollaston Quartet To Perform At Annual Prayer Breakfast

Your Horoscope by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You will find yourself unsure of your mate, but don't press the issue. You're likely to get into a fight, so try to ride out this rough week stoically. All calms down by the weekend.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You are surprised at the lack of support from your family concerning your career plans. However, be prepared to stick to your decision. It's not necessarily wise to pick what's "safe."

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You feel ignored and taken for granted, but don't brood about it. Others are just too busy gearing up for self-improvements. It's not the week for being overly sensitive.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Your penchant for helping others sometimes results in meddling. Try to be sensitive to that. Work is quite hectic for the most part. Use the weekend to catch up on rest.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You've been working hard lately, so go ahead and treat yourself to that dreamed-of extravagance. Someone you'd like to get close to won't respond to your romantic overtures. Bide your time.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) This isn't the week for having things go the way you like. As a result, you might be short-tempered, so make an effort to lie low and be diplomatic. A weekend of family fun is fulfilling.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your mind seems to be wandering at work, and co-workers are resentful. Try to get yourself motivated again to avoid any unpleasant situations with bigwigs. The weekend is devoted to domestic chores.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Others have been finding your behavior overbearing of late. Although you may feel that you know better, it's wise to stop exerting so much authority.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) The money you were counting on is not forthcoming, so you'd be wise to rethink your budget for the coming weeks. You're going to have to trim expenses. Perhaps your mate has a good suggestion.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Don't let that person who's disagreeing with you get on your nerves. Instead, take a different approach and listen to the ideas being offered. You could find a better way of doing things.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Someone in your family is causing you worry by spending too much money. However, avoid the temptation to offer a loan. This is one lesson that's going to have to be learned the hard way.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Be certain that you keep your business life and your home life separate. If you've had an argument at home, leave it there. Avoid insisting on getting your own way.

Pitching, Defensive Woes Plague North

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Big innings, defensive lapses and the inability to throw strikes have added up to four losses in the North Quincy High School softball team's first four games.

The latest setback came Monday when host Silver Lake captured a 10-5 Old Colony League triumph.

"The key to this game was too many early walks and miscues in the field that kept innings alive," said North coach Bob Doyle. "We've been in every game so far, but we haven't taken advantage of our opportunities."

NQ looked to pick up its first victory yesterday (Wednesday) when they visited New Bedford in a 4 p.m. contest. Friday at 4 p.m., North hosts OCL power Taunton. Next Monday, North travels to Milton in a game initially slated for 3:30 p.m., but the time is subject to change.

In the loss to Silver Lake, North fell behind 6-2 after two, then battled back with two runs in the fourth and another in the fifth. NQ closed to within 7-5 before the Lakers scored three runs in the sixth to put the game out of reach.

Pacing NQ's 13-hit attack were Kristen Bowes

SOFTBALL

(single, double, triple, RBI, run), Jessica Lorman (3 for 4, two runs), Maura O'Brien (2 for 3, RBI) and Rachel Bonanni (2 for 3, RBI).

Last Thursday, North pitchers walked eight batters and hit two others in an 11-6 loss to visiting non-league foe Milton. A six-run third by Milton, which collected just seven hits, proved to be an insurmountable deficit for NQ to recover from.

Hitting stars for North were Laurie Flynn (2 for 4), Rachael Powers (2 for 3) and Kristy Deptula (2 for 3, 3 RBI).

The previous afternoon, North battled back from large deficit to force extra innings, but errors cost NQ in a 10-8, eight-inning setback to visiting Barnstable.

North scored six late runs, highlighted by a two-run double by Powers (two hits, two runs scored). Kerry Skehan (two hits, two RBI) and Flynn (two hits, two runs scored) also contributed offensively.

RAIDER THIRD BASEMAN Bryan Linsky scores one of North's seven first-inning runs as the host squad jumped out to an early 7-0 advantage and never looked back.

Economic Development (PWED) grant and the $1.7 million Community Development Action Grant (CDAG) for which the city has applied.

"We're very hopeful the governor will make a very positive announcement on that day," he said.

The two grants will pay for the first phase of the project, which would take over two years to complete, according to Raymond. He added that the city will apply in Fiscal Year 1999, which begins July 1, for funding for the second phase.

Raymond said streets that would receive various degrees of public works infrastructure improvements, including water main replacements, road resurfacing, landscaping and/or replacement of sidewalks, include:

East Howard Street, South Street from Washington Street to Cleverly Court, South Street from Cleverly Court to Chubbuck Street, Chubbuck Street, Cleverly Court, West Howard Street, Broadway, Watson Road, Lawrence Street, High Street, Kendrick Avenue, Faxon Park Road, Germaine Avenue, and Sixth Avenue.

Areas slated for traffic signalization improvements, he said, include two intersections that will get new traffic lights—Quincy Avenue at Faxon Park Road and South Street at Southern Artery—and a third, Southern Artery at Fifth Avenue, that will receive upgraded signalization.

Raymond said the PWED grant will cover most of the planned improvements—the traffic signalization improvements and the work on the roads and sidewalks—while the CDAG funds will be used to pay for the water mains.

The main reason the city is eligible for the state money, he noted, is because Greek shipbuilder Sotirios Emmanouil won $55 million in federal loan guarantees in December for the modernization and eventual reopening of the Fore River shipyard.

"The grants were made available because the city has taken the initiative to attract a major employer (the revitalized shipyard) to the South Shore," said Raymond.

He said the improvements that will result from the PWED grant and CDAG funds will go hand-in-hand with other positive changes in the area, such as the shipyard reopening, the opening of the Clifford Marshall Elementary School in September, a planned upgrading of a portion of Washington Street in Quincy Point, and others.

"As time goes on, the face of Quincy Point is changing for the better," he said.

Raymond said he learned of the governor's planned visit to Quincy last Friday. He noted he does not know why the governor decided to announce the good news personally but added, "I'm just grateful he's coming."

To Make Recommendation To Governors Board Friday

Ryan To Propose Under 21 Layoffs At Quincy College

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Quincy College President Dr. Jeremiah Ryan is going to recommend fewer faculty layoffs at the college than the 21 previously among the numbers under consideration.

Ryan said at press time that although he could not give the exact number of layoffs he will propose to the college's Board of Governors on Friday, it will not be as many as the 21 teachers that would have been affected in a worst-case scenario for the faculty.

"The good news, from my perspective, is that we'll be able to keep the layoffs to fewer than 21," he said.

The Board of Governors, which will have the final say on the number of teachers laid off, will discuss the matter further before holding a public hearing and voting on May 18.

Ryan and other college officials are eyeing layoffs of at least 10 employees which they say are necessary because of financial woes at the struggling college. Because of slumping enrollment, some layoffs will be necessary, according to the president.

Those financial problems resulted in the college's original Fiscal Year 1998 budget of $9.6 million being reduced to $9.1 million, Ryan said. The budget for the new fiscal year, which begins July 1, will be about $8.7 million, he added.

When Ryan first discussed the college's fiscal situation with The Quincy Sun in late March, he said three plans were under consideration: one that would result in 10 layoffs, a second resulting in 16 and a third ending in 21. The more money the college decided to spend on its "strategic initiatives" such as the library, equipment, marketing and maintenance, he said, the more layoffs would be necessary.

This week, Ryan said a new scenario has developed after talks he has held with the Board of Governors and other college officials.

"A fourth option has evolved from all the discussions we've had, and I'm working with my leadership board this week to fine-tune it," he said. "There will be less than 21 layoffs, but more than 10. That's all I can tell you right now."

Ryan did note, however, that while the Board of Governors would have to approve his plan, "I'll be recommending that we fund the strategic initiatives, but not at the level we would find optimal."

Ryan said there have been rumors about faculty retirements which, if they happened, would help ease the budget problems. He added that there has been one resignation in the library that will help because the technician eventually hired as a replacement will be offered a smaller salary.

He said he is sorry that no matter what plan ultimately is approved by the Board of Governors, there will be some layoffs.

"Nobody wants layoffs," said Ryan. "I'm being as careful as I can to balance the layoffs with the strategic initiatives. I think it's still going to be difficult, but I also think it will be the best financial plan for the college."

On April 6, the college's faculty voted 35-5 that it had no confidence in Ryan's leadership abilities. Although 14 of the college's full-time faculty members were absent from the vote--

Ayers, Bellotti Working On Wollaston Beach Plan

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers and state Rep. Michael Bellotti are outlining a master plan for Wollaston Beach to be presented to Mayor James Sheets and David Balfour, head of the Metropolitan District Commission.

Ayers and Bellotti have been working on the beach revitalization for some time. Most recently, they urged officials to finalize the dredging plan in Quincy Bay.

Ayers and Bellotti said they want the dredging to be completed this year so that Wollaston and Squantum Yacht Club boaters will utilize the clubs to their fullest potential.

"It is important that city and state agencies work closely together so that funding sources can be capitalized on," said Bellotti.

Ayers also has urged the creation of a master plan that would include increased police patrol on foot as well as vehicles, as well as working with Department of Public Works Commissioner David Colton on the Outfall Cleaning Project.

Ayers has met with both city and state officials to work on the beach cleanup.

"I feel Quincy residents should enjoy Wollaston Beach to its fullest potential," said Ayers. "It is important that we have a master plan so that all different city and state agencies are working in the same direction."

The recently-created Wollaston Beach Task Force was designed to bring the neighborhood's concerns about the beach to the forefront, Ayers said. He added that the master plan will include input from neighbors.

Ayers and Bellotti also praised state Sen. Michael Morrissey, Mayor James Sheets, and Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin for their efforts on behalf of the beach.

Teens Arrested For Attack On North Quincy Woman

An Asian woman was rescued from serious injury by neighbors as she was beaten and kicked by a group of four teenage girls Friday night in North Quincy.

The unidentified woman, a 39-year-old North Quincy resident, said the girls used discriminatory language but police said the attack was not racially motivated.

The woman was transported to Quincy Hospital where she was treated for abrasions and a cut near her left eye.

Several residents of the 160 block on Newbury Avenue pulled the girls off the woman when they heard her screams.

The girls, one 14, and the others 16, all of Quincy, fled the scene but were arrested a short distance from the attack. They were charged with assault and battery, assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, a shod foot, and robbery. Because of their age, their names were not released. Three of the girls are white and one is black.

Police said the victim identified the girls as her assailants.

The woman said she was returning to her Newbury Avenue home after visiting a friend shortly before midnight Friday when the girls approached her car and began to pound on it with their fists.

The woman stopped her car, got out and asked the girls why they were hitting her car, police said. When she got out of the car, the girls started to curse at her and then to beat her. She said she had never seen the girls before.

One of the girls yelled obscenities at her and all four attacked, punching and knocking her down and kicking her, according to police.

In an attempt to defend herself, the woman kicked back as the girls grabbed her eyeglasses and car keys, said police. Neither item was recovered.

The woman, who is single, was born in Hong Kong. She works as an accountant and has lived in Quincy for about 10 years.

For Service As District Attorney Delahunt Honored At Portrait Dedication

Congressman William Delahunt of Quincy was honored by hundreds of friends and colleagues during the formal dedication of a portrait in his honor Monday at the Dedham Superior Courthouse.

The portrait, which was painted by Quincy artist Edwina Caci and will hang inside the historic granite-faced courthouse, commemorates Delahunt's 22 years as Norfolk County district attorney from 1975 to 1997, when he succeeded Gerry Studds as Congressman from the 10th Congressional District.

Delahunt's successor as district attorney, Jeffrey Locke, presided at the dedication ceremony. A celebration followed at Lantana in Randolph.

Those on hand to honor Delahunt on Monday included Sen. John Kerry, Congressman Joseph Moakley, Attorney General Scott Harshbarger, Massachusetts House Speaker Thomas Finneran, former Attorney General Francis Bellotti, House Ways and Means Chairman Paul Haley, and County Commission Chairman William O'Donnell.

Also attending were numerous prosecutors and former assistant district attorneys from Delahunt's tenures and members of the Norfolk County Bar Association.

New Headmaster, Curriculum Selected At Woodward School

The Woodward School announces it has selected a new headmaster and curriculum.

The school's Board of Trustees recently appointed Thomas Wesner to a three-year term which they said will begin July 1.

Wesner, who has a background in education and the practice of law, currently is on the faculty of the Renaissance School in Boston.

He will succeed Robert Johnston, who served as headmaster for 20 years before his death of ALS, or Lou Gehrig's disease, in February.

Officials at the school also are planning other changes.

Woodward's interim headmaster, Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, and academic dean, Karen Tower, have been working to revamp and update the curriculum.

Two features of the new curriculum are increased exposure to the arts, including drama, music, and art as well as a new computer research focus that includes using the Internet in classroom research.

Also, each class period will be longer due to a reduction in the number of periods per day from eight to seven.

The new curriculum was developed by Dr. Griffin and Tower after extensive research in the learning process and study of what other private schools in New England.

"We plan to focus on integrating students' learning with research on Internet," said Dr. Griffin.

"This will ensure that our research materials are always up-to-date, whereas books in a library are dated even before they are printed."

The computer lab at the school is being expanded and new purchases are planned.

"We will be adding a high-speed ethernet network between the computer lab and the school library which will allow internet access from all computers on the network simultaneously," said Debra Alpert, Woodward's information technology coordinator. "Also, students will have access to their own e-mail accounts so that they may write to scientists and scholars at research centers and ask questions, and have a place to receive responses."

The new arts component was added to bring students new experiences they might not get in the traditional school curriculum. Officials noted that while Woodward always has focused on learning the fundamentals of drama and speech, the renewed emphasis will further develop students' class presentation skills.

Permit Sought For Quincy Bay Dredging

The City of Quincy and the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Management are seeking permission from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to perform dredging at the Quantum and Wollaston yacht clubs.

An estimated 60,000 cubic yards of silt and sand would be removed from a 200,000-square foot area, loaded onto scows, and transported to the Massachusetts Bay Disposal Site.

The application for the federal permit was filed with the Engineers in compliance with Section 10 of the Rivers and Harbors Act of 1899 which provides for federal regulation of any work in, under or over navigable waters of the United States and Section 103 of the Marine Protection, Research and Sanctuaries Act of 1972 which regulates the transporting of dredged material for open water disposal.

To assist in evaluating the dredging and disposal, the Engineers are soliciting public comments. Written statements should be forwarded to their office no later than May 6.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Crystal Gardner at the New England District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, 696 Virginia Rd., Concord, MA 01742-2751.

Is Your Back or Neck Hurting?

Pain in your back or neck is an important symptom as it tells you that something is not right in your body. Car accidents, slipping and falling, bumping your head, and other events can stress the spine by changing the position or movement of spinal bones. This misalignment could result in pain, numbness and tingling.

Chiropractic care safely and conservatively helps to restore normal motion and position helping to alleviate pain and other resulting symptoms without drugs or surgery.

BEWARE OF OUTDATED MEDICATIONS

When is the last time you cleaned out your medicine cabinet? How about the last time you checked the expiration date on that economy-sized bottle of aspirin that you've had for years? If you can't come up with an answer to either of those questions, it's time to clean house for your health's sake. Many medications lose potency over time, rendering them ineffective. Worse, some types of medications can become dangerous. Toss any products that have passed the expiration dates that must be stamped somewhere on the package. In addition, discard any aspirin that crumbles when you touch it, liquid medications that have separated or changed color, or ointments that have hardened, changed color, or separated. Cleaning out your medicine cabinet regularly is a good idea, especially since medications do lose their potency over time. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment. P.S. Flush old medications down the toilet rather than throwing them in wastebaskets, where children and pets may find them.

Republicans, Where Are You?

Sometimes it seems as though the Republican party at the local level is the best kept secret in town. Like this election year.

One state senate and three state representatives seats now held by Democrats are on the ballot again this year. And, it appears, Quincy Republicans are going to let them go by without a challenge.

The deadline for taking out (and filing) nomination papers is next Tuesday. But as of this writing there isn't a Quincy Republican contender in sight for any one of those four seats.

If one doesn't step forward in the next five days it will mean no Quincy Republican challenger for Senator Michael Morrissey, Rep. Stephen Tobin and Rep. Ron Mariano.

And, the First Norfolk District seat that Michael Bellotti is vacating to run for Norfolk County sheriff will remain in the Democratic camp.

Five Democrats have nomination papers for the Bellotti seat: Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, former Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien, Patrick Conroy who ran for the seat in 1992 as an independent, Robert Boussey who has run for the city council, and newcomer Christopher Howley.

Mariano, however, apparently does have a Republican challenger but not from Quincy. He's James Kistner of Holbrook who has papers out.

And, there does appear to be a Quincy Republican Lone Ranger candidate this year. Michael Patrick Kennedy, a Wollaston auditor with a Democratic name, has nomination papers out for the 10th Congressional seat held by Quincy Democrat William Delahunt.

Just one Quincy Republican name on the ballot in a partisan election!

And when it comes to municipal non-partisan elections, Republicans are pretty scarce there, too.

Right now there are only two Republicans holding

McCAULEY

CEDRONE

Quincy elective offices: former Mayor Frank McCauley, now a city councillor at-large, and School Committeewoman Christine Cedrone.

That means Democrats outnumber Republican municipal office holders 14-2 (Mayor's office, 8 council seats, five school committee seats).

It isn't easy being a Republican today. Times sure have changed.

A half-century ago, and before, it was the other way around. This was GOP country with that party holding just about every local, county and state elective office.

Quincy was a Republican stronghold then as much as the city is a Democratic stronghold today.

In 1949, for example, there were twice as many Republicans as Democrats: 14,786 to 7,034. There were 22,125 independents—most of them leaning Democratic.

The latest official figures show 27,472 Democrats, 7,174 Republicans and 15,981 unenrolled (independent).

A complete U-turn with Democrats now outnumbering Republicans, unenrolled and assorted other parties combined.

The city's shift to the Democratic side began in the 1950's, coinciding with the political coming of John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

There were other contributing factors. One was that during the GOP heydays, Republicans lost promising young future political stars when the Old Guard was reluctant to step aside and let them run for office. "Your day will come," they were told.

But some of them got tired of waiting and defected to the Democrats who gave them that chance to run. Locally, one of them was a young Jim McIntyre whose father and mother were both Republicans.

McINTYRE

But there was opportunity for him and others in the Democratic camp with no Democrats in office and no Old Guard standing in their way.

A joke back then was that there were so few Democratic candidates around they could hold an election-eve rally in a telephone booth.

But, they kept plugging away and as the city became more liberal, they numerically and politically took charge.

A few years ago, Quincy Republicans were talking comeback and vowing they would challenge every Democrat for every seat, every election.

But it isn't happening. Not this year anyway.

Sad.

The last thing we need is a one-party system. But we could be on the way to becoming one if Republicans continue tossing in the election towel at the local level.

They have got to willing to take some lumps at the polls as the Democrats did not too long ago. It may be time to re-seed their political roots with dynamic young people.

And maybe some of the older Republicans should get up off their memories of the good old days and help get things going again.

If Republicans fail at the local level, they will eventually fail at the state and national.

We need a two-party system with balances and checks. Not a one or one and a half.

If this election year is an indication, Republicans locally have come down with a case of tired blood.

Maybe they could use a large economy sized bottle of political Geritol.

And someone who knows how to give it a good shaking.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS AN EARLY 1920's postcard view of Barlow's Drug Store in Wollaston. The store was in the corner of this building that was in Depot Square off Beale Street next to the Wollaston railroad station. Upon the death of its owner in 1925, Howard D. Johnson took over the store and this became the first of the nationwide chain of restaurants bearing his name. The company also kept its office here for many years. Torn down in the 1960's to make room for the Red Line, this is now a parking lot. A stone tablet here marks the location as the site of the first Howard Johnson's.

Drug Addiction Bigger Problem Than Alcohol Abuse

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Recently, the City Council voted to approve funds for a program that would put undercover police in liquor stores to combat purchases of alcohol by minors. This well-intentioned program misses the mark.

I'm mindful of the tourist who visits the Louvre museum. While standing in front of an inspirational rendering by Van Gogh the visitor exclaims, "Oh, what a beautiful frame!"

Is it not true that one must be 18 years of age to purchase cigarettes, yet a bag of crack cocaine is more readily available than a pack of cigarettes or six-pack of beer?

Yes, the frame is nice!

One might be more impressed if the City Council approved funds for advertising and outreach efforts to connect with young people struggling with drug addiction. Absolutely of higher order than police in liquor stores is the availability of drug treatment programs and the knowing of where help exists.

Presidential 'Capers' Didn't Begin With Clinton

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

At last we have a chance to get those "Rascals on the Hill." All we need to do is dig up all of the mistakes, improprieties, philandering, peccadilloes and other dumb moves no matter how far back and find a willing media.

Just look at what is going on at the White House. Most people are fed up with the coverage. It's really quite simple; if the Oval Office is such a hotbed of speculation, why not just install a video camera, pipe the results to some secluded spot in the basement, and broadcast from there? It would certainly save taxpayer dollars.

These true or not capers were not the sole discovery of the present tenant. One does not have to go back very far to find many such examples. There was even Washington, the "Father of Our Country." If rumors are correct, he certainly tried hard to be. Weren't we lucky there was no TV then. Who knows, we might still be British!

Somehow the country survives, brains being in the upper level of the body.

I wonder how many people noticed the latest state tax cut? The personal exemption for 1996 was $2,925, in 1997 it was $2,630. Maybe we should focus on problems at home.

Attacks On Starr Are 'Erroneous'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The main points in the attack on Kenneth Starr are the amount of money he has spent—$40 million—and the erroneous statement that he hasn't accomplished anything.

As to the latter, he has brought about many convictions which are a matter of record. As to the money, I don't remember hearing any protest when William Clinton suddenly found $400 million for the U.S.

mayors who were meeting in Washington at the time the Monica Lewinsky story broke. He has also found many more millions of taxpayer money for other items on his agenda.

In addition, one wonders where Mrs. William Jefferson Clinton plans to get the $1 million-plus which she promised in Africa for one of her favorite agenda items.

Encourages Participation In Hunger Walk May 3

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Hunger continues to be a problem in our community. That is why I would encourage residents of the South Shore to participate in Project Bread's 29th Annual Walk for Hunger on Sunday, May 3 in Boston.

The Walk for Hunger provides primary support for our emergency feeding program at the shelter Fr. Bill's Place. It supports pantries and other programs throughout our community.

Hunger impacts more than the homeless. It affects children, families, elders and countless others who rely on community-based programs whom assist them to obtain food. Torn by paying rent, medical bills, utilities and clothing, many often find themselves falling short monthly. Without the support of Project Bread these programs could not continue to operate and address the needs within their community.

Some believe today that they can do very little to help. The Walk for Hunger is a way to truly make a practical difference. On that Sunday, thousands from across the Commonwealth will gather for this important cause. It will be, for those who participate, an enjoyable and inspiring day.

If you wish to participate, please contact Project Bread at (617) 723-5000. If you would like to know how it helps our agency or you would like to participate with us, please call Laurie at

Fr. Bill's Place at (617) 770-3314.

Please remember this is a great way to fight hunger in our community.

Bomb Scare Evacuates 900 At Central J.H.S.

By PAUL HAROLD

Some 900 students at Central Junior High School were evacuated at noon following a bomb threat called in earlier that day. It turned out to be a hoax.

The unidentified male caller said that, "Central will be bombed at 12:30." Assistant Principal Chester Young called the police immediately.

The fire square that responded was lead by Chief Thomas Gorman, will Police Capt. William McIntyre of the detective bureau heading the police.

Following a search of all rooms and lockers an all clear was called at 1 p.m.

FORE RIVER TO BUILD MACHINERY

FOR MARYLAND AND CALIFORNIA YARDS

Bethlehem Steel spokesman Daniel Strokmeier, speaking at the annual meeting of the Fore River Long Service Club, said that Fore River would build machinery for 30 super tankers, to be constructed at other Bethlehem yards.

Some 25 machine components would be installed in ships built at Sparrows Point, MD., with five components for ships at the San Francisco yard.

NEW PIRATES' COVE MANAGER PROPOSED

The license board was considering a chance of management at the Black and White Fish Co., doing business as the Pirates' Cove, on the Neponset River.

The proposed new manager was Dominic (Pappy) Papaleo, a well-known professional football player and wrestler. He played football at Boston College and for the Detroit Lions. As a wrestler he was known as Chief Dom Big Kettle.

'The Choice' To Be Presented At Quincy High School Tonight

Quincy College will sponsor a performance of the play "The Choice" tonight (Thursday) at 7:15 p.m. at Quincy High School, 52 Coddington St.

Admission is free and the public is invited. Due to the serious nature of the material, the performance is not recommended for children of elementary school age or younger.

"The Choice" takes place in Poland in the early days of the Nazi regime (1933-42). It focuses on the relationship of two young couples, one Jewish and one Gentile, struggling with life-or-death decisions. The play is based on actual interviews with Gentile rescuers and Holocaust survivors.

After the 30-minute scripted play, the actors, still in character, initiate the audience's involvement for 20 to 30 minutes.

The play is being sponsored by Quincy College through its Behavioral Science classes and presented by The Hand and Eyes Theatre Ensemble of Cambridge. No reservations are needed.

THE UGLY BLAME FOR BUNIONS

There is nothing pretty about a bunion. The deformity develops on the inside of the foot as an enlargement of the big toe joint, and it tends to grow slowly from a mild misalignment to a major source of discomfort. Contrary to popular belief, however, bunions are not caused by wearing high heels or shoes that are too tight. Although those things may aggravate the condition, heredity is actually the most to blame for bunions.

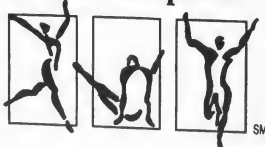

An inherited weakness in the bone structure of the foot causes instability of bones and ligaments. This, in turn, allows the joints to push out of alignment, especially when pressured by ill-fitting footwear. Left untreated, bunions can result in such problems as arthritis and severe foot deformity.

If you are suffering from these or any other foot related complaints call us at (617) 773-4300. We are located at 1261 Furnace Brook Pkwy, Suite #18, Quincy near Carney, Quincy and South Shore Hospitals.

P.S. Treatment for bunions may include a change in footwear, orthotics (prescription inserts), medication, or surgery.

Cardinal Law Featured Speaker At Dinner

Fr. Bill's Place To Mark 10th Anniversary Friday

Cardinal Bernard Law will be the featured speaker Friday at a dinner marking the 10th anniversary of Father Bill's Place.

The dinner, hosted by the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition will be at 7 p.m. at the IBEW Hall, 256 Freeport St., Dorchester, following a 6 p.m. reception.

Father William McCarthy of St. John's Church, for whom the shelter for the homeless is named, will also be a speaker.

Arthur Tobin, former mayor and now clerk magistrate of Quincy District Court will be the emcee.

The QISC will recognize various organizations and individuals who have supported Father Bill's Place the past 10 years.

Recipients of awards

CARDINAL BERNARD LAW

FR. WILLIAM MCCARTHY will include:

The Archdiocese of Boston, Robert Brown, recently retired official of Housing and Urban Development; the Islamic Center of New England, Quincy Jewish War Veterans Post, Rev. Adolph Wismar of Wollaston Lutheran Church, the Quincy-South Shore Massachusetts Senate and House of Representatives delegation.

Quincy mayors, the City Council, Jack Murphy of Louis Pasqualucci and Son, Sheila McIntyre, Alan MacLeod of Artisan Architecture, and the South Shore Building Trades Council.

Father Bill's Place, sponsored by the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition, opened its doors in 1988 in response to the community's growing awareness of the homelessness problem.

"We hesitate to call the anniversary dinner a celebration," said Joe Finn, executive director of QISC.

"We do not celebrate the fact that the numbers of homeless people have increased. However, we do think it important to mark the good work that has been accomplished to overcome the despair and hopelessness of so many people."

Members of the anniversary committee in addition to Fr. McCarthy, Joe Finn and Arthur Tobin are Henry Bosworth, Rose DiPietro, Joyce Hogan, Joyce Lawless, Daniel Raymondi and Terry Bellotti Welch.

Impressions At The Republican State Convention Why Is Joe Malone A 'Kamikaze' Candidate?

BY FRANK McCAULEY
 The Republican State Convention in Worcester Saturday was my eighth spread over a 36-year period.

It brought back some memories of the convention held on a blistering hot day in June, 1962 at Worcester's Convention Hall which had no air-conditioning. It went until 8 p.m.--a long, long day.

That convention nominated George Lodge, son of former Senator Henry Cabot Lodge to run against President John F. Kennedy's youngest brother, Ted, for senator.

Governor John Volpe was endorsed for a second term and Ed Brooke received the endorsement for attorney general over Elliot Richardson.

Lodge lost to Kennedy and Volpe lost to Endicott Peabody that year. But Richardson went on to win two terms and then served two terms in the U.S. Senate.

This year's convention with 3,943 accredited delegates was held in the more comfortable Centrum. We started off with a continental breakfast courtesy of the Cellucci-Swift campaign.

The convention was called to order promptly at 9 a.m. by Quincy native Ron Kaufman, Republican National Committeeman from Massachusetts.

The city of Quincy was part of the Norfolk and Plymouth Senatorial district. Delegates are chosen by Wards in the cities and towns in the district. There are 40 senatorial districts. The delegates' votes are tabulated by a member of the Republican State Committee in that district. (I had that responsibility at the state convention in Springfield back in 1994.)

The Convention was called to order promptly at 9 a.m. by Quincy native and Republican National Committeeman from Massachusetts Ron Kaufman. State Senator Matt Amorello of Worcester, a candidate for Congress, extended the greetings of the city. It was noted that 3943 delegates were accredited to vote for candidates for the statewide offices which will be on the ballot in November.

Former Congressman and present Executive Director of MassPort, Peter Blute, introduced the keynote speaker of the Convention, U.S. Representative J.C. Watts of Oklahoma. Watts, a star quarterback the University of Oklahoma, is the only black Republican in Congress.

The major contest at the

FRANK McCAULEY

Convention was the endorsement for Governor between acting Governor Paul Cellucci and State Treasurer Joseph Malone. Malone was nominated by Edward F. King, founder of the Citizens for Limited Taxation. A noted conservative, King, (not to be confused with Edward J. King Governor 1979-1982), received the Republican Convention endorsement for Governor in Springfield in 1978. Governor Cellucci was nominated by Steve Pierce, former Minority Leader of the Mass. House of Representatives. Pierce, ironically was endorsed by the Republican Convention held at the World Trade Center in March 1990. Both King in 1978, and Pierce in 1990, lost in the September primary despite their Convention endorsements. King lost to Minority leader Frank Hatch, who went on to lose to Democrat Edward J. King in November 1978. Edward J. King, who served one term as Governor, later became a Republican (sound confusing?) Pierce lost in September 1990 to Bill Weld and Paul Cellucci. The Weld-Cellucci team went on to win in November over John Silber and Marjorie Clapprod.

The vote for Governor went pretty much as expected. Cellucci received 2393 delegate votes to Malone's 987, the percentage breakdown was 71% Cellucci, 29% Malone.

For Lt. Governor, Cellucci running mate, former State Senator Jane Swift, received 68% of the delegate vote to Janet Jeghelian's 32%. Jeghelian was Malone's hand-picked candidate.

The Convention also endorsed Dale Jenkins for Secretary of State, Michael Duffy for Auditor, Brad Bailey for Attorney General and Bob Maginn for State Treasurer.

The key question on most delegates' lips was, "What in the world is Joe Malone trying to accomplish?" Practically all the delegates have a high regard for Joe Malone in the excellent record of accomplishment that he has effected in the Treasurer's office for the past eight years. As a member of Joe Malone's Administration for almost six years I can attest to the fact that Joe Malone did two things that are always compatible; reduce the cost of operations while increasing the level of service to the public!

Joe Malone has grown up in politics and has been a strong 'party man.' Why, then, the pursuit of what I call a "kamikaze candidacy?" Four years ago at the Springfield Convention he urged that the Convention get behind Mitt Romney who had decisively defeated John Lakian for the endorsement for the U.S. Senate. This year, despite an overwhelming Cellucci victory, he stated that he will carry the fight on to the primary.

The question "Why" comes into focus. In my opinion, it comes down to a matter of a three letter word spelled "EGO!" I think Joe Malone sincerely believes, based on his philosophy of government, and his record in office, that he would make a better governor than Paul Cellucci. In my estimation, Joe would make a great governor, but in politics, success sometimes means being in the right place at the right time. The Weld-Cellucci team has done a great job over the past eight years and Paul Cellucci as Governor for the past year has continued to do a great job.

Joe Malone is a young man politically, (age 43); he could have subordinated his political ambitions as Paul Cellucci did for eight years and accepted Cellucci's offer to run as his Lt. Governor. Malone could have served eight years as Lt. Governor and at age 52 in 2004, be an unbeatable candidate for Governor.

April 30 Deadline For Entries

Win A Trip For Four To Washington, D.C.

Don't forget, kids, the deadline for submitting entries in the "Parade of Presidents" contest is April 30.

The prize is a three-day family trip for four to Washington, D.C. You could be the winner.

The contest is sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

It is open to youngsters in Quincy public, parochial and private schools, kindergarten through Grade 8. There is no entry fee.

The trip is for two adults and two children and includes: airline tickets for round-trip from Boston to Washington, two nights' accommodations at the Sheraton Washington and a tour of Washington, D.C. and Arlington National Cemetery.

In addition, if calendar scheduling allows, the winner and guests will be greeted in Washington by Congressman William Delahunt.

Besides the chance to win the trip, the contest gives youngsters a chance to become acquainted—or re-acquainted—with all of our Presidents and to test how observing they are of the Quincy Center area.

Photo images of the Presidents are in the windows of participating QCBPA member businesses on Hancock St. and adjoining streets, one to a business.

Although we have had 42 presidents, only 41 are displayed. Grover Cleveland served at two different times.

The object of the contest is to find in "treasure hunt" fashion the 41 presidential images and to identify by name or address the business in which each image is displayed.

The contest is being sponsored to encourage local families to rediscover Quincy Center while reminding them of Quincy's role in history as the birthplace of the nation's only father-and-son presidents—John Adams, second president, and John Quincy Adams, sixth president.

Entries with all 41 correct presidential display locations will be eligible for a drawing May 9 to determine the winner of the Washington trip.

Only one entry per youngster may be submitted.

Entry forms are available at the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association office, 1416 Hancock St. and at The Quincy Sun, 1372 Hancock St.

Entries should be mailed to or dropped off at the QCBPA office or The Quincy Sun.

Only one entry per student will be accepted. Entries with all the correct identifications will be eligible for the drawing to determine the winner.

Remember, the deadline is April 30.

PRESIDENTIAL HUNT—Students from Atlantic Middle School check Presidential images in Quincy Center for the chance to win a family trip to Washington, D.C. The images of 41 Presidents are in windows of Quincy Center businesses in a Parade of Presidents contest sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun. Those who find all 41 images are eligible to win the trip to Washington in a drawing to be held May 9. Deadline for entering the contest is April 30.

A CLOSER LOOK AT TIRES

Treadwear, traction, and heat resistance are among the factors to consider when making an informed decision about replacement tires for your car. The amount of miles that can be expected from a tire are reflected in its treadwear number (300, 310, 320, ...). Under average conditions, tires graded 300 should be expected to last 60,000 miles. To estimate the expected mileage, multiply the treadwear grade by 200. Traction grades come in terms of A, B, and C and reflect the tire's ability to stop on wet surfaces. Drivers who frequently encounter wet driving conditions should select tires rated A. Finally, heat resistance is also graded A, B, and C. Those tires rated A will run cooler than subquent grades. The safety of our customers is very important to us here at LEO & WALTS' SUNOCO and we want them to be informed. We are small enough to provide friendly, personal service and large enough to have the latest, most modern equipment and technicians who are constantly trained and re-trained. You can trust your auto repairs to us at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Hours: Mon-Fri. 8am-6pm, Sat. 7am-6pm, Sun. 9am-5pm.

HINT: Tires that run cooler are less likely to fail when driven over long distances at highway speeds, and tend to be more fuel-efficient.

$50,000 Goal To Purchase Life-Saving Fire Dept. Equipment Project Hero Campaign Reaches $10,000 Rung

Project Hero is steadily climbing the rungs up the ladder to its $50,000 goal to purchase new life-saving equipment for the Quincy Fire Department.

The community campaign completed its fifth week at the $10,853 rung and is starting its sixth week with $39,147 to go.

The campaign was launched by Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn III and is co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

The $50,000, when reached, will enable the Quincy Fire Department to purchase two thermal imaging units--helmets that enable firefighters to see through thick, dark smoke and flames to find and rescue occupants from houses and other building fires.

The latest "Quincy heroes" to make donations to the worthy cause are:

Rudolfo and Cynthia Gonzalez, Mary Macauley, Patrick and Nora O'Donoghue, Joseph Fontana, John and Arline Noonan, St. Joseph's Church, Atty. Janet Lydon, F.L. Caulfield & Sons Inc., Loretta's Hair Salon, Joseph and Pearl Keniley, Robert and Beulah Wiltshire, George and Barbara Howard, Quincy Citizen Police Academy Alumni Association, and Dominic A. Marinelli, Marinelli Associates.

Each week The Quincy Sun is donating a full-page public service advertisement to document the progress of the campaign and thank those who contribute.

To make donations, send a check payable to Project Hero, P.O. Box 116, North Quincy, MA 02171.

Think we can't do better fighting crime and drugs? You don't know Jack.

JACK CORRIGAN. TOUGH. INNOVATIVE. EXPERIENCED.

As a top Assistant District Attorney for nearly eight years, Jack Corrigan helped Bill Delahunt make the Norfolk County DA's Office one of America's most innovative and respected crime-fighting organizations.

Now Jack's running for District Attorney himself, and he's the only candidate with a plan to fight crime and make our neighborhoods safe from drugs and violence.

Keeping kids off heroin.

Jack Corrigan will redirect investigative resources, including wire taps, to aggressively prosecute the growing threat from heroin dealers. He'll push for tougher penalties for heroin traffickers, and he'll work to change the laws to permit mandatory, frequent drug testing of addicts on parole or probation, at their expense. Testing dirty will mean increasingly-tough jail sentences.

And Jack will work for early identification and treatment of kids experimenting with heroin, before they are lost to addiction and crime.

Computerized crime fighting.

Career criminals know all about computers, but our DA's office is still in the stone age. Jack Corrigan will help police solve more crimes with a computerized Automated Fingerprint Identification System (AFIS) to quickly match crime scene prints with known felons. He'll also create a Criminal Offender Database to give police instant computer access to police reports, warrants, photos, prints, and other key data on suspects.

24 hour-a-day back-up.

Jack Corrigan will have trained prosecutors on call 24 hours-a-day to assist police with interrogations, search warrants and investigative assistance--and that will mean more convictions!

Community Prosecution.

Community prosecution programs -- with prosecutors meeting regularly with residents and leaders to understand local problems -- have lowered crime rates in other counties, and helped people reclaim their neighborhoods. Jack will make it work here!

Preventing juvenile violence.

Jack knows violent teenagers need tough treatment. But he also understands non-violent juvenile offenders can be straightened out...if we give them the support they need. To deal with the increasing lack of adult supervision, Jack will work to keep school gyms, computer labs, and libraries open longer. He'll also support adult mentoring programs to help disadvantaged kids from homes with drug and other kinds of abuse.

Shelter for battered women.

Jack Corrigan has pledged that as DA he'll create a new shelter for battered women and children from the first drug dealer's home he seizes. He'll also dedicate a portion of the office's drug forfeiture account to badly under-funded battered women's shelters.

To break the link between substance abuse and domestic abuse, he'll force convicted batterers to take random drug tests. Failing to test clean will mean jail for batterers on parole or probation.

The ideas and experience we need.

Jack Corrigan has the new ideas we need, and the experience to make them work.

Call now to find out how you can join Jack's fight against crime: 617/472-1140.

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT

Rabies Clinic To Be Held At Animal Shelter Saturday

The Quincy Health Department will hold a Rabies Immunization Clinic on Saturday from noon to 3 p.m. at the Quincy Animal Shelter, 56 Broad St. (behind the Bryan Post and Fr. Bill's Place).

The clinic will be held rain or shine and will cost $8 for each dog or cat. The Health Department encourages pet owners to have their pets immunized against the disease.

Rabies is a viral disease transmitted mainly to dogs and cats through bite wounds from wildlife such as raccoons, bats, skunks, foxes, and stray cats. The usually fatal disease is extremely rare in humans and until recently was fairly uncommon among animals in this part of the country.

However, an outbreak of rabies continues to occur in the state. Figures from the Quincy Health Department show:

- A total of 2,218 animals have tested positive for rabies in Massachusetts since September 1992: 1,643 raccoons, 60 cats, 430 skunks, 38 woodchucks, 26 foxes, two dogs and 19 other species.

- In Quincy, eight raccoons, eight skunks, one stray cat and three dogs have test positive for rabies. The infected stray cat bit five people who were later treated successfully with the anti-rabies vaccine. Last month, a raccoon tested positive for rabies and bit a young boy, who also was successfully treated.

The Health Department recommends that pets be kept away from wild animals. Dogs and cats must be vaccinated once over three months of age and re-vaccinated within nine to 12 months after the first vaccination. Therefore, the dog or cat may be vaccinated once every three years as long as the two vaccines at nine to 12 intervals, have been administered.

For those whose pets received the yearly vaccine at the April 26, 1997 clinic, the second yearly vaccine must be received Saturday. For those who dogs or cats received two vaccines less than one year apart and who show proof (receipt received from the Health Department or a veterinarian) of those vaccinations, a three-year vaccine will be administered at the appropriate clinics.

To reduce exposure to rabies, the Health Department advises taking the following precautions:

- Vaccinate all pets (cats and dogs) against rabies.
- Do not touch, pick up, or feed wild or stray animals of any kind.
- Teach children to avoid wildlife and strays.
- Avoid sick or strangely-acting animals.
- Fasten trashcan lids tightly. Garbage attracts raccoons and skunks.
- Cap chimneys and seal openings into houses, etc. to prevent raccoons from entering or building dens.

- If bitten or scratched by any animal, promptly wash the wound(s) with soapy water and contact a doctor immediately.

- If a pet has been bitten or scratched by any animal, wear gloves, wash the wound with warm soapy water for at least 10 minutes, and contact your veterinarian immediately.

For more information, call the Quincy Health Department at 376-1270.

WARD 6 CITY COUNCILLOR Bruce Ayers presents Beth Stevens, chairperson of North Quincy High School's Senior Stay-Out, with a $500 check to benefit the event. The second annual Stay-Out, scheduled for May 1, will provide an alcohol-free, activities-filled environment for students immediately following the school's senior program. All seniors are invited. To make a donation, call 328-8239.

Active Parenting Of Teens Program At Quincy Hospital

Bay State Community Services Inc., Impact Quincy and Quincy Hospital are sponsoring an Active Parenting of Teens group program.

The five-week course will be held at Quincy Hospital Mondays, May 4, 11 and 18, June 1 and 8 from 6:45 to 8:45 p.m. Cost is $15 for the parent's manual.

The workshop is based on the program by parenting expert Dr. Michael Popkin. Each session also includes information on how to address issues such as drug and alcohol use, teen sexuality, and violence.

Enrollment is limited. To register, send a check and form to Impact Quincy, 15 Cottage Ave., Quincy, MA 02169 or call Karen Nardella at 472-6027.

Shipbuilding Museum Summer Visiting Hours

The USS Salem and U.S. Naval Shipbuilding Museum will be open seven days a week beginning Monday, May 4.

The museum will provide self-guided tours and guided tours by appointment from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The last tour of the day will begin at 4 p.m. Group tours should call (617) 479-7900 for more information.

The museum has a ship model room, a cruiser USS St. Paul memorial room, a cruiser Sailor memorial room and the Ships Brig as additional attractions.

First Phase Of Mosquito Control Project Underway

The first phase of the Norfolk County Mosquito Control Project is underway in Quincy.

The Quincy Health Department has been advised that larval control applications are now being conducted through September.

This is being done in low-lying swampy areas where mosquito larvae breed throughout the season. The larviciding treatment is applied through use of backpacks, briquettes and mist blowers.

The Norfolk County Mosquito Control Project and Quincy Health Department will issue an additional notice in May before early morning residential fogging applications commence.

The Health Department advises that residents requesting to exclude their property from pesticide applications must file with the City Clerk, by certified mail. It is recommended that a copy of the exclusion filing be sent to the Quincy Health Department.

The filing must include the following information: name and address, telephone number, names of all abutters and list of program(s) from which exclusion is requested.

Those filing for exclusion must post their property at least every 50 feet with markings made known to those making the applications.

In addition to Source Reduction Work (cleaning drainage ditches, cutting brush which obstructs drainage and reconstruction of drainage structures), the Norfolk County Mosquito

Control Project applies pesticides as follows:

*Larviciding (the treatment of mosquito larvae during aquatic development) by backpack, briquettes and mist blowers from April to September.

*Adulticiding (the treatment of adult mosquitoes) by fogging from trucks, from May to September.

For further information concerning mosquito control exclusions, contact the Norfolk County Mosquito Control Project at (781) 762-3681.

An informational brochure is also available from the Quincy Health Department.

Steven Warshauer To Receive Eagle Scout Award Saturday

Steven Warshauer of Quincy will receive his Eagle Scout Award at Boy Scout Troop 2's 87th Anniversary and Eagle Presentation Dinner on Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at First Church of Weymouth Heights.

A social hour will begin at 6 p.m. followed by a Vermont turkey dinner and the awards presentation. For more information, call (781) 331-6006.

Six Local Agencies Participating In Walk For Hunger May 3

Six Quincy agencies are among the 4,000 school, religious and corporate organizations establishing Walk teams for Project Bread's 29th annual Walk for Hunger Sunday, May 3.

The local agencies participating and the programs they are raising funds for are Protestant Social Service Bureau (Pantry Shelf), Quincy Community Action Programs (Emergency Food Center), Quincy Crisis Center (Hot Meals Program/Emergency Food Delivery), Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition (Father Bill's Place and the South Shore Center), Salvation Army/Quincy Temple Corps (Food Pantry), and Seaside Advocacy Group.

With more than half a million people in Massachusetts—one in 11—at risk of being hungry, the Walk for Hunger provides much needed funds for soup kitchens and food pantries in 113 Massachusetts communities. These grassroots programs provide emergency food to hungry children, disabled people, low-income working families and the unemployed in cities and suburbs.

The Walk for Hunger is the nation's largest annual one-day fundraiser to alleviate local hunger. Since it was founded in 1969, the Walk has raised more than $30 million to help feed hungry people. The 20-mile Walk route weaves through Boston, Brookline, Newton, Watertown and Cambridge.

Registration for the Walk will take place Sunday, May 3 from 7 to 9 a.m. at the Boston Common. The MBTA will offer free rides to Walkers with registration forms between 6 and 9 a.m. on any subway, bus or commuter train.

First-Time Homebuyer's Workshop Begins May 5

Quincy Community Action Programs Inc., an approved MHFA first-time homebuyer counseling agency, will hold a First-Time Homebuyer's Workshop series beginning Tuesday, May 5 and continuing on May 12, 19 and 26.

The four workshops will be held at the Braintree Town Hall, One JFK Memorial Dr., Braintree, from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

Attendance at all four is mandatory to qualify for the different mortgage options available through the Mass Housing Finance Agency, Soft Second Programs and other financing options.

Agenda will be comprehensive and individualized. The focus will be on different aspects of the homebuying process, including how to locate a property within budget, how to make an offer, and determining the best mortgage program.

Advanced registration is required and space is limited. Cost is $36 per household.

For more information and registration forms, call Debbie Kidd at 479-8181, ext. 115.

The workshop series is sponsored by the City of Quincy and the Department of Housing and Community Development.

Bellotti Helps Secure Home Program Supplemental Budget

A Home Modification Program will have a $2.7 million supplemental budget in Fiscal Year 1999 due partially to the efforts of Rep. Michael Bellotti.

The Home Modification Program provides grants and loans to low-income elders, people with disabilities, and families that have children with disabilities for home modifications such as handicap ramps.

In a March 30 letter to Rep. Paul Haley, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Bellotti urged that the program be included as a line item in Gov. Paul Cellucci's budget proposal.

"The lack of funds for programs like this routinely forces elders into expensive nursing homes and leaves children with disabilities for lengthy stays in expensive hospital beds," Bellotti wrote. "This program has the support of over 60 elder, disability and family organizations statewide."

Haley included funding for the program in the supplemental budget subsequently released.

Inspect Your Roof Now To Repair Ravages of Winter

(NU) - As you emerge from winter, it's important to give your roof a quick inspection to see how it "survived" the ice, snow and freeze/thaw cycles that can play havoc with it. A few minutes of time today may save you and your roof a visit from your local roofing contractor tomorrow.

Here are some tips to help keep you dry and lengthen the life of your investment:

- A Simple Roof Inspection: Check the roof for leaks, broken seams, exposed felts and blisters. Inspect your flashings for cracks, splits or bare spots. Gutters should also be checked for splits or worn areas.

- If Repairs Are Necessary: Use the cold-applied roof coating products necessary to complete the job. The following products are available from your local hardware, home center or building materials retailer.

- Plastic roof cement: A trowel-grade, general utility sealing compound that imparts water-repellency to flashings, seams or patches in roofs and gutters.

- Wet-surface plastic roof cement: Same as plastic roof cement, but has added surfactants that allow material to be applied to wet or dry surfaces.

- Fibered roof coating: A brushing grade material that is used to coat the entire roof surface and protect from water and weathering damage.

- Cold process lap cement roof adhesive: Forms a flexible, water resistant and waterproof bond with most coated roll roofing products.

- Reinforcing fabrics: To be used with asphalt cements and coatings to add strength and flexibility to any surface repair.

- Apply the Material: Simply follow the manufacturer's instructions found on the container or in "How to Apply" brochures found in most retail locations. These products do not need to be heated and can be easily applied by any do-it-yourselfer.

Whether you need to touch up, patch up or re-coat your roof, cold-applied roof coatings, cements and reinforcing fabrics will do the job easily and economically to insure those spring showers don't visit the inside of your home or business.

May 1 Deadline For Habitat Home Applications

South Shore Habitat for Humanity is building homes in a new 10-home neighborhood called "Granite Village" located at the end of Bower Road in Quincy Point.

The homes are being built in three phases by volunteers. Three homes are currently under construction; families for those have been selected.

In the next building phase, two three-bedroom units in a duplex will be built. Applications for these two units are now being accepted. The deadline for applications is May 1.

Local families who can demonstrate a significant housing need and who meet Habitat income and residency requirements are encouraged to apply to purchase the homes. South Shore Habitat will select families on the basis of housing need, income, willingness to partner with Habitat, and residence. Families will be chosen without respect to age, sex, sexual preference, disability, race, religion or national origin.

Since the homes will be new, construction may be able to be modified within limits to accommodate families with disabilities.

Families will purchase the homes at cost and will receive 20-year, zero-interest financing by Habitat, resulting in small monthly mortgage payments. Each home is estimated to cost $55,000 to $60,000. The Habitat mortgage principal payment will be about $230 per month. South Shore Habitat will use the payments to finance future home construction or renovations for other families with housing needs in the South Shore area.

The new homeowners will also be responsible for paying property taxes and insurance for upkeep of their homes. They will become part of a new neighborhood association that will maintain their common land area.

In lieu of a cash downpayment, families must complete 500 hours of "sweat equity" time. They are required to help build the home working on Saturdays along with volunteers on construction, landscaping, site cleanup and other tasks. Sweat equity hours can be accumulated by any family member and no construction skills are necessary.

Applications are limited to families who are Quincy residents and have lived there at least one year or have been former Quincy residents for at least two years.

All candidates should meet the following annual gross family income guidelines (extenuating circumstances will be considered): family of three, $17,000 to $24,000; family of four, $17,000 to $25,000; family of five, $17,000 to $27,000; and family of six or more, $17,000 to $28,000.

For more information o. to apply, write to South Shore Habitat for Humanity Inc., 28 River St., Braintree, MA 02184 or call (781) 843-9080 (24 hours).

Applications may also be picked up at most Quincy churches, at the information desk in the Quincy City Hall lobby and at Eastern Bank, 731 Hancock St. and 63 Franklin St., Quincy.

35 Runners Compete In Houghs Neck 'Marathon'

Thirty-five runners competed in Sunday's 43rd annual Patriots Day "Marathon" of the Houghs Neck American Legion Post 380.

A feature of the competition was the participation of former state senator and present Quincy City Councillor Paul Harold. He finished in fourth place and received a trophy as the oldest person competing in the race.

Winners in the men over 30 category included Tom Vecchione, William Lydon and Dennis Murphy. James Martel was the winner of the age 15 to 19 category.

Michael Murphy was the winner in the boys' age 9 to 14 category, followed by Philip Myers and Pat Malone. Jeffrey Mitchell was the top finisher in the boys' age 1 to 8 category, followed by Donovan Sullivan and Michael Devine, who was the race's youngest runner.

Renee Stone captured the women over 25 trophy, while Justine Mitchell was the winner in the girls' age 9 to 14 category, followed by Annie Keith and Deja Bergstrom.

Jenna McQuinn was the winner of the girls' age 1 to 8 category, followed by Sarah Morris and Alicia Bergstrom.

Trophies and ribbons were awarded to the winners and runners-up. The course began and ended at the Post Home at the foot of Great Hill.

PC John Christensen was marathon chairman and Peter Connolly was vice chairman. Assisting were Joann Gogan, Carole Gardner, Thelma Powers, Mary Timcoe, Paul Keith, Richard Banks and Dick Burke.

Wendy Wilcoxon Special Olympics Coach

Wendy Wilcoxon of Quincy, a mental health clinician at Cardinal Cushing School, participated in the recent Massachusetts Special Olympics Winter Games as a volunteer coach and competitor.

Wilcoxon coached speedskaters Spencer Martin of Harwich to a gold medal in the 10-meter event and Josh Kishaw of Danvers to a gold in the 100-meter event and a bronze in the 300-meter event.

In the Josh Billings Race, Wilcoxon was a member of the winning team which received the first place trophy.

Quincy Fifth Graders Win South Shore Prep Title

The Quincy fifth grade basketball team swept through the recent South Shore Prep League Tournament playoffs, capping it off with a 55-44 victory over Stoughton in the championship game.

The playoffs included 22 teams from cities and towns throughout the South Shore.

In the championship tilt, Tony Pepdjonovic (19 points) and Dean Sandomato (18 points) were Quincy's offensive stars, with key assists from Dave Jaehng, Matt Tobin and Nick Malvesti.

During halftime, Jaehng finished second in the foul shooting contest and Sandomato captured the league's three-point shooting contest.

The semifinal game against Foxboro was an exceptionally well-played and exciting contest, with Quincy winning, 46-45. After taking a 10-point lead at halftime, Quincy found itself trailing by three with a minute to play.

Clutch baskets by Jaehng, who finished with 18 points, sparked Quincy to the one-point triumph. Chris Marinelli (10 points, 10 rebounds) and Nick Devico played great defense for Quincy.

In the second game, Quincy rolled over Walpole, 63-38, with Pepdjonovic scoring 19 points. Marinelli and Sandomato collected nine points apiece. Matt Tobin added four points and played an excellent game at point guard.

Quincy romped over Newton, 59-29, in the tournament opener, sparked by Jaehng's game-high 17 points. Marinelli and Malvesti dominated the boards and Ray Marchand and Brian Young played outstanding defense.

North Quincy Man Embarks On 3,000-Mile Ride To Help Others

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Helping others who can't help themselves—that's the motivating force behind David Riley's 3,000-mile bicycle trek across the country this summer.

Riley, a North Quincy resident, lost his mother, Ottile, to smoking-related emphysema three years ago, and recently noticed a magazine advertisement for the GTE Big Ride, which benefits the American Lung Association.

He thought, what better way to keep his mother's memory alive than by aiding those who suffer from lung disease and other breathing problems?

"When I think about how so many people suffer from lung disease, I cannot imagine having such an affliction," Riley wrote in one of his newsletters. "Most of us are lucky. Now, think of the many people who have to endure this discomfort constantly, no breaks, no relief, except with aided support."

"This is why I am doing this—for the people that you and I are trying to help. It's truly a matter of life and breath. This is for the people who cannot get a breath of their own. To help people who's body cannot perform a simple, but crucial function."

Around the time he came upon the Big Ride ad, Riley had reached a point in his life that he felt he needed to make a change, to go in another direction.

"I had to find something else to do," he said. "When I saw the ad, I thought, 'Maybe this is what I need to do. It's a worthy cause, and what a life lesson to go through.' So I decided to go for it."

The decision also resulted in Riley leaving his position at a large insurance company to complete his training for the Big Ride, which runs from June 15 to Aug. 1.

"Since my boss can't cover for me while I'm gone, he left it up to me," said Riley, 36, who will leave his job June 5. "I could either stay or not do it, or leave and do it."

"Co-workers have said I shouldn't have a problem being re-hired when I come back. It's a good company to work for, so I'm not worried."

In order to participate in the Big Ride, Riley must raise a minimum of $6,000 by the May 25 deadline. As of press time, he had accumulated approximately $2,000 in pledges from family members, friends and co-workers. He has sent out over 200 pledge forms and is confident he will achieve his goal of $8,500.

To help him reach that goal, Riley will hold a Pledge Party on Saturday, May 2 from 1 to 5 p.m. at the George F. Bryan VFW Post, 24 Broad St., Quincy.

A raffle will be held, with prizes awarded to the winner. A DJ will provide the music and refreshments will also be available. For more information, or to make a donation, contact Riley at (617) 578-3259 weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. or at (617) 328-5256.

To prepare for the ride, Riley has been working out extensively, riding his bicycle, swimming and lifting weights. He occasionally rides to work and back, a round trip of approximately 14 miles.

The ride, which begins in Seattle, Wash., and concludes in Washington, D.C., will provide Riley and the other 1,000-plus bicyclists with an up close and personal view of the country they have not seen before. Nine days have been designated as rest days, to give the riders a chance to recuperate before resuming the trek.

"We'll be riding approximately 100 miles a day, with pit stops about every 25 miles," said Riley.

"We'll ride from dawn to dusk, about 15 hours a day. When I think that I might be in over my head, I realize all the people I can help and that makes me want to stick to it."

The ride also requires the support of 500 to 700 volunteer crew members, and

DAVID RILEY of North Quincy saw an ad for the GTE Big Ride, a 6 1/2-week, 3,000-mile cross country bicycle trek, and when he learned it benefited the American Lung Association, he signed up immediately. To raise the minimum of $6,000, Riley is holding a pledge party May 2 at the Bryan VFW Post in Quincy. (Sun photo/Tom Gorman) those interested can contact Riley or the Big Ride at (800) BIG-RIDE. The route is divided into five segments and people can volunteer for as many segments as they wish, he said.

Summarizing his reasons for embarking on this journey, Riley said, "My goal is to help people, and I thought this would be a great way to do that. It's something I can do to change my life and help others. A lot of people take breathing for granted, including myself."

"I'm willing to work out my lungs for people who are unable to do it themselves."

Bernazzani Captures Hoop Jamboree Crown

The Quincy Recreation Department recently conducted its annual End of Season Elementary Basketball Clinic and Jamboree.

Eight teams representing recreation programs from neighborhoods throughout the city, with over 100 youngsters in Grades 3, 4 and 5, participated in a clinic and series of round robin mini games.

After 12 games, the team representing Bernazzani was declared the Jamboree Champion. Peter Casper sank a free throw to seal Bernazzani's 7-6 victory over Snug Harbor in the final. Dave Djerf and Ryan Flynn each scored a basket and Casper also scored for the winners. Snug Harbor had baskets from Jesse DePina, James Pace and Tommy Hazelheast.

Bernazzani, coached by Pat McDonough, advanced to the final by defeating Montclair, 12-10, in an overtime thriller. Scoring for the winners were Djerf (three points), Brendan Linnane (three points), Flynn (two points), Casper (two points) and Joe Lousarian (two points). Montclair coach Dean Zoia saw daughter Amanda net two points, while Chris Boyd scored three, Mike Ferrara added two, Chris Mercurio scored two and Ed Broadbent scored a point.

Snug Harbor moved into the final with a 10-8 triumph over Atherton Hough. Snug Harbor, coached by Mark Walsh, was led by Hazelheast (six points), James Pace (four points) and Alex Pesoto (great defense). For Atherton, coached by Michelle Bonck, Robbie Getchell scored four points and Joe Keefe and Matt Giordani added two points apiece. Mike Giordani led Atherton in rebounding.

In earlier action, Snug Harbor doubled up Merry Mount, 6-3; Atherton edged Squantum, 11-9; Montclair defeated Daniel Webster, 18-4; Snug Harbor topped Daniel Webster, 16-0; Bernazzani downed Beechwood Knoll, 18-5; Squantum defeated Beechwood Knoll, 14-8; Merry Mount doubled up Montclair, 8-4; and Atherton got by Bernazzani, 12-10, to open the jamboree.

Among the notable happenings during the event was the final appearance of the Daniel Webster team, which will move to the Marshall School in July. Coached by Quincy Point native Jonathan Brillo, the small Webster team was led by Ryan Dalton, who scored all four points in the loss to Montclair, and Matt, Mike, and Kevin Tilton, and Jared Fontaine.

Beechwood Knoll coach Dan Coughlin finished his 41st year in the winter program by bringing a hustling group to the jamboree. Despite strong all-around efforts, Beechwood lost to eventual champion Bernazzani and Squantum.

The jamboree was preceded by a clinic in which over 100 youngsters participated. Recreation Director Barry Welch introduced longtime Recreation Supervisor Brian Buckley, whose clinic focused on having fun while learning the benefits of teamwork.

A Thought For The Week

"Anyone who stops learning is old, whether this happens at twenty or eighty. Anyone who keeps on learning not only remains young, but becomes constantly more valuable regardless of physical capacity." -- Harvey Ullman.

At an age well past three score and ten years, the late Maestro Leopold Stokowski led a very active life... He is quoted as saying, "I would rather talk about the future, the past is something we can no longer do anything about." He put his words in action. In approaching age 80, he grouped both young and old in the American Symphony. One third of the musicians were talented youths; the other two thirds were more experienced, more mature musicians. Dedicated to his conviction that America is a land of opportunity and that it must remain so, he exemplified a lesson many of us should heed... The young learn from the old and the old gain from the vitality and enthusiasm of the young...

We like the old Chinese Proverb which states that learning is like rowing upstream; not to advance is to drop back.

Your Horoscope by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Bigwigs have been in a sour mood, nipping and nagging. Take it in stride and ride out the week. Things will return to normal soon.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Your romantic life enters a renewed period. A friend has been too aggressive lately, and has been taking advantage of you. Shun this person's company in weekend social activities.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Don't sign any contracts yet. Although you're all in agreement, there are some unforeseen details that should be worked out first. Patience is the key.

CANCER (June 21 to July 21) Travel is favored this week, but you will have to be careful with money. Although you've been extending yourself socially, you have a tendency to be too opinionated. This could get you in trouble over the weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You are championing the bit to start implementing all those ideas you have. However, don't be too eager. Your impatience leads to trouble.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You've been holding your tongue where a partner is concerned. You find yourself unable to do so and lose your temper. Clear the air over the weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Keep out of the fray at work. That way, you'll avoid making enemies. Later on, you can play mediator and get everyone to communicate better.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Avoid falling into an ego trap.

causing you to turn everyone off. It's best to think about what you're going to say before you say it, especially with business partners.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) It's a good week to go shopping and get something for the house. The situation at work is highlighted. In fact, you're in for a nice surprise by week's end.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You've been squirreling away some money, and it's time to start looking for a way to invest your little nest egg. Look into some options that are not necessarily conventional. However, be sure you know your risk tolerance.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) That green goddess, Jealousy, is rearing her ugly head, causing you many anxious moments. Your mate will be upset by the turn of events. Try to gain control by the weekend.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A cantankerous co-worker throws a monkey wrench into everything you're trying to accomplish. The ultimate result is that this person will finally expose himself to bigwigs. Just bide your time for now.

How To Protect Your Neighborhood

By McGRUFF THE CRIME DOG
Guest Columnist

Want to know the best crime prevention device ever invented? A good neighbor.

The police can't be everywhere at once, but you and your neighbors can. You're the ones who really know what's going on in the neighborhood.

Copyright 1984 The Advertising Council, Inc.

Put that neighborhood know-how to work. It's simple: just use your eyes and your ears - and then your telephone. If you spot something suspicious call your police immediately. Don't try to stop a criminal yourself - it can be dangerous.

In cities and towns across the country, people are joining their neighbors to fight crime. Take the initiative. Don't wait until a crime happens. Start your "good neighbor" program now.

Check with your local police department. They can tell you:

- about specific crime problems in your area
- the best prevention techniques
- what to report
- how to organize a responsible anti-crime project if none exists
- how your group can make crime prevention part of its activities.

Report crime. Sounds easy, doesn't it? But only about half of all crimes are ever reported. Too bad, because police can't do anything if they don't know what happened. They say information from people like you is the key to solving many crimes.

Even an anonymous tip is better than no report at all. So, don't hesitate! Follow this rule: if you see something suspicious, call police - fast. So that police can act - fast. The longer you wait, the harder it is to catch the criminal.

If you have an emergency, or even think you have an emergency, call 911 immediately.

If you need a Policeman or a Fireman or an ambulances in a hurry, call 911 immediately.

Siciliano Nominated For Emergency Manager Of The Year Award

Quincy Emergency Management Deputy Director Tony Siciliano was nominated recently for the 1998 Emergency Manager of the Year Award presented by the Northeast States Emergency Consortium (NESEC).

Siciliano said although he did not win the award, he was honored just to be nominated.

"It was kind of special, really," he said. "They nominate people from all of the New England States and New York."

The NESEC is a not-for-profit natural hazard mitigation and emergency management organization located in Wakefield. It is the only multi-hazard consortium of its kind in the country, and is supported and funded by the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

Ryan To Propose Under 21 Layoffs At Quincy College

in which three part-timers also participated—Ryan responded by saying he and other college officials were "disappointed" by the vote, which he termed "premature." The city-owned, two-year college has campuses in Quincy Center and Plymouth, with satellite campuses in Springfield, North Quincy and Wareham and one planned for Boston. The student-to-teacher ratio is about 18 to 1.

There are 50 full-time teachers and 300 part-time teachers at Quincy College, including five full-timers and 50 part-timers in Plymouth.

Enrollment at the main campus in Quincy Center has dropped from about 4,800 full and part-time students in the fall to around 4,300 this spring. Three years ago, the campus had just over 5,200 students.

During the same time, however, the Plymouth campus—which is not expected to be affected by the current budget woes—has grown to 600 students.

The college relies almost entirely on student tuition and fees because it receives no city or state tax money. Mayor James Sheets has said the city cannot afford to offer financial assistance to the college and that it must operate out of its own budget.

Quincy Named 'Tree City USA'

For the second consecutive year, the National Arbor Day Foundation and the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Management (DEM) have recognized the City of Quincy as a "Tree City USA."

The announcement was made recently at the Massachusetts Tree City USA

Conference in Brookline. Thomas Koch, executive director of the Quincy Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments, accepted the award from DEM Commissioner Peter Webber on the city's behalf.

Quincy was designated as a "Tree City USA" in recognition of its continued commitment to maintaining the urban forest. This past year, the city answered more than 1,200 requests for tree-care on city-owned trees. The unseasonably mild winter allowed Forestry Department personnel to perform preventative maintenance on hundreds of city trees.

In addition, there were 460 new trees planted along Quincy's streets. There are now more than 20,000 trees lining the city's streets.

"It is the beauty and aesthetic value of our street trees that prevent the onset of the blight that plagues many cities of Quincy's size. Through the continued support of Mayor James Sheets and the City Council, we hope to uphold Quincy's status as a Tree City USA for many years to come," said Koch.

Quincy was recognized for meeting all four of the program's qualifications: operating a forestry department, having an existing tree ordinance on the books, conducting a comprehensive community forestry program, and observing an Arbor Day celebration.

This year, the city will hold an extensive Arbor Day program in conjunction with the City's Cleaner, Greener Quincy celebration. On Thursday, April 30, the Park and Forestry Department will conduct a ceremonial tree-planting at each of the city's elementary schools.

"The importance of involving our young children in the stewardship of our trees cannot be understated. By planting the seed of interest in Quincy's children now, we will reap the benefits from the growth of their knowledge and compassion," added Koch.

April 1998

Dear Friends:

On behalf of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, I am pleased to extend warm greetings as you gather to celebrate the Tenth Anniversary of Father Bill's Place. It is my sincere pleasure to recognize this organization's work in an area as important as caring for the homeless.

This occasion marks ten years of service by Father Bill's Place to the homeless population of Quincy and the South Shore. During the course of any given year, this organization takes care of one thousand unduplicated clients. I applaud the outstanding efforts of all the staff and volunteers, who share an uncompromising commitment to serving others, and commend the dedication of these individuals to this important cause.

Best wishes for an enjoyable celebration and continued success in the future.

Sincerely,

Dear Fr. McCarthy:

The greatness of any city is in direct proportion to the way that city treats its less fortunate and most needy. In turn, the commitment of that city to its most needy will be measured in the willingness of its people and organizations to work together to provide those who are most needy with a new opportunity in life.

Over the past 10 years we have seen the development and expansion of Fr. Bill's to the point where it has become a model for other cities and towns across the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Through your hard work and dedication, and that of the staff, we have watched as thousands of people have passed through the doors of Fr. Bill's. Many to had their lives transformed forever. So, Fr. Bill's shelter is more than bricks and mortar. It is spirit, hope and compassion.

Through your efforts and those of various city departments, the South Shore Building Trades, the business community and just average citizens, you have forged a living commitment to the needy that will serve through the ages.

On behalf of a grateful city, congratulations to you and all at Fr. Bill's on your 10th Anniversary.

Sincerely,

James A. Sheets

How It Came To Be

Father Bill's Place: Where There Is Hope For The Homeless

In the fall of 1980, Mayor Arthur Tobin invited Fr. Bill McCarthy and Esther Sanger to his office to discuss the issue of homelessness.

Both Esther and Fr. Bill had been expressing concern regarding the growing number of homeless in Quincy and the South Shore. Fr. Bill had been serving as a Commissioner on the Board of Directors of the Quincy Housing Authority.

Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition was organized in March of 1984 by local clergy and social service people. They saw the homeless at their doors asking for handouts, and they wanted to offer more than just a few dollars for a meal.

In July of 1984 QISC opened its first shelter in the basement of the Salvation Army. It housed 5 non-drinking, goal oriented men. This shelter began with 100% volunteer staffing and an annual budget of $500.00.

The requests for shelter far outnumbered the available beds; a temporary shelter for 20 adult men and women was opened in the basement of St. John's School. In six months QISC served 218 people. The need for a permanent shelter was obvious.

In November of 1985 QISC was awarded a State grant to operate a permanent shelter. The State provided 70% of the budget. In December of 1985 QISC opened a 33-bed shelter on the grounds of the City Hospital.

However, this building was demolished by the Hospital six months later for their renovation project. QISC opened their shelters in borrowed church space. Wollaston Lutheran Church held 20 men and Quincy Point Congregational Church held 8 women. QISC continued to look for a permanent site.

After almost three years, a site was procured through the City of Quincy. The building needed extensive renovations, estimated to cost $750,000.00. QISC raised $155,000.00 in cash. Donations of supplies and labor poured in.

The South Shore Building and Trades Unions donated the services of carpenters, laborers, electricians, sheet metal workers, pipe fitters, glaziers, almost all that was required! The new building was renovated for $220,000.00. A loan for $65,000.00 was taken out for the difference in funds, but within the first year it was paid in full.

The shelter was named after Fr. Bill McCarthy because of his efforts in the community to end homelessness and for his work in securing the Broad Street site.

Throughout the early nineties the numbers of homeless continued to grow. Despite success in moving people beyond homelessness, the demand for beds at Fr. Bill's Place continually increased. Fr. Bill's Place focused on building community-based housing and services to move beyond shelter.

Beginning in 1991, Fr. Bill's Place added additional outreach for the mentally ill, expanded the availability of nursing, added housing search for homeless individuals, and later for persons with HIV/AIDS. QISC then focused through federal McKinney programs to develop housing resources for persons with long histories of homelessness.

With such success, the demand for space at 38 Broad Street became an issue. In 1994, the shelter administration, thanks to the aid of Mayor Sheets and the City of Quincy, moved its offices to the Kennedy Building on Hancock Street. This allowed additional space to be developed for shelter services.

The shelter began to plan its expansion of Fr. Bill's Place. In July of 1997, when the City of Quincy began renovating the Kennedy Building, QISC temporarily moved to Marina Bay.

Recently, in March of 1998, QISC moved into the renovated Fr. Bill's Place. Once again, this effort was the product of the work of organized labor and the South Shore Building Trades Association.

Nearly $300,000 was raised in labor and donation of materials for the project. The renovation added additional women's shelter, an expanded nurse's station, a "wet shelter," space for case management and offices for the administration to return to the shelter.

The Coalition currently shelters 90 adults nightly. Fr. Bill's Place has room for 65 men and women; our overflow shelter in the basement of St. John's school shelters 30 additional men.

We have two unique programs which allow us to shelter the person using alcohol and drugs as well as the sober, goal oriented person who just needs help getting back on their feet.

The shelter provides a 24-hour program with three nutritious meals a day, nursing services, personal hygiene items, showers, and a full range of social services. Our goal is to give people the tools they need to reach their potential in individual and community functioning.

One of the greatest achievements of Fr. Bill's Place has been the development of housing and community-based services for the long-term homeless person.

QISC has developed forty-six subsidies for homeless persons with disabilities. This allows for the movement of people beyond the shelter. Fr. Bill's Place has also developed housing search services aimed at both moving people beyond shelter and preventing others from losing housing and falling into shelter.

Much of the shelter's success is due to the time and energy given by volunteers. We utilize 130 volunteers a month. These people are from all walks of life, both young and old.

Many local church groups volunteer their services on a regular basis. The volunteers are used to prepare meals and serve them, organize the donations we receive, work one on one with the clients, help during intake, do repair and maintenance, help with office work, and they pick up donations.

Other volunteers work within their community on food drives, personal hygiene product drives, fundraising events, and gathering linens and towels.

The important work of Fr. Bill's Place will continue. The organization is only partially funded by public dollars, so our work would not be possible without your support.

ARCHBISHOP BERNARD LAW blessed the newly opened shelter for the homeless in St. John's School basement in 1984, a forerunner of Father Bill's Place. Looking on are Judge John Fox, Rabbi David Jacobs of Quincy Temple Beth El and Mrs. Kitty Dukakis, wife of Governor Michael Dukakis and co-chairman of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Homeless. The St. John's Shelter today serves as an overflow shelter for Father Bill's Place.

THE KEYS TO the old Registry of Motor Vehicles office at 32 Broad St., Quincy, were turned over to the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition Jan. 14, 1988 for a permanent shelter for the homeless. Accepting the keys from Registry officials is Nancy Powers, first executive director of the shelter. With her are Mayor Francis McCauley, Rev. Roger Kvam and Fr. William McCarthy after whom the shelter was to be named.

Words From Father Bill

'There For The Grace Of God Go All Of Us'

Working with the homeless brings a great deal of satisfaction, but also some sorrow.

Seeing people regain their self respect and dignity is worth any sacrifice that one can make. But seeing some that do not wish to resolve their lives to start over requires some patience.

Since we were established as an Interfaith Shelter we have an opportunity to express our ideals and virtues according to the law and counsel of the Lord. This gives us a chance to exercise what the Lord requires. "Blessed is the one who is considerate to the needy and poor. Generous is the one who is merciful and lends."

No time of day should be an interruption in our duty for the less fortunate. We should not say, "Come back and I will give you something tomorrow." Generosity is one thing that cannot admit to delay.

What could be more uplifting than to share our bread with the hungry and bring support to the needy and provide housing for the homeless with a joyful and eager heart? The grace of a good deed is doubled when it is done with promptness and speed. What is given with bad grace or against one's will is distasteful and far from praiseworthy.

When we perform an act of kindness we should rejoice and not be sad about it. We may ask ourselves the question, do we do this act with hesitation and grumbling? If we do so we are in danger, sacrificing self satisfaction and a feeling of doing something worthwhile.

Let us exercise Christian charity whenever we are given an opportunity to help the poor and those today who are homeless, so when we leave this world we will be received by Christ into an everlasting dwelling place.

These words which we have first expressed are one of the reasons that we are involved with the homeless. We must be sensitive that we often are serving those who have experienced setbacks which we have not personally confronted.

Homeless people are not only those we see on the street, alleyways, and village greens but also people who had professional and high paying jobs in the community such as doctors, engineers, lawyers, bankers etc.

We don't criticize these people until we have walked in their shoes. "There for the grace of God go all of us."

From time to time we have helped out people and we have been advised by others that they are unworthy to receive any help because they will use the money to obtain liquor. Let God be the judge of that. It is a worthwhile experience when after years a person that you may of helped out comes to you and shows gratitude by repaying what you have given them and says, "when I was alone and out, you were there for me."

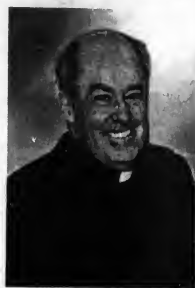

This is the reason for a place like Father Bill's Place: to serve people who need a helping hand from time to time.

Our tenth anniversary gives us an opportunity to show our gratitude for the many within our community that have made Father Bill's possible. We are grateful to volunteers, those who have given donations such as food and clothing and those who helped us financially.

This past year we have experienced the dedication and self sacrifice of the Unions from the South Shore and Boston that built our expansion to help us serve the greater needs of the homeless.

It is not anyone person who made this possible but so many beautiful people who have given of their time, talent and treasure to make our dream possible.

Our Philosophy On Ending Homelessness

By Joe Finn,
Executive Director, Father Bill's Place

"I hope someday my name may come down from Fr. Bill's."

This is a saying of Fr. Bill McCarthy that has become the mantra of the Board and staff of Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition.

Despite encountering thousands of persons caught in the despair of homelessness, we remain committed to ending homelessness.

An important part of the mission of Fr. Bill's Place over the last five years has been building a continuum of care for homeless people.

There are two ways of building such a continuum. A continuum can be vertical. That is, the services for homelessness are separate and descend from a single agency or organization. The services quickly become "homeless services."

The other model is horizontal. Under this model services are spread throughout a community.

Here, homeless people are linked to the appropriate services back in the community.

These are not simply homeless services, but services every person living in a community may need at one time or the other.

The continuum of care being built in Quincy includes many entities and organizations.

The City of Quincy, particularly Community Planning and Development has been crucial in building a successful continuum.

Bay State Community Services has built model programs to address homeless substance abusers. Quincy Mental Health and South Shore Mental Health work as partners with the shelter to end homelessness among the mentally ill. Tri-City Mental Health operates outreach programs aimed at moving the mentally ill off the streets and out of shelters to the appropriate services and housing. WORK, Inc. has created programs to place the mentally ill into viable employment.

Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services works as a development partner that creates housing opportunities for homeless people.

QISC works in collaboration with Quincy Veterans Services to meet the needs of homeless veterans. Neuro-Rehab provides outreach to head-injured clients living in the shelter. These important services make certain that an individual at any point in the continuum is linked to the services they need to escape homelessness and live independently.

QISC does not believe in building institutions. We have no desire to do that. Instead, we are working to change the circumstances that create homelessness.

QISC hopes to achieve this by linking homeless clients to important community-based services.

QISC will provide only those services that no else can or does provide.

As a result, QISC has developed a very effective housing search program. We have also developed a first class community-based case management program aimed at keeping disabled people within their own housing.

Homelessness continues to grow.

Despite this we continue to build the services necessary to end homelessness.

This will continue to be the basis of our mission, even if it means ending homelessness one life at a time.

You Can be a Part of the Important Work of Fr. Bill's Place!

Fr. Bill's Place believes that it can offer homeless people more than a cot and a meal. We can assist people, through the appropriate services, back to independence within the community. However, we are only partially supported by public dollars. Your donation of time and resources means that we can offer greater services and programs for homeless persons. Will you join us in our effort to end homelessness?

Yes! I would like to support the mission of Fr. Bill's Place:

- ☐ I can support Fr. Bill's Place through my donation of $_____.
- ☐ I would like more information about volunteer activities.

Interfaith Shelter To Be Named After Fr. McCarthy

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition's permanent location for the homeless will be named after the Rev. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church and a long-time worker for the homeless.

The name is in honor of McCarthy's many years of service to the area's homeless people, said Nancy Powers, executive director of QISC.

"If we can model our care after his (Rev. McCarthy's) care, we will certainly be on the right track," Powers said.

The official name will be "The Reverend William R. McCarthy Interfaith Shelter--'Father Bill's Place,'" Powers said.

"I'm embarrassed by the whole thing. I don't think I'm worthy of it," said Rev. McCarthy, who said he has worked with the homeless for eight years, including two years as QISC president (85-87).

"I am very pleased about the honor, but I am just a little embarrassed by it," Rev. McCarthy added.

FR. WILLIAM McCARTHY

The QISC board voted unanimously last Thursday to name the shelter after Rev. McCarthy, Powers said.

The idea was proposed by the board and "picked up very quickly in full agreement," she said.

Rev. McCarthy became involved with the QISC after it formed in March, 1984. Powers said Rev. McCarthy has been involved with the area's homeless "long before we were on the scene," adding he's been active in finding temporary shelters for homeless people.

The permanent shelter will be located at the present site of the Registry of Motor Vehicles on Broad St. The registry is expected to relocate at Quincy Fair in Quincy Center after the Ross Parking Deck is completed.

Powers said if the registry relocates by Jan. 1, 1988 and renovations go as planned, the shelter will open by late February.

However, Powers was cautious of that estimate, since the shelter lacks $100,000 of the proposed $300,000 in renovation funds.

"We desperately need more renovation money," Powers said, adding that $100,000 in pledges and another $75,000 of in-kind donations has been collected.

Anyone wishing to contribute should write the QISC Building Fund, P.O. Box 2512, Quincy, MA 02269.

Once open, the shelter will house up to 45 homeless men and women.

A Lot More Than A Bed

Father Bill's Place: Moving People Beyond Shelter

QISC, as an organization, is committed to the concept of networking with existing services as well as developing needed services to fill the gaps. Such an approach assures that the response to homelessness is a community response that does not duplicate services or further stigmatize the homeless.

Fr. Bill's Place is a lot more than a bed and a few hot meals. Here are a few of our recent accomplishments:

Emergency and Transitional Shelter: QISC currently has a total shelter capacity in two sites for 90 adults (70 men/20 women). Three meals a day are provided. A client may secure a Track II bed that allows him or her to either work or participate in treatment programs within the community.

Case Management: QISC provides case management for clients seven days a week. Case Managers work directly with the shelter guests to help them identify their needs and the resources available. Case Managers are, most often, brokers of existing services, assisting the client through the overwhelming maze of services to secure the most appropriate service. These services include mental health, health care, addiction treatment, services for head injured, job placement and training, and much more.

Mental Health Outreach: QISC currently has a Master's level clinician through Tri-City Mental Health that is part of a McKinney funded program. This shelter-based clinician works with clients in the shelter providing professional assessments and evaluations. The ultimate objective is to link the mentally ill client to immediate and long term services.

Tri-City Homeless Outreach: There is also another Master's level clinician from Tri-City who does outreach to the homeless living outside in the Quincy and South Shore area. He attempts to move people from the streets and parks to seeking assistance at the shelter or other programs.

Substance Abuse Services: Although Fr. Bill's Place is not a treatment facility it has been very effective in linking homeless addicts and alcoholics to appropriate treatment. QISC is affiliated with over 30 recovery and treatment programs including detoxification, recovery homes and short term programs. Bay State Community Services, a local substance abuse treatment program, provides out-patient treatment and relapse prevention groups.

Shelter Plus Care: QISC, since 1994, has operated in conjunction with the Quincy Housing Authority, a tenant-based rental assistance program for homeless adults with disabilities. QISC organized the existing network of human service providers to create support services for homeless adults moving into permanent housing within the community. To date, QISC has the capacity to house 34 people linked to community-based housing. Housing subsidies for the disabilities (chronic alcoholism, chronic mental illness, and HIV/AIDS) are provided through a Federal Housing and Urban Development (HUD) grant to the Quincy Housing Authority.

Housing Search: Initially as part of an innovative HUD Grant, QISC was FR. BILL'S PLACE thanks all union members of the Quincy and South Shore Building Trades Council (AFL-CIO) who donated all the labor for both shelter renovation projects (1988 and 1998).

(Presidential Camera photo)

part of the Greater Boston Housing Initiative (GBHI). QISC provides housing search for adult homeless people. Fr. Bill's Place has led the participating programs of GBHI in placement of people into housing. QISC is also funded by the Ryan White Program to provide housing search and stabilization for qualifying persons with HIV/AIDS.

O'Neil House: QISC, thanks to the efforts of the Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, opened a permanent house for working homeless women. The house comfortably provides permanent housing for three women.

Veterans House: Another project introduced to us by Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, this 8 unit house will accommodate homeless veterans. QISC will provide supportive outreach case management services. QNHS will manage the property on our behalf.

Health Care: QISC has a full-time Registered Nurse to provide basic nursing services to the homeless. This includes health screenings, inoculations, and basic treatment or first-aid. The nurse also acts as a medical case manager ensuring that the homeless with medical problems are linked in some fashion to medical services within the community. One day per week the nurse accompanies the Tri-City outreach worker and provides initial medical assessments and referrals to those on the streets, thus providing the first link to the shelter and other resources for some.

Voice Mail for the Homeless: QISC, through the assistance of NYNEX and Bentley College, maintains 40 voice mail boxes for homeless job seekers. Voice Mail allows a homeless guest to have his own phone number to leave with potential employers and to personalize his own voice mail box. No lost messages and the masking of the stigma of shelter has meant greater possibilities for employment of homeless adults.

Bentley Service Learning Project (BSLP): QISC is a community partner with Bentley College in a unique program aimed at linking the corporate and business community with non-profit organizations. Bentley College, one of the country's finest business schools, provides technical and direct support to QISC.

Quincy Hunger Education Learning Project (QHELP): QISC, together with the Quincy High Schools and Bentley College, funded in part through the Massachusetts Department of Education and the Massachusetts National & Community Service Commission, has organized a Community-Based Service Learning Program. Students from Quincy and North Quincy High Schools work at community food pantries and at the shelter while learning about hunger as a local problem.

Fr. Bill's Place and QISC have expanded their resources in the last four years. However, we have not lost sight of our mission...ending homelessness! With this increase of resources comes greater responsibility. Both public and private resources have decreased. If QISC is to continue to move people beyond the shelter it will need the continued support of the community. We hope you will join us in this important work.

Good Luck

A Thank-You To Friends Who Have Made The Difference

As Fr. Bill's Place marks its 10 years of service to the homeless, it is honoring various individuals, communities, public offices and organizations that have had an impact on the development of the organization.

"We wanted the awards to reflect the interfaith community that founded Fr. Bill's Place," said Joe Finn, executive director of Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition."

The shelter was the result of the work of various faith communities combined with professional social workers.

ARTHUR TOBIN, former Quincy Mayor and now Clerk Magistrate of Quincy District Court, shown here with Father William McCarthy at the dedication of the new Father Bill's Place will be the emcee at the 10th Anniversary Dinner.

Finn also noted that the awards stressed the role of public agencies in the development of the organization.

The shelter is supported by federal, state and city funds.

Fr. Bill McCarthy stressed the difficulty in presenting such awards: "So many people and groups make Fr. Bill's Place happen, it is difficult to single out a few. We hope these awards are representative of the whole community."

Recipients of awards include:

- The Archdiocese of Boston for the participation of the parishes of the South Shore in the financial and volunteer support of Fr.

Bill's Place.

- Bob Brown, a recently retired official of Housing and Urban Development, for his work with building a continuum of care for the homeless in Quincy.

- The Islamic Center of New England for their efforts in behalf of the poor.

- The Jewish War Veterans of America, Quincy Post # 193, for their volunteer efforts over the years at Fr. Bill's Place.

- Rev. Adolph "Buzz" Wismar, of Wollaston Lutheran Church for his role in the foundation of Fr. Bill's Place.

- The Massachusetts State Senate and House of Representatives which reflects the support of Fr. Bill's Place by the South Shore delegation.

- The Mayors of Quincy involved with the response to homelessness which led to Fr. Bill's Place.

- The Quincy City Council for their support of initiatives to assist the homeless.

- Jack Murphy, of Dorel Steel Erection Corp. for his efforts in the recent renovation of Fr. Bill's Place.

- Bob Pasqualucci of Louis Pasqualucci and Son, General Contractors, for his work in the renovation of Fr. Bill's Place.

- Artisan Architecture and Alan MacLeod, for their role in the design of the new Father Bill's Place renovation.

- Sheila McIntyre, for her advocacy work on behalf of Fr. Bill's Place over the last 10 years

- The South Shore Building Trades Council for ten years of support of Fr. Bill's Place.

Father Bill's Place also wishes to acknowledge all our other friends who have helped down through the years.

The awards will be presented during the tenth anniversary dinner to be held Friday, April 24 at the I.B.E.W. Hall on Freeport Street in Dorchester.

The Master of ceremonies will be former Mayor Arthur Tobin, present Clerk Magistrate of Quincy District Court.

QISC is celebrating its 10th Anniversary shortly after completing a significant renovation of Fr. Bill's Place.

"This recent expansion enables us to serve more people ... hopefully, in the next ten years we can end homelessness," said Fr. Bill.

QUINCY VETERANS HOUSE has been renamed "McIntyre House" in honor of Sheila McIntyre for her efforts in finding housing for "countless numbers of homeless poor persons." Admiring the plaque inside the main corridor of the house on Burgin Parkway are McIntyre and Fran McMorrow, director of the house for the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition which manages the house.

Republicans Fail To Challenge Locally 5-Candidate Race For Vacant State Rep. Seat

Tuesday's filing deadline for nomination papers produced no 11th hour surprises but did set the stage for a five-candidate race for the vacant state representative seat.

The five, all Democrats, will square off in the Sept. 15 primary election.

And Quincy Democrats are virtually assured of holding onto three other State House delegation seats as Republicans let them go by unchallenged.

The five who filed nomination papers for the First Norfolk District seat Michael Bellotti is leaving to run for Norfolk County sheriff are:

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce

Ayers, former Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien, Patrick Conroy of Billings St. who ran in 1992 as an independent candidate, Robert Boussy of Farrington St. who has run for the Ward 3 seat and political newcomer Christopher Howley of Kemper St.

Sen. Michael Morrissey, Rep. Steve Tobin and Rep. Ronald Mariano have apparent free rides to reelection with no Democratic or Republican challengers.

A Holbrook Republican, James Kistner, had taken out nomination papers for the Third Norfolk District seat held by Mariano but did not file them here or in Holbrook or Weymouth.

Republican Sheriff Jack Flood of Canton and Democratic challenger Michael Bellotti of Quincy now have a non-party candidate, Lawrence Mackin of Braintree, to contend with. Mackin filed his papers Tuesday.

But it will not necessitate a primary election.

Dist. Atty. Jeffrey Lock of Wellesley, a Republican, and Democratic challengers Jack Corrigan of Brookline, Sen. William Keating of Sharon and present County Commissioner William O'Donnell of Norwood all filed their papers as expected.

Both Flood and Locke

Board To Reconsider Shaw's Beer-Wine Request

Chairman Joseph Shea, said Tuesday the License Board will reconsider its decision on granting a beer and wine license for Shaw's Supermarket on Newport Avenue.

A meeting to be held May 5, was requested by the Alcoholics Beverage Control Commission.

Shea said he attended a hearing (ABCC) last week with Det. Sgt. Robert Perchard and Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue.

Shea said the ABCC asked that the license board "take another look" at Shaw's request which was denied by the board in a 3-2 vote last year.

The ABCC gave the license board a three week time frame to schedule a meeting.

Shea said he had sent letters to Atty. Robert Fleming and Lou Cassis about the meeting.

New DPW Dept. To Be Included City Budget Seen Over $150 Million

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Mayor James Sheets will submit a Fiscal Year 1999 municipal budget totaling more than $150 million to the City Council for its consideration next Monday.

The council, which has the power to make cuts to the budget but not add to it, must pass it in some form before July 1, the start of the new fiscal year.

Sheets said at press time he did not yet have an exact figure for the budget and therefore could not disclose many details, but added that he expects "an average increase" over the $149.6 million budget passed last year.

He did note, however, that the budget will provide funding for the establishment of a new maintenance division in the Department of Public Works.

The mayor said the maintenance division--which he devised in conjunction with DPW Commissioner David Colton--will be in charge of maintaining all of Quincy's municipal and school buildings. It will be run by DPW Operations Manager Lester Gerry, who now handles most maintenance matters for the city, according to Sheets.

Gerry will be assisted by Jim Wilson, currently head of maintenance for the Quincy Public Schools, the mayor added.

"The philosophy behind the maintenance division is, if you're going to build new school buildings (as the city plans), you really have to maintain those buildings," said Sheets.

Asked if the new DPW maintenance division would require the hiring of more personnel, Sheets replied, "I don't think so." He said he was unsure if the FY99 municipal budget calls for any new city employees at all.

The mayor added, however, that it does not call for any layoffs.

Although the budget will be higher than last year's, he said he will not know the exact difference until later this week. The $149.6 million budget for Fiscal Year 1998 was $6.1 million more than the $143.5 million budget for Fiscal Year 1997 passed by the City Council.

Still, Sheets emphasized that the budget he sends to the council next week will be a no-frills spending plan.

"It's a frugal budget, very frugal," he said. "There's not a whole lot of 'wiggle room' in it."

Sheets said fixed costs such as health insurance, pensions and special needs expenditures are the main reason the city budget increases on an annual basis.

"Special needs costs alone average an increase of $700,000 a year," he said.

The mayor said it will be impossible to determine what effect the proposed budget will have on Quincy's property tax rates until later this year when the city learns how much revenue it will receive from the state for special needs costs and local aid.

Handicapped Parking Fine Doubles To $100 Next Week

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers, working in conjunction with Quincy Purchasing Agent and Parking Clerk Al Grazioso, reminds residents of the upcoming fine increase for those who illegally park in handicapped spaces.

Beginning next week, the fine doubles from $50 to $100.

The City Council and Office on Disabilities have worked together on the issue and voted to increase the fine as a method of cracking down on violators of handicapped parking throughout the city.

The additional $50 will be utilized in separate accounts to assist the city with disability issues to comply with American Disabilities Act regulations and other projects on which the city has worked.

Ayers has urged city officials and residents to support the increase to send a message that violators will not be tolerated.

"We need to protect our seniors and others with disabilities from violators, and this is an innovative way to raise working capital and to make the city more handicapped accessible," he said. "This has worked in other cities and towns in the Commonwealth, and the City of Quincy is taking the violators very seriously. I want to notify Quincy residents of this upcoming increase."

Ayers said he has worked over the last year with senior citizens, veterans' groups and others with physical disabilities in an attempt to help defend their rights.

The Quincy Traffic Department has been repainting and resigning all handicapped parking in the city's commercial areas in preparation for the increase.

Ryan Issues 'Bill Of Rights' For Quincy College Students

The president of Quincy College has issued a "Student Bill of Rights" which guarantees students the opportunity to evaluate all their teachers.

Dr. Jeremiah Ryan, in announcing the series of "things our students should expect from the college" said that the evaluation piece would require the agreement of the faculty union.

Ryan said, "The two-thirds of our students who are taught by our talented pool of adjunct community professionals have the opportunity to evaluate their teachers. The one-third who are taught by our contractual faculty do not share that experience."

The "Bill of Rights" focuses on academic outcomes, customer service, and evaluation of instruction and services. The specifics are as follows:

"They will be able to demonstrate the outcomes identified for each course and each program.

"They will be treated with courtesy and civility in all relationships with the College.

"They will receive the same high quality of teaching regardless of the location or modality of instruction.

"They will have the opportunity to evaluate every instructor in every class they take.

"They will have the opportunity to evaluate every source they receive on an annual basis.

Ryan said he will ask the college's Board of Governors to review and approve the statement.

Sheets Doubts $2M More Needed For Library

Mayor James Sheets says he is "not concerned" about the possibility that additional funding may be needed for the construction of an addition to the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center.

Sheets, who stressed that such a deficit would not affect his proposed Fiscal Year 1999 municipal budget, also called into question monetary figures in an article in Tuesday's Patriot Ledger that said as much as an extra $2 million could be needed for the project.

According to the article, a $12.3 million low bid was submitted to the city for the construction project by W.T. Rich Co. of Newton. Other bids included: R.W. Granger & Sons of Shrewsbury, $12.567 million; Bacon Construction Co. of East Providence, R.I., $12.593 million; John T. Callahan & Sons of Bridgewater, $12.680 million; and Peabody Construction Co. of Braintree, $12.685 million.

The article states the city has only $11.2 million in grants and bonds for the project. That includes: a $7.2 million city bond issue, a $3.5 million state construction grant, and $500,000 from MediaOne for a local-access television studio in the library.

In addition, it says the city has to pay another $1 million or more in architects' fees and other expenses, including the salary for a clerk of the works to oversee the project.

Sheets said at press time that even if the library is facing the necessity of spending another $2 million, the city's municipal budget will not be used for the project. Another bond also is unlikely, he added.

"I'm not looking at another bond," said Sheets.

He also stressed that there are numerous funding resources and revenue streams that can be tapped for the project, and therefore he does not think the situation is as dire as The Ledger reported.

"I question whether we really have a $2 million deficit," he said. "I'm not concerned. We'll work around it somehow."

The mayor added that he will meet with Library Director Ann McLaughlin and Department of Public Works Commissioner David Colton to discuss the matter sometime this week or next week.

"POINT WITH PRIDE" T-shirts were handed out by Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymond during Acting Gov. Paul Cellucci's visit to the Fore River Clubhouse last week. From left are Mayor James Sheets, Cellucci, Raymond, and Fore River shipyard owner Sotirios Emmanouil.

AMONG THOSE representing Quincy during Acting Gov. Paul Cellucci's (fourth from right) visit last week were, from left, Don Uvanitte of Allied American Insurance, Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph Mannarino, Ed Keohane of the Keohane Funeral Home, Robert Curry of Curry Hardware, Quincy Planning Director Richard Meade, Tom Galvin of Quincy 2000 and Fr. All 48 Naval Terrace Units Leased For Senior Housing

All 48 units at the Naval Terrace portion of Squantum Gardens have been leased for senior housing, according to Mayor James Sheets.

Sheets said Tuesday that all of the units have been leased and other interested seniors have been placed on a waiting list. Some of the selected seniors already have moved in, while others are in the process of doing so, he said.

The mayor noted that a waiting list also has been started for the units at the rest of Squantum Gardens. Although those currently total about 50, the city plans to convert them into 96 units, he said.

There is no exact timetable for moving seniors into Squantum Gardens, Sheets added.

The city's plan to utilize the location for senior housing was approved by the Navy, which formerly operated the site, after months of discussions between the two. The Navy shut down its Naval housing there in conjunction with the closure of the South Weymouth Naval Air Station.

Veterans' Memorial Flags Sought For Flag Day Parade

The Quincy Flag Day Committee, in partnership with Keohane Funeral Homes, are seeking veterans' memorial flags to line this year's Flag Day Parade route.

Each year, the 1.5-mile parade route is lined with flags donated by the families of deceased veterans. Last year, more than 125 veterans' memorial flags decorated the parade route along Coddington Street, Hancock Street and Southern Artery.

Flags may be dropped off at the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston. Each flag will have a ribbon attached with the deceased veteran's name to pay tribute to their service in protecting the nation's flag.

Flags will then will placed in brackets on the telephone poles that line the parade route. Security will be provided that evening in an attempt to afford the highest protection possible.

The 47th annual Flag Day Parade and Celebration will be held Saturday, June 13. The parade will begin at 7 p.m. followed by a flag-raising ceremony and fireworks display.

The parade will be held the day before Flag Day is traditionally celebrated to avoid conducting the event on a Sunday.

"The Veteran's Memorial Flag program improves the patriotic atmosphere of the parade while at the same time we are honoring those veterans who have served the flag which we are celebrating," said Ed Keohane, chairman of the Quincy Partnership and owner of Keohane Funeral Homes.

It Was About This Close

Mayor James Sheets probably won't be openly endorsing any candidate for governor this year but the other day it looked like he came about this close.

And it was a Republican, Acting Governor Paul Cellucci, who got the big boost from Sheets, a Democrat.

Cellucci was in town to deliver a symbolic check representing $3.7 million in state grants for a number of public works and traffic signalization improvement projects in Quincy Point.

"If it were not for Governor Weld and Governor Cellucci, we would not be here today," Sheets told a SRO crowd at the Fore River Clubhouse, referring to the help they Soiros Emmanouil in securing loans in his efforts to re-open the Fore River shipyard idle since 1986.

The shipyard progress led to the $3.7 million check Cellucci was presenting for the Point projects, he noted.

Sheets then introduced Cellucci as "my good friend and your good friend."

That may not have been an official endorsement but it sure was the next best thing thought political observers listening.

Quincy Point is a Democratic stronghold but Cellucci got a rousing reception. Of course, that might have had something to do with the $3.7 million check that he brought with him that will help spruce up and bring the needed improvements to the area.

But it seemed Cellucci would have gone over big, check or no check.

While he was speaking, a youngster ran by outside and yelled through an open window: "I love you, Paul! Cellucci laughed and the crowd roared.

When the program was over, residents clustered around Cellucci to shake hands and chat with him which he seemed to enjoy.

Zaida Hassan then moved in with what looked like an exotic pudding she had whipped up, handed it to Cellucci along with a spoon, and asked him to try it. And as everyone looked on, Cellucci took a spoonful and another one or two. His verdict: "It's good. I like it."

It was a great day for Quincy Point as Ward 2 Councilor Dan Raymond pointed out. And Soiros Emmanouil was invited to do his part in helping to make it so.

He reiterated his vow to get the shipyard open and busy and thanked Cellucci, Sheets, Raymond and others for their assistance.

Maybe, though, he should have brought a ship's compass with him.

He wanted, he added, to also thank the good people of "Ward 5," setting off a murmur through the Ward 2 audience.

Raymond leaned over and playfully tapped him on the head.

TED KENNEDY apparently has no thoughts of stepping down from the U.S. Senate seat he has held for some 35 years.

He seemed to give that message while receiving the first Lifetime Achievement Award from the Quincy College Sullivan Center for Employee Relations for his long-time commitment to labor.

Kennedy was presented the award by College President Jerry Ryan as a recent reception at the Sheraton Braintree.

Kennedy picked up on the fact that the award was for "lifetime achievement," and let it be known: "I'm not through yet."

Then turning to Rep.-School Committeeman Ron

MARIANO

Mariano, emcee at the reception, he asked jokingly: "Ron, you aren't thinking of running in 2000 are you?"

Mariano may have been flattered that Kennedy asked but laughed and said something that sounded like "No way!"

Any parent trying to come up with a child's college tuition this year would no doubt agree with something Kennedy said.

"Every child in America should have the right to go to college. And should be helped to get there."

He said trying to bring that about will be one of his priorities.

Sounds like he intends to be around Washington for awhile.

MIKE CHENEY is venturing into the business world.

The former city councillor is opening a consulting firm office on Washington St. and joining the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association as a member.

His field will run from land and business opportunities and zoning to entertainment, matters he has been involved with as councillor and director of Quincy First Night and Presidents Day celebrations. Politics, however, will not be in his portfolio.

He will be consulting on a part-time basis while keeping his full-time job with the MBTA.

"I used to do all this free as a councillor," Cheney mused. "Then someone told me I should go into the business. So here I am."

SENATOR Bill Keating of Sharon, a Democratic candidate for Norfolk County district attorney, has opened his main campaign headquarters in the Quincy Fair Building, 1585 Hancock St.

Which puts him across the street from the campaign headquarters of one of his Democratic rivals, Jack Corrigan's campaign headquarters at 1458 Hancock St.

ANYONE KNOW HOW to replace a cover on a hand Bible? Or, know someone who does?

Mrs. Helen LeBaron, a North Quincy reader, writes to say: "My hand Bible is in need of a new cover and I have been unable to find someone to do it so I have turned to The Quincy Sun for help."

"The Bible is about 3 3/4 inches by 5 3/4 inches and the cover is actually falling apart."

If anyone out there can help contact Helen by calling 773-4333.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS is a 1915 postcard view of Grandview Avenue on Wollaston Hill. This view is from the intersection with Lincoln Avenue looking south up the hill. Known by geologists as a drumlin, this hill was formed of loose gravel and pulverized stone by the glacier that covered Quincy with a one mile thick coat of ice 10,000 years ago. First developed for residences in the 1870's as Wollaston Heights, this neighborhood has many fine Victorian style houses that were built for wealthy Boston businessmen. The close-by and convenient Wollaston railroad depot provided the means of commuting. This street was obviously named for its grand views which included the State House dome and all of Boston Harbor. Trees now grown to maturity block most of the views today.

We Should Take A Stand Against Domestic Violence

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

You recently ran a photo of Sheriff Jack Flood presenting one of many gift baskets from employees of the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office to Anne Marie Simone, executive director of the DOVE, Quincy shelter for women and children escaping violence.

What can't appear are the faces of the women themselves. Unless they become crime statistics, those caught in the cycle of violence are invisible, but each of us probably knows someone who is being threatened, emotionally or verbally abused, silenced or hit regularly. Or we may know her abuser—women being the primary targets for violence in relationships. We might know them, but never suspect their secret.

Plans are underway for this year's ecumenical Service for Remembrance and Healing for victims and survivors of domestic violence, to be held Oct. 4 at the Quincy Community

United Methodist Church in Wollaston (773-3319). The evening will include a silent candlelight vigil and walk—sadly, we're already gathering the names of this year's victims. If we all stand and work together, maybe one day soon we won't need such a commemoration.

As Mother's Day approaches, let's remember that many who face abuse daily are mothers, some are not—they may be sisters, grandmothers, or friends—but each and every one of them is somebody's daughter. And not one deserves to be abused.

What would happen if we took a stand in our own lives against words and actions intended to belittle and harass, injure or intimidate others? We won't know until we try. Meanwhile, the children are watching.

Quincy Should Be Prepared For Deregulation Of Utilities

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

When I first joined the Quincy task force committee, serving at the behest of the Quincy City Council, I researched the records of municipalities and states going through the growing pains of deregulation of electric, telephone, etc.

I was surprised to find out from a recent article in the Arizona Republic that the state could lose $1 billion in the first five years of competition. Such losses could mean a cash crunch for school districts, counties, and communities that depend heavily on tax revenues from utilities.

Massachusetts has passed legislation deregulating its electric utility industry. Massachusetts will continue to have a monopoly on distribution and transmission because their wires and pipes are already in place. Some out-of-staters feel that these provisions will make competition difficult.

Now comes Mass. Electric Co. which seeks to install additional pipe and wiring for electric and fiber-optic cables.

Members of the task force committee, by a 4-2 vote, requested Mass. Electric Co. to provide additional conduits to be capped and deeded to the city in the trench from Dorchester to Quincy. In the course of two task force meetings we progressed from an outright "no" to "yes" from Mass. Electric, provided the city would pay for its additional conduits.

Early in March I received a letter from Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon that Bell Atlantic may restrict the use of telephone transmission poles used for Quincy emergency purposes.

For the reasons stated I believe that Quincy should pursue requisitioning of deeded conduits, poles, and radio signal and fiber-optic approaches to diversity of revenues, through deregulation competition, in the present and future.

Believes Hitler, Eva Braun Escaped To South America

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Shortly after the end of World War II, the Russians claimed to have identified Adolph Hitler's charred body in an underground bunker in Berlin by his teeth.

According to them, they had his dental records. Yet, Joseph Stalin was not satisfied and he ordered Marshal George Zhukov, the conqueror of Berlin to find his body because he knew that Hitler had 10 doubles. Zhukov was unsuccessful so then Stalin ordered Lavrenti Beria, the head of the KGB to find the body but he, too, was unsuccessful.

With all this attention focused on Hitler, no mention was ever made of Eva Braun, whom Hitler married in the bunker supposedly before he gave her a cyanide pill and then supposedly before he shot himself to death. Through an acquaintance of mine who was a Russian major born in New York City but returned to Russia, both of us went into the bunker to view the area where Hitler committed suicide and where Eva Braun died.

It is my strong opinion that they were spirited away, put aboard a submarine and taken to South America where his identity was changed. The U.S. Military never questioned the Russians' claim because I believe that they knew what really happened to both of them.

Free Parking Urged To Fight Threat Of Plaza

By PAUL HAROLD

Councillor Carl Anderson called for free retail parking in Quincy Center to fight the growing competition of the Brintree plaza.

"We have to do something. We are beginning to feel the impact," Anderson said. He noted that on Thursday and Friday nights Hancock St. was starting to look like a ghost town.

April 30 - May 6

37 Years Ago

Anderson's resolve on the parking issue was seconded by Councillor James McCormack with Council President William Ellis scheduled to appoint a special committee to study its feasibility.

HEDGES CALLS FOR NEW JAIL

Sheriff Charles Hedges (former state senator from Quincy), reported on his first 126 days as Norfolk County sheriff at a meeting of the GOP Evening Women's Club at Ship's Haven Restaurant.

Hedges noted that the county jail was one of the oldest in the country and in need of replacement. He urged for the construction of a new one, outside of the town of Dedham, where there was sufficient land to operate a farm in conjunction with the jail.

State Committeewoman Mrs. William Jenness installed the new club president, Mrs. Thomas Andrew.

EXPANDED POLIO PROGRAM

Dr. Richard Ash, city health commissioner, announced an expanded polio program that would include preventive measures against other ailments. He noted that last year, Quincy was polio free.

Forty percent of the 1961 program would include free Salk vaccine for residents of all ages. Funding sources for the program included $11,000 from the city and $5,000 from the United Fund.

ENC Gospel Choir Spring Concert May 2

The Eastern Nazarene College Gospel Choir's first annual spring concert, entitled "Grace" will be presented Saturday, May 2 at 6:30 p.m. in the college's Lahue Gymnasium, Wendell Ave., Wollaston.

The choir was formed in the fall semester of 1997 at Eastern Nazarene College (ENC). It was founded by the Multi Ethnic Student Association (MESA) as a means of encouraging multi-cultural relationships and promoting ethnic diversity on campus.

The mission of the choir is to share God's love with large, diverse audiences by using upbeat, urban gospel rhythms that excite listener's ears and get their feet moving.

The choir is directed by Michael Payne, a 23-year-old religion major at ENC with 11 years of directing.

It has traveled to many destinations throughout the eastern United States.

Along with the ENC Gospel Choir there will be featured guests including the United Methodist Church (UMC) Liturgical Dance Ministry and Payne's home church choir the Beulah Church of the Nazarene Youth International Choir from Brooklyn, N.Y.

Tickets are $3 in advance, $5 at the door. They can be ordered by calling 745-3000, ext. 3260 or 3342.

Garden Party May 7 To Benefit St. Joseph's Church

The St. Joseph's Garden Party, a cocktail event to benefit St. Joseph's Church will be held Sunday, May 17 from 6 to 8 p.m. in the G.T. Nickerson Center (parish hall).

Tickets are $100 each. Proceeds from the Garden Party will go directly toward the Parking Lot Expansion Project. The goal of the evening is to raise $20,000.

When St. Joseph's was established in 1917, the majority of parishioners walked to church. For quite some time the parish has needed more space for parking and acted quickly when the space adjacent to the church became available. The new area has been designed to beautify the entire street block that the church is situated on.

There are two categories of sponsorship available for the function. The Silver Sponsorship involves a donation of $500. The Silver Sponsor will receive a complimentary dozen roses, will be listed on the event's program and banner, and will be included in all of the press releases publicizing the function.

The Gold Sponsorship opportunity involves a donation of $1,000. The Gold Sponsor receives special distinction at the event as well as a dozen roses, the listing on the program and banner, press releases and two tickets to the event.

Members of the St. Joseph's Spring Garden Party Committee are Robert Allison, John Bagan, Atty. Thomas Barrett, John Benson, Frank Brillo, Jake Corner, Paul Delorey, Daniel J. Flynn, John J. Ford, Connie Galante, Ann Gibson, Father Daniel Graham, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kahler, John Morton, Helen Murphy, Peter O'Connell, Atty. Daniel Raymond, Dennis Sweeney, Paul Talkowski, Tiffanie Williams, and Atty. Thomas F. Williams.

For more information on how to acquire tickets or sponsorship opportunities, call Ann Gibson at St. Joseph's, 472-6321.

10th Anniversary Dinner Raises $30,000 For Fr. Bill's Place

A Community Joined To End Homelessness

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Praise for a community joined "to end homelessness one life at a time" and a surprise honor for a local longtime housing advocate, were highlights at the 10th anniversary dinner celebration for Fr. Bill's Place Friday.

More than 500 people, including government, religious and civic leaders, attended the dinner held at the IBEW Hall in Dorchester. The event raised $30,000 for the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition (QISC) which manages Fr. Bill's Place.

Keynote speaker Cardinal Bernard F. Law paid tribute to Fr. Bill's Place, and its namesake, Rev. William McCarthy, for its significant effort to end homelessness.

"There are three cardinal values Fr. Bill's Place represents," Cardinal Law said. "The importance of mediating structures, the supreme value of every human person, and the responsibility we have, for one another across the face of the planet.

"Bringing those three things together we have reason to celebrate finally the vision, the dedication, the love of so many people in this community symbolized by Fr. Bill's Place and epitomized by Fr. William McCarthy himself. It is indeed a privilege to be a part of this evening," Cardinal Law said.

Fr. McCarthy, former pastor of St. John's Church and the driving force behind the QISC for many years, said Cardinal Law is "no stranger to Fr. Bill's Place."

"He blessed the shelter at St. John's in December of 1984 when we housed 20 homeless men. He was there for us when we were having a little discussion with the merchants in the City of Quincy about a particular house that was going to be given to us for a shelter. He sent the head of Catholic Charities to give us a plug.

"A few years ago," Fr.

McCarthy continued, "when we bought the house next door to the rectory and turned it over to the Friends of the Unborn, his pro-life department gave us the rent for the entire year. He has always been most supportive, not only by himself but at the time he financially helped us out.

"I figured there was no greater speaker that we could have tonight."

Cardinal Law said Fr. McCarthy insisted that no words be said in praise of him. "I'm going to try to honor that, but as I do," Cardinal Law said, "I think you will realize that everything I say really reflects a facet of his wonderfully passionate, effective pastor and I'm so very proud of him.

"It's a joy for me to be here as his archbishop and to bask a little bit in the light of his great accomplishment."

Chretien Supports Dredging Bay After Labor Day

Larry Chretien, candidate for state representative, says he supports dredging Quincy Bay after Labor Day of this year.

The former city councillor said, "Dredging should be done this year, but not until after Labor Day. That's not just my opinion. It's the opinion of a task force looking into why Wollaston Beach is still polluted. The Task Force has broad representation and is led by City Councillor Steve Durkin and DPW Commissioner David Colton. Furthermore, it includes three members from yacht clubs on the beach.

"The Task Force met on April 15, discussed when dredging should take place, and voted unanimously for September. The Bay clearly needs to be dredged more often than every 10 to 15 years, but if it were done this year before Labor Day, it would complicate efforts to show progress in cleaning up the water."

Chretien also said, "We've spent almost $4 billion to cleanup Boston Harbor and the Harbor Islands have recently been designated a National Park. Every other beach in the harbor is clean now, but the water off Wollaston Beach is still foul. That is why state Secretary of Environmental Affairs Trudy Cox should appoint one person to supervise the effort to stop pollution in Quincy Bay.

"Forming a city-based task force was a good idea, but Secretary Cox is the only public official who has the authority to ensure clean water. Each city and state agency has a more limited mission that may or may not coincide with improved water quality. We need to be able to hold someone accountable. The buck has to stop somewhere."

Chretien had other comments about making improvements to Wollaston Beach. "The MDC has a 'Back to the Beaches' program intended to improve facilities at the beaches around Boston Harbor," he said. "Millions have authorized and spent for this program. I will ask for an accounting of the dollars spent on 'Back to the Beaches' because I do not see the evidence that Wollaston Beach has received its fair share of the money.

"Compare the changes to Wollaston Beach with the more impressive enhancements to the beaches in Boston. A few nice flags along Quincy Shore Boulevard do not make the beach more inviting."

Parking Lot Opens At St. Joseph's

NEW PARKING LOT at St. Joseph's Church in Quincy Point was opened recently in time for Easter services. The lot, which was created following the purchase of an adjacent property, is a first for the church, which was built in 1917 before cars were used and when parishioners walked to Mass.

Tree Plantings Begin On Part Of Franklin St.

Tree plantings on Franklin Street in South Quincy from the Brintree line to Kendrick Avenue have begun.

Ward 2 City Councillor Daniel Raymondi said the $10,000 planting job is part of the first phase of a project to raise property values in, and beautify, the area. Last year, sidewalks on both sides of that stretch of Franklin Street were repaired and a grassy area created in preparation for the plantings.

A Rockland contractor is handling the plantings, according to Raymondi.

A total of 43 flowering pear trees—which do not bear fruit—will be planted, Raymondi said. Bond money was used to pay for the previous sidewalk work, while additional city money will fund the plantings, he noted.

Raymondi said the flowering pear is "a rather tough tree" but its roots will not damage the refurbished sidewalks.

A second phase of the project will include more sidewalk replacements and tree plantings on Franklin Street from Kendrick Avenue to Bradford Street, he said.

Raymondi said the work will not only raise the value of property on the street but also aesthetically enhance the area.

"For many visitors, that's their first impression of the City of Quincy," he said. "I wanted to make sure this major gateway is well-kept. I'm pleased that we were able to bring these improvements to the area."

He added that the city expects increased tourism this summer at the Adams National Historic Site's Adams Birthplaces on Franklin Street, due partially to the Steven Spielberg film "Amistad" in which John Quincy Adams is portrayed by Sir Anthony Hopkins.

'Parenting Your 11-14 Year-Old' At Hospital

"Parenting Your 11-14 Year-Old: Negotiating the Middle School Years," a Families First series, will be offered at Quincy Hospital, 114 Whitwell St., in May.

The series is designed to teach parents what they can expect during their early teen years, and what they can do to keep communication open and encourage responsible behavior as the child goes through middle school.

Dates are Thursdays, May 7, 14, 21 and 28 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Cost is $60 per person, $100 per couple for the entire series. For more information or to register, call (617) 868-7687.

WOMEN AND AUTOMOBILES

Cars are increasingly becoming less of a "guy thing." Consider the fact that the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence reports that more than 65% of customers who take their vehicles to repair shops are women. On top of that, one domestic car manufacturer says that women influence 80% of all new-car purchases and have 95% veto power. What is more, women are buying cars more than ever before. One automotive marketing research firm indicates that almost half of new-car purchases are made by women and 53% of used-car sales can be attributed to women. And the U.S. Dept. of Labor reports that the number of female auto technicians grew from 9,000 in 1994 to 11,000 in 1996.

Don't hesitate to ask any questions about anything related to your car when you bring it into LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO for servicing. We have modern test equipment, the right parts and the best ASE Certified technicians available in the area. Let's get acquainted at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Hours: Mon.-Fri. 8am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm. We are your source for propane for grills, motor homes, and converted vehicles. Easy Grapenut Pudding

Whenever we go out to a restaurant, we give a "10" to the ones that have grapenut pudding on the menu.

Last week, as I was rummaging through some recipes I found one for grapenut pudding that I haven't used for some time.

After realizing how easy it was to make I had to share it with all you grapenut pudding lovers.

Easy Grapenut Pudding.

- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 6 tablespoons grapenuts
- 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 eggs
- 2 cups milk

In a pan, mix the sugar, butter, grapenuts and stir in the vanilla.

Add the eggs one at a time and mix, then add the milk slowly mixing thoroughly.

Pour into a well buttered baking dish and bake for about 40 minutes in a 375 degree oven or until a knife inserted in the center will come out clean.

Serve warm with cream. It tasted great the next day either cold or heated in the microwave.

(Marie D'Olimpio has written a cookbook containing recipes printed in The Quincy Sun.

They are available at the Fruit Basket (near Star Market), Previtte's Market on Summer Street, Quincy, Nanci's Barbershop, 21 Elm St., Braintree, Harvest Moon Restaurant, Scituate Harbor, the Cherry Gift Shop at Quincy Hospital and Samoset Pharmacy on Sea Street.)

Gloria Noble Commander Of Ex-POWs Chapter

Gloria Noble of Quincy recently was installed as commander of the Southeastern Massachusetts Chapter of the American Ex-Prisoners of War.

Noble, the wife of ex-POW Robert Noble, was installed by Department of Massachusetts Commander Raymond Buckley of Cohasset during an annual dinner given for ex-POWs and their spouses by the Marshfield Lodge of Elks. Nearly 200 people were in attendance.

In her remarks, Noble related how proud she was of her grandmother, Anna McNulty, who was a yeowoman in World War I. When Mrs. McNulty was discharged, she joined the American Legion and was a founder, charter member and one of the first commanders of the all-women Since that war, a number of other family members have become Legion members.

Noble also commented on the emotional feeling she experienced at the recent dedication of the National POW Museum that is part of the National Historic Site in Andersonville, Ga. She said the showing of the video "POW Experience," which chronicles the story of a survivor of the Bataan Death March (now an Ex-POW member) and others, was particularly moving.

Noble asked the Elks to join with the American Ex-POWs to have the video shown to students so they will become aware of the value of freedom and what veterans have experienced to preserve the country and its way of life.

Belotti Stresses Public Safety In Campaign Kickoff

State Rep. Michael Belotti officially has declared his candidacy for Norfolk County sheriff.

"No issue is more important to me, and I believe to you, than public safety," Belotti told supporters at five campaign stops. "And as your next sheriff, I hope to make an impact on your lives by making Norfolk County a safer and more secure place to live."

Belotti, a three-time legislator from the First Norfolk District, said his campaign would be about accountability, collaboration and innovation. He outlined several initiatives that fit that theme.

Under accountability, Belotti said he would conduct an independent audit of the Sheriff's Office to ensure that county money is being spent wisely. He also said he would create a County Substance Abuse Services Fund with money already allocated for the jail. The fund would be used to expand substance abuse programs and track the success rates of these programs and use the results to modify future policies.

"The Massachusetts Department of Public Health estimates that for every $1 spent on substance abuse treatment, $7 is saved for taxpayers," Belotti said. "A County Substance Abuse Services Fund makes sense."

Under collaboration, Belotti said he would work with local schools, police departments, the courts, and the community to combat juvenile crime.

"The Massachusetts Department of Human Services estimates that the state's age group of 12-17 is going to grow by 106,000 in 2005. The increase will cause more arrests, more teenage pregnancies and more high school dropouts that Massachusetts now handles," he said. "The Norfolk County

REP. MICHAEL BELLOTTI stressed the importance of public safety when he officially kicked off his campaign for Norfolk County sheriff recently at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center. Earlier in the day, he made the announcement at four other communities in the county.

Sheriff's Office needs to be ready to deal with this surge of young people and have proactive programs in place that target at-risk juveniles."

Belotti also noted that he helped write legislation that would allow the Sheriff's Office to share information with local schools, probation officers, and the District Attorney's Office about at-risk youths.

"Working with other law enforcement agencies, the schools, and the community to positively influence our children is vitally important to the future of Norfolk County. If we fail to work together to collaborate—we will only ensure precious tax dollars will be wasted on building more and more jails," he said.

Under innovation, Belotti said he would elevate the substance abuse director's title to that of a "drug czar" and make it one of the top positions in the jail. The drug czar will have enhanced responsibilities and will be charged with reducing substance abuse among inmates. The drug czar will also serve as a resource for other law enforcement agencies, schools, and the community.

"A sheriff's is more than just a prison warden. This isn't Dodge City," said Belotti. The sheriff, if proactive, can and should be an integral part of our law enforcement system. I plan on being a sheriff that collaborates with other law enforcement agencies, is innovative, and most importantly, is accountable to the public he is elected to serve."

Locke To Speak On Scams Targeting Seniors

Norfolk County District Attorney Jeffrey Locke will speak on scams that target seniors and how to guard against them Tuesday, May 5 at 10:30 a.m. at the

Clara Yeomans Receives Environmental Service Award

Clara Yeomans of Quincy was presented with the Massachusetts Association of Conservation Commission's Environmental Service Award at its recent Annual Meeting at Holy Cross College in Worcester.

Yeomans, a charter member of the Quincy Conservation Commission, has worked more than 33 years to protect the coastal waters, salt marshes and inland wetlands in Quincy.

A self-taught teacher and naturalist since 1965, she has spent countless hours leading tours of the hidden treasures within the urban setting. She teaches Scouts and schoolchildren about the connections between people and nature.

In 1989, Yeomans was honored at The Quincy Sun's "Citizen of the Year."

ENOUGH TO MAKE YOUR TOES CURL

Most of the time, toes make the line. They might not do flashy card tricks like fingers, but they usually mind their own business, staying in line and giving quiet, dependable service. Of course, there can be troublemakers in any bunch, and that is where hammertoes sometimes come in. A hammertoe is a deformity in which one or more toes curl under. Affected toe joints point upward, often resulting in skin irritation or corns forming on protruding surfaces, as well as a tightening of tendons and capsules (fibrous joint coverings). Hammertoes can progress to make walking and wearing shoes painfully difficult. Depending on cause and severity, treatment may range from toe pads to surgery.

If you are suffering from these or any other foot related complaints call us at (617) 773-4300. We are located at 1261 Furnace Brook Pkwy., Suite #18, Quincy and are affiliated with Carney, Quincy and South Shore Hospitals.

P.S. Hammertoes are most common on the second and fifth toes.

Fr. Bill's Place: A Community Joined To End Homelessness

(Cont'd from Page 8)

Cardinal Law said celebrating homelessness seems incongruous because "what we are celebrating is the fact that there are homeless people. That in of itself is not a reason for celebration. It is a cause of examination of conscience. It is a challenge to us."

Instead, Cardinal Law said Fr. Bill's milestone is really a recognition of the importance of mediating structures in working to solve one of society's ills, homelessness.

"The recognition that civil society is more than the state, it's more than the government, and that really is the prejudice that a lot of people have in our world today, in this nation. They assume that if there's a problem the government has got to fix it."

"And sometimes you find there are people in government who get very upset if anybody else is trying to fix it. . . That's not the way it is in a healthy society. In a healthy society there is a significant and vigorous role for the religious community."

"We come here tonight with a multiplicity of traditions represented and how lucky you are in Quincy which is an ever expanding religious universe. It's a tremendous challenge to you, and to all of us. It's a challenge to us but what a wonderful opportunity to show how a very diverse religious community can focus together out of the best resources of those religious traditions."

But Fr. Bill's represents more than religious bonding, Cardinal Law said.

"The business community is here. Labor is here. Government is here in many different ways, federal, state and city. The (shelter) volunteers. But we're doing it together. And we all recognize that we have a role to play. We're doing this for the common good."

"What we celebrate tonight," Cardinal Law emphasized, "is how important it is to realize a healthy society is not just government, it's not just business, it's not just labor, it's not just the religious community, it's all of us working together. You've done it in Fr. Bill's Place. What a wonderful thing that is to celebrate and how that models what else we need to do together."

The surprise of the evening occurred when QJSC Executive Director Joseph Finn announced the newly opened house for homeless veterans on Burgin Parkway has been renamed the "McIntyre House" in honor of Sheila McIntyre. Mrs. McIntyre, wife of the late Senator and Mayor James R. McIntyre, was an early supporter and remains a tireless advocate of homeless efforts.

Finn, in making the announcement, noted Mrs. McIntyre was able to respond to the call to end homelessness "even in the midst of her own personal loss" after a son, William, and her husband died only months apart some 14 years ago.

"Sheila was able to respond with great courage, long before it became popular to support homeless efforts. Sheila was there, advocating for a place like Fr. Bill's Place. She later served many years on the Board of Directors and contributed a great deal in terms of her knowledge and her wisdom."

"As a citizen and as an early member of the Board of Directors, Sheila articulated with courage and grace the responsibility of the community to meet the needs of the homeless. She is a true builder of Fr. Bill's Place," Finn said.

The announcement of "McIntyre House" was greeted with a standing ovation and prolonged applause.

Joined by her son, Charles, and a daughter, Sheila von Herff on the podium, Mrs. McIntyre was visibly touched.

"I have felt that when Fr. Bill first called and asked me 14 years ago if I'd come to a luncheon at the Common Market and told me what it was about, I thought 'well, this is something I could do.' But I have to admit that I feel that I got more from it than what I gave because those were very difficult days. We had lost Bill and shortly after that Jim."

"It was a true lifeline for

me, Fr. Bill, to be so involved so I don't think of it as me giving. I think the whole concept of the sheltering gave to me some focus in my life and something that was a blessing to me and to my family," she said.

She then shared the honor with her husband.

"Jim McIntyre will always be the person I will think of when I drive by the veterans house. He enjoyed life, he enjoyed politics, he loved his family, he loved you all."

Mr. McIntyre served in the Korean War as a platoon leader in the U.S. Marine Corps.

"The veterans meant so much to him," Mrs. McIntyre continued. "He told stories of how he lost his platoon leader. He told stories of how his young medic died in his arms as he tried to help him. And yet, he always had a little funny story to tell, too, about his time with the veterans."

"He felt that life, because he survived Korea, that there had to be some reason that God had spared him. I think of our family as a part of it, I think of his service to the community as another part."

"So to me it will be Jim McIntyre, the veteran, who enabled me to be so involved and has enabled me to be so honored by you all. I am truly blessed by the friendship and the love of everyone here, especially you, Fr. Bill."

A plaque inside the McIntyre House reads "This house is named in honor of Sheila McIntyre, who through her efforts has assured that countless numbers of homeless poor persons would have some place to go. May it stand as a living monument to her and to all those willing to provide courageous leadership in a time of need."

Mayor James Sheets lauded the efforts of Fr. Bill's Place as a shining example of the city's willingness to serve its less fortunate citizens.

"No one more than Fr. McCarthy, and no institution more than Fr. Bill's Place, has reminded each and every one of us in the City of Quincy that indeed the character of our city is as great as the care that we give to the most needy."

"We are a city of great diversity, great differences but we are woven together and we are held together and we work together by a love and a compassion and an understanding that we have an obligation to those who are most needy in our midst. For the past 10 years, Fr. Bill's Place has exemplified what has truly been for so many centuries the heart and soul of the City of Quincy."

Last Chance For Kids To Win Washington Trip Deadline Today For Presidents Contest

The deadline for submitting entries in the "Parade of Presidents" contest is today (Thursday).

The prize is a three-day family trip for four to Washington, D.C. You could be the winner.

The contest is sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

It is open to youngsters in Quincy public, parochial and private schools, kindergarten through Grade 8. There is no entry fee.

The trip is for two adults and two children and includes: airline tickets for round-trip from Boston to Washington, two nights' accommodations at the Sheraton Washington and a tour of Washington, D.C. and Arlington National Cemetery.

In addition, if calendar scheduling allows, the winner and guests will be greeted in Washington by Congressman William Delahunt.

Besides the chance to win the trip, the contest gives youngsters a chance to become acquainted—or re-acquainted—with all of our Presidents and to test how observing they are of the Quincy Center area.

Photo images of the Presidents are in the windows of participating QCBPA member businesses on Hancock St. and adjoining streets, one to a business.

Although we have had 42 presidents, only 41 are displayed. Grover Cleveland served at two different times.

The object of the contest is to find in "treasure hunt" fashion the 41 presidential images and to identify by name or address the business in which each image is displayed.

The contest is being sponsored to encourage local families to rediscover Quincy Center while reminding them of Quincy's role in history as the birthplace of the nation's only father-and-son presidents—John Adams, second president, and John Quincy

Adams, sixth president.

Entries with all 41 correct presidential display locations will be eligible for a drawing May 9 to determine the winner of the Washington trip.

Only one entry per youngster may be submitted.

Christian Rock Band At Union Congregational

The Upper Room Coffeehouse will feature Ragging Band, a Christian rock band, Saturday, May 9 at Union Congregational Church, 136 Rawson Rd., Wollaston.

Doors open at 7:15 p.m.

Entry forms are available at the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association office, 1416 Hancock St. and at The Quincy Sun, 1372 Hancock St.

Entries should be mailed to or dropped off at the QCBPA office or The Quincy Sun.

Only one entry per student will be accepted. Entries with all the correct identifications will be eligible for the drawing to determine the winner.

Remember, the deadline is today (Thursday).

There is no cover charge for the non-alcoholic event. Pools also are available.

QHS Child Care Center To Be Named For Dr. Carol Lee Griffin

The Quincy Teen Mother's Program, which began 20 years ago, will dedicate a new Child Care Center at the Center for Technical Education, Friday in honor of Dr. Carol Lee Griffin.

Dr. Griffin, one of the founders of the teen program and former director of pupil personnel and then assistant superintendent of pupil personnel at Quincy High School, said the program helps students who are pregnant either to receive a high school diploma or a GED.

Dr. Griffin recalled that before the program began,

CAROL LEE GRIFFIN

there were many high school drop outs that were pregnant. The program gives them a "second chance" she said. She said through the years, there have been about 200 students who received their high school diploma or their GED.

She said the program was "unique and wonderful" and has been helped by many church and service groups through the years.

Griffin, who said she was "very pleased" with the center being named in her honor praised the teen program and said with all the programs she has been affiliated with, "this is certainly on top of the list."

The dedication will be held Friday at 3 p.m. in the Three Season's Restaurant at the Center For Technical Education

The new Child Care Center is located in the basement level of the school.

$50,000 Goal To Purchase Life-Saving Fire Dept. Equipment Project Hero Campaign Reaches $14,943 Rung

Project Hero continues to steadily climb the rungs up the ladder to its $50,000 goal to purchase new life-saving equipment for the Quincy Fire Department.

The community campaign completed its sixth week at the $14,943 rung and is starting its seventh week with $35,157 to go.

The campaign was launched by Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn III and is co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

The $50,000, when reached, will enable the Quincy Fire Department to purchase two thermal imaging units--helmets that enable firefighters to see through thick, dark smoke and flames to find and rescue occupants from houses and other building fires.

The latest "Quincy heroes" to make donations to the worthy cause are:

Tree Plantings To Highlight Arbor Day

Quincy will celebrate Arbor Day today (Thursday) with a ceremonial tree-planting at each of the city's 11 elementary schools and four parochial elementary schools.

A new Kwarzan Cherry tree will be planted on the grounds of each of the 15 schools.

Mayor James Sheets will join city officials and local schoolchildren in planting a tree at the Montclair Elementary School. There will be a formal ceremony at 10 a.m. featuring Sheets and state forestry officials. All schools will be asked to incorporate an Arbor Day lesson to coincide with the tree-planting.

The Arbor Day celebration is part of the city's expanded Cleaner, Greener Quincy program to be held Saturday, May 9. Volunteers will be asked to report to cleanup sites in their neighborhoods and help make Quincy both cleaner and greener.

"The City of Quincy is happy to promote the importance that trees play in our everyday lives," said Sheets. "By reaching our children, we are planting the seed of knowledge in our young people that will flourish and grow into the stewardship of our environment."

For the second consecutive year, the City of Quincy was named a "Tree City USA" by the National Arbor Day Foundation. Quincy's commitment to the urban forest through protecting and planting trees had led to the nationally-recognized "Tree City USA" designation for 1996 and 1997.

"It is our hope that Quincy residents protect and appreciate our magnificent trees, not just on Arbor Day, but every day," said Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments Executive Director Thomas Koch. "Our trees clean the air we breath, provide cooling shade in the summer, beautiful colors during the autumn and they increase local property values. Through the continued cooperation of Mayor Sheets and the Quincy City Council, Quincy can be called 'Tree City USA' every year."

For more information on the Arbor Day celebration or Cleaner, Greener Quincy, call the Park Department at 376-1251.

DON'T FORGET DIABETES

Ask someone to name his or her top three threats to health and you're likely to get a list that will include cancer and heart disease, plus possibly stroke, osteoporosis, or Alzheimer's disease. Chances are good that diabetes is one of the fastest growing serious chronic diseases in the United States, and being unaware of the dangers can be a fatal mistake. In a person with diabetes, the pancreas stops making enough insulin to convert food into energy. Such malfunctioning can begin at virtually any age, to varying degrees, and without treatment, the condition can cause heart disease, stroke, nerve damage, kidney disease, or blindness.

Taking care of yourself is critical when you are dealing with this condition. Fortunately, given today's medical expertise, treatment and prevention are better than ever. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. Signs of diabetes may include frequent urination, unusual thirst or hunger, unexplained weight loss, fatigue, and slow healing.

Burglars Go Shopping While You're on Vacation

News USA

(NU) - Picture this: You and your family are returning from a fun-filled vacation, ready to unpack and update the photo album.

Only when you get home, you find the back window broken and valuables missing from all over the house, including your "clever" hiding places in the dresser drawer and in the back of the freezer.

You're not alone. Each year, nearly 5 million families become victims of burglary, often while they've been on vacation.

Your Home Sends Signals

According to the National Burglar & Fire Alarm Association, there are some simple steps you can take to make your home less attractive to would-be burglars.

The best way is to combine the list of ideas below with a professionally installed and monitored electronic security alarm system.

Before you leave on your trip, pack your sunblock and be sure to:

- Get a trusted friend or relative to "house sit." Or, make sure your neighbors know your plans.
- Have a neighbor pick up your newspapers and mail daily.
- Lock all doors and windows, and secure the garage door.
- Leave a car parked in the driveway, or ask a neighbor to park in your driveway.
- Leave a house key — and a number where you can be reached — with a trusted friend or neighbor.
- Use timers to turn lights on and off at certain times, altering lighting patterns, to create an occupied look.

• Leave drapes and shades open as normal. (Closed blinds during the day are a sure sign of an empty house, plus they allow a burglar to attend to his business unseen.)

• Have your lawn mowed.

• Be sure your trees and hedges have been trimmed. This gives burglars fewer places to hide.

• Replace any burned out lights in your yard. Consider upgrading outdoor light fixtures with devices that have built-in motion detection.

Electronic Security

An electronic security system adds a barrier of protection to your home that is unparalleled.

The NBFAA recommends that consumers purchase systems from its members. NBFAA members are exposed to training, certification and information that sets them apart from the rest. Call at least three companies before selecting an installer. Prices vary, based on the level of protection and type of technology used, so be sure to compare apples-to-apples bids. Don't forget to factor in monthly monitoring charges.

Free Brochure

For a free copy of NBFAA's brochure "Safe & Sound: Your Guide to Home Security" and a list of NBFAA member companies in your area, call (301) 907-3202. Or visit NBFAA on the Internet at <http://www.alarm.org>

Habitat To Hold Bird House Show And Auction Fundraiser

South Shore Habitat for Humanity will hold its fifth annual Bird House Show and Auction, its largest fundraiser of the year, during the first two weeks in May.

A Mall Event will be held May 1 through 3 at South Shore Plaza in Braintree during which the bird houses, which were signed or designed by local artists or celebrities, will be judged. Prizes will be presented to the winning artists. Habitat volunteers will be on hand to provide information about current Habitat building projects.

The prize-winning bird houses will be auctioned off during a Gala Event and Live Auction on Saturday, May 9. There will be champagne, hor d'oeuvres and desserts served. Tickets for the evening are $25.

For more information about either event or for tickets to the auction, call (781) 843-9080.

City To Receive $12,644 State Recycling Grant

State Sen. Michael Morrissey and Reps. Michael Bellotti, Ronald Mariano and Stephen Tobin announce that the Executive Office of Environmental Affairs and the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) have approved $12,644 for Quincy's municipal recycling program.

"The grant will play a significant role in the city's recycling infrastructure promotion program," said Tobin.

The competitive grant saw the Commonwealth's municipal cities and towns make grant requests totaling $5.2 million for Fiscal Year 1998.

"The DEP awarded $1.37 million in grants this year," said Bellotti. "Since 1990, this highly competitive grant program has provided over $14 million to municipalities for promoting environmental friendly programs," added Mariano.

"Some of the items that a municipality can purchase includes recycling equipment, household hazardous waste equipment, and distribute educational materials," said Morrissey.

The city will use $11,084 for consumer education mailers and $1,560 for set-out containers.

"The grant's competitive nature requires that the municipality demonstrate that they are committed to a long term recycling program and prove it works," said Bellotti.

"The city has made great strides in their commitment to enhancing the existing recycling program," added Mariano.

The city reached its goal of 46 percent recycling and will continue to promote recycling and proper handling of hazardous material. The grant also requires the city to purchase recycled products and heavily promote the recycling effort.

"The competitive nature of the grant demands results and Quincy's award of the grant reflects its commitment and progress in the field of recycling," said Morrissey.

Saying So Long To Your Friend, The House

(What happens when you leave your home after so many years and make the ultimate move to a smaller place? Here is a letter written by Esther Cullen to her house shortly before moving.)

Dear House,

We're leaving you after being together for 40 years, almost to the day.

You haven't changed much, House, except for needed repairs and renovations over the years.

We're the ones who have changed. So I want to thank you House, before we leave, for all the wonderful times we've shared and to tell you that all the changes we've seen are all just a part of living.

For me to wish things to be the way they were for many years would be to wish that my three children were all back living here again.

So how could I wish our daughter never got married and gave us two beautiful grandchildren as an extension to our family?

Or I would have to wish that our two boys were still living here and at times, both playing the drums to different tunes with one of them upstairs and the other in the basement (with me in the kitchen holding my head).

I would have to wish for more Holy Communion, Confirmations, Birthdays, Christmases and hundreds of other special occasions that were all so wonderful but I'm getting older now, House, for all the work that would go with all that entertainment. So I can't wish for that.

We would have to wish that some of the wonderful neighbors were still in their places. So we would have to wish them back to Earth from Heaven. How could we disturb all that Peace?

And last of all, House, I would really have to wish that nothing in life would change, that the children were small again and would always be under our wings, all safe and sound. But I know nothing can make them small again and dependent on us for everything they need.

And so, House, if you feel as sad as I do, please remember one thing my husband and I are going to smaller quarters and leaving you as we walk hand in hand out of here. We're lucky to still have each other, and although our cartons are full of clothes and other items of personal belongings, our minds are full of sweet memories that we can recall at will.

So goodbye, House, you will certainly be in our thoughts very often. We will always love you for the happiness you gave and we know that you will be kind, in turn, to our children who are inheriting you!

Good luck to you and our kids!

Love,
The Lady of the House

Do-It-Yourself Hints For First-Time Homeowners

(NAPS)—If you're a first-time homeowner, you know that adding that personal touch will transform your house into a family retreat. Whether you're planning to restore a dated kitchen or refresh worn wood floors, free expert advice is yours for the asking.

Wood Beautiful*, a free 36-page magazine, is available at participating hardware stores and home centers during Minwax® National Woodworking Month*, or through the Wood Beautiful Hotline, 1-800-44-STAIN. The hotline also has recorded tips from Norm Abram, host of the popular PBS series, "The New Yankee Workshop," and Bruce Johnson, craftsman and editor for Country Living magazine. Johnson offers these tips:

• A small project that makes a dramatic difference? Wood finishing. If your new house or condominium seems bare, you can easily add warmth with decorative moldings, wainscoting, and wood shutters.

• To match the color of a new fiberglass or steel door to existing wood moldings, simply wipe on Minwax® Gel Stain. Its unique non-drip formula makes staining easy, even for the first-time finisher. To make it even easier, remove the door from its hinges and lay flat to stain.

• Thinking about investing in new kitchen cabinets? First try giving existing cabinets a facelift. Clean all exposed wood surfaces with mineral spirits to remove dirt, wax and grease. Then, sand the old finish to give it some "tooth" for the new stain and finish to adhere. For a two-tone, decorator look, choose a traditional wood tone in Minwax® Wood Finish® for cabinet frames, and a contemporary color in Minwax® Accents® Decorative Stain for door panels. Top with crystal-clear Polycrylic® Protective Finish. Finally, install hardware to complete the new look.

• Save money on furniture by shopping at flea markets and yard sales. With a fresh finish, a second-hand piece can become a beloved treasure. Don't be fooled by a worn surface. Beautiful wood may be hiding under layers of old paint or a dulled finish. Remember, the type of wood will determine how you go about removing it.

• If you're not sure of the finish, try the Formby's Cotton Ball Test: Touch the wood in an inconspicuous place with a cotton ball dampened with acetone nail polish remover. If the cotton ball sticks or the finish softens, it's varnish, lacquer or shellac. Use Formby's Furniture Refinisher, which will gently dissolve the finish as it conditions the wood. If there's no effect when you apply the cotton ball, the finish is paint or polyurethane, and a paint remover is needed. Use one especially made for furniture, as opposed to all-purpose strippers, which tend to be harsh and may strip away the wood's rich patina or raise the wood grain.

"Doing it yourself will save money and add value to your home," says Johnson. "And you'll find that the satisfaction you get from finishing your project is the best reward."

South Shore Buick Opens Season With Win

Defending Quincy Youth Baseball League champion South Shore Buick opened the 1998 season with a convincing 6-1 victory over an improved Colonial Federal team.

John Folino pitched the victory, pitching three strong innings, allowing just three hits and no earned runs. Steve Williams came on in relief and pitched three no-hit innings, showing why he is considered one of the league's premier pitchers.

Matt McNeil led the offensive attack, driving in two runs for Buick, which looks like a strong contender to repeat as champions.

NQ Faces Quincy Tonight McCann (3-0) Pitches Red Raiders Past D-Y

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Sophomore pitcher Matt McCann continued to impress on the mound as he led the North Quincy High School baseball team over Dennis-Yarmouth, 5-2.

McCann, who improved to 3-0 with Monday's Old Colony League victory, pitched a solid 5 2/3 innings and yielded both D-Y runs. Senior Mike McEvoy came on with two runners on in the seventh inning and retired the two batters he faced to earn the save.

The Red Raiders (5-2) were back in action yesterday (Wednesday) at OCL opponent Bridgewater-Raynham. Tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m., the Red Raiders take on rival Quincy at Adams Field.

Next Monday at 4 p.m., North hosts Plymouth South in an OCL contest. Next Wednesday at 4 p.m., NQ visits Falmouth in another league game.

In the victory over D-Y, John Sullivan paced the Red Raider offense with a single and two RBI and Adam Delorey added an RBI single. Bryan Linsky contributed an RBI groundout, scoring Chris Bregoli, who singled, stole second and moved to third on an errant throw.

BASEBALL

In earlier action, the Red Raiders' Kevin Walsh tossed a four-hitter, but host North managed just one hit in a 1-0 non-league loss to Stoughton last Thursday.

"Kevin pitched an excellent game; he handled their hitters well," said North coach Dave Perdios. "It's too bad we couldn't pull out a win."

Walker collected NQ's only hit, leading off the bottom of the first with a bunt single. Stoughton pitcher Mike Pimentel did not allow another hit, retiring NQ in order in the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth innings.

A strong pitching performance by McCann sparked North to a 12-1 victory over visiting Canton last Wednesday. McCann gave up two hits and no earned runs while striking out five in five innings. Brian Deptula relieved McCann and pitched two innings of two-hit ball and struck out two.

Leading North's 16-hit attack were Greg Peck (three hits, three RBI), Linsky (two hits, three RBI), Walker (three hits, RBI), Sullivan (3 for 3, RBI), Bregoli (1 for 3, RBI) and freshman Keith Doherty (2 for 4).

In a 7-2 non-league win over South Boston on April 16, Doherty earned his first career victory, pitching six scoreless innings and striking out five. Walker (2 for 4, two RBI, three runs scored) and Sullivan (two hits, two RBI) paced NQ offensively.

QUINCY'S SQUIRT B Bulldogs battled Triboro in a recent GBL playoff game but came out on the losing end of a 3-2 score. Coaching the Bulldogs were Billy Barter, Jeff Giordani and Paul Cosia. The Bulldog players (in no particular order): Ryan Barter, Rose Devlin, Bryan Donelin, Matt Giordani, Brendan Mulcahy, Mike Giordani, Glen Gibbons, Dan Reggiani, Steve Bythrow, Dan Poggi, Pat Devlin, Kevin Shinnick, Steve Maggio, James Sheehan, Mike McPherson, Chris Tierney and Ray Marchand.

Squirt B Bulldogs' Fine Season Comes To An End In Playoffs

The Quincy Youth Hockey Squirt B Bulldogs' season came to an end when they were edged by Triboro, 3-2, in a Greater Boston League playoff game Monday at West Roxbury.

The Bulldogs did not lose the game; Triboro won it. It was a tribute to youth hockey everywhere as both teams battled second by second, play by play, to the very end, and when it was over, they shook hands.

Dan Reggiani scored first for the Bulldogs, assisted by Steve Bythrow. In the second period, the Buldogs' Mike Giordani notched an unassisted goal. The game, much like the season, was a great success, because it embodied all that sports should be.

The Bulldogs gave their best and for it received the appreciation and accolades from their parents and coaches. Team members were: Ryan Barter, Rose Devlin, Bryan Donelin, Matt Giordani, Brendan Mulcahy, Mike Giordani, Glen Gibbons, Dan Reggiani, Steve Bythrow, Dan Poggi, Pat Devlin, Kevin Shinnick, Steve Maggio, James Sheehan, Mike McPherson, Chris Tierney and Ray Marchand.

At the end of the game, a look at the Quincy bench revealed not a disheartened coaching staff, but rather a smiling, appreciative group of coaches who throughout the season mixed huge amounts of praise with experience and hockey know how. As the season ends, the coaching staff of Billy Barter, Paul Cosia and Jeff Giordani deserve to be recognized for the excellent job they did all season.

The parents' support was also outstanding. There wasn't a game all season where the Quincy parents were outnumbered by the opponent's parents.

As the Bulldogs left the locker room, they talked about next year, and they all shook hands.

Chris, Tim Zaniboni Spark Mass. Maritime To Victory

Chris Zaniboni and his brother, Tim, both of Piermont St. in Quincy, sparked the Mass. Maritime Academy baseball team to a recent 10-0 victory over visiting Emerson College.

Chris, a Don Bosco Technical High School graduate, tossed a three-hit shutout and received offensive support from Tim, a North Quincy High School graduate.

Tim belted a three-run home run in the first inning and added three more RBI with a double and a hit-by-pitch with the bases loaded.

"We won the game right away," said MMA head coach Bob Corradi. "And then, as the game went on, Chris got stronger." The victory was the fifth straight for the Buccaneers, who improved to 15-6-1.

Quincy Seeks Remedy For Winless Streak

By LIAM FITZGERALD

The Quincy High School baseball team managed just one hit in Monday's 5-0 setback to Old Colony League host Barnstable, the Presidents' seventh consecutive defeat.

The Presidents (1-7) looked to break the winless skid when they hosted Silver Lake yesterday (Wednesday) in a 4 p.m. OCL tilt.

"Silver Lake is similar to us in that they've had their ups and downs and are still trying to find themselves," said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia. "We're struggling at the plate, but we have to stay tough and get a few breaks. We just have to work harder to turn this around."

Tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at Adams Field, the Presidents clash with their rivals, the North Quincy Red Raiders, in the first of two meetings. North, winners of five of its first seven games, defeated Dennis-Yarmouth Monday in a key OCL contest.

"North's right up there, in the hunt in the OCL," said Sylvia. "Their kids are playing well for Dave (Perdios) and to get a win over D-Y, which is a real strong club, is a credit to the job Dave is doing with the kids. A win over North would be big—it could help us start to turn things around."

Following tonight's game, the Presidents are back in action Monday at 4 p.m. at Taunton and next Wednesday at 4 p.m. against visiting Dennis-Yarmouth. Both are OCL games.

In other recent action, Quincy dropped a non-league doubleheader to visiting Boston Latin, 7-2 and 6-2, last Tuesday. On April 18, the Presidents lost to OCL foe Falmouth, 9-1.

Timely Hitting Results In Two Raider Wins

By LIAM FITZGERALD

After a rough start, the North Quincy High School softball team has begun to turn its season around, posting consecutive victories over Dennis-Yarmouth and Archbishop Williams.

The Red Raiders (2-6) were back in action yesterday (Wednesday) at 4 p.m. against Bridgewater-Raynham.

Today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. at McCoy Field, North plays crosstown rival Quincy in the first of two meetings this season.

Next Monday, the Red Raiders visit Plymouth South for a 4 p.m. game. North then hosts Falmouth next Wednesday at 4 p.m.

In recent action, North visited D-Y and came away with an 8-5 victory on Monday. Winning pitcher Kristy Deptula also contributed offensively, collected two hits and an RBI. Kristen Bowes, Kerry Skehan and Rachael Powers all picked up two hits and two RBI. Jessica Lorman added a hit and an RBI.

"Earlier in the season, we had problems getting the timely hit," said NQ coach Bob Doyle, "but now we're coming up with the hits in key situations."

A 14-11 triumph over Archbishop Williams last Thursday was highlighted by the offensive effort of Bowes (single, double, home run, three RBI, two runs scored). Her two-run homer in the seventh broke a 9-9 tie and put NQ ahead for good.

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Coming off back-to-back wins, the North Quincy High School boys' volleyball team this week faces two teams that handed the Red Raiders early-season setbacks.

Tuesday, North (3-4) hosted the undefeated South Alliance leader, Greater New Bedford Vocational, which defeated NQ, 2-1, earlier this month.

Today (Thursday), the Red Raiders host non-league foe Duffree in a 4 p.m. match. Back on March 31, Duffree shut out North, 2-0, in the season opener.

North coach John Perkins, although pleased with the progress his team has made in recent weeks, emphasized the importance of defeating opponents the second time around.

"We need to start splitting matches with these teams we've already faced," he said. "That's our goal, because we're still trying to get to the tournament."

"Things are definitely getting better as our younger players gain more and more experience. We have a tough road ahead, but we'll take it one match at a time and see what happens."

Following today's match, the Red Raiders' next match is next Tuesday at 4 p.m. at Medfield in a non-league contest.

In recent action, the Red

North Notches Two Victories

VOLLEYBALL

Raiders defeated non-league opponent Boston Latin, 15-9, 15-3, on Monday. North was sparked by senior Rob McCauly and junior Al King, who registered seven kills apiece. Senior captain James Cheung served well for NQ, collecting eight service points.

Prior to the school vacation week, North rolled over South Alliance foe, Wareham, 15-9, 15-0, on April 16. Leading the Red Raiders was senior Anthony Greenwood, who collected 12 setups in his first varsity game as a setter.

Sophomores Phil Cai (five blocks, six service points) and Justin Drysdale (four kills, four blocks) also played strong offensive games, while King and McCauly combined for 11 kills.

In a 13-15, 7-15 setback to Brockton on April 14, the Red Raiders held a 13-11 lead in the opener, only to see their opponent reel off four straight points to win the game. North's top players were Kin Yun (six kills) and Kin Chan (seven service points).

Quincy Falls To Powerhouses

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Three wins shy of a state tournament berth, the Quincy High School boys' volleyball team looked to get back on the winning track, hitting the road this week to face Wareham and Duffree.

The Presidents (6-3), who lost consecutive matches to perennial powerhouses Greater New Bedford Vocational and New Bedford prior to school vacation week, visited South Alliance foe Wareham Tuesday. Earlier this month, Quincy rolled over Wareham, 2-0, during its six-game winning streak.

Friday at 4 p.m., Quincy pays a visit to Duffree in a non-league match. Next Tuesday at 4 p.m., the Presidents host league opponent Dighton-Rehoboth, which fell to Quincy, 2-0, earlier this season. Next Wednesday, Quincy hosts Weymouth in a 4 p.m. non-league match.

On April 15, the Presidents visited undefeated Greater New Bedford and lost, 8-15, 13-15. Playing well for Quincy were Jason Goldrick (five kills), Matt Nicklas (seven digs, three blocks), Jared Downey (six digs), DeMing Guan (five digs) and Eddie Smith (five digs).

"We were playing for first place in the league, and we started off slow," said Quincy coach Christine Barrett. "We needed to serve more aggressively against them."

"We also had some communication problems, and those hurt us. The effort was there, like it has been all season, but we weren't quite on our game."

In a 6-15, 7-15 setback to visiting New Bedford on April 14, the Presidents were led by Nicklas and Smith, who recorded four kills apiece.

"New Bedford is No. 1 in the state and they certainly showed why," said Barrett.

"They're loaded, with a lot of big, tall players, and we struggled with our blocking against them."

"One of our goals is to make the states, and this is the type of team we'll face in the tournament. We know to compete with them we'll have to bring our play up a level."

Barrett looked at the match as a learning experience for the players, who now realize that not every match is going to be an easy victory.

"They had to learn the hard way," she said, "but it's something they needed to learn, and I think it will help them down the road."

Youth Soccer Round-Up

SCOTT DEWARE

*A Thought
For The Week*

Have you ever wondered why some people at times fail to realize that an attitude can cause either happiness or misery?

How satisfied are you with your personal life? Are you satisfied more often than dissatisfied? Or vice-versa? How often have you tried to determine the reasons - either way?

For example, are you sincerely trying to make the most out of what you have? Do you discipline your disgruntled? Do you appreciate and express your admirations? Are you envious; do you covet some one else's possessions? Are you influenced by some one else's kindness of heart or gentle manners? Are you saddened more often by the clouds of your own life instead of trying to scatter sunshine in the lives of others? Do you allow worry to pull clouds over your life instead of ignoring them in the radiance of hope? Do you keep your heart free from hate? Do you treat others as you would like them to treat you?

Would not an honest answer to these sort of sample questions help change an attitude toward life - If a change is longed for .

Your Social Security A Legacy Of Hope

By LAURIE ZASTROW

Many people don't realize how much of their Social Security taxes counts for the protection of their families when they die. But it's true that your Social Security survivors insurance protection could be worth more than the commercial life insurance you may (or may not) have.

The misperception is strengthened by ads like that of a current TV life insurance commercial in which a widow refers to her husband's Social Security survivors payments as "not enough to bury him with." She was referring to the $255 lump sum payment Social Security makes to the widow or widower of deceased workers.

To the extent that the statement indicates that the lump sum benefit is the sum total of Social Security survivors benefits, it is misleading. About 7.2 million or 18 percent of the 44 million persons receiving monthly Social Security benefits are survivors of deceased workers. They are aged and disabled widows and widowers, and children, including adults disabled since childhood. The list also includes divorced surviving spouses, parents and grandchildren.

While most workers have life insurance policies, the average value of a group policy is less than $30,000 and an individual policy less than $40,000. Under Social Security, however, the survivors protection of the family of a worker who dies at age 25 with average earnings is worth about $313,000. The average benefit payable to a widowed mother and two children in 1998 is $1,522. And these benefits increase with the cost of living, something few private plans offer.

The chance of collecting survivors benefits is greater than most people realize. Social Security actuaries estimate that today's 20 year old faces roughly a one in six possibility of dying before reaching retirement age. And virtually all workers have Social Security survivors protection. For some families, Social Security benefits help them maintain their life-styles in the absence of a wage earner; for others, it helps keep them above the poverty level; and for others, particularly large, low-income families with young children, Social Security benefits have been known to make the difference between staying together as a family or splitting up.

If you are interested in more information on this important Social Security protection, call the Social Security office and ask for the booklet, Survivors. (Laurie Zastrow is Social Security manager in Quincy.)

Your Horoscope

by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) It's certainly a good week for socializing, although there could be some concern over a domestic matter. Luck is with you, but remember to exercise initiative. Your ideas and intuition are good.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Financial negotiations could get bogged down. Don't let anyone take unfair advantage. With business partners, it's a question of give and take this week.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A family member doesn't particularly care for a friend of yours. It's not the best week for household guests. However, socializing is accented by week's end. Get out and about.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Happiness comes through romance. Despite one pressing family obligation, it's a favorable week for you. Enjoy the companionship of friends and loved ones over the weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your attitude toward money fluctuates. Try to avoid the extremes of extravagance and stinginess. Business and pleasure mix to your advantage this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Do what you have to do for your career, but don't argue about it. Although company could drop by, you needn't change your plans for going out somewhere special this weekend. In fact, socializing is a plus.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A last-minute idea is a good one career-wise. Partners agree about the joint use of funds. Family is uppermost in your thoughts as the week comes to a close.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) to November 21) Entertainment is accented, but toward the weekend, your interest turns to career endeavors. Don't squabble with a loved one over money. It's just not worth causing hard feelings.

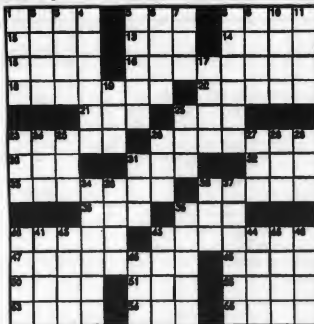

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) There's nothing wrong with the way you express your ideas, but some people aren't listening. Your time is best spent with people you can relate to on an intellectual level in order to avoid frustration.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Keep your financial plans to yourself. The less others know about your business, the better. Tact and diplomacy are necessary qualities this week.

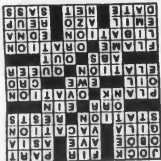

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Concentrate on making money rather than spending it. You could come up with some good profit-making ideas. Fad-like purchases should be avoided over the weekend.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) The beginning of the week is best for continuing with that work project or for making business calls. Guard against unnecessary expenditures. Something comes up at home this weekend that requires your attention.

NOTICE OF RE-BID

INVITATION TO BID

The Department of Public Works for the City of Quincy invites sealed filed sub-bids from Contractors in the Ornamental Iron & Miscellaneous Metals category for the construction of the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy, Massachusetts, according to the documents prepared by CBT/Childs Bertman Tseckares Inc. The Project consists of renovations and additions to the existing library and addition and the construction of a new television facility at 40 Washington Street, Quincy, Massachusetts and all related work and site improvements. The existing library buildings are historic and listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The work includes preservation and restoration work related to these historic structures. The work is scheduled in phases. The estimated cost for work under this category is $325,000.00.

Filed Sub-Bids will be received until 10:00 A.M. on Wednesday, May 6, 1998 at the Department of Public Works, Engineering Division, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA 02189 and publicly opened at that time.

Mailed Sub-Bids should be sent to the Department of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA 02189 and received before the date and time specified above and the envelope should be clearly marked "Bid Enclosed" with the title of the Project.

Bid Forms and Contract Documents will be available for pick-up Monday through Friday between 8:30 A.M. and 4:30 P.M. at the Engineering Division of the Department of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02189 beginning Wednesday, April 22, 1998. Bidders requesting Contract Documents to be mailed to them shall include a non-refundable check in the amount of $25.00 per set, payable to the City of Quincy, to cover the mail handling costs. General bids and subbids shall be accompanied by a bid deposit that is not less than five (5%) of the bid amount, made payable to the City of Quincy.

The bidding and award of this contract shall be in full compliance with Massachusetts General Law, Chapter 149, Section 44 M, as last revised.

No bidder may withdraw his bid within 60 calendar days after the actual date of the opening of the bids.

All Federal/State and City of Quincy regulations in relation to Minimum Wage Rates, Equal Employment Opportunity, Apprenticeship Program, and Employment of Quincy Residents must be complied with.

The Project goals are as follows:

1. Compliance with the City of Quincy's Ordinance No. 532, including all revisions thereto, requiring Contractors working on City-supported construction projects to hire a certain percentage of Quincy residents is mandatory.

2. Conformance with the minimum wage rates for all workers, as mandated by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries issued in the most current "Wage Decisions" as applicable to the project area shall be enforced.

3. Compliance with the City of Quincy's Municipal Code Section 12.28.090 - Apprenticeship Training Program is mandatory.

Failure to comply with these requirements may render the bid non-responsive and thus ineligible for further consideration. No Waiver for any portion of these provisions will be granted. The City reserves the right to waive any informality in or to reject any or all bids if deemed in the best interest of the City. The City does not condone the submission of unbalanced bids. Such bids may be summarily rejected.

An appointment is needed for viewing the project site between 9:00 A.M. and 3:00 P.M. weekdays. Contact the Library at telephone (617) 376-1301.

The Contract Documents may be viewed, but not removed at:

First Japanese Restaurant Approved By License Board

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO
Wollaston Center will soon be the site for the first Japanese restaurant in Quincy on 698 Hancock St., featuring a new tradition in culture food.

The License Board Tuesday unanimously approved the new business to be called Fuji Restaurant.

The site was formerly that of La Cucina and more recently Sunshine Cafe.

The 19-seat restaurant will feature the delicacy sushi as well as a full Japanese menu including grilled beef, noodles and will also offer take-out.

Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue said she had watched the procedure for preparing the raw fish (sushi) and was very "impressed" with the expertise with which it was done.

The hours will be 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 11 a.m. to 1 a.m. on weekends.

New owners Peter Tse, Jimmy Liang and Jen Lin have all had experience in the serving of sushi. Liang, while only 20 years of age has had five years experience and is currently employed at the Apollo Restaurant in Chinatown.

Liang said he plans to renovate the restaurant in a traditional Japanese motif, and will also import plates from Japan.

Only one abutter said he was concerned over the traffic problem in the area where they are several other eating places, and how the new owners would dispose of their trash.

However, Capt. Fred Laracy, sitting on the board for Police Chief Thomas Frane, assured the abutter that there would not be an added burden on parking and called the restaurant a "fine addition to Wollaston Center."

Ward 5 City Councillor Stephen Durkin wrote a letter to the board approving the site although showing concern over the emptying of the dumpster.

Liang assured the board that he would empty trash each day.

Liang said the restaurant will open before mid-June and said he hopes to also attract customers from Milton and Braintree were named by then-Gov. William Weld to fill vacant sheriff and district attorney posts.

Flood succeeded Sheriff Clifford Marshall of Quincy after the latter's death in August 1996. Locke was named district attorney in January 1997 following incumbent William Delahunt's election to Congress.

Delahunt, seeking his second term in Congress, has a Republican challenger in Eric Bleicken of Yarmouth who filed papers at City Hall.

A Quincy Republican, Michael Patrick Kennedy, failed to file his papers for the Congressional seat.

Democratic incumbent Peter Collins of Milton, John W. Fallon Jr., a Stoughton Democrat, and Robert Hall, Needham Republican and former county treasurer, filed for Norfolk County commissioner.

The seat held by Collins and the one being vacated by O'Donnell to run for district attorney are at stake. The third commission seat is that of John Gillis of Quincy but is not involved in this year's election.

Four candidates including Quincy businessman Daniel Flynn filed papers to challenge Governor's Councilor Christopher Iannella of Boston.

The other three, Brian O'Reilly, Claire Schroeder and Jacqueline Payne-Thompson are Boston residents. All five candidates are Democrats.

Adams Site To Celebrate Public Service Recognition Week

The National Park Service, Adams National Historic Site, and federal agencies throughout the Boston area, will recognize the men and women who have devoted their careers to serving the nation in celebration of Public Service Recognition Week, May 4 to 8.

In conjunction with the event, park tours emphasizing the Adams family's legacy of civic virtue and patriotism will be offered to the public, free of charge, on Tuesday, May 5. Tours will be offered throughout the day and will depart from the park's Visitor Center, 1250 Hancock St. in the Presidents Place Galleria, Quincy Center. Validated parking is available in the adjacent President Place Parking Garage. For additional tour information, call 770-1175.

Council Scrutiny Starts May 19 $158M Budget Seen As 'Realistic'

By MICHAEL WHALEN

City Councillor Timothy Cahill has scheduled four sessions for council discussion of Mayor James Sheets's proposed $158.2 million municipal budget for Fiscal Year 1999.

Cahill, chairman of the council's Finance Committee, has slated sessions for May 19 and 20 and June 8 and 9. If necessary, a fifth meeting will be held June 10.

The budget was submitted to the council Monday night. It was discussed briefly before being sent to the Finance Committee where it will remain until the sessions begin May 19.

The council has the authority to make cuts to the budget but cannot add to it. The budget, which must be passed in some form before July 1—the start of the new fiscal year—is expected to be approved at the council's June 15 meeting.

Despite the fact that the budget is almost $9 million more than last year's budget, Cahill said he feels, like Sheets, it is basically a no-frills budget.

"It seems that most of the costs are fixed, which don't allow for flexibility," he said. "I don't see a lot of fluff over the last year's budget."

Cahill added that the difference between last year's and this year's budget may actually only be $4 million or $5 million when one factors in the amount of money the council has appropriated from the city's free cash (cash reserve) account for various expenditures over the past year.

"What we'll do (this year) is make sure this is a real figure," said Cahill. "We need to get better control of overtime budgets and some other things. I am going to make sure it's a real budget. I think (as proposed by Sheets) it's a more realistic budget."

The mayor's proposed spending plan is 5.6 percent or $8.6 million more than the Fiscal Year 1998 budget of $149.6 million. The increase is the largest since 1990, when the budget went up 10 percent or $10.7 million over the 1989 budget—a jump from $107 million to $118 million.

Sheets has cited several factors for the budget hike, including negotiated salary increases with city unions—$2 million has been set aside for those raises—as well as increased special education costs, road resurfacing and increases in water and sewer reconstruction costs.

The mayor said he has raised the school department budget about $1 million with much of that earmarked for special education. In addition, he said, about half of the money put aside for salary increases is for that department.

The budget also calls for the creation of a new maintenance division that will consolidate the maintenance departments of the school public works and parks departments. However, the consolidation does not call for any additional spending since staff and funding will be transferred from the individual departments.

Sheets said he will not know what effect the proposed budget hike will have on Quincy's property tax rates until he learns how much local aid money the city will receive from the state, a figure that will be not be known for a few weeks.

At Downtown Plan Hearing 10-Story Building Heights, New Zone Get Mixed Reviews

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The City Council has received mixed reviews of a plan to create a new Business Revitalization Zone and increase the height limitation of buildings from six to 10 stories in a portion of Quincy Center.

During a lightly-attended public hearing held by the council's Downtown Committee Monday night, five people spoke in favor of the plan and four in opposition. The hearing was recessed, not adjourned, so that it may be continued at a future date.

Supporters included former City Councillor Michael Cheney, who proposed the plan before stepping down from the council; Quincy Center Business and Professional Association Executive Director Maralin Manning; Quincy 2000 Executive Director Joseph Mannarino; Bernie's Modern Formal Shop owner Bernie Reisberg, and resident Abe Cohen of 77 Bigelow St.

Opposing the plan were residents Dr. Carl and Arline Goodman of 31A Revere Rd., Robert Boussy of 105 Farrington St., and Mateo Panarelli of 21 Taylor St.

Cheney said he proposed the changes because he believes it is necessary to attract developers to Quincy Center. He said he has spoken with a number of developers who have cited lack of building space, access and activities as the main reasons for not wanting to come to Quincy.

He said the city has made efforts to increase downtown activities and that the

James McDonald Reappointed To Housing Board

James McDonald has been reappointed to another five-year term on the Quincy Housing Authority Board of Commissioners by Mayor James Sheets.

The City Council unanimously confirmed the repointment at its meeting Monday night.

The board includes a total of four members appointed by the mayor and a fifth by the governor. Rev. James Kimmell, who serves as chairman, Mary Kay Bamford and Frank Kearns also were named to the board by Sheets while Christine Cedrone was appointed by former Gov. William Weld.

Members are reappointed on a rotating basis, with only one term expiring each year.

On A 4-1 Vote

Board Grants Shaw's Beer, Wine License

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The Quincy License Board, on a 4 to 1 vote Tuesday granted a beer and wine license to Shaw's Supermarket in North Quincy.

The motion to grant the license was made by Fire Chief Thomas Gorman, and seconded by Building Inspector Walter White. Voting in favor was Gorman, White, Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue and chairman Joseph Shea. Voting against was Police Chief Thomas Frane.

In November, 1997 the board denied Shaw's request with Shea, Gallahue and Frane voting against granting the license. This time, only Frane's vote remained the same.

After the November vote, the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission (ABCC) called the board's denial "arbitrary and capricious" because they voted in favor of a beer and wine license for Stop & Shop on Newport Ave.

The ABCC thought the board did not mention security concerns in its decision, but focused only on the fact that the public was already adequately serviced and another liquor store in the area would be a "saturation point."

Atty. Louis Cassis, representing Shaw's said the ABCC had "never overruled the board's decision before" and said "that tells me that they mean this time you made a mistake."

Atty. Robert Fleming, also representing Shaw's said that Shaw's had employed many young people and has worked "very closely with the community."

Shea said "in my heart, I think there are enough places to purchase liquor," and added I "got the message from the ABCC."

He said that he never felt as though just because a beer and wine license was given to one, it meant it had to be given to another. But added, "we live in a changing society and said he was 'disappointed' with the ABCC which 'made it difficult' for the board.

Gallahue, who attended the ABCC hearing with Shea said you "realize something new everytime you attend one of these meetings" and added "I don't take it lightly."

Several abutters addressed the issue of the small business being forced out because of Shaw's. However, Gorman said he grew up in the city and as a kid every Italian store, every variety store from South Quincy to North Quincy all sold beer and wine. He also said that many of the big stores at that time like Elm Farms in the Square had a full liquor license, but eventually went out of business. He said neighbors will always support the neighborhood store regardless. The important thing he said was the "deliverance of service."

Debunking the small business issue further, Gorman cited Curry's Hardware in West Quincy, and its proximity to Home Depot and how Bob Curry was against the move. However, Gorman said "Curry's business has increased since Home Depot came to West Quincy."

Ward 5 Councillor Stephen Durkin and Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers both opposed the license. However, Quincy 2000 and the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association both supported the license.

Ayers said the small businesses were the backbone of the community working closely with residents by taking part and sponsoring many sporting events. He called the board's approval for Stop & Shop a mistake and said "two wrongs don't make a right." He appealed to the board to "protect small businesses" and advised them not to change their vote.

Durkin said he strongly believed there were enough liquor stores in the area.

Several abutters asked the board to "stick to your guns," and seemed visibly disappointed by the vote.

$260,874 In Gifts For Crane Library

The City Council on Monday night accepted gifts totaling $260,874 earmarked for the Thomas Crane Public Library Building Fund.

Library Director Ann McLaughlin told councillors the total represents all of the money collected so far for the fund through various road races, fundraisers and other events. It will be used to help pay for a planned addition to the Quincy Center library.

Although most of the project is being paid for by a city bond and a state grant, the library has pledged to do its part by raising a total of $1 million in private donations. Construction on the addition is slated to begin later this year.

Kolson: 'We Want To Help With Whatever We Can Do'

Council Pledges Support Of Q. Hospital, Director In Reaching Their Goals

By MICHAEL WHALEN

City Council President Peter Kolson has pledged that the entire council will support Quincy Hospital in whatever way necessary in the years and months to come.

Kolson made the pledge following a brief presentation by Hospital Director/CEO Jeffrey Doran during a meeting of the council's Hospital Committee on Monday night. He told Doran he and his fellow councillors will do all they can to assist the hospital reach its objectives.

"We want to help you achieve these goals with whatever we can do," he said.

Doran, making his first appearance before the council—he succeeded former Quincy Hospital Director/CEO Ralph DiPisa last fall following the latter's resignation—said he has been pleased by his experiences so far in both the hospital and the city.

"There are some wonderful people in this city and who work at the hospital," he said. "I have been very impressed. I have just been overwhelmed by the positive things I've heard from our patients."

"I feel very fortunate at this stage of my career to work in an organization such as this and a city such as Quincy."

Doran said he and the hospital's senior management team have been concentrating on six areas (which he termed "pillars") where there may be room for improvement: clinical excellence, patient satisfaction and image building, operational effectiveness and efficiency, communication and human resources, physician relations, and the strategic initiatives for the hospital's future.

The hospital's reputation has been tarnished somewhat in recent years. Among its problems have been a failed merger with Carney Hospital in Dorchester and a well-publicized case involving an operation during which a surgeon removed the wrong kidney from a patient.

Doran said hospital officials "must rededicate ourselves" to not only improve the hospital's image but also make sure patients receive the highest quality care possible. He noted that $300,000 of an allotted $1.5 million budget will be used to improve the hospital's emergency room facilities. A clinical relationship with the Boston University Medical Center also has helped, he said, and attempts are being made to "plug staffing holes."

The effort will be made throughout the hospital, with teamwork being stressed as a key factor. Doran said he has met personally with more than 50 percent of the hospital staff to date and will continue to do so.

Kolson said while the days ahead may be a challenge for the hospital, he has confidence it will succeed under Doran's leadership and with the support of Mayor James Sheets and other city officials.

"It's not going to be easy, but nothing worth embarking on ever is," he said. "The future looks bright. All your goals, I hope you achieve every one of them."

Only Two-Way Race For First Norfolk District

It's now a two-way race for the First Norfolk District state representative seat.

Five candidates submitted nomination papers at last week's filing deadline but only two were certified to have their names placed on the ballot.

The two are Ward 6

Councillor Bruce Ayers and former Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien.

The other three, Robert Boussy of Farrington St., Patrick Conroy of Billings St., and Christopher Howley of Kemper St. failed to turn in the required 150 names, election officials said.

It means there will be no preliminary election for the seat that Michael Bellotti is leading to run for Norfolk County sheriff. Ayers and Chretien will be on the final election ballot in November.

Reps. Steve Tobin, Second Norfolk District, and Ronald Mariano, Third Norfolk District, have no opposition.

Research works.

A Tie For Delahunt

Rev. John Swanson is out shopping for a tie. Not for himself.

For Congressman William Delahunt. A Quincy tie. Not for Christmas. For now.

Seems that Swanson, pastor of Union Congregational Church in Wollaston, has been noticing Delahunt's attire in news photos. Particularly his tie.

SWANSON

DELAHUNT

A recent story and photo in The Sun about the portrait hung at Norfolk County Superior Court in Delahunt's honor for his long service as district attorney, prompted a letter from Swanson.

"I couldn't help but notice in Congressman Delahunt's formal portrait, he is once again wearing his favorite Cape Cod tie," writes Swanson. "And, very handsome it is."

"However, as he is the first Congressman from our city since 1842 (the last: John Quincy Adams) and whereas Quincy, blue color though she may be, is the largest community in his district, perhaps it's time to buy Bill a Quincy tie."

Swanson also notes "Wollaston Beach may not be Sandy Neck but I'm sure Mr. Delahunt is a proud Quincy son."

And he adds:

"As a civic minded individual, I shall take it upon myself to find a Quincy tie for our man in Washington."

P.J. O'Sullivan, Delahunt's administrative right arm in Quincy, informs us that the "Cape Cod tie" Swanson keeps seeing is not really the same tie.

"Actually," says O'Sullivan, "Bill has a number of different Cape Cod ties given to him by people in the different Cape towns during and after the 1996 election campaign."

Like, he says, the one showing a map of the Cape, another with a lighthouse, another the Vineyard, etc.

O'Sullivan says that some of the people on the Cape were concerned over the fact that Delahunt was from Quincy--on the other end of the 10th Congressional District from them.

"They said they didn't want him to forget them," says O'Sullivan. "He told them not to worry. He would not forget them and promised to wear the Cape Cod ties throughout his first term."

"And, he has kept his promise."

Well, how about tying on a Quincy tie now and then?

"Well, you know he's proud of being from Quincy," says O'Sullivan.

And that first term is almost up.

This could be the opportune time for Swanson to come up with a Quincy tie.

How about one with images of John and John Quincy Adams or the birthplaces and inscription: "City of Presidents."

In various colors to match whatever suit Delahunt might be wearing as he makes the rounds in the district.

HIGH PRAISE: Former Mayor Arthur Tobin, now clerk magistrate of Quincy District court, was the emcee at the recent 10th anniversary dinner of Father Bill's Place at IBEW Hall in Dorchester.

TOBIN

And he moved the program along so well that he picked up a couple of high-ranking fans.

Fr. William McCarthy of St. John's Church, after whom the shelter is named, says that Cardinal Bernard Law, the keynote speaker, told Tobin he was the best emcee he has seen at a dinner.

And Bishop Paul McNerny, the Cardinal's personal secretary, was so impressed he asked Tobin if he could emcee other dinners in the Archdiocese.

Tobin politely declined the invitation saying he just wouldn't have the time and adding: "The only dinner I emcee is for Father Bill's Place."

CAN YOU GUESS whose picture this is? Take a good look.

A couple of hints: He lives on Atlantic St., loves politics, doesn't miss much, and likes to write long letters to The Sun on various community issues.

You're right. It's little Sal Giaratani who on Monday turned the Big 50.

Happy birthday, kid.

(Now, Sal, about those letters. . .)

GUESS WHO?

THOSE QUINCY ROTARIANS are still at it.

Bob O'Brien at a recent meeting paid a Happy Buck to report he is wallpapering his daughter's bedroom and happened to have a couple thousand "Dan Flynn For Governor's Council" stickers to do the room with, saving him a lot of money.

Flynn paid a Happy Buck to thank him for the free advertising.

The Happy Bucks, of course, go to the club's charitable endeavors.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS AN OLD real photo postcard view of Kemper Street in Wollaston. The view is from Elm Avenue looking east. This is one of the prettiest streets in this part of Wollaston, thanks to the land developers who planted what, in this view, were still young elm trees on both sides of the roadway. Surprisingly, most of these elm trees have survived the Dutch Elm disease. That is not the case with the four larger trees in the foreground, including the one growing in the street, they are all gone.

Officials Should Take Action To Prevent Racist Attacks

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I am writing to publicly express the Quincy Asian American Association's (QAAA) support and sympathy for the Asian woman who was attacked by four teenagers on April 17 in North Quincy.

The victim of this attack is an upstanding member of the QAAA with a long history of involvement and tireless commitment to Quincy's Asian community.

This act of violence in itself under any circumstances is unacceptable, but the "undetermined motivation" behind the attack is more disturbing because the attackers are young adults. One newspaper article stated that the victim was the subject of "discriminatory words" and was beaten on the street in front of her home. We fully support her account of the incident.

We at the QAAA condemn discriminatory violence in any form, and we urge Quincy officials to take measures to prevent such occurrences in the future. Tackey Chan, Chairman Quincy Asian American Assn.

Town Brook Full Of Problems, Opportunities

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In the Quincy Sun of April 16, Mr. Leonard of Braintree wrote at some length about "The Town Brook Project and Problems," describing some of the losses that have accompanied the Town Brook Flood Control Project.

In addition to two years of massive smelt egg losses, Mr. Leonard mentioned project-imposed flooding, safety hazards, and prolonged disturbances associated with blasting and construction.

Close to the mouth of the waterway (where the "brook" is known as a "river") the Town Brook Flood Control Project also resulted between 1991 and 1993 in another major loss: the physical removal of half of the circa 1826 Canal

Lock associated with the Old Quincy Canal, and half of the circa 1802 Quincy granite Mill Dam associated with the Thayer-Souther Tide Mill. The portion of the dam which was removed contained the Spillway, built and designed to protect the Tide Mill from damage in floods.

These demonstrations and removals were made in direct challenge to a 1991 Massachusetts Historical Commission-funded study which categorized both Canal Lock and Mill Dam as "Must Be Saved" structures. Partly in response to the wanton destruction imposed by this project, the Souther Tide Mill was designated one of the Top Ten "Most Endangered Historic Resources" in the state by Historic Massachusetts, Inc. in 1993—a sad label which it still carries today.

As inevitably happens when demolition precedes study of historic resources, the full significance of the historical losses in Quincy was not appreciated until after the features were removed. In 1995, city-sponsored research directed towards the Tide Mill revealed that the Canal Lock was built by Josiah Adams of Quincy, a prominent 1820s Quincy cabinetmaker, shipbuilder, housewright, and cousin to John Quincy Adams. The Canal Lock was designed by the Baldwins of Woburn, who had earlier engineered the Old Middlesex Canal.

In 1997, a tide mill expert from England visited the site, and noted that there was no necessity to remove the dam and lock at all—and that by doing so, the project engineers further compromised the status of the nearby Souther Tide Mill, by removing its ability to function as an operating mill.

The time has come to turn old challenges into new opportunities—opportunities for repair, learning, and growth. With respect to the situation at the mouth of the Town River, we are looking for full restoration of the historic features which were so wantonly vandalized, and a new century in which Quincy can boast of a fully operational, 200-year-old Tide Mill on its Town River.

John V. Goff, Director Intl. Tide Mills Museum

Citizen Police Academy Enjoyable And Informative

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I have just completed the Citizen Police Academy No. 8 and would like to take this opportunity to let you know that I found the class both enjoyable and informative.

I have always been interested in police work but had never really seen it from the point of view I received in the Citizen Police Academy. I think that Officer Robert Hanna, Sgt. Minton, Officer Kent Yee, Officer Roger White, Det. Kathleen Roche, Sgt. Percard, Officer Grazioso, as well as the rest of the academy staff did an outstanding job.

Please let everyone involved know how much I appreciated their time and effort in putting together such a fine program. I look forward to more opportunities to work with such a fine organization of highly educated and talented professionals at the Quincy Police Department.

Voters Reject City's Inclusion In MTA District

By PAUL HAROLD

By a vote of 8,257 to 1,581, voters in Quincy overwhelmingly rejected a proposal to include the city in the MTA transportation district.

The plan was offered as a solution to the scheduled shut down of the New Haven commuter service. Service was originally scheduled to end in October, but Gov. Robert Bradford had the deadline extended to March 1, 1949 to allow for a re-organization plan to be put in place.

Opponents, including Rep. Charles Hedges, cited the increased costs of running the commuter line under MTA operations.

JEWISH LIBERATION DAY CELEBRATED

Jews in Quincy and around the world celebrated Jewish Liberation Day, marking the birth of the Palestine Jewish State.

The new state was declared 24 hours after the end of the Balfour mandate, with the formation of a provisional government.

In Quincy, a program was held at the Jewish Community Center, under the leadership of Lester Glasser who was president of the Quincy Zionist District. Head table guests included Mayor Charles Ross, Rabbi Jacob Mann and Rev. Bedros Baharian, president of the Quincy Council of Churches.

DOROTHY LAMOUR HELPS CELEBRATE SQUANTUM STATION ANNIVERSARY

Hollywood star Dorothy Lamour was in Quincy to help celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Squantum Naval reserve air station. Lamour and two reservists, who had been with the base since its founding, cut a cake with 25 candles.

THE 'OTHER KIND' OF FOOT WART

Many people are familiar with plantar warts, the small, hard little craters that sometimes cluster on the bottoms of feet. However, warts can appear elsewhere on the feet, where the greatest problem they run into may be being misidentified by a home diagnosis and improperly treated. Most warts are clearly circumscribed (confined nearly within the bounds of a circle) and painless unless pinched or pressed upon, with a pale, spongy center. Dark spots caused by small blood vessels often mark the surface. Some warts disappear without any treatment, but others may require removal by methods such as surgical excision, cryocautery (freezing), electrocautery (burning with an electrical needle), or applying an acid to destroy the wart. If you are suffering from these or any other foot related complaints call us at (617) 773-4300. We are located at 1261 Furnace Brook Pkwy., Suite #18, Quincy and are affiliated with Carney, Quincy and South Shore Hospitals.

P.S. Misuse of over-the-counter caustic products for wart removal can lead to serious infections.

Planning Board Hearing May 18 On Proposed Batterymarch Project

The Quincy Planning Board will hold a public hearing Monday, May 18 at 7:30 p.m. on a proposed Batterymarch Park project.

The hearing will be held in the second floor Conference Room at City Hall, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The subject will be an application filed by Atty. David Mahoney, counsel for the National Fire Protection Association, for a special permit to construct a five-story, 160,000-square-foot office building within the existing Batterymarch Park in West Quincy. The project site has access to Willard Street via the existing Batterymarch Park Drive.

A copy of the plans may be examined at the Department of Planning and Community Development at City Hall weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

NQ Seniors Club To Meet May 7

The North Quincy Senior Citizens Club will meet Thursday, May 7 at 12:30 p.m. at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

Delahunt Bill Would Give Prominence To Adams Site

As part of his effort to promote the legacy of John Quincy Adams at home and in Washington, Congressman Bill Delahunt has introduced legislation to underscore the national significance of the three Adams sites in Quincy.

"This legislation would help improve services at these local attractions, while framing our other efforts to highlight the remarkable life of John Quincy Adams," said Delahunt, who serves on the House Parks Subcommittee. He is the first native of Quincy since Adams to serve in Congress.

The Delahunt bill would, for the first time, provide statutory authority for federal stewardship of the Adams homesteads. Each of the three sites was established historically by executive order.

The sites include the birthplaces of John Adams, second president of the United States; his son, John Quincy Adams, the sixth president; and the family's "Old House," occupied by four generations of the family. The United First Parish Church, where the presidents and their First Ladies (Abigail and Louise Adams) are interred, is also affiliated with the site.

The legislation would also make a number of changes intended to enhance its stature and administrative structure. The bill would rename it the Adams National Historic Park (as opposed to "historical site"), reflecting its significance within the National Park System; and would create a single authority to oversee activities at each of the three current sites.

The bill would also authorize future acquisition, through appropriations or private donation, of 10 additional acres to improve visitor services and facilities. Currently, the three local historic sites are comprised of 11 structures on 13 acres, including a visitors' center that is located off-site. The National Park Service is responsible for preserving the historic structures, grounds and collections on the Adams Historic site, established in 1946.

The provisions are designed to dovetail with an initiative enacted into law last year by Delahunt and Sen. Edward Kennedy to locate a new regional Museum Services Center at the Adams Site. Together, Delahunt said, the steps can help upgrade preservation and protection of the 78,000 presidential documents and artifacts housed on its grounds. Delahunt's legislation would explicitly authorize cooperative agreements with other educational entities.

With the possibility of including the Library of Congress as a cooperating research institution, Delahunt met with its director as part of his John Quincy Adams outreach effort. The Congressman briefed James Billington, Librarian of Congress, on preliminary plans to commemorate the 150th anniversary of Adams' death in ceremonies later this year in both Washington and Quincy. Delahunt is seeking the participation of the Library, which houses a significant Adams collection, in those events.

The Delahunt bill is now pending before the House Resources Committee, on which Delahunt serves. It has been endorsed by the White House.

Chretien Asks News Media Host Debates

Larry Chretien, candidate for state representative in the First Norfolk District, wants the local news media to host debates for candidates seeking that seat.

He asked that the Patriot Ledger, The Quincy Sun, WJDA and Media One cable television serve as the hosts.

The First Norfolk District seat is the one Michael Bellotti is vacating to run for Norfolk County sheriff.

There are only two candidates, Chretien and Ward 6 Councilor Bruce Ayers for that seat. Three other would-be candidates failed to submit sufficient names on their nomination papers at filing deadline last week.

Chretien said, "Voters deserve to have the information they need to choose their next state representative. A campaign should be more than bumper stickers, signs, and paid ads. The election should be about the problems facing this district, what the candidates are saying, and which candidate is most qualified. The media is capable of staying focused and providing unbiased coverage. It has the obligation to present voters with information."

Chretien said he suggested several debates so that "large number of issues can be discussed—some comprehensively" and to help voters who may miss coverage of some debates because of busy schedules.

He said the debates should be by subject matter such as education, finances, criminal justice, economic policy, environmental protection and human services.

Letter Carriers To Collect Food For Needy Saturday

The Letter Carrier's Food Drive, in conjunction with the United States Postal Service, will be collecting nonperishable foods Saturday to help families in need in the community.

Items needed are canned soup, canned vegetables and juice, pasta, cereal and rice.

Persons are asked to put their food in a bag and placing it beside the mailbox before your letter carrier arrives. They will in turn deliver the items to a local food bank or pantry.

Do not include any glass or perishable items.

Cleaner, Greener Quincy Cleanup Saturday

The city will hold the 1998 Cleaner, Greener Quincy campaign on Saturday, May 9 beginning at 9 a.m. at various sites throughout the city.

Volunteers for the ninth annual cleanup (who should bring their own gloves) will meet at two different locations in each of Quincy's six wards. Mayor James Sheets, the City Council, Department of Public Works and Park Department collaborated to choose the sites.

The sites include:

• Ward 1: Baker Beach, Palmer St. in Germantown; and LaBrecque Field, Sea and Darrow Sts. in Houghs Neck.

• Ward 2: Faxon Park, Faxon Park Rd. in South Quincy; Fore River Field, Harrison Ave. in Quincy Point.

• Ward 3: Hobart Street Bog, Hobart St. in Montclair; Forbes Hill Playground, Summitt Ave. on Wollaston Hill.

• Ward 4: Kincaide Park, Water St. in Southwest Quincy; O'Rourke Field, Quarry St. in West Quincy.

• Ward 5: Black's Creek (Caddy Park), Quincy Shore Drive in Merrymount; Collins Rest-a-While, Southern Artery in Wollaston.

• Ward 6: North Quincy High School, Hancock St. in North Quincy; Wendall Moses Playground (behind Squantum School), Huckins Ave. in Squantum.

The cleanup will last until noon, with city crews working alongside volunteers. At 12:30 p.m., Sheets and the City Council will host an Appreciation Barbecue for volunteers at the

Richard J. Koch Family Park and Recreation Complex, 100 Southern Artery, Merrymount Park. Free

Cleaner, Greener Quincy T-shirts will be distributed.

If volunteers wish to clean an area other than those listed above, they should contact the Park Department at 376-1251 to coordinate the distribution of tools and T-shirts.

This year, the city has augmented the event by adding a series of new programs relating to the Cleaner, Greener Quincy theme, including an Arbor Day Celebration involving all 15 elementary schools in Quincy (11 public, four parochial), a Yard Care Conference scheduled for May 30, and a "Neat Neighbors" contest that will be held throughout the summer to recognize residents for maintaining beautiful lawns, gardens or homes.

Call the Park Department for more information about any of the above events.

Louise Brabazon To Receive Ward 4 Association Award

The Ward 4 Neighborhood Association will present its "Albert J. Conti Southwest Person of the Year" Award on Tuesday, May 12 at 7 p.m. at the Ward 4 Community Center, 100 Brooks Ave., South Quincy.

The award is being presented to Louise Brabazon for her tireless efforts in volunteerism.

All are welcome. Refreshments will be served. For more information, call 786-0696.

Ryan Speaker At Montclair-Wollaston Assn.

Quincy College President Dr. Jeremiah Ryan will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Montclair-Wollaston Association tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at Work Inc., 3 Arlington St.

Ryan will update those in attendance on the college's plans for the future and collect information on what programs association members would like to see offered.

Association members will meet Saturday at 9 a.m.

to clean Bishop Field, the Wollaston School and the bog on Belmont and Hobart Sts. in conjunction with the annual Cleaner, Greener Quincy campaign. Those who attend should bring work gloves.

$752,039 Appropriated For MWRA Assessment

A total of $752,039 was appropriated by the City Council Monday night for Quincy's annual Massachusetts Water Resources Authority sewer and water assessment.

The figure includes $636,373 from the city's free cash (cash reserve) account and an additional $115,666 from its MWRA Stabilization Fund.

City Auditor Robert Foy said the MWRA assessment totals $14,296,312 and the $752,039 is the remaining balance that needs to be paid.

Another $58,145 was appropriated from Quincy's Sewer Rehabilitation Fund for a sand filtration system to be installed at Wollaston Beach by the Department of Public Works.

DPW Commissioner David Colton said the system is a pilot program through which two sand filters will be installed at a drainage basin at Carle and Arnold roads. If successful, it may be expanded to the rest of the beach, he said.

Medically Speaking

by Michael M. Bakerman, M.D., F.A.C.C.

IT'S OFFICIAL: RELAX

The words "Take it easy" are tossed back and forth so often these days that we often don't stop to think about what they really mean. Now, however, a panel of the National Institutes of Health has concluded that relaxing—taking it easy in a purposeful way—can be an effective treatment option for chronic pain and insomnia, even in cases that have not responded well to medication or other approaches. Such techniques as imagining peaceful scenes, tensing then relaxing major muscle groups, deep breathing, and meditating were found to ease the pain associated with a variety of conditions, including cancer, irritable bowel syndrome, and tension headaches. Relaxation techniques learned with biofeedback were deemed particularly effective against insomnia.

We are often much too hard on ourselves, and we often have little idea how we end up increasing our pain and discomfort, or even more important, how we can relieve it. That's where we can help. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. Cognitive-behavioral therapy—learning to change negative thoughts to more positive ones—was also found to relieve pain and insomnia.

Bellotti Wollaston Beach Cleanup Saturday

State Rep. Michael Bellotti's annual Wollaston Beach cleanup will coincide this year with Quincy's Cleaner Greener Program.

Last year, members of the Montclair-Wollaston Association, Beechwood Community Life Center, Atlantic Neighborhood Center, Squantum Community Center as well as residents from Wollaston, Squantum, and North Quincy participated in the beach cleanup. Students from Central Middle School also pitched in. More than 50 bags of trash were picked up last year.

This year, Bellotti will hold the cleanup to coincide with Cleaner, Greener Quincy, the city's annual spring cleanup program.

Residents who want to participate are asked to meet Saturday, May 9, at 10 a.m. in front of the Squantum Yacht Club. Gloves and trash bags will be provided. For more information, call Bellotti at 479-0111 or 722-2582.

Law Day Ceremonies At Quincy Court May 11

The annual Quincy District Court Law Day ceremonies will be held Monday, May 11 at 9 a.m. at the courthouse.

Among those scheduled to be honored are Mark Bertman of Rogers Jewelry, Quincy Atty. Thomas Kiley, and two representatives of the Quincy Police Department. Keynote speaker at the event will be Neil Lynch, associate justice of the state Supreme Judicial Court.

Bertman will receive the Jason Feldman Outstanding Citizen Award. The award, which honors outstanding citizenship, will be presented by Judge Charles Black, presiding justice of Quincy District Court.

Four organizations will receive the Quincy Court Outstanding Program Award which also will be presented by Judge Black. They are: EMERGE, Common Purpose, the Norfolk County Sheriff's Department, and Spectrum Health Systems Inc.

Six area law enforcement officials will receive the Robert P. Dana Distinguished Service Award. They are: Officers Michael Cronin and Frederick Stevenson of the Quincy Police Department, Officer John J. Concannon of the Weymouth Police Department, Officer Stephen J. Murphy of the Milton Police Department, and Sgt. Kenneth Healey and Officer Robert Iskra of the Randolph Police Department.

The Dana Awards will be presented by Norfolk County District Attorney Jeffrey Locke.

A host of other awards will be bestowed at Monday's ceremonies.

Lynch will receive the James R. McIntyre Award. The award, which is named after the late Quincy mayor-senator and recognizes outstanding service to the law enforcement profession, will be presented by his widow, Sheila McIntyre.

Kiley will receive the Alfred P. Maloney Award as the Quincy Bar Association's man of the year. It will be presented by Lisa Poblocki, association president, who also will make the Law Day motion.

The Mark S. Charbonnier Award will be presented to an honoree whose name was still unknown at press time. The award is named in memory of the state trooper slain in Kingston in 1994. It will be presented by Charbonnier's friend, Trooper Kenneth Halloran.

The Dennis F. Ryan Student Essay Contest Awards also will be presented Monday.

Judge Black will offer remarks and introduce Lynch as the event's keynote speaker.

Mayor James Sheets will bring greetings from the city.

The invocation will be offered by Fr. William McCarthy, former pastor of St. John the Baptist Church. The benediction will be said by Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue.

$50,000 Goal To Purchase Life-Saving Fire Dept. Equipment Project Hero Campaign Reaches $16,668 Rung

Project Hero is still steadily climbing the rungs up the ladder to its $50,000 goal to purchase new life-saving equipment for the Quincy Fire Department.

The community campaign completed its seventh week at the $16,668 rung and is starting its eighth week with $33,332 to go.

The campaign was launched by Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn III and is co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

The $50,000, when reached, will enable the Quincy Fire Department to purchase two thermal imaging units—helmets that enable firefighters to see through thick, dark smoke and flames to find and rescue occupants from houses and other building fires.

The latest "Quincy heroes" to make donations to the worthy cause are:

The South Shore Young Professionals, Richard and Edna Allen, Eva Gorberg, Francis and Nancy Kearns, Hildegard Gillis, Arbella

Mutual Insurance Company, Francis and Marion Flavin, Edward J. Spring, Mary Bythrow, Im Memory of Retired Capt. R. Kenneth MacDonald.

Each week The Quincy Sun is donating a full-page public service advertisement to document the progress of the campaign and thank those who contribute.

Wollaston Beach Water Quality Ward 5 Topic

The Ward 5 Community Association will sponsor an open discussion by experts on the status of water quality improvements at Wollaston Beach.

The meeting will be held Monday, May 11 at 7 p.m. at the Beechwood Knoll Elementary School, 205 Fanno St., Wollaston.

Invited speakers to the meeting include: Mayor James Sheets, Ward 5 City Councillor Stephen Durkin, chairman of the Mayor's Wollaston Beach Task Force; David Colton, commissioner of the Department of Public Works; Joan LeBlanc, deputy director of the Boston Harbor Association; and Paul DiPietro, an environmental engineer with the Metropolitan District Commission.

The Ward 5 Community Association has been a proponent in promoting water quality issues at Wollaston Beach. Last summer, the association hosted a similar meeting of experts regarding the water quality issues and potential problems at Wollaston Beach, worked with Sheets and Durkin to establish the Wollaston Beach Task Force, conducted an educational storm drain stenciling campaign, and participated in Coastal Zone Management's Coast Sweep, a community clean-up effort of the beach.

The association will continue its efforts to improve Wollaston Beach during this Saturday's Cleaner, Greener Quincy program. Volunteers will clean along the shores of Black's Creek and Wollaston Beach. Participants will meet at Caddy Park on Quincy Shore Drive at 9 a.m.

'Diabetes And Hypertension' At Atlantic Center Today

Quincy Family Network Begins New

By SANDRA HORVATH Parent To Parent Program

"With every family you visit you'll bring a message of support, encouragement, and love. I admire all of you for giving your time to the parents of newborns in Quincy."

With those words Mayor James Sheets presented 11 volunteers with certificates upon completion of the five-week Parent to Parent home visiting training sessions. Those certified volunteers are: Joan Rodeck, Donna Ackerman, Dora Chung, Heather Chauncey, Maureen Brean, Anne McEvoy, Ellie Miller, Kathy Kennedy, Michelle Sylvia, Margaret Fasano and Sue Hersey.

"All parents with new babies want so much to do a good job," said Linda Stice, executive director of the Mayor's Commission on the Family. "One thing that can be really helpful is to have other parents to talk with.

From the first time we described this idea of experienced parents visiting parents with newborns, the mayor has been supportive."

Administered by the Commission, the Parent to Parent Program is a newborn home visiting program offered to all Quincy families with new babies. Experienced parent volunteers will visit families and present them with a wonderful gift basket containing a board book for the baby, some baby necessities and a copy of the Pink and Blue Pages, a resource booklet for parents of young children from birth to age three. The Pink and Blue Pages explain the services offered in Quincy and beyond for families with young children.

"The gift baskets are wonderful. We have Almquist Flowerland, Osco Drug, Rhyme & Reason, and Michael's Arts and Crafts to thank for contributing to make the baskets look as great as they do," said Sandra Horvath, director of the Parent to Parent Program. "There are also many senior centers, churches and individuals helping to make hand-knitted baby blankets for the baskets."

Training of the volunteers was provided by South Shore Mental Health's Step One Early Intervention Program, which brings years of expertise in home visiting to families with children ages birth to three. Step One Assistant Director Rosemarie Sergi provided the training.

"The training was a great experience," said parent volunteer Kathy Kennedy. "It was nice to get together with other people who care enough about their city to help people they never met before."

Another parent volunteer, Heather Chauncey, agreed. "I wish they had such a program when I had a newborn. It would have been nice to talk with an experienced parent."

The Parent to Parent program is part of the Quincy Family Network, which is administered by Quincy Community Action Programs. Jackie Mann, Quincy Family Network coordinator, congratulated the 11 volunteers who completed the training and thanked them for their time and effort.

"You are all the front line of the Family Network initiative. You will be the first step in linking families in Quincy with the support and resources that they need, and to help them connect with other families," Mann said.

Quincy Hospital Emergency Dept. Seeks Volunteers

Quincy Hospital is seeking customer oriented, community volunteers to help its emergency department which serves approximately 28,000 patients annually.

This is an opportunity for someone with the desire to help out in this busy environment to become involved.

The patient will benefit from additional communication and comfort, and the volunteer will benefit by fulfilling a desire to help out where it really counts.

This position is for an adult who is willing to donate four hours of his or her time on a regular basis to serve an important role within the hospital. The environment allows a volunteer to experience the excitement of a real emergency room and contribute to the well-being of patients. After appropriate training and education the volunteer will:

- Greet patients and families in the emergency department waiting room as they arrive and direct them to triage and registration.

- Assist families with relatives in the clinical area by being an informational liaison between the patient and family.

- Keep patients, family and friends informed of the status of the patient's care and timetable of treatment.

- Assist in making patients more comfortable in the treatment area by offering coffee or drinks, blankets or reading materials.

- Assist families by directing them to telephones, vending machines and other necessities.

- Provide a margin of comfort to certain patients who are alone.

For more information, call Karen Tufts at 376-5505.

Your Horoscope

by Natasha

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You're serious-minded and can cut through red tape this week. In some way or another, though, things could get out of hand. Take heart; your judgment in money matters is shrewd.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You'll have a better time by staying in one place. Perceptions are keen, but don't be careless. Partners remain your best sounding board for new ideas.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Some entertain colleagues early in the week. A responsibility in connection with a partnership could arise. However, try not to spread yourself too thin socially over the weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Although there could be a disappointment in your career, there will also be beneficial developments. Your charm and good will wins folks over this weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Put shopping off this week. Are you simply testing others to find out where they stand, or are you sincere in trying to reach an accord? Watch power-play tactics.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Budgets should prevail over everything. Neither you nor a partner seem to want to give up your position on a monetary question. Watch escapism over the weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You're generous with family and you bring out the best in those you care for. Upcoming plans have you excited. It's a good weekend for romance and visits with children.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Some signals could be crossed with higher-ups, but you'll be proud of your achievements in the actual carrying out of tasks. Guard against errors in weekend bookkeeping.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Some unexpected expenses could arise. Get a second opinion regarding appraisals. Don't let someone who asks for a favor this weekend try to make you feel guilty.

CAPRICORN
(December 22 to January 19) An interesting friend doesn't seem to know when to call it quits. Either income increases or you're the happy recipient of a gift. Shopping is favored during the weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Big talk makes the rounds concerning your career, but don't expect too much. Taking risks is not favored. It's also not a good week to lend or borrow money.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Although you're tempted to be in a festive and partying mood, you'd be wiser to take advantage of your improved powers of concentration for mental achievement.

Homebuyers Now Have Access To South Shore Homes On Internet

Using Internet technology, the South Shore Association of Realtors is providing instant access to its Multiple Listing Service to those looking for a home.

Visitors to southshoreproperties.com can quickly search for homes by city or town, type of home, price range, and number of bedrooms and baths. Included are full-color photos of the individual properties.

"Our goal is to give those looking for a home easy access to available properties, whether they're in the immediate area, living elsewhere in Massachusetts or in other parts of the country," says Joanne Condon Walsh, president of the South Shore Association of Realtors.

Along with providing a database for consumers, each listing indicates the name of the realtor listing the property so an appointment can be made to see it.

The site also includes links to other real estate-related web sites on the Internet dealing with mortgage information, school data, and city and town data.

"In just a few minutes, the prospective homebuyer can research an enormous amount of information about South Shore residential properties," says Walsh.

EVERGREEN SEEDLINGS were distributed recently to those who participated in the Quincy Evergreen Program earlier this year. Residents who recycle their Christmas trees and wrapping receive the tiny, ready-for-planting evergreens as a token of gratitude. Lori Lucier (left) and her daughters, Rachel and Dominique take their seedlings from Leo Kelly, program chairman and volunteer Vanessa Lerro.

Kimmell Re-Elected QHA Board Chairman

The Quincy Housing Authority Board of Commissioners held its election of officers at its recent annual meeting.

Rev. James Kimmell of Faith Lutheran Church and Christine Cedrone were re-elected chairman and vice chairwoman by a unanimous vote of the five-member board.

Rev. Kimmell, reappointed Frank Kearns to serve as treasurer and Mary Kay Bamford as assistant treasurer. James McDonald is the board's fifth member.

Four of the members—Rev. Kimmell, Kearns, Bamford and McDonald—were named to the board by Mayor James Sheets, while Cedrone was appointed by former Gov. William Weld. Each serves a five-term term and can either be re-appointed or replaced with a new member at the mayor's or governor's discretion when the term ends.

Rev. Kimmell said the next term to expire is McDonald's, which ends this year. He added that his own term ends in 2002, with the others expiring in 1999, 2000, and 2001.

Seaside Gardeners Plant Sale May 16

The Seaside Gardeners of Squantum will hold their 40th annual Spring Plant Sale on Saturday, May 16 from 9 a.m. to noon at the Squantum Community Center, 136 Standish Rd.

There will be a variety of annuals, perennials, hanging plants, vegetables, herbs, and home grown available. Early arrival is suggested.

Coffee and pastry will be available. Chairperson of the event is Marie Stamos.

QNHS Receives Grants To Refurbish Park

Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services (QNHS) has received grants to help refurbish an area of Faxon Park.

The funds were awarded by the Neighborhood Reinvestment Corporation as part of a national celebration called "Neighborworks Week" designed to recognize the achievements of local neighborhood revitalization organizations.

Additional money was awarded by the Public Works Department as part of Quincy's annual Public Works Contest.

Volunteers from the neighborhood and QNHS will work at Faxon Park this Saturday in conjunction with the city's Cleaner, Green Quincy effort. The cleanup will focus on the area of Faxon Park across from the top of Phipps Streets. The group will rake and plant perennials and small bushes. To volunteer, call 770-2227.

proposed changes will help with space problems. The planned Quincy Center Concourse will help with access, he added.

"The time is right again to revitalize the downtown," said Cheney. "The economy is strong. If the economy starts to slide, we'll have missed our opportunity."

Mannarino said Quincy 2000 supports the height-increase limitation but not the provision that makes the City Council the special permit-granting authority for the area. He said granting that authority, which he feels should be left to the Quincy Planning Board, creates "too much micro-management."

Mannarino added that while the height-limitation increase will help the struggling downtown with its problems, it is not the only ingredient needed for revitalization. The need for better parking provisions and a diverse retail mix also must be addressed, he said.

Manning, the QCBPA executive director, said she thinks Cheney's plan is a good one provided it follows the provisions of the downtown master plan developed for Quincy 2000 by Sasaki Associates of Watertown.

Bigelow Street resident Cohen said he, too, supports the measure but the city "has a real shortage of housing" that also could be addressed in the downtown area.

Although Panarelli and Boussy spoke briefly against the proposal—citing potential traffic, parking and safety problems that could result from the changes—the plan's strongest opposition came from the Goodmans, whose Revere Road home is in the heart of the downtown area in question.

Arline Goodman said the area is "not conducive" to the plan, while her husband said he believes it will have no real effect on the state of Quincy Center.

"Personally, I don't see any advantage (to it)," said Dr. Goodman.

But Reisberg, whose business is located at the corner of Hancock Street and Revere Road, said he does.

"I would like to encourage proper growth in our city," he said.

The Goodmans also complained about lack of notification about Monday night's public hearing. They presented councillors with signatures of 10 area business owners they said are opposed to the plan but were not informed about the hearing.

Ward 3 Councillor Patrick McDermott, chairman of the Downtown Committee, said he spoke with a number of downtown merchants about the matter but apologized if there are those who were uninformed.

"We want an open process," he said.

Councillors will discuss the matter again at a future meeting.

Ending the Japanese Beetle Food Feast

(NAPS)—The term "picky-eater" does not apply to the Japanese beetle. This voracious pest devours almost anything you can grow, from your prized petunias and beloved shade tree to your favorite garden crop.

At the larval stage, the insect feeds on turfgrass roots beneath the ground. These cream colored, C-shaped white grubs can create weakened or dead patches on your lawn. Once they grow into adult beetles, they emerge to feed on any nearby plant they can find.

One way to battle the Japanese beetle is to apply SEVIN® brand carbaryl insecticide.

Other options require more hands-on contact with the beetle. You can vigorously shake small trees and shrubs early in the morning when pests are sluggish. Cover the surrounding ground with plastic sheets so the fallen beetles can be captured and destroyed. Removing the beetles by hand or vacuuming them are other alternatives.

NQ Striving To Fulfill Postseason Dreams

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Last week, the North Quincy High School boys' volleyball team played two of its best matches of the season, but had no wins to show for it.

The Red Raiders (3-6) pushed Duffee to three games, but the visitors were able to pull out the final game and the victory. Earlier, NQ battled undefeated Greater New Bedford Vocational but could not pull off the upset.

North began a busy week on Tuesday with a trip to Medfield. Today (Thursday) at 4 p.m., the Red Raiders visits Milford. Friday at 4 p.m., NQ hosts New Bedford, one of the state's elite teams.

Next Monday, the Red Raiders host Boston Latin in a 3:30 p.m. match and welcome Dighton-Rehoboth to town next Tuesday at 4 p.m. Of the five matches, Dighton-Rehoboth is the only South Alliance foe North will meet.

"We're still striving for the tournament, and this is our toughest week of the season," said North coach John Perkins. "We have to make two trips and then host New Bedford. These matches will definitely make an impact on how our season will progress."

In recent action, NQ tangled with Duffee and appeared to be on the verge of being swept, until a rally in the second game tied the match and forced a third and game. Duffee eventually won last Thursday's match, 15-10, 13-15, 15-8.

"I was very pleased with how we rebounded after the first game," said Perkins. "We were down, 13-11, in the second and came back to win it. The team is starting to show its maturity; it could've given up in the second, but the guys battled back."

Leading the way for North was senior captain James Cheung, who played through an injury and registered eight service points. Sophomore Kin Yun collected nine kills and three service points.

Last Tuesday, the Red Raiders played what Perkins called "one of our better games of the season," but came out on the losing end of a 15-10, 15-8 Greater New Bedford victory.

"We played very well, but we just couldn't get over the 10-point mark," said Perkins. "After the game, their coach, Mike Holden, complimented us for how well we played for such a young team. That shows how much we've improved as the season has gone on."

North's standouts in that match were senior Rob McCauly (eight kills) and junior Al King (six kills, five service points).

Tourney Berth Within Presidents' Grasp

The Quincy High School boys' volleyball entered play this week one win shy of a state tournament berth, following recent victories over Duffee and Wareham.

The Presidents (8-3) had their first opportunity qualify for the postseason Tuesday when they hosted Dighton-Rehoboth. Yesterday (Wednesday), Quincy hosted Weymouth in a 4 p.m. match and visits Brockton today (Thursday) at 3:30 p.m.

Next Tuesday at 4 p.m., the Presidents look to avenge an earlier setback when they host New Bedford.

Regarding the tournament, Quincy coach Christine Barrett is pleased the Presidents will qualify, but doesn't want the players to be satisfied with the berth.

"I'm ecstatic about reaching the tournament, because the kids have worked hard and deserve it," she said. "They're excited about it, too, but the important thing to understand is that once we qualify, we can't stop there."

"The kids can't lose sight of what's more important, which is the seeding. The idea is to get as many wins as possible, so we can't let up once we get the berth."

In recent action, the Presidents defeated Duffee, 15-5, 10-15, 15-7 last Friday. Sparking Quincy to victory was senior middle hitter Brian Chen; who compiled 12 kills, six digs and three solo blocks.

"Brian blasted the ball and had some incredible kills," said Barrett. "He and Jason Goldrick were outstanding offensively and defensively."

Goldrick, a junior middle hitter, finished with 11 kills, five digs and five blocks. Senior co-captain Eddie Smith also played well, collecting eight kills, eight digs and two blocks.

Last Tuesday, the Presidents defeated Wareham, 15-13, 15-7 in South Alliance play. With senior co-captain Jared Downey out with an ankle injury, junior setter Matt Nicklas stepped in and registered 12 assists to spark Quincy. Smith added seven kills in the victory.

Legion Baseball Tryouts Begin This Weekend

Tryouts for the city's two American Legion baseball teams, Morrisette Post 294 and Quincy Post 95, begin this weekend.

Boys ages 16 to 18 who live in the city are eligible to try out.

Any prospective player who lives on the west side of Hancock St. (Hospital Hill) should report to Morrisette's tryout Saturday at 1 p.m. at O'Rourke Field, Quarry St. A tryout will also be held Sunday at 1 p.m. at the same location.

Any prospective player who lives on the east side of Hancock St. (South Shore YMCA) should report to the Quincy Legion tryout Saturday at 9 a.m. at Kincaide Park. A tryout will also be held Sunday at 1 p.m. at the same location.

The weekend tryout schedule for both Legion teams will continue until all the roster spots have been filled.

North Improves To 6-3 Celata's Strong Effort Lifts NQ Over Quincy

By LIAM FITZGERALD
Winners of two of its last three, the North Quincy High School baseball team entered play this week three wins shy of clinching a tournament berth.

Monday, North's game against visiting Plymouth South was postponed due to rain. No makeup date has been announced. NQ was slated to play Tuesday at Taunton in a makeup of an April 17 postponement.

The Red Raiders (6-3) visited Falmouth yesterday (Wednesday) for a 4 p.m. Old Colony League contest. Back on April 6, the Clippers handed North a 2-0 setback.

North hosts OCL foe Barnstable Friday at 4 p.m. North edged Barnstable, 8-7, on April 8 for its first victory. Next Monday at 4 p.m., NQ travels to Silver Lake for another OCL battle. In the first meeting with the Lakers last month, North won, 8-3.

BASEBALL

In recent action, the Red Raiders defeated rival Quincy, 7-4, behind the strong pitching performance of sophomore Rob Celata (six innings, four hits, 11 strikeouts), making his 1998 pitching debut. Celata also contributed at the plate, collecting two hits.

"He's a big help for us," said North coach Dave Perdios. "He's one of the best pitchers around and makes a huge difference, giving us another quality pitcher and hitter in the lineup."

Matt McCann worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the seventh to record his first save. Senior catcher Bill Walker went 2 for 3 with two RBI, two runs scored and two stolen bases. Junior shortstop Chris Bregoli (2 for 4, two RBI) and senior first baseman John Sullivan (3 for 3) also contributed offensively.

"Quincy played us tough, but we made the plays defensively," said Perdios. "The pitching was strong again, and it was nice to see Matt come out of the pen and close it out. He and (Kevin) Walsh and (Mike) McEvoy have done a great job pitching, and now we add Rob to that group."

The day before, the Red Raiders let a 10-1, fourth-inning lead slip away and eventually lost, 12-11, in eight innings to host Bridgewater-Raynham.

The Trojans took advantage of three North miscues to score nine times in the fourth, though seven of the runs were unearned. NQ's offensive leaders were Walker, Bryan Linsky, Greg Peck and Adam Goodrich, all of whom had multiple-hit games.

Bonanni, Gillan Lead North To Latest Wins

After starting the season with five straight setbacks, the North Quincy High School softball team has won of its last five games, including wins over Plymouth South and Quincy.

The Red Raiders (4-6) were back on the field yesterday (Wednesday) in a 4 p.m. Old Colony League tilt against visiting Falmouth.

Friday at 4 p.m., North travels to Barnstable in an OCL matchup. Next Monday, North hosts Silver Lake in a key OCL contest at 4 p.m. North stays at home to play non-league foe New Bedford next Wednesday at 4 p.m.

In recent action, North's Rachel Bonanni singled home Kristen Keohane with the winning run in the eighth inning, lifting NQ to a 10-9 league victory Monday at Plymouth South.

Keohane was the Red Raiders' top hitter with three hits and two RBI, while Kerry Skehan went 2 for 4 and collected two RBI.

Last Thursday, North junior transfer Renee Gillan made her first start against rival Quincy a memorable one, pitching a five-inning no-hitter in an 18-3 triumph. Gillan finished with six strikeouts and four walks.

The Red Raiders' offense erupted early and often, scoring all 18 runs in the first five innings. The game was called after five innings due to the 15-run slaughter rule.

NORTH QUINCY PITCHER Renee Gillan (34) waits for the ball as a Quincy baserunner crosses the plate. Gillan, a junior, fired a five-inning no-hitter as North won, 18-3, last Thursday. Gillan struck out six and walked four.

RED RAIDER INFILDER Kristen Keohane (left) forces out a Quincy baserunner at second base during North's victory. North has currently won four of its last five games.

(Sun photos/Tom Gorman)

Offensive leaders for NQ Skehan, Rachael Powers and Kristen Bowes, all of whom collected four hits. Skehan and Powers each drove in three runs and scored four runs apiece.

Bowes crossed the plate four times and chipped in with two RBI.

In earlier OCL action, NQ lost to visiting Bridgewater-Raynham, 7-2, last Wednesday.

Presidents Come Up Short In OCL Setback

Missed opportunities cost Quincy High School's baseball team in Monday's 9-6 setback to Old Colony League host Taunton.

The Presidents (1-10) were back in action yesterday (Wednesday) at home against OCL foe Dennis-Yarmouth. Friday at 4 p.m., Quincy travels to Bridgewater-Raynham for an OCL tilt. Next Wednesday, Quincy hosts Plymouth South in a 3:30 p.m. league game.

In Monday's game, Taunton jumped out to a 5-0 first-inning and forced Quincy to play catch-up the rest of the way.

"They're the best hitting team in the league, at about 354, so we knew it'd be a slugfest," said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia. "We had our chances, but didn't capitalize. We had the bases loaded twice and got nothing out of it. That was the difference—they took advantage of their opportunities and we didn't."

Ryan Ploof went the distance for Quincy on the mound. Leading the Presidents offensively were Steve Wiltshire, Steve Maze and Joe Tower, all of whom had multiple-hit games. Tower, just a sophomore, in particular impressed Sylvia with his ability and approach to the game.

"Joe's a good player who represents the type of player we hope we're cultivating," said Sylvia. "He bats third in the lineup, can pitch, play first base and the outfield, so he's a multi-dimensional player. Baseball is his top priority, and if we had five or six like him, we'd compete with anybody."

Last Thursday, the Presidents took on rival North Quincy and lost, 7-4. Quincy's Nathan DoRosario went 1 for 3 with an RBI.

In a 4-2 defeat to Silver Lake last Wednesday, the Presidents battled back from a 2-0 deficit but the Lakers pulled out the OCL victory.

Quincy's Tim Daly hit a two-run single to knot the game at 2-2, but the Lakers' Derek Nauman drove in the game-winning run with a single in the sixth.

Five High School Students Receive Joy Hanlon Award

Five local high school students have been selected as the recipients of the Joy Hanlon Memorial Award, which financially assists graduating seniors who are attending a post high school secondary program. The award also serves as a continuing memorial to the memory of Joy Hanlon.

This year's recipients are John Barron and Colin Shea, both of North Quincy High School, and Marisa Ross, Jared Downey and Diane Hanlon, all of Quincy High School.

The students will be honored at the annual Quincy Youth Soccer League Meeting May 13 at Covenant Congregational Church. Richard Hanlon, chairperson of the Joy Hanlon Scholarship Committee, will be present at the Senior Awards assembly at both of the city's high schools to make the presentation on behalf of the committee.

Youth Lacrosse Takes Two Games

After beginning its inaugural season with two decisive victories, the Quincy Youth Lacrosse Boys 12 and Under team lost a close 5-4 game to Hanover on Sunday.

The Quincy team, under the direction of team manager Frank Casper and head coach John Kiernan, next plays Medford on Saturday at 1 p.m. at Forbes Hill in Quincy. The public is invited to attend.

In the loss to Hanover, Quincy was on the attack, looking for the equalizer, but ran out of time. Mike Delahoyde led the offense with three goals and Andy Ross also scored a goal. Assists were by Josh Giordani, Matt Giordani, Greg Lanham and Ryan Tobin. Pat Casper played a strong game in goal, making 10 saves.

In other recent action, the Quincy team romped over Bourne, 14-1, sparked offensively by Ross (four goals, three assists) and Delahoyde (three goals, assist). Additional offense was provided by Steve McGrath (two goals), Stephen Hawko (two goals), Justin Kusy (goal, two assists), Greg Lanham (goal), Chris Tufo (goal) and Paul Grazioso (assist).

Quincy's first game was an 11-3 triumph over Scituate.

North Freshman Fall To Ply. South, Tie Mariners

Following recent wins over B.C. High and Quincy, the North Quincy High School freshman baseball team played Plymouth South on Monday and lost, 12-2.

In the setback, North's Sean Crowley collected two hits and Brian Breslin added a hit and an RBI.

Last Friday, the Red Raiders defeated rival Quincy, 10-0, behind Brandon Sleeth's complete-game shutout. Sleeth yielded three hits and fanned six. Chris Doherty collected two hits and four RBI and Vin Treaiti added two hits.

During the school vacation week, North knocked off B.C. High, 9-2, and tied the New England Mariners 13 and under team, 3-3.

In the triumph at B.C. High, the Red Raiders took a 2-0 lead, thanks to a walk and two Eagle errors. Doherty pitched the first three innings, limiting B.C. High to one run on three hits. Sleeth earned the save, pitching four outstanding innings of relief and allowing one run on four hits.

Chris Lockhead had a stellar day at shortstop, handling six chances flawlessly. Third baseman Crowley also stood out defensively. Behind the plate, Dean Zoia had a solid game, throwing out a baserunner trying to steal in the third.

Offensively, NQ was paced by Pat Lahar's two hits and Crowley, who drove in two with a single. Kyle Piazza scored three times and Traeitti, Greg McGinness and Breslin all had RBI singles.

In the nine-inning tie against the Mariners, North managed just three hits. Doubles by Doherty and Lockhead and an infield hit were all NQ could muster. Pitching well for North were Lockhead, Sleeth, Crowley and Matt Moriarty.

Doubleday Leads Marathoners

Richard Doubleday was not only the first Quincy resident to cross the finish line at the recent 102nd Boston Marathon, but he also cracked the top 200 with a time of 2:41.55.

Doubleday, one of 68 Quincy runners, placed 195th overall out of the 11,499 competitors.

Rounding out Quincy's top five were Edward McMenamin (2:51.05), Paul Picarski (3:01.09), Jeffrey Burn (3:04.00) and Dennis Keenan (3:06.21).

The rest of Quincy's marathon finishers and their times (results are courtesy of The L Street Running Club):

Billy Allen (4:20.27), Gordon Behrer (4:03.19), Mark Benno (4:36.06), Walter Bervo (3:38.49), Michael Chaisson (3:53.24), Manette Cochran

SOFTBALL

Marilyn Power also scored three runs apiece. Beth Goodrich And Ali Ciccarillo each scored twice and Maria McGinness, Lisa Schifone, Michelle Murray, Korey Verhault and Kaitlin Fish all scored once. Jackie Tower pitched in with a clutch RBI single.

Abigail's held a two-run lead early on behind the brilliant pitching of Courtney Rand, who struck out six and went 3 for 3 at the plate. Jessica Carella, Caroline Dondero, Nicole O'Sullivan and Rand all scored a run for Abigail's.

SCOTT DEWARE

*A Thought
For The Week*

Couldn't it be said that if all the beautiful thoughts and tender memories of Mother became flowers on Mother's Day, only a Mother's heart would be big enough to hold them? ...

Mother's Day for many families comes too seldom and ends too quickly.

For many people the day seems like a momentary dream. Whether she is here or allied with the angels above, bygone happenings in other years, seldom thought of and unremembered on other days, flash back in memory on Mother's Day.

Her sweet smile, her whisperings and sometimes louder voice are clearly visioned and remembered. Her examples of fortitude in times of crisis are unforgettable. We recall some of her many decisions that sometimes came casually, sometimes hurriedly. Her devotion to duty is in our thoughts. We think about her unfulfilled hopes, her patience and influence all too often unrewarded.

Mother's Day restores the hours of yesteryear for all of us as we extol the virtue of her enduring love. With these thoughts, we sincerely hope all mothers everywhere have a truly happy day. .

BUSINESS

Citizens Announces Acquisition Of Woburn National Bank

Citizens Bank and Woburn National Corporation of Woburn have announced a definitive merger agreement under which Citizens Bank of Massachusetts (CBM) will acquire Woburn National Corporation, parent of Woburn National Bank, a privately-held company in a cash transaction for $45.2 million, $300 per share.

The acquisition, which is subject to regulatory approval, is the sixth Massachusetts acquisition by Citizens since 1992 and the 13th overall by its parent, Citizens Financial Group Inc. When completed, the acquisition will make CBM a $5.5 billion bank with 105 branch offices in eastern Massachusetts, including 33 branches in the City of Boston.

The transaction is expected to be completed in the summer of 1998. Woburn National Bank has $160 million in assets, four branches in Woburn and a new branch which opened in the town of Winchester in March.

In the past year, CiBM has continued a pattern of expansion and growth through the establishment of 10 business banking centers, the addition of 29 super-market branch locations, the construction of three new branches, and rapid organic growth in all areas of business including middle market lending, commercial real estate lending, and consumer banking.

Citizens has completed all its due diligence on Woburn National. The transaction will require shareholder approval, and approval by state and federal regulators. Depositors of Woburn National Bank will continue to enjoy full deposit insurance coverage under the FDIC, which also insures deposits at Citizens.

Horizon Bank Takes Steps Toward Opening

The new Horizon Bank & Trust Company has taken three steps toward opening its doors to South Shore residents.

The first is a name change. The entity had been referred to as South Shore Community Bank & Trust following its organizational period.

Officials said the name was changed to differentiate the bank from other similarly-named banks and to reflect a return to traditional, community-based bank characteristics, including its focus on personal service.

Additionally, the bank received approval to open by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC). Also, the bank's stock offering has exceeded the $8 million necessary to open under state banking laws.

The bank is scheduled to open in June at 550 John W. Mahar Highway, Braintree, subject to final regulatory approval.

The bank is still accepting subscriptions for its common stock. Offerings of the stock are being made only through an Offering Memorandum that can be obtained by calling (781) 794-9992.

Following Flooding

Classes Resume At Wollaston School

Students at the Wollaston Elementary School returned to class Tuesday following flooding problems caused by a clogged storm drain that affected as many as four classrooms Monday.

Elizabeth Bostrom, the school principal, said workers stayed as late as 10 p.m. on Monday to help get a foot of water in the school's kindergarten class in the basement. Two second-floor classrooms and another on the first floor also were dampened as the water made its way to the bottom level, she said.

"It was really mainly the kindergarten that had the problem," said Bostrom, adding that all regularly-scheduled classes were held Tuesday. The kindergarten class was out again because of regularly-scheduled parent-teacher conference time, she said.

School Supt. Eugene Creedon said the kindergarten class likely would be held out an additional day, with the students returning today (Thursday), to allow for "additional drying time." He said he is grateful the damage was kept to a minimum.

"It was very, very difficult," he said. "We're thankful we were able to contain it when we did, and that we

Agree To Transfer Shipbuilding Technology Shipyard Cuts Major Deal With S. Korean Firm

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Massachusetts Heavy Industries (MHI), which owns the Fore River shipyard in Quincy Point, has agreed to a major deal for the transfer of shipbuilding technology with Halla Engineering and Heavy Industries, a South Korean shipyard.

Mayor James Sheets, discussing the deal on Tuesday, said the pact is the "biggest accomplishment" so far for MHI President Sotirios Emmanouil outside of securing needed federal loan guarantees from the U.S. Maritime Administration (MARAD) for the shipyard revitalization.

Sheets said he has been told Halla is the fourth-largest shipyard in the world.

"It's a big deal," said the mayor. "For the people of Quincy, it's big story. This is the heart of shipbuilding revitalization. This provides the most advanced technology that exists in the world, ensures that it will be installed properly, and ensures that the workers will be properly trained."

"MARAD also considers this a major, major accomplishment."

The deal initially was reported in Lloyd's List, a London, England newspaper known for its expertise of shipbuilding-related issues.

In its April 30th edition, the paper reported, "Halla will supply not only basic ship designs and production know-how, but also overall technical support in connection with the construction of a vessel and the engineering technology, from basic designing to the application of CAD and automation equipment."

"The agreement is believed to be one of the most comprehensive transfers of technology in the history of commercial U.S. shipbuilding."

Sheets said he does not know the terms of the contract but added that Halla officials already are at the Fore River shipyard "sizing up the buildings for the installation of the machinery."

Robotic equipment necessary for shipbuilding is being purchased from vendors from around the world, including the United States, and was expected to begin arriving at the shipyard by this week, according to the mayor.

Sheets said all of the needed machinery will be at the shipyard by July. About 300 shipyard workers will be hired in August and begin equipment training with Halla officials in September.

Ryan Prepares New Spending Plan Raymondi Confident Q. College Will Survive

As Quincy College President Dr. Jeremiah Ryan prepares a Fiscal Year 1999 spending plan for the financially-struggling institution, College Board of Governors member Daniel Raymondi said he believes its fiscal situation will improve and that the college will survive.

Ryan will unveil his proposed budget at a meeting of the school's Board of Governors Monday, May 18 at 6 p.m. at the college's Saville Hall. The evening will include a public hearing and a brief executive session before the college officials regroup for the regular meeting, according to Ryan.

Meanwhile, Raymondi said Tuesday that the college will get through its problems, although he stressed its financial woes are real.

"I have every confidence that we'll deal with this matter successfully, and that the institution will survive," he said. "But that doesn't make the situation any less serious."

Ryan said at press time the proposed budget will total around $8.9 million or $9 million. It will be higher than originally anticipated because an additional $500,000 in overlooked revenues from one of the college's summer sessions recently was discovered by a teacher who took home an earlier version of the budget proposal to study.

The extra funding, Ryan added, means that the college likely will be at "the lower end of the spectrum" when it decides how many of the projected 10 to 21 layoffs will be needed at the financially-struggling institution, which has lost money because of declining enrollment.

Still, Ryan said some layoffs will be necessary because he intends to partially fund the college's "strategic initiatives" such as its library, equipment, marketing and maintenance.

"We need a balance," he said. "And I think that Board of Governors agreed with me when I met with them on (this past) Monday. I believe there's a consensus for that."

Raymondi, however, stressed that the initially-

QUINCY POLICE OFFICERS Michael Cronin (left) and Frederick Stevenson are presented the Robert P. Dana Distinguished Service Award for Law Enforcement by Norfolk County District Attorney Jeffrey Locke during the annual Law Day ceremonies at Quincy District. The award is named in memory of Dana, an MDC police officer killed in the line of duty.

MARK BERTMAN of Roger's Jewelry received the Quincy Court Jason Feldman Outstanding Citizen Award during Monday's Law Day ceremonies from Quincy District Court Presiding Justice Charles Black. With Bertman are his wife, Isabelle, and Feldman's widow, Mrs. Marion Needel. The award is named in memory of the late Quincy businessman who owned the former Jason's Luggage and Music Shop.

CHARLES MCINTYRE, (center), son of the late Mayor and state Sen. James McIntyre and an assistant District Attorney for Norfolk County, was honored with the Timothy J. Spillane Outstanding District Court Prosecutor Award at Monday's Law Day ceremonies at Quincy District Court. With him are, from left, Supreme Judicial Court Associate Justice Neil Lynch, the keynote speaker; McIntyre's wife, Sheila; his mother, Mrs. Sheila McIntyre, and Norfolk County District Attorney Jeffrey Locke who presented the award.

QUINCY ATTORNEY Thomas Riley addresses the gathering at Monday's Law Day ceremonies at Quincy District Court after receiving the Alfred P. Maloney Award from Lisa Poblocki, Esq., president of the Quincy Bar Association. Ninth Annual Cleaner, Greener Quincy A Success

Last Saturday's Cleaner, Greener Quincy program was one of the most successful in the program's nine-year history, according to Mayor James Sheets.

Despite the wet weather, more than 1,000 volunteers participated in clean-ups and improvement projects at 25 different locations throughout the city.

Major improvement projects were conducted at Faxon Park in South Quincy and at North Quincy High School. McCourt Construction, assisted by Laborers Local 133, Operators Local 4, Teamsters Local 379, and a crew of local volunteers, helped clean and restore many of the park's walking trails and planted new shrubs and flowers.

At North Quincy High School, the Rotary Club and many youth volunteers helped plant shrubs on the school's property and repaired the school's sign on the corner of Hancock Street and East Squantum Street.

"Our city's parks, playgrounds and beaches are much cleaner than they were eight years ago when Cleaner, Greener Quincy began. This allows us to conduct constructive improvement projects such as the ones at Faxon Park and North Quincy high. All our volunteers are to be commended for their commitment for sticking with us through the wet weather and making Cleaner, Greener Quincy a great success," said Thomas Koch, executive director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments.

Other major cleanup sites included: Baker Beach, Broad Meadows Shoreside Beach, Fore

River Field, Hobart Street Bog, Forbes Hill Playground, Black's Creek, Merrymount Park and Wendall Moses Playground. More than 200 tons of debris were removed from these and other sites.

More than 800 of the volunteers joined Mayor Sheets at the appreciation barbecue held at the Koch Park and Recreation Complex after the cleanup. Volunteers enjoyed hot dogs, hamburgers and sodas donated by Stop & Shop.

"The wet weather did not stop people from having fun while making an immediate significant difference in the quality of their community. The amount of work that was accomplished is a testament to this city's civic pride and commitment to maintaining a cleaner and greener Quincy," said Koch.

CARLOS FREITAS of Teamsters Local 223 and others worked to spruce up Faxon Park in South Quincy during the city's ninth annual Cleaner, Greener Quincy campaign Saturday. Citywide, just over 1,000 volunteers combined to remove more than 200 tons of rubbish and other debris and beautify Quincy with various plantings despite rainy weather conditions.

D'Amico Meeting To Focus On W. Quincy Projects

Ward 4 City Councillor Michael D'Amico will hold a neighborhood meeting tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Ward 4 Community Center, 100 Brooks Ave., South Quincy.

Matters to be discussed:

- Rezoning of Ricciuti Drive land—All land surrounding the proposed golf course and Stone Ridge development is slated to be changed from Industrial B zoning to Planned Unit Development, including golf course land.

- Quarry Hills Golf Course project—The Quarry

Hills Golf Course Advisory Committee and Quarry Hills Associates will be in attendance to give an update.

- Stone Ridge 34 new home subdivision—The developer has been invited to give an update regarding traffic, road and drainage issues as the project nears completion.

All interested residents are invited.

QHS Heritage Program To Mark 10th Anniversary

The Heritage Program at Quincy High School will celebrate its 10th anniversary Thursday, June 4 at 7 p.m. in the school auditorium.

All former students and their families are invited.

Restaurant Name Changed Again

A name change in a North Quincy restaurant for the second time in two years was approved by the Quincy License Board at Tuesday's meeting.

Until two years ago, the eating establishment on 27 Billings Rd. was known as Kelly's Pub & Restaurant. However at that time, owner Peter Kelly came before the board to have the name of the restaurant changed to Bogart's.

At Tuesday's meeting, Kelly told the board when asked why the change said, "After more than 20 years in the business, we decided to return to the original name."

Kelly said that in addition to changing the look of the restaurant by painting and papering, a different menu will also be offered.

Chairman Joseph Shea said the change of name will go to the Alcoholics Beverage Control Commission (ABCC) for approval.

Keuther To Attend Parent Council Meeting

The Quincy High School Parent Advisory Council will meet Thursday, May 14 from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m. in the Pride Room of the high school, 52 Coddington St., Quincy Center.

The new principal, Robert Keuther, will be present to meet parents.

PUTTING BLOOD PRESSURE ON A DIET

Hypertension is a major risk factor for heart disease, so doctors often recommend that patients with high blood pressure do what they can to reduce it by such means as quitting smoking, watching alcohol intake, cutting down on sodium, and slimming down (if overweight). These days, though, many physicians are adding another prescription: following a diet high in fruits, vegetables, and low-fat dairy products, and low in fat. Recent studies have shown that eating nine to ten servings of fruits and vegetables daily can cause a significant drop in blood pressure within as little as two weeks. When fats are reduced and low-fat dairy products added, the drop might be even greater. Paying attention to your diet can work wonders in controlling this condition. Ask for more information from your physician. At AFFILIATED MEDICAL GROUPS, located at 700 Congress St., Quincy, we listen to your concerns. We are affiliated with Quincy and South Shore Hospitals. Please call us at 617-472-2550; office hours by appointment.

P.S. A diet low in fat and high in fruits, vegetables and low-fat dairy products may help stop hypertension from occurring in the first place.

Primary Election In First Norfolk

Yes, there will be a primary election fight for the First Norfolk District state representative seat.

The Sun reported last week that with only two candidates--Ward 6 Councilor Bruce Ayers and former Ward 3 Councilor Larry Chretien--for the seat there would be no primary action.

AYERS

CHRETIEN

Not so, says City Clerk Joseph Shea.

SHEA

Both are Democrats, he notes, which in a partisan state election requires a primary to see which one will be on the final election ballot. "If this were a municipal non-partisan election," he reminds, "there would be no need for a preliminary contest with only two candidates."

The primary election is Sept. 15. The winner of that will be on the final election ballot Nov. 3

There is no Republican candidate for the seat that Michael Bellotti is vacating to run for Norfolk County sheriff.

This means that unless some candidate gets on the final ballot as a sticker or write-in candidate, the next state representative is definitely going to be Ayers or Chretien.

A sticker or write-in candidate would need a pocketful of political miracles.

THERE'S A RUMOR making the rounds that Michael D'Amico won't seek re-election to his Ward 4 council seat next year. But that's all it is--a rumor--he says.

"I don't know how that got started," he says. "But I plan to run for re-election next year."

There's a second rumor, too, that might have got the first one going.

This one has him running for councilor-at-large next year.

D'Amico says there's nothing to that one, either. Not right now, anyway.

D'Amico says he would be interested someday in running for a council at-large seat.

"But I wouldn't do that unless there was an open seat," he says.

And, right now, Tim Cahill, Paul Harold and Frank McCauley don't seem to be planning on leaving.

D'AMICO

QUINCY BUSINESSMAN Dan Flynn kicks off his campaign for governor's council tonight (Thursday) 7 to 11 p.m. at Florian Hall, 55 Hallet St., Dorchester. (Tickets $20 and available at the door).

Two of the key people in the Flynn camp know their way around the political front.

FLYNN

One is Quincy Park-Forestry-Cemetery Executive

Director Tom Koch as campaign chairman. Koch headed up James Sheets mayoral campaigns, including the crucial first one when few of the so-called experts gave him much of a chance. Boy, how times have changed.

The other is Jack Sheehan as campaign treasurer. Now a Weymouth assessor, he goes back along the Quincy political trail to the late James McIntyre and served under him as executive director of the Quincy Council on Aging.

And you've got to say the Flynn camp knows how to make the best of things. The campaign kick-off happens to coincide with the Seinfeld finale. They are letting everyone know there are two big screen TV's for Seinfeld fans.

A CAMPAIGN RECEPTION for Councilor Paul Harold is set for Wednesday, May 20, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at The Common Market, 97 Willard St., West Quincy.

Donation is $50 per person. For tickets or other information call Michael Linnane at 770-0166.

HAROLD

A WHO'S WHO among Quincy Democrats is backing Shannon O'Brien, former state senator from Easthampton, for state treasurer.

A reception for O'Brien is in place for Tuesday, May 19, 7 to 9 p.m. at the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

Tickets are $50 and will be available at the door.

The committee hosting the event includes: Cong. Bill Delahunt, state Sen. Michael Morrissey, Reps. Michael Bellotti, Steve Tobin, Ron Mariano; Councilors Tim Cahill, Paul Harold, Dan Raymond, Patrick McDermott, Michael D'Amico, Steve Durkin, Bruce Ayers and Norfolk County Commissioner John Gillis.

MILESTONE: Chris Bell, legislative aide to Rep. Michael Bellotti, and his wife, Kathy, are parents for the first time. Kailin Rose made her debut May 5 at Winchester Hospital, weighing at 7 pounds, 5 ounces. All doing well.

INTERESTING BUMPER STICKER match-up seen on a few cars: Bellotti for Sheriff, Locke for District Attorney.

Open House Saturday At VA Medical Center

The West Roxbury Veterans Administration Medical Center will hold an Open House on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The event will feature screenings for hypertension and diabetes and testing of vision, breathing and cholesterol levels. There will be a series of 15-minute slide presentations on cardiac care, case management, symptoms and treatment of diabetes, and the effects of smoking.

Additionally, there will be informational booths

Nomination Papers Available For Silver-Haired Legislature

Nomination papers for the Silver-Haired Legislature election are now available.

There is one seat open for the Norfolk-Plymouth District Senate and three seats for the Norfolk-Plymouth House of Representatives.

Nomination papers and orientation to the election process will be available Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon in the 12th floor Community Room at Tobin Towers, 80 Clay St., Wollaston.

The nomination papers also are available at the Quincy Department of Elder Services, 83 Saratoga St., North Quincy.

To be eligible for nomination, one must be 60 years of age or older and a registered voter. For more information, call 376-1243.

Scenes From Yesterday

The Square, QUINCY, Mass.

THIS 1909 POSTCARD of Quincy Square highlights the electric street cars that were such an important means of transportation at the time. Many miles of track linked all parts of Quincy. From the ends of Squantum and Houghs Neck, from Atlantic to Quincy Point and all around West Quincy via Willard, Copeland and Water Streets, every major thoroughfare in the city had street car tracks. However, by 1950, most of the tracks here and everywhere else in America, were either dug up or paved over as buses replaced the electric trolleys. Many believe this was part of a conspiracy by the automobile companies, others believe it was simply economics due to the flexibility of the buses. But now in the 1990's there is a nationwide resurgence of electric railways. There are new lines from coast to coast, from Buffalo to Portland and Los Angeles to Baltimore. Nostalgia, new technologies and Federal transportation funds are driving this revival that could some day return electric trolleys to Quincy Square. The steeple in the background looking south down Hancock Street is that of the then Bethany Congregational Church edifice where the BankBoston tower now stands.

READERS FORUM

Thanks Quincy Hospital Staff For Professionalism, Compassion

[The following was submitted by the authors for publication.]

Dear Quincy Hospital,

We want to recognize and thank the staff individually and collectively of Quincy Hospital for their exceptional professional care and outstanding compassion in the face of serious illness with our Dad, Louie Thomas.

Dr. Pressberg and his officer were responsible for immediate reaction in our father's behalf in a situation that had previously been handled in a routine manner. He readily recognized an emergency situation before it escalated into a tragedy.

He astutely recognized symptoms of a major heart attack before it was fatal. He acted with professional acumen and intuitive grace and led his patient and our family through a rare and wholly successful program of recovery.

Our father is 83 years old. He is a lifelong Quincy resident. (You may have seen him at the market passing out his homemade baklava.) A lifelong baker with flour embedded in his lungs. A poor candidate for any medical surgery. He had a sizable heart attack one month ago and had many angina episodes treated with nitroglycerin tablets.

The emergency staff and the nursing staff on the Telemetry unit, PCU second floor of the hospital were without exception the kindest, most efficient and professionally responsible team we have ever experienced.

We recently had excellent experiences at Mass. General Hospital with our mother. However, at Quincy Hospital the invisible ingredient of love and compassion and patience were the major healing factors.

This was a staff that found time to listen to an old man's tale of his life adventures with genuine interest and care. This was a staff that recognized the power of prayer and family love and skillfully supported family participation. This was a staff that executed medical transport to Beth Israel (a hospital not directly affiliated with Quincy Hospital) with timely precision and thoroughly preparation.

And most especially, this staff just has a wonderful attitude! This kind of care supports hope and encourages the will of the patient to live and to believe in himself. It was exactly this that made the difference between life and death for our father.

While Quincy Hospital does not have as many of the advanced procedures available in Boston, they know their capacity. They work well within it and know when to direct their patients to other facilities. This is a great practice and deserves all of our appreciation.

We also want to thank Beth Israel Hospital for their immediate response. The emergency room staff and the whole cardiac team were amazing, astute and beyond comparison. They were initially skeptical, yet performed with unparalleled precision, a high risk balloon procedure, whose successful results were a great surprise to even them.

We want to thank Mary, Queen of Heaven, for her blessings to us all.

Praises Police Dept. For Citizens Academy

[The following letter to Police Chief Frane was submitted by the author for publication.]

Dear Chief Frane,

We here at 1000 Southern Artery Senior Center were extremely fortunate to be included in the Citizens Police Academy II.

We had over 125 residents and Center members participate. The knowledge that was gained by all those in attendance was and will be helpful in many ways. Sgt. Daniel Minton made everyone feel welcome each week and he certainly is a credit to our wonderful Quincy Police Department. The citizens of Quincy are lucky to have a caring and considerate force always there for them.

Our thanks to all who addressed the group and especially the Fallon Ambulance people, the Attorney General's office, the Secretary of State's office, our good friends from the Quincy Fire Department, Brian Buckley from Elder Services and the visit from the horses and the K-9 dog. Every police officer that visited with us was very knowledgeable and willing to answer all the questions presented by the seniors.

This service is a valuable asset for all concerned. We all came away from the meetings feeling we better understood all that was available to us and the wonderful people that deliver these important services.

Grossman's Seeks Purchase Of Broad Meadows

By PAUL HAROLD

Rueben Grossman, president of Grossman Enterprises, revealed this week that his company would seek to purchase 35-50 acres of city land at Broad Meadows.

He noted the company had outgrown its Granite St. operations (where it had been located for 30 years) and unless it could purchase the city land it could be forced to relocate its headquarters outside the city.

Preliminary plans called for the construction of four retail stores and a lumber yard off Sea St., with use of a shipping facility to be built at Town River. Retail shoppers would enter the site between the DPW building and the city stables, with trucks entering from the Southern Artery.

Meanwhile, Boyer Long, president of the Merrymount Association, said his group would oppose the plan.

1,300 PETITION FOR EXPANSION OF PARKING

Some 1,300 signatures were presented to the City Council hearing this week supporting the taking of land to expand the east side parking in Quincy Center between Chestnut St., Revere Rd. and Cottage Ave.

Three former mayors, Charles Ross, Thomas Burgin and William Bradford led the speakers in support of the project. Retailer Frank Remick, speaking in favor, noted the increase in property valuation as a result of the parking expansion would be in the millions of dollars.

DEDICATION AT TEMPLE BETH EL

After a two-year campaign, dedication ceremonies were held at the site for the new Temple Beth El on Hancock St.

Rabbi Ephraim Greenberg, spiritual leader of the temple, said that 51 families had already pledged $80,000 toward the $250,000 needed for the construction.

Included in the new complex would be a religious school for children and adults, that was currently operating from the Jewish Community Center on Merrymount Road.

QUINCY-ISMS

City Manager William Deegan sent a brief to President Dwight Eisenhower, noting the city's dependence on the Fore River shipyard. He said that since the war, 65 ships were built by the Bethlehem division, 50 for foreign countries. "They chose to spend more for a Quincy-built ship because of the quality of design and construction," he said.

Former assessor Larry Antonelli was chairman of the testimonial dinner for Police Chief William Ferrazzi. Fire Chief Thomas Gorman was the speaker at the John Quincy Adams Club, with president Nicholas Barabaro presiding. "Ma and Pa Kettle at the Fair" was playing at the Adams Theatre on School St. On Monday and Tuesday, hand-painted Tropicana dinnerware was given out. An estimated 1,000 attended the funeral of Joseph Martin of Cedar St. at St. Ann's Church. He was a clothing salesman at Remick's, which closed for the morning for his funeral.

Capital Campaign Kickoff Luncheon Today Marathon Father-Son Team CP Campaign Honorary Co-Chairmen

Rick and Dick Hoyt, well-known father-and-son marathon tandem, have been named honorary co-chairmen of Capital Campaign 2000 for Cerebral Palsy of Massachusetts (CPM).

A campaign kickoff luncheon will be held today (Thursday) at noon at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy, 27 Glendale Rd. The Hoyts and over 100 representatives of the public and private sectors including corporations, organizations and government will attend.

The luncheon is being co-hosted by CPM President Donald Uvanite and Citizens Bank Regional President John O'Connor.

CPM, formerly Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore, is holding a campaign to raise $1.25 million over the next two years. Half that amount already has been raised.

The purpose of the campaign is to purchase and renovate a building at 43 Old Colony Ave., Quincy, which will provide additional space for CPM's Children's Developmental Disability Center. It will allow for the expansion of programs for individualized therapy, additional classrooms with state-of-the-art equipment, confidential meeting areas for conferences between staff and parents, and extended day care and an outdoor play area designed for children with disabilities.

Checks totaling $625,000 will be presented to CPM. They will be given by Quincy's Community Development Block Grant funds, MassDevelopment, Citizens Bank, CPM's staff, CPM's Gala Committee, and the CPM's Building Fund.

A case statement including a "one child, one story" will be distributed to all in attendance, explaining the purpose of the capital campaign and the various ways to participate.

Scientist To Lecture At ENC May 19

Rev. Dr. John Polkinghorne will lecture on "A Scientist's View of Religious Truth" Tuesday, May 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium at Eastern Nazarene College, 23 East Elm Ave., Wollaston.

Polkinghorne is the retired president of Queens College, Cambridge University, England. During his career, he was a professor of physics specializing in particle physics. An international speaker on science and faith, he presented the Gifford Lectures on "The Faith of a Physicist" at the University of Edinburgh, England.

A Fellow of the Royal Society, he has written numerous articles and books including "The Quantum World," "Chaos and Christianity," and others.

Polkinghorne's ENC lecture is being sponsored by The John Templeton Foundation and The American Scientific Affiliation which promote annual lectures on science and religion.

The lecture is free and open to the public. For more information, call Betty Decoste at 745-3882.

Annual Sunflower Contest Underway

Quincy's fourth annual Summertime "Grow Together" Sunflower Contest sponsored by Beechwood Community Life Center has begun.

The citywide family contest encourages children and their families to plant and garden together. Each year the center distributes packages of "giant" sunflower seeds with a challenge to see which plantings produce the tallest sunflowers by summer's end. Last year, more than 200 families entered, with the winning sunflower measuring almost 9 feet.

This year's contest is co-sponsored by Alquist Flowerland and was recently promoted by Beechwood's 4 and 5-year-olds who visited Mayor James Sheets to give him seeds and invite his participation.

The contest is open to all Quincy families. The first 200 who register at Beechwood will receive complimentary seed packs. Subsequent entries need only to call the center to register.

For more information, call 471-5712.

School Building Assistance Bureau Budget Increased

Quincy's legislative delegation of State Rep. Ronald Mariano, Michael Bellotti and Stephen Tobin announce they were successful in increasing the budget for the School Building Assistance Bureau (SBAB) under the Massachusetts Department of Education.

The House version of the budget adds an additional $30 million to the School Building Assistance Fund, $5 million more than the amount included in the governor's budget. Those moneys will enable 52 new school construction projects for Fiscal Year 2000, including the Marshall School in Quincy.

Mariano, a member of the Quincy School Committee and School Building Task Force, said an increase in the SBAB authorization is beneficial to Quincy.

"The aggressive school building plan approved by the school committee will be funded two years earlier than anticipated. By moving the reimbursement schedule up by these two years, the city will benefit from tremendous cost savings," said Mariano.

The increase will also allow Quincy to push the school construction plan forward. The construction of a new Quincy High School should occur at least a year sooner than anticipated without any strain on the city's finances," added Mariano.

Bellotti said, "I am pleased that we were able to increase the authorization for School Building Assistance above and beyond the level included in the Governor's budget. This increase is great news for communities throughout Massachusetts, but especially for the Quincy Public School System."

The House of Representatives action during the budget debate effectively clears the statewide waiting list of school construction projects awaiting reimbursement.

"Massachusetts has always been a leader in offering first-rate public education. Our efforts to support the School Building Assistance Bureau renews our commitment to quality education in a quality facility," said Tobin.

"As a member of the House of Representatives and the School Building Task Force, I am extremely pleased that our schedule will be supported by this additional state money," said Mariano.

City Festival At Marina Bay

The Quincy License Board Tuesday granted a request from Fiesta Shows to conduct their eighth annual Quincy City Festival at Marina Bay to be held June 9-14.

The show will benefit various city charities including the Flag Day fireworks.

Speaking in support of the show was Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers.

Ayers said the owners of the show have "proven to be very professional and articulate." He added that their respect for the abutters and the clean-up of the area following the run of the carnival was always done properly.

Last month's Fiesta Shows held at Faxon Field benefited Quincy's First Night.

Operating hours at Marina Bay will be Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, (June 9, 10, 11) from 6 to 10:30 p.m.; Friday, June 12, from 6 to 11 p.m.; Saturday, June 13 from 12 noon to 11 p.m.; and on Sunday, June 14 from 12 noon to 10 p.m.

CURRENT REASONING

While a car's battery provides direct current (DC) voltage before the engine starts up, this finite power source needs a complementary method of producing DC voltage. That is where the alternator comes in. It replaces the generators that were used to supply energy to cars' electrical systems until the 1970s but were not efficient enough to meet the needs of later models. The development of silicone diodes led to lightweight and efficient alternators that offered 50% greater power-to-weight ratios over generators, a design that permits output even at idle rpm, low maintenance, and the ability to rotate in either direction. These very dependable units should provide many years of trouble-free service.

For most of your car's maintenance and repair needs including electrical system repair, rely on our ASE Certified technicians at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO. Learn for yourself why so many of your friends and neighbors turn to us to keep their family cars in top condition. For the best service in town, we're here at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Jewish Monument Dedication At Pine Hill Cemetery Aug. 9

A Rock of Ages Monument will be dedicated Sunday, Aug. 9 at 10 a.m. in the Jewish section of Pine Hill Cemetery in West Quincy.

A special committee has been selected for the monument dedication, according to Dr. Bertrand Shaffer, commander of the Quincy Jewish War Veterans Post. Herb Fontaine of Quincy is chairman and other committee members are Moe Zeidman and Mel Needel, both of Quincy, and Jessie Lipton, RN of Hull.

Shaffer said an Advisers Group to the committee also has been appointed which includes Rabbi Jacob Mann, Irving Isaacson, and Bernie Schnaper.

The city's Cemetery

Board of Managers chaired by Richard Sweeney approved the location of the monument, a Jewish section of the cemetery which includes about 1,100 grave lots. Also giving their approval were Richard McNeice of the Cemetery Department and Quincy Veterans Services Director Henry Bradley.

Sean Mullen Will Take Family On Trip To Washington, D.C.

Fourth Grader Winner Of 'Presidents' Contest

Sean Mullen, a fourth grader at the Bernazzani Elementary School, is the winner of the "Parade of Presidents" contest sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Sean, his parents and sister will enjoy a three-day family trip for four to Washington, D.C. for winning the contest which was co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun and held in cooperation with the Quincy School Department.

Sean's name was drawn out of a basket Saturday at the Quincy Sun office by Congressman William Delahunt who then congratulated him in a telephone call. Sean, who lives at 117 Dixwell Ave., was one of 75 students whose entries correctly identified the names of the businesses where photo images of all 41 U.S. Presidents were displayed in Quincy Center.

When told by telephone he had won the contest, Sean responded, "Wow! I did!"

His mother, Theresa, said the entire family is thrilled and proud about Sean's success.

"We're all very excited," she said. "We didn't expect to win. My husband wasn't at home when we got the call, and he didn't believe us at first when we told him we'd won. He thought we were kidding him."

In addition to his mother, Sean will be accompanied by his father, Glen, a self-employed businessman who sells electronic equipment; and his sister, Alyssa, a Bernazzani first grader who also entered the contest.

"We're all very proud of him," his mother said. "He is a good student."

The trip includes airline tickets for round-trip from Boston to Washington, two nights' accommodations at the Sheraton Washington and a tour of Washington, D.C. and Arlington National Cemetery. The Mullen family also will be greeted in the nation's capital by Congressman Mahoney.

The contest was open to all Quincy youngsters in Grades K-8.

Others besides Sean and his sister who correctly matched the Presidential images with the appropriate downtown businesses:

Anna, Andrew and Stephen Bythrow, all Atherton Hough School; Christina, Colleen and Shannon Cleasy, Sacred Heart School; Sean King, St. Joseph's School; Donald Pound, Merrymount School; Jennifer and Jesse Ngo, Cushing School; Ashley Milford, St. Joseph's; Danielle McDonnell, Bernazzani; David Marx, St. Ann's School; Mary Helena and Pearce Lombard, Central Middle School; Aldo Koo, Squantum School; Katie Anderson, Atherton Hough; Andrew Bell, Squantum; Alex, Joe and Julie Bodkin, Sacred Heart; Nora Canavan, Atherton Hough; Hannah Chan, Wollaston School; Shelley and Warren Cheung, Atlantic Middle School; Jamie Clifford, Sacred Heart; Molly and Sean Clifford, Beechwood Knoll School; Kerry Clifford, Sacred Heart; Catherine Carew, St. Joseph's; Laura Doherty, Bernazzani; Billy, Kara and Julianna Eagles, Sacred Heart; Julie and Sarah Esterquest, Bernazzani; Evan Fitzmaurice, Bernazzani; Alisa Haidell, Central; Rachel and Rebecca Goreham, Beechwood Knoll; Sarah Goreham, Sacred Heart; Molly Griffin, Bernazzani; Daniel Keeley, Bernazzani; Elizabeth Kenna, Atherton Hough; Evan Luongo, Merrymount; Sasha Mackey, Broad Meadows Middle School; Andrew MacPherson, Della Chiesa Center; Aileen McPherson, Lincoln Hancock School; Jillian MacPherson, Lincoln Hancock; Kelsey and Marc McCarthy, St. Joseph's;

Kevin Ann To Attend U.S. Naval Academy

Kevin Ann of Quincy is one of 14 students from the South Shore and Cape Cod who will attend the U.S. Service Academies this fall, announces Congressman William Delahunt.

Ann will attend the U.S. Naval Academy.

"These young men and women have been chosen from a large and diverse group of applicants to attend the country's finest institutions of higher learning," said Delahunt. "Their families, friends and teachers can be very proud."

Delahunt said it was a special privilege for him to nominate the students. Since he is a freshman Congressman, it was his first opportunity to participate in the Academy process.

The nominations were based on the recommendations of a panel of well-known 10th Congressional District residents—including Quincy School Committee-woman JoAnn Bragg—who spent several months reviewing and interviewing prospective candidates.

SPOTLIGHT ON BUSINESS

The Image Connection: A Unique, Enjoyable Salon Experience

By LIAM FITZGERALD

Tired of paying outrageous prices for a haircut or makeover at the expensive salons along Boston's Newbury Street?

Then stroll on over to 79 1/2 Newbury Avenue in North Quincy, to The Image Connection, a salon for men and women which celebrated its first anniversary on Mother's Day.

"I want everyone to feel comfortable coming here, men and women," said Linda Panarelli, stylist and owner of The Image Connection, "so I made sure to chose colors and furniture that are gender-neutral. In fact, my male clientele has been increasing lately.

"It's not a beauty parlor, and it's appropriate for all ages: kids, teens, everyone. My youngest client is 2, and the oldest is 90."

Panarelli, a graduate of Quincy High School, the former Quincy Junior College (now Quincy College) and Quincy Beauty Academy, has been in the fashion industry since 1984, when she started out as a runway model. Since then, Panarelli has acquired a number of titles: cosmetologist, certified image consultant, makeup artist, and nail technician.

"I got interested in hair and makeup when I was runway model," she said. "I loved helping others with their makeup and my goal was to open my own salon as soon as I could."

Prior to opening The Image Connection, Panarelli was employed at a salon that she felt stunted her growth in the field. That dissatisfaction led directly to her decision to start her own salon.

"The reason I wanted a salon myself was that I wasn't able to do what I enjoy," she said. "Here, I'm able to offer a lot of different services, because I'm the one who does it."

Having decided to go out on her own, the next task was to locate a building for her business, preferably in Quincy. For two years, Panarelli worked as a freelance makeup artist and stylist and opened The Image Connection last May.

"I wanted to be in Quincy, and keep the money in Quincy," said Panarelli, a native of Denmark who has lived in Quincy for the past 18 years. "I was scared to open, since there are so many salons in the city. But I found this location and knew I could make it work. Since it's on a smaller scale, I don't have to compete with other salons."

LINDA PANARELLI, stylist and owner of The Image Connection, 79 1/2 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, applies makeup to a client during a recent visit. A Quincy resident since 1980, Panarelli has been in the fashion industry since 1984 as a runway model, cosmetologist, certified image consultant, makeup artist, and nail technician, and recently celebrated her salon's first anniversary.

(Sun photo/Robert Noble)

Though she has been in business for a short time, Panarelli has attracted a loyal client base in the North Quincy area. Many of her clients live in the apartment building across the street and are thrilled to have a salon so close by their homes, with an owner who cares about every client.

"I want them to enjoy themselves, to relax and unwind while I take care of them," said Panarelli. "At the other salon, I had someone looking over my shoulder, wondering why I was taking so long to finish the client's cut.

"Every client is different; some haircuts take 25 minutes, others take 40. When you come here, you get a quality cut and don't feel rushed."

The majority of her customers, said Panarelli, are referred to her salon by friends and clients of hers at her previous salon position. She added that current patrons "try to get me new clients, which I very much appreciate. Ninety-five percent come back and refer others to me, which is great."

While clients' word of mouth has benefited her business, the main drawback is getting people in the door in the first place.

"People come in and say they never knew it was here, and that's the biggest obstacle I have to overcome," she said. "I can retain them fine, but they have to come in here first. I realize it's in a neighborhood, but I didn't want to be near six other salons. Besides, families of three generations come here, which is the nice part of having a tiny shop."

Among the services offered at The Image Connection are what Panarelli termed the basics—haircut, perm, waxing, coloring, and complete makeovers. She is also a cosmetologist with training in advanced hair design.

Through a company called Beauty Control, she became a certified image consultant two years ago and since then has taught color analysis, how to analyze skin and recommend the correct colors.

"I also do makeup application, and for an extra $10, I can do makeup instruction for teens and others who are unsure how to do it," said

Panarelli. "I do the same with skin care, go through it step by step."

Panarelli, who has been featured in New England Bride magazine, does a lot of work with brides, including the bride's hair and makeup on the wedding day. Prior to the ceremony, she will do a consultation, which includes the makeup, color, and type of look that interests the bride. She also takes care of the hair, the headpiece and the jewelry and takes a picture of the outcome, to see if it's to the bride's liking.

If it's specials that attract your interest, there are plenty to choose from, depending on the time of year: Mother's Day, St. Patrick's Day, Valentine's Day, and numerous others.

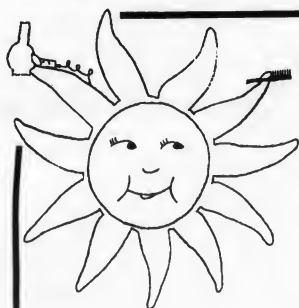

The salon sells cosmetics, skin care products for men and women, and sunscreens, along with products from companies such as American Crew and Paul Mitchell. Color-treated hair products are also available for purchase.

The Image Connection is open Monday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., Friday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Saturday 1 to 6 p.m. The phone number is 773-5823.

"It's a good idea to call and make an appointment, but I do take walk-ins," said Panarelli. "I'm also open Monday, while most salons aren't. I've found it works well for people who have that day off and want to come in for an appointment."

Summarizing the difference between hers and other salons, Panarelli said hers is a one-woman operation that offers a variety of services.

"It's really nice, because I can do hair, nails, makeup, and a lot of other things," she said. "I'm able to offer a number of different services, because I'm the one who does it."

Quincy Community Action Homebuyers' Workshop Series To Start June 13

Quincy Community Action Programs Inc., an approved MHFA first time homebuyer counseling agency, will hold a First Time Homebuyer's Workshop series beginning on Saturday, June 13 and continuing on Saturday, June 20.

Both workshops will be held at the South Shore Savings Bank, 1530 Main St., Rt. 18 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Attendance at both workshops is mandatory to qualify for the many different mortgage options available through the Mass Housing Finance Agency, Soft Second Programs and other financing options.

The agenda will be comprehensive and individualized and focus on different aspects of the homebuying process, including how to locate a property within a budget, how to make an offer, and determining the best mortgage program. Advanced registration is required and space is limited. Cost is $36 per household.

For more information and registration forms, call Debbie Kidd at 479-8181, ext. 115.

The workshop is sponsored by the City of Quincy and the Department of Housing and Community Development.

QCAP Homebuyer Program Seeks Donations

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP), a private, non-profit multi-service agency is seeking donations for its First Time Homebuyer Program.

The program educates families of all income levels on the homebuying process. In addition, the program certifies its income-eligible participants to qualify for special mortgage programs offered by local municipalities, FHA, and MHFA.

upon the financial support of community members to provide this program.

Last year's donors included BankBoston, Citizens Mortgage Corp., South Shore Savings Bank, Tiger Home Inspectors, and many individuals.

The FTHB program serves a vital role in our community. QCAP must raise $25,000 in order to continue offering this program.

Donations can be sent to: QCAP, Inc., Housing Program, 1509 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169.

MARY LOU CRANE (standing), Housing and Urban Development New England director, recently visited Quincy Community Action Programs to discuss a new report showing that growing numbers of working poor and suburban and urban families have a desperate need for housing assistance. Representatives from QCAP, Fr. Bill's Place, the Quincy Housing Authority, Massachusetts Coalition for the Homeless and Congressman William Delahunt's office were among those in attendance.

'El Nino' Effect Can Lead To Increased Flooding This Year

(NAPS)—Each year flood statistics grow more alarming. According to the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) flooding caused more than $4 billion worth of damage and took 34 lives in 1995. In 1996, flood losses reached a staggering $6 billion. In fact, the top ten major disasters of all time were hurricanes, tropical storms, or winter storms, all of which produced severe flooding.

Fortunately, understanding the forces that lead to flooding can help communities better prepare. While seasonal weather patterns play a role in flooding, changes in weather patterns can have an affect, too. This year, the National Weather Service's Climate Prediction Center predicts increased rain and snow in certain parts of the country, due to the current El Niño condition that is present in the Pacific Ocean. El Niño is predicted to cause a wetter winter across the southern USA from South Carolina to California, with stronger than usual Gulf of Mexico storms, and above average rain and snowfall in California, all of which could result in flooding in those states.

El Niño is predicted to cause a wetter winter across the southern USA from South Carolina to California, with stronger than usual Gulf of Mexico storms.

While we can't control the weather, there are some precautions we can take to protect our families and property against the threat of flooding.

- Make sure your home conforms to your community's requirements to reduce potential flood damage.
- Seal walls in basements with waterproofing compounds to avoid seepage through cracks in the walls.
- Have check valves installed in building sewer traps to prevent floodwaters from backing up in sewer drains.

For maximum protection against devastating financial loss from flooding, ask your insurance company or agent about flood insurance because homeowner policies do not cover flood damage.

For more information about flood insurance, call 1-800-427-9662. For more information about disaster assistance and flooding, visit FEMA's World Wide Web site at <http://www.fema.gov>.

Pest Control: Protect Your Home And Your Health

(NAPS)—Homeowners have a tremendous investment in their home and in maintaining the health of their family. The National Pest Control Association has some sound advice: protect both by moving quickly if you suspect a pest problem in your home. Taking immediate action is crucial, before the situation really begins to "bug" you.

To prevent pest infestations, remember that careful storage, routine cleaning and regular inspection are your best tools. However, when the pests get too close for comfort, it's time to call a professional.

"It is important that people understand the damage caused by pests. Termites alone account for more than $1 billion in property damage to more than 600,000 homes a year," says Dr. Harold Harlan, staff entomologist at the National Pest Control Association.

Professional pest control

A professional pest control operator can help keep infestations under control.

operators rely on training, expertise and sophisticated pest control methods—not just pesticide application—to assure sound, adequate, environmentally friendly protection against destructive insects and rodents.

They can design a preventative maintenance program to help fend off pests of all kinds.

When choosing a pest control service, it makes good sense to:

- Verify that the pest control company is licensed with your state.

• Ask someone you know who has used pest control services. Inquire about the type of pest problem encountered and how satisfied they were with the service.

• Buy value, not price. What appears to be a real bargain may need a second look.

• Membership in pest control associations such as the National Pest Control Association is a good indicator that the company has access to modern technical information and is committed to applying the latest technology.

• Reach a complete understanding with the company before work starts: find out what the pest is, how the problem will be treated, how long the period of treatment will be, and what results can be expected.

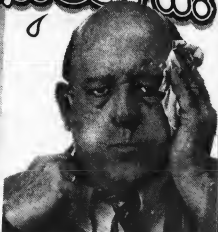

"Pests are more than an unpleasant inconvenience," says Harlan. "They are a genuine threat to our property and to our health."

For more information on how to contact a professional pest control operator, visit the National Pest Control Association Web site at www.pestworld.org.

Daniel Flynn To Launch Governor's Council Campaign

Daniel J. Flynn III will formally announce his candidacy for Governor's Council in the Fourth District at a campaign kickoff tonight (Thursday) from 7 to 11 p.m. at Florian Hall, 55 Hallett St., Dorchester.

The Fourth District extends from South Boston to Marshfield.

The event will feature entertainment, refreshments, and a door prize. Two big-screen televisions will be set up for "Seinfeld" fans to watch the series finale. Donations requested are $20 per person.

"As a lifelong resident of the South Shore, I truly believe that I can represent our district toward a goal of open and responsible government," said Flynn. "I rely on the voters of the South Shore for their support and call forward to a successful campaign."

For more information or to volunteer for the campaign, call 617-847-3006.

$50,000 Goal To Purchase Life-Saving Fire Dept. Equipment

Project Hero Campaign Reaches $21,413 Rung

Project Hero continues to climb the ladder and is now nearly halfway to its $50,000 goal to purchase new life-saving equipment for the Quincy Fire Department.

The community campaign completed its eighth week at the $21,413 rung and is starting its ninth week with $28,587 to go.

The campaign was launched by Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn III and is co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun.

The $50,000, when reached, will enable the Quincy Fire Department to purchase two thermal imaging units--helmets that enable firefighters to see through thick, dark smoke and flames to find and rescue occupants from houses and other building fires.

The latest "Quincy heroes" to make donations to the worthy cause are:

Agnitti Insurance Agency, Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, Reidy and Company, The Sacchetti Scholarship Fund (In Memory of Firefighter Capt. Charles Sacchetti), Public Employees of the City of Quincy, Margaret Pallotta, John and Eileen Sullivan, John and Gladys Dipietro, Louise Praderio, Dorothy Brooks, Robert and Beulah Wiltshire (In Memory of Firefighter John E. Martell Jr. and wife Grace), Edward and Ruth Spring, Mario and Bruna Stracco, The Cochran Family, Marion MacPherson, Evelyn Scavo, Louis and Noreen Mastrianni, South Shore Savings Bank, Citizens Bank, and Fallon Ambulance.

Each week The Quincy Sun is donating a full-page public service advertisement to document the progress of the campaign and thank those who contribute.

To make donations, send a check payable to Project Hero, P.O. Box 116, North Quincy, MA 02171.

Bellotti Submits 4,000 Signatures For Sheriff Bid

State Rep. Michael Bellotti, a Democratic candidate for Norfolk County sheriff, reports he submitted nomination papers last week in all 28 communities that make up Norfolk County.

The Bellotti campaign, he said, submitted a total of 4,000 signatures--four times the 1,000 needed to get on the September ballot. Bellotti, a lifelong Quincy resident, added that he submitted 1,000 signatures in Quincy alone.

"I'm pleased that we exceeded the required number of signatures," he said. "I'm even more excited by the fact that we were able to collect signatures in every community in Norfolk County. That's the sign of a grass-roots campaign."

Bellotti officially announced his candidacy last week in Quincy, Weymouth, Dedham, Needham and Franklin. At the Quincy Sons of Italy, more than 1,000 supporters attended the campaign kickoff.

Dog Training Course At Union Congregational

A five-week Dog Training Course will be held at Union Congregational Church, 136 Rawson Rd., Wollaston, beginning Thursday, June 4.

The course features a non-force, positive training method. Dog owners from Quincy and other surrounding communities are invited.

Cost is $80. A portion of the proceeds will benefit the church. To register or for more information, call 789-3647.

"Life is easier when we have a helping hand."

--Word & Councillor Bruce Ayers

Helping Hand is a free service for Quincy residents who need the use of wheelchairs, walkers, commodes, hospital beds, crutches, canes and other ambulatory healthcare aids. Just have it picked up at Helping Hand's storage facility in North

Quincy. You may use the equipment as long as necessary. For more information, call 376-1341 or 472-9877.

Managed by the City of Quincy and operated as a public service by Word & Councillor Bruce Ayers.
